RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

He has the cockiness of a young banty rooster; the handsome features of an Adonis; the physique of a Hercules and an ego that a padded glove has yet to deflate.

He is classically-named Cassius Marcellus Clay, whose great-grandfather was a slave and like his ancient Roman counterpart has a "lean and hungry look" boxing-wise.

Tonight in Los Angeles this blossoming May flower of the ring meets a crafty, ageless veteran with the hoary rime of December silvering his pate.

The venerable Archie Moore whose age has ranged between 45 and 50 for the past few years, faces a youngster, who the boxing experts describe as a "whiff of fresh air" for the Gowanus-like aroma that too often permeates the professional boxing ring.

The philosopher-author-musician-lettuce expert-actor Moore the pre-flight stories say, has trained for this fight as he has never trained before. For he will have one of the fastest-moving targets he has ever sighted, and Ole Arch may well be the calliope in tonight's beak-busting merry-go-round.

And after tonight's fight the Satchel Paige of the ring, who has fought twice for the world heavyweight championship—and lost—may well record in his long and colorful archive a modern Joe Louis, only the name of Clay, defeated him on the road to the title.

Young Mr. Clay has been almost insultingly boastful in his remarks anent the outcome of tonight's fight. He has referred to Moore on more than one occasion as "that old man." As boxing age goes, perhaps yes. As for ringcraft, wile and "know-how," Ole Archie still rates among the top five.

In my book Archie Moore is one of the half-dozen greatest fist fighters of all time. The beginning "con man" is unique, and since he is one of the greatest "con" artists, he makes the most of it. Many remember his secret Australian reducing diet which acted rapidly and effectively. His tongue-in-cheek utterances are words cloaked in mystery and wry humor.

Tonight I believe he will face the severest test of his latter years. And I believe Archie knows it. He knows, too, that all things must come to an end, including the ring career of Archie Moore. And tonight could very well be his swan-song.

For he faces a young man 28 years his junior who exudes fierce desire from every pore; a youngster whose goal is the heavyweight title and who will brook no roadblocks along the tough trail.

And tonight's battle is the most important clash in the brief pro career of Clay, the bombastic youngster who already styles himself the next world heavyweight champion. He is unbeaten in his fifteen pro starts and reigns the favorite at 2-1 odds or better. He says he will knockout Archie in the fourth round.

The battle may be the most interesting fight of the year, perhaps erasing boxing fan's reaction to the Liston-Patterson fiasco. And Sonny Liston will be seated at ringside to watch proceedings.

Moore gets a guarantee of $75,000 and Clay $40,000. There is no home television or radio.

Play In Ottawa Tonight

Russian Team Welcomed

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Anastasy Aroutunian, Soviet ambassador to Canada, said Wednesday night that nations should oppose each other only on athletic fields.

Dr. Aroutunian, speaking at a dinner held in honor of the Russian national hockey team which begins a nine-game tour of Canada here tonight against Ottawa Montagnards, "the best way to find out who is the better in different fields is on the ice or other playing fields."

He said Russians are grateful to Canada for the hospitality persons it has taught to Soviet players "and we look forward to learning more of your skills in years to come."

The Russian team, youngest in the country's history and the third to tour Canada, was welcomed to Canada by Jack Roxburgh, past - president of the CAHA.

"We hope you win your share of the games," he said.

After their Ottawa game tonight, the Russians travel to Montreal for a game Friday and are in Kitchener for a Sunday contest.

They'll be in Hamilton Monday, Windsor Wednesday, Toronto Friday and return to Montreal Sunday, Nov. 24 for a second game there.

They'll also play in Timmins and Winnipeg before returning home Nov. 29.

STARS HONORED

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Arcaro, who retired last April after a successful 30-year racing career, and Del Miller were named jockey and harness driver of the 1950-1960 decade in a national poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

They will be among 13 outstanding athletes of the 1950s who will be honored at the Nov. 28 "decade dinner"—first annual all-sports dinner for the benefit of Retarded Children's Fund.

Fullback Jimmy Brown of Cleveland Browns, and centre Chuck Bednarik of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League have been selected back and lineman of the decade in professional football.

Leafs Larrap Habs, Blues Win ★★★★★

Hull Scores Pair, Hawks Clip Wings

By BILL MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Billy Harris, the idol of many a Toronto Maple Leaf fan, is working his way into Punch Imlach's heart. He showed why again Wednesday night.

The stage was set. Toronto led 3-2. The great Canadiens had control of the puck in the Leaf zone. Jacques Plante was halfway from the Canadiens' net to the bench to be replaced by an extra forward.

Then Harris entered the picture. Plante scooted back to his net, but he might as well have not bothered.

The lanky, stick - handling centre eliminated his rush up the boards by neatly outfoxing the Montreal netminder to score and give Toronto a 4-2 victory.

TAKE THIRD PLACE

With the victory went third place in the National Hockey League for the Leafs, who now are two points ahead of the Canadiens. They have 17 points, one behind the second - place Chicago Black Hawks who defeated the first-place Detroit Red Wings 4-2 Wednesday night. The fifth - place New York Rangers licked the last-place Boston Bruins 6-2 in the other NHL game of the night.

ALSO SCORE

Pulford, Keon and right winger George Armstrong scored the other Toronto goals. Centre Henri Richard, on a 15-foot shot that fooled Toronto goalkeeper Johnny Bower on the bounce, and right winger Bernie Geoffrion were the Montreal marksmen.

Bower was back after a three - game rest during which Don Simmons, now out with the flu, took over, both he and Plante who strained a leg muscle in his last game and had to be replaced, played a competent game.

At Chicago, Hawk left winger Bobby Hull proved that his goal - scoring slump couldn't last too long. He scored two goals as the Hawks handed Detroit its second loss of the season. Before Wednesday night Hull, who last season became the third man in NHL history to score 50 goals in a season, had only tallied twice.

COUNT FIVE IN SECOND

New York scored five goals in the second period to send the Bruins home with their seventh loss of the season. The line of Earl Ingarfield, Andy Bathgate and Andy Hebenton accounted for half the Ranger scoring. Each had a goal and Ingarfield added two assists.

Doug Harvey, Dave Balon and Camille Henry scored the other New York goals and Don McKenney and Wayne Hicks replied for Boston.

Bobby Perrault, the goaltender who left New York's five second-period goals go by, was replaced in the third period by Ed Johnston. He has been in action only a minute and 33 seconds when Ingarfield scored.

Amateurs Hold Hull To 5-3 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Many eyebrows were raised at the start of the season when the Eastern Professional Hockey League said it would play an interlocking schedule with the International Hockey League.

The EPHL had dropped to a four-team league from six teams and promoters felt its only salvation was a hookup with the IHL.

Critics said EPHL teams would be too strong for the IHL amateurs. Much has been written and said about the new setup—most of it bad.

The interlocking schedule opened Wednesday night at Fort Wayne, Ind. One game is no indication of how things will go for the season, but the IHL wasn't embarrassed.

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens champs of the EPHL the last two years, defeated Fort Wayne Komets, most folks figured they would—but only 5-3.

The powerful Canadiens held a wide margin in play at Fort Wayne, outshooting the Komets 39-16, but didn't run away on the scoresheet.

Phiery Phil On the Way Out?

NEW YORK (AP)—A humiliating loss to New York Rangers has done nothing to dispel rumors that Phil Watson may be fired as coach of Boston Bruins.

The Rangers scored five goals within 77 seconds Wednesday night en route to a 6-2 National Hockey League triumph over Boston. It was the 13th straight game without a win for the Bruins, who opened the season by beating Montreal but haven't won since.

Rumors have it that Watson will be released from his 'ob and Bruins' general manager Lynn Patrick will take over his duties. Watson is working on the second year of a three-year contract, having replaced Milt Schmidt in 1961.

Schmidt technically, still has the rest of the 1962-63 campaign to go on his coaching contract.

One tight thriller and one wide open scoring battle provided slightly over 300 fans with variety in the City Hockey League's double-header at Memorial Arena last night.

Trudeau Motors shaded Welbanks Motors 5-3 in the best game of the season to date in the first tilt of the evening, a tension-packed affair, until the final whistle.

The power-packed Pepsi's scored five consecutive goals in the third period to whip Joyce-Rollins Combines 9-4 in the nightcap.

TRUDEAUS 5—WELBANKS 3

Welbanks and Trudeaus played through a scoreless first period in a game featuring great goaltending by loser Bob Green and winner Don Barclay. Trudeaus did everything but put the puck by a red-hot Green in the first period.

Trudeaus jumped into a 2-0 lead in the middle period. Gale Thorpe connected on a blueline shot after Jones' corner passout at 8.36 but Barclay had to come up with several big saves to protect that one-goal margin.

Fox made it 2-0 at 19.30 grabbing the puck after it had been checked off Kellar's stick in front of the net.

Welbanks put on the pressure in the third and Vesterfelt finished off a sharp passing play with Brown and Ehler at 9.35 to cut the lead in half. Fox got that back from a scramble at 11.49 to make it 3-1.

Hurst completed a pretty passing play with Brown and Vesterfelt at 14.30 to make it 3-2. Trudeau playing coach Ed Plata drawing a misconduct penalty for protesting the goal.

Welbanks lifted goalie Green in favor of six attackers for the final 40 seconds but could not beat Barclay for the equalizer.

The winners drew six penalties, including the misconduct, and the losers had three minors.

Wayne Fox, with two goals and Bruce Gelsthorpe, with one, scored for Trudeaus. Pug Kellar earning two assists. Jerry Jones and Bob Hughes one each.

Wally Vesterfelt and Ted Hurst fired Welbanks' goals. "Wiener" Brown setting up both while Vesterfelt and Bucky Ehler had single assists.

Clark Ghost Haunts Cats' Training

Strengthen Backfield Defence

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The spectre of Don Clark loomed over the preparations of Hamilton Tiger-Cats for the opening of their two-game, total - points series against Montreal Alouettes for the Eastern Football Conference championship.

The Ticats go into Montreal Saturday with a record of two wins and a tie against the Als this season—a substantial part of the margin of the first-place Hamilton club over its third - place opponents.

But, and it's a big but, all three games were played with Clark on the sidelines. A stubborn kidney ailment kept the EFC's top ground-gainer of the 1961 season out of uniform throughout almost the entire schedule.

Even in Clark's absence, Montreal's George Dixon managed to capture the scoring and the ground - gaining champion ships, defying rival defences that recognized him as virtually the only offensive weapon his club had.

And since his return, Clark has teamed with Dixon and former Hamilton fullback Larry Hickman behind quarterback Sandy Stephens to knock Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders out of the Grey Cup picture in successive weeks.

With all this in mind, Hamilton coach Jim Trimble has taken steps to strengthen his defensive backfield.

Garney Henley, a more than useful ball - carrier when called upon, will be back with Don Sutherin, Tommy Grant and Ralph Goldston, reuniting the most formidable foursome of defenders in the East.

To take Henley's place, Trimble has conscripted Hal Patterson, an all - star offensive end practically since football was invented, to fill in as a flanker with Bobby Kuntz, Jamie Caleb and Dick Easterley.

With first - string quarterback Bernie Faloney still out with injuries, Trimble plans to start Joe Zuger, who started the season as his No. 3 man, and has Frank Cosentino in reserve.

"However," Trimble said Wednesday night, "if we get a touchdown, up, we might put Henley on offence and try to build up more of a lead.

"This is only the first of a two-game, total-points series so there can be no conservatism in this first game."

If Henley becomes a ball-carrier, Patterson will return to his old spot at offensive end and Dave Viti will shift to Henley's defensive rule.

Meanwhile the Alouettes issued few pronouncements on strategy for the series, which ends in Hamilton a week later.

The big news out of the Montreal camp was that the club has switched from early-evening practices under the lights to afternoon drills.

"It might not mean much but it could help us a bit Saturday," said an Alouette spokesman.

Frost, Hard Field Forecast

Stamps, Bombers On Ice!

CALGARY (CP) — Bobby Dobbs can't do anything about the frosty weather forecast for the opening game of the Western Football Conference final here Saturday. But there is much he is trying to do about Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

"They are the champs until somebody beats them," the Calgary Stampeder coach said Wednesday. "I've been watching films on them. They are good, real good."

Dobbs said a hard turf will hurt the outside running and could make a bad game of the first battle in the three-game series.

The Stamps, who belted Saskatchewan Roughriders out of the title running in the two-game, total-points semi-final series, probably will be without all-star guard Tony Pajaczkowski for Saturday's skirmish. He has been bothered by an ankle injury.

"I'll use Hal Krebs at offensive guard rather than as under-cover athlete," Dobbs said. "Krebs did a good job against Saskatchewan."

The Bombers, defending Grey Cup champions, got a bye into the western final because they ended up in first place during the regular season. The second game of the series is set for Winnipeg Saturday, Nov. 21, and the third, if needed, in Winnipeg the following Saturday.

Drysdale Is Named Top Hurler

BOSTON (AP) — Speed King Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, who won 25 games last season while leading the major leagues in strikeouts, was named winner today of the annual Cy Young Award as baseball's outstanding pitcher of 1962.

The controversial Drysdale, often accused of head-hunting with his brushback pitches, was a 20-game winner for the Dodgers by Aug. 3, the earliest National Leaguer to hit the magic mark since 1918.

He ended up with a 25-9 record, the most victories by a National Leaguer since Don Newcombe won 27 for the 1957 Dodgers.

Drysdale struck out 232 batters

Davis Will Not Play For Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Although halfback Ernie Davis will not play for Cleveland Browns this season, the club said Wednesday, he will start full-scale workouts and attend meetings.

Art Modell, club president, who broke the news to Davis Sunday, said the 23-year-old former Syracuse all-American took the news gracefully.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Galindo practically stole the featured Lion d'Or purse Wednesday as all eyes were on Coup d'Etat and Chopavane in a head-to-head drive down the stretch.

Galindo returned $17.80 for her second eastern victory of the season. The Vancouver horse has won more than $40,000 on western tracks in the last two years. Second place was declared a dead heat.

Apprentice jockey Ron Turcotte rode three more winners today, his 36th, 37th and 38th of the meeting.

SALES VARY

Sales of farm implements and equipment, including repair parts, rose in Western Canada and declined in the east in the first nine months of 1952. The whole sale value of sales was $217,179,176, 11.4 per cent higher than the 1951 comparable figure of $194,945,153.

Strip Downes Of British Middle Title

LONDON (AP)—The British Boxing Board of Control has stripped Terry Downes of his British middleweight championship for failing to defend the title against John McCormack of Scotland.

The BBBC said Wednesday George Aldridge and McCormack will meet for the vacant championship.

Downes, one of the world's top middleweights and a challenger for Nigerian Dick Tiger's world crown, scored a ninth-round technical knockout over Phil Moyer of Portland, Ore., at Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

Downes held a piece of the world middleweight title for nine months and neglected his British crown. He lost back his share of the world title to Paul Pender at Boston last April 7.

Pender also has been defrocked for failure to defend within the six-month limit.

Used Head, Looked the Wrong Way

LONDON (CP)—The British Boxing Board of Control has fined Canadian heavyweight Pierre LaSaga £150 for his showing in the ring at London's Indoor Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

Billy Walker, British heavyweight, knocked out LaSaga, of St. George's, Bfld., at 1:57 of the first round.

Immediately afterwards it was announced from the ring that LaSaga's purse would be withheld pending an inquiry.

The board gave no specific reason for fining LaSaga Wednesday.

In addition to the fine it announced the 25-year-old Canadian will not be allowed to box again in Britain.

"I didn't throw the fight or anything," LaSaga told a reporter. "The referee said something to me about not using my head, and I looked at him and then I got hit."

Colleges Ask Grant Of $59,000

KINGSTON (CP)—The Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union has asked the federal government for a grant of $59,000 to underwrite national college championships and expects to have an answer this weekend.

Major W. J. (Dunny) McLeod, athletic director of Royal Military College and secretary-treasurer of the CIAU, said Wednesday night the National Fitness Council will discuss the CIAU request today and Friday.

With financial assistance, Maj. McLeod claims, there is good possibility that national championships will be held this year in cross-country, basketball and hockey.

Future plans call for a football final also.

A tentative suggestion has been made that University of British Columbia stage the cross-country and Assumption University of Windsor, Ont., be host to the basketball tournament.

CIAU directors have already agreed that RMC and Queen's University should hold the hockey tournament this winter at Kingston.

The CIAU executive and administrative committee will meet Dec. 6 to discuss how the money, if it is granted, will be spent.

There are 37 major universities affiliated with the CIAU.

Minor Hockey

The Black Hawks took a 5-3 victory over the Barons in a Metro Baseball hockey league game played last night.

A. O'Hara potted two Black Hawk markers with one each going to J. Batchelor, M. Hanley and R. Day. B. Mallory and Hanley drew single assists.

P. Howe fired a pair of goals for the Barons with K. Campbell notching the other. P. Goyer drew two assists.

Score Three Goals in 21 Seconds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hershey Bears, benefiting from a record performance by Marc Reaume, Mike Nykoluk and Les Duff, have moved to within one point of second place in the eastern division of the American Hockey League.

Reaume, Nykoluk and Duff set a league record by scoring three goals in 21 seconds Wednesday night in a 7-1 Hershey romp over Cleveland Barons. The victory pulled the Bears to within one point of Springfield Indians, who took a 6-1 pasting from Pittsburgh Hornets.

The old mark for the fastest three goals was 26 seconds, set by Cincinnati against New Haven in 1950.

Howie Glover scored three goals for Pittsburgh, one in each period, in sparking the Hornets. Lowell McDonald, native of Thorburn, N.S., scored twice and Norm Corcoran, once. Only a goal by Bruce Cline spoiled the shutout bid by Hank Bassen who turned back 39 shots.

For Buffalo, Barry Cullen, Billy Dea and Cliff Schmautz scored early goals and Art Stratton got what proved to be the winner in the third period. Dick Gamble counted twice for the Bisons and Gene Ubriaco netted the other.

Sees Ball Loops Merger

TORONTO (CP)—The Star and The Telegram predict that the International Baseball League and the American Association will be merged at the convention of the minor leagues starting Nov. 26 at Rochester, N.Y.

The newspapers say the proposed league would be divided into two six-team divisions playing a 154-game interlocking schedule.

The six-team American Association already lost its Louisville and Omaha franchises. The Star says, and Denver has expressed a desire to switch to the Pacific Coast League.

The newspapers agree that the new league would be made up of northern and southern divisions with the lineups as follows:

North: Toronto, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Columbus of the IL and Indianapolis of the AA.

South: Oklahoma City and Dallas-Fort Worth of the AA; Little Rock, out of baseball last season after the folding of the Southern Association; Richmond and Jacksonville of the IL and either Atlanta of the IL or Miami with the present Atlanta franchise.

Skitch Henderson Nearing 1,500th Appearance on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

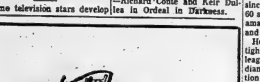
NEW YORK (AP)—"I would like to rip all the loudspeakers out of banks, elevators, and airplanes," says Skitch Henderson, "because they pipe in music which, nine times out of 10, is mediocre music, poorly reproduced."

"But more than that, these large masses of mechanical change people's relationship to music. It ceases to be an aesthetic form and becomes functional—like a sidewalk."

Next month Henderson will observe his 1,500th appearance on television. It will come as musical director on NBC's Tonight Show, the network on which he started more than 14 years ago.

Henderson is not particularly happy about the place music occupies in broadcasting—"at the present level it fills a niche comparable to that of motion picture film music: To be heard but never to intrude."

"The composer is usually the last man in the barn," he says. "They call the musician in after the producer and director have finished their jobs—and then everyone sits around and second-guesses him."



Some television stars develop profitable side lines. But Bill Dana and Jayne Meadows will be doing it the hard way. They have signed on as guides for a pair of airplane tours to South America this winter. Miss Meadows' interest is easily discernible: She is the co-owner of a Beverly Hills travel agency.

Sports Snapshots

By RON MacDONALD

REGINA (CP)—Frank Boucher runs the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League by the book; preaching what he once practised.

Boucher, former New York Rangers centre star who has been commissioner of the SJHL since the beginning of the 1959-60 season, believes strongly that amateur hockey can be clean and still draw fans.

He says he has been slowly tightening adherence to the league constitution and Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rules since he took over. This year he warned all players, coaches and officials there would be no more breaches of the rules carrying punishment. The mass of penalties that has been handed out so far is testimony to the fact he meant what he said.

While in the National Hockey League, Boucher, now 61, won the Lady Byng trophy for clean, effective play seven times and finally was given the original trophy. The greatness of the forward line he made up with Bill and Bun Cook is evidence that ability and clean play can go together.

HARD ON PARENTS

"A lot of fans love blood and thunder in their hockey," Boucher said in an interview here. "But I think they're in the minority, especially in a league like the Saskatchewan junior."

"How would you feel if you were watching a hockey game and saw your kid brother getting beaten up? Not good. Well, you've got to remember that almost all the kids playing in this league are known by lots of people in the stands. Uncles, aunts, brothers, parents, neighbors—they're all out there to watch the game."

"And when you're dealing with youngsters in an amateur league you have to be fair with them. It's a lot easier to handle them if they know they have to play by the book.

"Pro hockey is a different matter. There you've got fines and deterrents of that type to keep the game from getting out of hand."

FREE-FOR-ALLS OUT

Boucher said he had been accused on occasion of trying to promote "sissy hockey." But he said this was far from his aim.

"I don't mind a fist fight now and then; it's natural. The play is fast and hard and tempers get short. But what I will clamp down on is the sort of thing where a fight begins and everybody on the ice plus the benches join in—that's against the law.

"Hockey itself can be rough and tough without being dirty. Clean hockey results in few injuries, even if it's rough."

Boucher said he thought his policies had been effective in raising the standard of hockey played in the seven-team loop. He said he would like to see his methods adopted in eastern Canadian amateur hockey leagues.

"It's well known that in the eastern clubs the play is a lot rougher. We'd like to see them adhere to CAHA rules too. We don't like to see our boys getting beat up in the playoffs."

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Los Angeles Blades, Portland Buckaroos and Spokane Comets —all of the Southern Division of the Western Hockey League —knocked off Calgary Stampeders, Seattle Totems and Edmonton Flyers of the northern sector Wednesday night.

Seattle's Bob Barlow and Portland's Tom McVie duelled themselves into major penalties as Portland swamped the Totems 6-1. Centre Art Jones scored twice, with singles by Bill Saunders, Gerry Goyer, McVie and Tom McCarthy. Scoring for the Totems was Jim Hay.

Centre Fleming Mackell was the hero of Los Angeles' 3-2 overtime victory over Calgary. He went from centre ice, around the Calgary net, performed a neat pirouette and flicked the puck home from four feet out. Leo Labine and Mac Bolleau got the other Blade goals, matched by Ron Leopold and Jack Hendrickson for Calgary.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It shouldn't be a surprise that Sabu the elephant boy is no longer a boy.

After all, he starred in Elephant Boy back in 1937, when he was 11. That makes him all of 36 at the present time, yet he now is playing his first really grownup role in films. He even has his first screen wife.

Sabu is working at Warner Brothers in Rampage with Robert Mitchum, Elsa Martinelli and Jack Hawkins. It is the Indian-born actor's return to acting after a long absence, during which he suffered a deep personal loss.

His brother, Shaik Dastgir, was killed by an 18-year-old boy he had hired in his furniture store. The youth decided to rob him, and Dastgir was shot in a scuffle. The youth was sentenced to one to 10 years for manslaughter.

FELT LOSS DEEPLY

Sabu said that he didn't feel like working after the tragedy.

"It took me a long time to get over it," he remarked. "My boy and I were very close, and the whole thing was so senseless."

He busied himself with running the furniture store, and engaged in building and operating apartment houses. Married for 14 years to the same girl, father of two, he is aware of his responsibilities.

So it was a wiser, older, more mature Sabu I met between scenes of Rampage. He is anxious now to regain in the field that brought him fame.

The new film is a good return for him. He plays the head tracker for a game-hunting expedition in Malaya. The company recently returned from the island of Hawaii, which doubled for the Malaya jungle.

MAYS BUYS HOUSE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Outfielder Willie Mays has bought a house in a fashionable San Francisco section. The home cost him $85,000 — just about his annual salary with San Francisco Giants. Mays has been living in a penthouse apartment since his recent divorce but decided he needed larger quarters since his father and brother are coming to live with him.

Former Ottawa Newsman New Ambassador to Italy

By PAULINE VAILLANCOURT
Canadian Press Correspondent

ROME (CP) — Canada's ambassador to Italy is a former Ottawa newspaper man with impressive academic qualifications — law degree from the University of Montreal and a doctorate in letters from the Sorbonne.

Jules Leger, a native of St. Anicet, Que., was named ambassador three months ago. He succeeded Leon Mayrand, who had held the post since 1958.

Once associate editor of Le Droit, where he specialized in international affairs, Mr. Leger quit journalism in 1938 to enter the diplomatic service. The experience he has acquired in almost a quarter century with the department of external affairs is no less impressive than his academic record.

He joined the department as third secretary. In 1943, when Canada opened an embassy in Chile, he went to Santiago as third secretary there.

After a subsequent posting to London and another stay in Ottawa, he was named ambassador to Mexico in 1953.

He was recalled to Ottawa in 1958 in the following year this time as under-secretary of state for external affairs. He held the post until 1958, when he was appointed Canada a permanent representative to the NATO Council.

"This NATO post," Leger said in an interview, "is more of a technical than a diplomatic one.

"The NATO Council reflects a type of diplomacy that is bound to become increasingly important: diplomacy by congress, or by council, which is proving to be most suitable for maintaining multilateral relations between countries and for promoting international relations in this last stage of the cold war between countries are becoming increasingly complex in some fields."

Leger said Canada's embassy in Rome has become one of the most important maintained in any Western nation.

"Economic relations between Canada and Italy should be intensified," he said.

"Business in Canada is developing at a very fast pace and is competing more and more for international markets. Canadian businessmen should take note of the potential of the Italian market."

The ambassador said one of the problems that crops up most frequently is immigration.

"It is a problem both complex and fascinating, for immigration creates more intimate links between countries than commerce or culture can do.

"The thousands of Italian immigrants who stake their future on Canada's every year . . . represent an inestimable human potential. They are the most valuable asset Canada can get from Italy.

"On the cultural level, Italy offers us rich possibilities for exchange in many fields. For us Canadians of French origin, Italy is the source of our own culture."

BERLIN DEADLOCK EASES AS ENEMIES

Abandoned Greek Ship Loaded With Dynamite

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — The Greek freighter Captain George, a rusting powderkeg, was reported today by the U.S. Coast Guard still afloat and burning but search failed to turn up a trace of 18 missing sailors.

Coast guard messages said seven members of the 25-man crew were picked up by merchant ships standing by in the gale, but the other 18 were lost and tossed into 45-foot high waves when their lifeboat capsized.

They disappeared in the darkness Thursday after the Greek cargo vessel was abandoned about 300 miles northeast of Bermuda.

A coast guard spokesman said he did not know the condition of the survivors, their names or the fate of the freighter's captain.

FLAMES

The storm was still raging at daybreak with such fury that the 8,000-ton rescue ship stood by the flaming ship were driven away from the search area because of the dangerous conditions to protect themselves.

A coast guard spokesman there said the tanker Virginia and the Trinity Navigator which had picked up the survivors, were "riding out the storm and drifting away from the area."

Coast guard amphibians, flying in relays, dropped flares through the night in the vicinity of the burning ship as the flames at their way toward a cargo of explosives.

The 18 missing crew members were reported wearing lifejackets and the water was a warm 72 degrees. But visibility was only about two miles.

SCHOONER CAPSIZES

Another victim of the gale, the disabled 65-foot schooner Curlew capsized five miles outside Bermuda's St. George harbor.

The six men aboard the two-masted schooner were rescued

CBC Willing To Handle Federal Debates

OTTAWA (CP)—J. Alphonse Ouimet, president of the CBC, says the CBC is willing to handle television debates between federal party leaders under certain conditions.

Mr. Ouimet made the comment Thursday in reply to a letter by Senator John J. Connolly, president of the National Liberal Federation.

The letter urged the publicly-owned CBC to provide for a debate between Liberal Leader Pearson and Prime Minister Diefenbaker in its TV and radio planning for the next election.

The CBC president's reply noted that the corporation on various times had expressed its willingness to facilitate a debate or a series of debates.

The principal condition was that the leaders of any two or more federal parties would have to agree to take part and that a format that is satisfactory to all could be arrived at.

Romney Resigns From Board

DETROIT (CP) — Michigan governor-elect George Romney formally resigned Thursday as vice-chairman and a director of American Motors Corporation, a firm he is credited with rescuing from financial doldrums.

Romney resigned last Feb. 15 from his dual jobs of chairman and president, which paid him $150,000 a year, to run as a Republican for the Michigan governor's job and its $25,000 annual salary.

HALIFAX (CP) — Fog and stormy weather protect the secret of whether the Bay of Fundy contains any more Russian fishing vessels.

Reports of Soviet fishing vessels in the bay, a turbulent arm of water jutting in from the Atlantic between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, cropped up early this week.

Today's Chuckle

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Skies were mainly clear over Southern Ontario this morning and temperatures generally below freezing. Cloudy and cold weather with local light snow and freezing drizzle prevails across Northern Ontario—while an area of rain and snow is located near Lake Superior.

A disturbance moving northeastward from Oklahoma is causing widespread snow over the mid-western United States and rain over a large section of the eastern United States. The northern edges of this rain area will reach Southern Ontario today, becoming mixed with snow over central Ontario by this evening.

On Saturday, rain will continue in Southern Ontario, changing to snow or snowflurries late in the day. Snow is forecast over most of the rest of Ontario with heavy amounts likely in central regions.

Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick sent a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker asking that the federal government protest to Russia about this "violation of Canadian territory."

In the House of Commons Thursday Mr. Diefenbaker said the bay, about 60 miles wide and 100 miles long, is in Canadian territorial waters and has been regarded as such since 1963.

He said two Russian vessels operating in the bay will be asked to leave immediately if they have not already departed.

Fisheries Minister MacLean said in an Ottawa interview that the Russian fishing vessel, the Cygnus, has been patrolling the bay seeking Russian vessels to fish there. They are fishing Canadian waters.

There were no reports Thursday of other Russian fishing vessels in the bay, but most small craft were in shelter as a storm with winds up to 70 miles an hour churned the bay. A spokesman for the weather office here expected up the bay at Saint John, N.B., might visit Halifax at times was no more than 200 feet.

Canada's territorial limits usually extend only three miles from shore, but twelve miles of water lying generally within the other extremities of land are often listed as territorial waters as well.

The territorial limits are a controversial subject with Canadian fishing interests. Canada's deep-sea fishing vessels must fish outside a 12 - mile limit. Deep-sea fishing vessels of other countries may fish up to three miles from the coast.

NO OVERHAUL OF TAX ACT CONTEMPLATED

Finance Minister Makes It Clear

OTTAWA (CP)—The government says it is aware that some loopholes are inevitable in the Income Tax Act but it does not plan a complete overhaul of it in the immediate future.

Finance Minister Nowlan made this clear in the Commons Thursday night during detailed study of the 1962-63 income tax changes in last spring's budget.

"Certainly we are not intending to have a complete revision and rewriting of the act at any time in the immediate future," he said.

Mr. Nowlan added that undoubtedly there are some loopholes in the act.

"There were and many of them have been closed, I think, by amendments, though sometimes the amendment which closed one has created another one. That has been the history of the income tax legislation, inevitably."

The finance minister was replying to Liberal finance critic Walter Gordon.

Mr. Gordon MP for Toronto Davenport, had pressed the government to withdraw and rewrite a provision, already in force, which provides a tax rebate of 50 per cent of the first $50,000 of a company's extra taxable income resulting from increased sales, and 25 per cent of the tax on additional profits over $50,000 caused by sales increases.

He said the measure is so loosely worded in the tax amending bill now under discussion in the Commons that thousands of businessmen will be able to find loopholes in it.

The government should withdraw the clause to create the right climate for economic growth, rather than doing a tinkering job on the Income Tax Act," Mr. Gordon said.

But the finance minister termed the measure a production incentive designed to stimulate Canadian manufacturers' search for new markets.

Trade and Minister Hees said businessmen in every part of Canada are enthusiastic about the measure, and he contended it will materially improve profit prospects in fields which until now have not seemed too attractive to potential investors.

Gilles Gregoire (SC — Lapointe) said the export incentives should be restricted to Canadian corporations and not made available to those under American control.

Mr. Hees said "that is a very good theory." However, he would not comment at length on it because it was difficult to administer these particular portions of the Income Tax Act from the practical point of view.

He added that if the purpose of the measure is to develop the Canadian economy and increase employment, "then it does not make much difference to the people who are being employed at the moment whether the corporation is controlled in

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Efforts to settle the Cuban crisis have been jolted by a threat from Fidel Castro to shoot down U.S. planes flying reconnaissance missions over Cuba.

The Cuban premier warned against the aerial surveillance in a letter to Acting Secretary-General U Thant. Thant disclosed the contents of the letter to U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson Thursday soon after chief Cuban delegate Carlos Lechuga delivered it.

Havana radio said the letter warned:

"Any warplane which violates the sovereignty of Cuba by invading our air space will be able to do so only at the risk of being shot down by our anti-aircraft defences."

The U.S. defence department in Washington would continue air surveillance of Cuba as long as it was considered necessary and would take every precaution it figures were deemed essential to protect its flyers.

No attacks on U.S. reconnaissance planes over Cuba have been officially reported since a U-2 piloted by Maj. Rudolf Anderson Jr. disappeared Oct. 27. The Cubans later returned Anderson's body to the United States and published pictures of the wreckage of the U-2. Some experts believe Anderson was shot down by a Soviet-built anti-aircraft missile.

Castro's communication to Thant arrived in the midst of intense diplomatic activity over Cuba including another marathon meeting between Stevenson and Deputy Foreign Minister Vally V. Kuznetsov of Russia.

Stevenson said Castro's letter was discussed at the 34½-hour session held at Kuznetsov's request. Asked if any progress had been made at the talks, Stevenson told reporters "possibly."

There was no word of any agreement on U.S. assurances that Russia withdraw the two dozen or so jet bombers it sent to Cuba. The United States contends they are offensive weapons capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

Chinese Launch Big Attack At Eastern End of Frontier

NEW DELHI (Reuter)—Chinese Communist forces launched a massive attack early today on the eastern end of the Sino-Indian border and a fierce battle is raging north and west of the town of Walong, a defence ministry spokesman announced.

The spokesman said the battle appeared to be "the biggest action on the northeast frontier since the first Chinese attack on Oct. 20."

Asked if the Chinese had advanced very far, he said: "Not when the last reports came in."

The spokesman said that in Walong sector Chinese and Indians were killed and 20 were wounded.

Chinese casualties were estimated to have been about the same.

"Fierce fighting is going on at this very moment," the spokesman said at his daily briefing.

Chinese troops are attacking with considerably superior numbers," the spokesman said. But Indian troops, the spokesman said, managed to stop the forward slopes of a Chinese position despite the heavy Chinese fire. The Indians then were reinforced.

No other action was reported from the Walong sector. But early Wednesday on Chinese positions near Walong and the Communist New China news agency reported at about the same time that "fierce fighting" had broken out near there after an attack by 1,000 Indian troops covered by artillery fire.

CBC Will Carry Grey Cup Telecast, No Commercials

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC announced Thursday it plans to violate a controversial regulation of the Board of Broadcast Governors that it intends to carry the 1962 Grey Cup football game on its national television network.

The publicly - owned CBC announced Wednesday night it intends to carry the game as provided by the privately-owned television network, or CFTO-TV Toronto, but will not accept the advertising messages in the CFTO production in view.

There was no immediate comment from BBG Chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart. A press conference was scheduled for today by CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet.

It is one of the rare—perhaps unprecedented—cases in which a Crown corporation has openly taken steps which would result in deliberate defiance of a law enacted by another government.

After an all-day meeting of its Toronto board of directors Wednesday, the CBC made public how it plans to carry the game, during which regulates the CBC to carry the CTV network's telecast of the game, but complete with commercials.

The BBG regulation, announced in May, reads in part:

"All stations shall broadcast the program . . . in its entirety and shall not omit or increase any portion of the entertainment or advertising content of the program."

An 800-word CBC statement said flatly that "the CBC does not intend to accept the advertising messages which will be

FREE GROCERY PARCELS SAID VOTERS' BRIBES

Nfld. Election Campaign Heats Up

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The battle of the grocery parcels rages here as the Newfoundland election campaign nears its climax.

Liberal Premier Joseph Smallwood, Progressive Conservative Leader James Greene and John O'Dea, Liberal candidate in St. John's South, exchanged salvos Thursday.

The two leaders accused their opponents of trying to bribe voters with free grocery orders. Mr. O'Dea admitted on television he had given away a number of $15 grocery orders to families in his riding and elsewhere. But he had been doing this for years and it had nothing to do with his election efforts.

Mr. Greene, on TV a few minutes later, retorted: "there are better outlets for charity during an election campaign than Liberal headquarters."

Premier Smallwood told reporters no Liberal party money had been used to buy groceries or anything else to influence voters.

Mr. O'Dea, local brewery manager, said: "Up to yesterday I had paid out a little over $4,000 of my own money this year. Last year it was over $4,000, or 18 per cent of my taxable income."

"If I have to give up my service of helping others, I'll do without the seat in the House of Assembly."

Mr. Greene launched the battle Wednesday when he displayed a bag of groceries and said he had got an affidavit saying they had been obtained by a prospective voter through a back room at Liberal party headquarters.

After hearing Mr. O'Dea's explanation, he said "we are not looking for one man to be a scapegoat for the conduct of many. We are seeking an end to this sordid business."

Polls were open to place Monday. Party standings in the last House: 31 Liberals, three Conservatives and two members of the United Newfoundland Party.

No New Offers Until Cuban Crisis Over-JFK

Chancellor Is Happy Over Standpat Policy

Before leaving his plane Adenauer said he was "highly satisfied" with the talks.

Adenauer apparently believes that the Western world ought to make no proposals to Russia on Berlin and Germany, because any deal might result in concessions to the Reds. Now he has the president's word that there will be no new offers, at least until the Cuban crisis clears up.

That may take a long time.

Adenauer can say that there was no discussion of any proposals that might some day be made to the Russians. It had been expected that there would have to be some talk about them.

The result of his visit is to push the possibility of any Western initiative pretty far into the future.

CHANGES MIND

The chancellor had kind words for the American stand on Cuba. It was a big success for the United States, he said, and a failure for the Communists. Before Adenauer left for the United States, he had made some sceptical remarks about the U.S. position in the Cuban situation.

In Washington, his tone was different. His friendly talks with the president, the televised smiles and handshakes, the honors and praise he got can all be a big help with the voters and politicians back home in Germany.

Just how the voters and politicians are pretty angry. The anger is concentrated on Franz-Josef Strauss, Adenauer's ally but highly controversial defence minister.

Strauss has been getting a lot of the blame for the arrests and midnight searches connected with the article in Der Spiegel, a popular West German news magazine. Many Germans were reminded uncomfortably of the tactics of the Gestapo, the secret police of Hitler's day.

Strauss also is under fire for the fact disclosed in the story that caused the row: That the West German Army is far from efficient and that it is lagging in recent manoeuvres of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The chaos in Bavaria, Strauss' home state, will have a chance to explain their thoughts in a local election before the end of the month.

Last week the Christian Democrats—the party of Adenauer and Strauss—suffered a setback in the state of Hesse. If they take more losses in Bavaria, a lot of people will say the chancellor is losing his grip.

Disappearance Of French Student Probed

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Police across Canada have been asked to watch for Karoly Marzi, 32, wanted for questioning in connection with the disappearance of a university student from France.

Henry Merigaut, 20, a student at the University of Grenoble, France, was last seen Aug. 30 on an isolated stretch of Alaska Highway on the Yukon-British Columbia border, 1,000 miles northwest of Edmonton.

RCMP discovered that a youth resembling Merigaut was seen at "Mile 733 of the alternate highway in a car driven by Marzi, alias Karl Morton, alias Sigmund Tegiasi.

"We have reason to suspect foul play," an RCMP spokesman said, "but it seems rather strange that they both should disappear."

RCMP were called into the case when Merigaut's parents failed to receive letters from their son after Sept. 2, and appealed for help to Robert Picard, consul for France in Vancouver.

Woman Said Legal Widow By Ont. Court

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Mr. Justice Campbell Grant of the high court of justice Thursday declared Mrs. Mabel Harris the legal widow of Harold Harris, victim of an unsolved murder at nearby Rockford in 1961.

Mr. Justice Grant said he accepted her story that she and Harris were living together in 1955 when he obtained an absolute divorce decree without her knowledge after a previous interlude.

The judgment permits the widow to share in Harris' estate, but not property and corporate but believed substantial. She is the only known heir.

Harris was found dying of bullet wounds in his general store in June, 1961, and was dead when a doctor arrived. Robbery was believed the motive. A can in which he kept money had disappeared and telephone wires were ripped out.

Ontario government later offered a $2,000 reward.

Mrs. Harris testified Wednesday the day of the death of the divorce until after Harris died.

Police Said Woman Chained To Wall 20 Years by Sister

OMOLION, Greece (AP)—Police broke into the basement of a home in this tiny village Thursday and said they found a raving 42-year-old woman who had been chained to the wall by her sister for more than 20 years.

Investigators said villagers knew of it all along but had kept silent, fearing reprisals, until finally one resident broke the secret to authorities.

The police said they found Eleftheriki Apostolou lying on a floor littered with dirty rags. The only window was sealed and covered with thick blankets. There was no furniture.

One of the officers said the chained woman greeted them with screams and gestures.

When she finally spoke we couldn't understand what she was talking about," said the officer. "She was like wild animal."

Examining physicians said it appeared doubtful the woman would ever be able to regain her senses.

The woman's sister, Maria Tasiari, a widow, told police she had punished Eleftheriki because "she was insane." But her brothers claimed that Maria wanted to get her sister's property and dowry.

Police said they had learned that Eleftheriki had married a local man when she was 17 and that the couple lived with the sister. Shortly after their marriage she accused her husband and her widowed sister of infidelity and got a divorce. Shortly after that she disappeared.

Long-Time Liberal Allies Split

Negro Body's Attack Annoys AFL-CIO

NEW YORK (AP)—Two long-time allies within the U.S. labor movement—organized labor and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—have parted company, for the present at least.

The association, the largest Negro civil rights organization, has set its sights on eliminating what it contends is discrimination within the labor field.

Labor, in turn, contends that the association's attack—or at least the attack by some of its officials—is indiscriminate and its charges too broad, although some labor leaders acknowledge that a few unions still do not treat equal opportunity to all members.

The controversy seems to resolve as much around methods and personalities as it does around the issues.

In the middle stands the association's outspoken national labor secretary, Herbert Hill, a 37-year-old New Yorker, a white man.

In announcing its formal break in relations with the NAACP Tuesday, the AFL-CIO said it was doing so in protest against Hill's activities.

AFL - CIO President George Meany said Hill had been making "baseless charges" against some unions and had been trying to get unions stripped of bargaining rights through National Labor Relations Board procedures on the ground the unions were practising discrimination.

Meany again acknowledged that certain unions do practice discrimination, and he said it must stop. But he said in part the plan would do nothing to end discrimination practised in plants.

The AFL-CIO president said he had been authorized by the federation's executive council to write the NAACP that the AFL-CIO wanted to continue its cooperation in racial discrimination, but felt it could not do so long as Hill operated as he had been.

In answering the Meany statement, NAACP executive secretary Roy Wilkins said:

"We appreciate what some unions have done in the civil rights fight. But the membership of the NAACP and the Negro people generally believe that the forthright fight against discrimination in employment, whether by labor unions or employers, must be made, and we intend to continue to press this campaign."

Hill, a graduate of the trade union movement who came to the association in 1947 as a member of its legal staff, and is the architect of the new policy of toughness toward labor.

Ready to Award Contract For New School at OSD

The contract for the construction of a new boys' vocational school at the Ontario School for the Deaf is expected to be awarded in the very near future.

Tenders for the new school, to be built about 500 feet north of the present main school building, were opened this week by W. Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West, said he expected to learn shortly from the Ontario Department of Public Works the name of the successful bidder.

Mr. Joseph Demess, superintendent at the O.S.D. said dimensions of the new vocational school would be about 200 feet by 200 feet and would contain two floors of shop rooms.

It will be built on vacant property which is presently being used as a secondary playing field area.

City Welfare Director Is Speaker

About 40 people attended the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization lecture at BCIVS last night, to hear George Whitman, city welfare director, speak on personal welfare preparations for time of emergency. Mr. Whitman is also welfare director of QEMO.

The equipment described as necessary included about two weeks' supply of food and water, clothing and blankets, any drugs, such as insulin, required on a regular basis, and a first aid kit. Shelters were discussed and Mr. Whitman emphasized the need for a personal or family plan for survival, and knowledge of the municipal plans.

The final meeting in this series will be held next Thursday at 8.30 p.m. in room 211 of BCIVS.

Three Shots, Three Deer For Huntress

Some people have all the luck. And there are some people who have the normal amount of luck, but use it all at once. Carman Lott, of Belleville, brought this story back from a recent north country hunting trip.

It seems that in the settlement of Sherman, about 12 miles east of Bancroft, lives 30-year-old Mrs. Bruce Ramsbottom, an avid sportswoman. She had been joining family hunting trips led by her father-in-law, Bill Ramsbottom, for years, but had never yet seen a deer until the beginning of this year's trip to Buck Lake.

November 6 was her lucky day. The men had left her along a deer runway, and gone off to look for deer for themselves. Before they had gone very far, they heard three shots. Mrs. Ramsbottom had picked off one deer with each bullet.

Charge Airman After Collision East of City

A Point Anne man is in serious condition and provincial police have charged the air-man driver of an RCAF tractor-trailer transport following an accident east of Belleville on Highway 2 last night.

In Belleville General Hospital with head injuries described as "serious chest injuries" is James Welsh, aged 40.

Police, still investigating details late this morning say Mr. Welsh apparently was cycling along the highway when he was hit by the heavy airforce transport loaded with three huge Bailey-Boyce motors and in the RCAF's four-engined Yukon transport plane.

Police said they immediately released the name of the driver. They charged him with intoxication and briefly impounded the tractor-trailer with its cargo at OPP district headquarters.

The vehicle was released to airforce authorities later this morning after police had completed part of their investigations. It will be grounded for the present time at Trenton air station.

Ald. Whalen Not Candidate For Mayoralty

Unless a dark horse comes out of the woodwork before the nomination time, November 21, the Belleville mayoralty race this year will be between the two contestants already in the field.

Alderman Don Whalen whose name has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the mayoralty, announced today that he would not epter the race.

"I don't think it wise to get into a three-way race for the mayoralty and for that reason have decided not to stand for the mayor's office," he said.

He will, however, offer himself for re-election to council.

Number of Reeves, Deputies Plan to Quit Municipal Life

Hastings county council will see possibly more than the usual number of new faces in 1963 following the December municipal elections.

Each year sees at least five or six new reeve and deputy reeves join the 32 member body, but it is rumored the end of December will see the retirement of more than the custom-ary number of councillors. There could be 10 or 11 new faces next year.

Definitely retiring from the municipal field are Reeve Harleigh Hamilton of Sidney township, and Reeve Harry Pound of Thurlow.

Others reported to be thinking of quitting municipal life are Kenneth Mumby of Rawdon, Douglas Spencer of Tweed village, Jack Brown of Bancroft and the dean of county council, Reeve William J. Davis of McClure, Wicklow and Bangor townships. Three of the above are former county wardens, Messrs. Davis, Brown and Hamilton.

Reeve Frank Rabel of Frankford village was also rumored as quitting this year but today he told The Ontario Intelligencer that he had decided to run for re-election. He has been in municipal life ten years, the last two as reeve.

12 YEARS OF SERVICE

Reeve Hamilton is quitting municipal life after 12 years in his township council, seven of which he has been at county council as reeve and deputy reeve.

Reeve Harry Pound of Thurlow township has been a member of his township council for 13 years and he says, "I have been long enough. It is time to quit." Mr. Pound has been two years as reeve and four years as deputy-reeve.

The dean of county council, Reeve William Davis, has been 21 years in county council and has established some kind of a record for attendance at examinations received. Almost without exception he has been returned as reeve without opposition.

Toronto Revue Wins Praise From Most London Critics

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—Clap Hands, the Toronto transplant headed to the fringe of the West End, gets a round of applause from London critics.

"Brisk, bright and full of good cheer," says The Daily Telegraph. "Its native characters shows amusingly through."

"Odd, vibrant and usually very funny," says The Times in a thoroughly enthusiastic review. "This satire may not topple governments or start revolutions . . . but it both makes us laugh and makes us think.

APPLAUDS CAST

Michael Walsh of The Daily Express describes the atmosphere of the first - night performance Tuesday at the Lyric Theatre in suburban Hammer-Smith:

"Good - humored laughter sweeping across the audience—as invigorating as a mountain breeze. These Canadians, most of them on the first time visit, certainly know how to laugh at themselves."

Walsh compares Clap Hands—a medley of sketches from Toronto productions of the last 10 years plus topical material—with the smash-hit British satirical revue Beyond the Fringe.

"The wit is perhaps less sophisticated, it is only malicious and never wounding. But it has edge."

Eric Jacobs, critic of the Manchester Guardian, has a few reservations. The satire covers much the same ground, he says, "if had stuck to more "homespun material" like the skit on a nationalistic Canadian ballet.

"I think they should have taken the gamble and tried more of such material; perhaps the Canadian inferiority complex, which featured in several of their sketches, had them by the throat."

The only London critic who refused to clap hands for the Toronto revue is Bernard Levin of The Daily Mail.

"They do like it mild in Canada, there's no denying," says Levin, who evidently expected more bite to translatlantic satire. But he admits "one or two items display a shrewd originality." And the revue itself, he said, Canadian satire . . . just isn't good enough."

Clap Hands is directed by Toronto playwright John Gray and produced by his wife Actress Araby Lockhart, who also appears in the cast of six.

Downtown and Plaza Merchants Present Conflicting Briefs to Special Council Committee on Store Hours

Belleville's merchants last night traded in over-the-counter pleasantries for downright realism in crucial sales talk.

There was only one customer to be sold, but it was a significant customer — city council's committee reviewing store-closing bylaws. There were two salesmen—downtown businessmen and merchants of the east-end Belleville Plaza Association.

It was the open climax of a difference between both sides of the business community, aired before a packed, but rowdy, city hall council chamber, last night. The meeting, expected to be a noisy assembly ignored by controversy, turned out to be a formal affair that gave the current dispute among local businessmen the air of a gentlemen's disagreement.

The current controversy hinges on a demand from the Plaza-built by Principal Investments — for last-night openings on Thursday and Friday, to replace the present bylaw allowing only extended hours on Fridays.

Last night's meeting broughtboth partisans before the mediators — council's reviewing committee. But Alderman Les Dizby, chairman of the committee, made no on-the-spot promises of easy solution, either at the opening or end of the meeting. What happened between times however, may have helped clarify the issue.

The Plaza representation indirectly stated that if the extension to present closing hours was ignored, shopping facilities would be established outside the town limits, thus threatening established business men. Downtown merchants, however, questioned the truth of this threat. -

BRIEFS PRESENTED

Both sides presented formal briefs to the committee, but the important dialogue was off-the-cuff.

The Plaza merchants' case was filed by Belleville lawyer Robertson Collins and that of the downtown opposition by Irv Shulman. It was by Shulman, as president of the newly-formed Downtown Businessmen's Association that the spontaneous broadsides were fired.

Mr. Shulman said the demand from the Plaza merchants was pressure exerted by real estate interests and warned that only "ghost towns" in town might eventually result from such business promotion.

Mr. Collins took the initiative at the outset of the meeting and submitted his clients' brief first.

"It should be borne in mind by council in dealing with this," said Mr. Collins, "that events in shopping areas is in vogue in a great many cities in this province."

An extension of the present bylaw, he added, "will encourage merchants to locate inside the city rather than outside the city limits."

A classical example of such a development, he claimed, is the city of Kingston, which now has shopping centres outside its limits "where they set their own hours of business."

The extended hours "will draw those in the district now prone to go to Kingston or Toronto," he said.

"The present hours do not allow sufficient time for workers to visit local stores except on their day off or on Friday evenings.

WOULD ENLARGE PLAZA

"In this regard Principal Investments have committed themselves to building — providing the proper conditions can be met—to an addition to the present Plaza."

The Plaza now is assessed for approximately $500,000, and pays taxes of about $50,000 —not counting business taxes and other municipal etceteras levied upon the merchants, said Mr. Shulman.

Currently, the Plaza gives employment to 220 people.

"An additional outlet will provide outlets for employment in the city," he said.

He reiterated the warning of a possible shopping centre being established in the city only limits as a "most important consideration."

The individual city taxpayer would not benefit in such circumstances, because taxes will then be paid to the township of Sidney."

Mr. Shulman, while presenting his association's brief, also rebutted the threat of out-of-town location of a shopping centre. Like Mr. Collins, he departed from the strict wording of the Downtown Businessmen's Association brief, to reiterate his stand before the audience

A change in the present store-hours ordinance does not have the full-fledged support of Plaza merchants, Mr. Shulman claimed. Rather the present situation was the result of "pressure exerted upon them in the interest of real estate promotion."

EMPLOYEES AGAINST

"It is known that all retail employees are solidly against any change in the by-law," persued Mr. Shulman.

He claimed a poll of "public opinion shows no enthusiasm for an extension."

His association preferred that the present hours be maintained.

"These big interests that open up in small communities die in a short time and in their wake they leave ghost towns," he claimed.

"Let's quit what we want for Belleville."

He disputed the contention of Mr. Collins that the change would encourage district shoppers away from the lure of Toronto and Kingston.

"Who are we fooling? People who want to go to Toronto will go to Toronto—whether we have ten plazas or not."

He claimed if chain food stores in the Plaza had felt the need for a second late-night opening they would have moved to institute it on their own volition.

"I am surprised that Principal Investments had the audacity to build (on a store area) without first finding out if there was a change in the by-law," he added.

"How many Belleville citizens really and truly want stores to stay open an extra night a week?" queried Mr. Shulman.

"Ours is not the need for a two-night opener. Let us be left alone for the 220 people certain advantage of the few to the certain disadvantage of the many."

And that was the sum of the submissions presented and gravely received by committee chairman Les Digby.

EALRY DECISION ASKED

Committee Digby, with councillors George Wishart and Don Whalen, is expected to make a recommendation to the city council on the issue. Besides the major briefs tendered last night the committee must also scrutinize some 258 letters received by the city clerk's office during the week.

When the committee will make its decision is not known, but the downtown businessmen are anxious it should be reached as soon as possible.

Mr. Shulman interrupted the end of last night's meeting to request that this question should not be left in abeyance too long."

Replied Chairman Digby; "I will assure Mr. Shulman that the committee will act as expeditiously as possible. We do not want this hanging around any longer than you do."

Recreation Highlights

B. JARVAH, Assistant Director

When you were young and full of hustle and bustle, did you ever talk to Santa Claus on the telephone? And do you remember how happy you were when a few days later Santa sent you a letter in which he said how happy he was to have talked to you on the phone?

Last year over 2,700 boys and girls in the City of Belleville were able to talk to Santa Claus on the telephone. The phone would ring in the house and then a jovial voice would ask for a certain little boy or girl, who on answering the phone, would immediately recognize the voice as that of Santa. If you could watch the face of the boy or girl, you would see a glowing smile spread from ear to ear which would inevitably result in "Mommy — it's Santa!".

This "Telephone Santa Claus" program was initiated in Belleville in 1953 and during the years since its conception over 21,000 calls have been placed to the boys and girls in Belleville. This program has grown steadily as is shown by the statistics listed below.

1953, 1,300 calls; 1957, 2,000 calls; 1959, 2,500 calls; 1961, 2,700 calls.

This program, although organized by the Recreation Department would not be possible without the co-operation of the Bell Telephone Company, the Belleville and District Clubs and numerous other volunteers who are needed to make this program a success.

Boys and gurls may talk to Santa Claus by telephone. The first they must fill out a card and mail it to Santa Claus. These cards are now available at all public schools on Thursday, November 15, and may be obtained at the Recreation Centre; also some of the local merchants will have these cards available on their counters.

If boys and girls have younger brothers and sisters at home, they may take additional cards for them to fill in. Santa Claus will write each boy and girl a personal letter after talking to them on the telephone.

This year Santa will be placing his calls on Monday, December 3 from 6-8 p.m.; Tuesday, December 4 from 6-8 p.m., Wednesday, December 5 from 6-8 p.m. and Thursday, December 6 from 6-8 p.m.

So parents, if you would like your son or daughter to talk to Santa, see that he or she obtains one of these cards, fill it in, and mail it to Santa, before December 3. Cards cannot be accepted after this date as Santa will be busy getting ready for his big trip on Christmas Eve.

At this time of the year Santa is busy and he needs lots of helpers for his "Telephone Program". So fathers, if you could spare a little of your time and would like to make quite a few children happy — why not phone the Recreation Centre at WO 2-1403 and offer your assistance as one of "Santa's Helpers".

Tenders Given For Demolition Of Stobie Bldg.

The contract for the demolition of the Stobie building at the corner of Campbell and Pinnacle Street is expected to be let out by city council at its regular meeting Monday evening.

Glen Thompson, chairman of the city parking authority said tenders for the demolition of the Stobie building landmark were opened Wednesday and a recommendation would be forwarded to council. Six tenders were received.

The Stobie building is to be razed to make way for a municipal parking lot.

Revision Court Finishes Hearings on 81 Appeals

TRENTON — The 1962 Court of Revision wound up its formal hearings last night in a lengthy session. In all, 81 appeals were heard in the three-night stint. Yet no court is a visit to premises on which the court could come to no clear cut decision. Appellants will be notified by mail of the court's rulings on their particular problems.

Last night, L. H. Bearne, general manager of CMC Boats, the Trenton off-shoot of Outboard Marine Corporation of Canada, asked that the assessment on a section of the Trenton plant be lowered. He said that the section in question was used merely as a storage place for boats which, while manufactured in the plant, became the property of Outboard Marine at Peterborough.

The original thinking of the assessment department had been that the storage section "should be part of the manufacturing" area because under the Assessment Act, when two operations are carried on under the same roof, the assessment is based on the preponderant operation, in CMC's case, manufacturing.

In the light of Mr. Bearne's explanation, the court agreed to assess the space as "storage." Mr. Bearne said that he hoped much business would develop and he would be devoted to manufacturing.

REJECT APPEAL

Two Marmora Street North residents asked for lower assessment giving as their reason the fact that the Canada Creosoting Company slockyard was located across the street, and naming the yard as a potential fire hazard. The court ruled that this was actually no concern of the assessment department or of the court itself.

Cedar Street resident, who, since June, has been trying, vainly, she says, to bring the conditions of her street to the attention of various town authorities, (council, the weed inspector, etc.) managed to get her point across to the court last night. She arrived before the court, armed with snapshots of weed and shack conditions on the street.

Members of the court had a number of suggestions to offer.

(1) Lower the appellant's assessment. This would be much towards cleaning up the weed and shack conditions, however.

(2) Rezone the entire area. This way, town council would lose out in assessment, and subsequently in taxes.

The third and last suggestion came from Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the court. He proposed to bring the issue, and the snapshots, before council and give the town authorities one week in which to better the street conditions, or the area would be re-zoned. Councillor Worrall stated that he would request the presence of the weed inspector and the fire chief at the council meeting. Court members were one and all in agreement with this method of bringing the matter to council's attention.

COAL DUST QUESTION

The bogey of "coal dust" reared its ugly head again this year. As the result of appeals, the Royal Hotel will receive at five per cent decrease in assessment; Trenton Cleaners, who already get a 10 per cent decrease, will get further consideration from the court, and the court will seek legal advice on the advisability of changing the assessment on the W. W. Powers outyard from industrial to commercial.

A representative of Mr. Harry Liefferty appeared before the court to ask that the assessment on Mr. Lafferty's feed mill on Ontario St. be changed from commercial to industrial. Commercial, in his case represents a rate of $3.823 per acre; industrial in the case of Powers represents $1,000 per acre. Mr. Lafferty's representative said the coal yard assessment as the result of his argument for the change in assessment, claiming that, as the two businesses were alike, the high assessment rate was not equitable. He indicated that since the court upheld the coal yard assessment rate levied on the Lafferty property, he and his client would be satisfied if the court would agree to have this come about the fire hazard could be what a lawyer thought about the court itself revising the assessment on the coal yard.

Charge Quebec Youth With Entering Store

TRENTON — An 18-year-old youth from the province of Quebec has been lodged in county jail at Belleville, following his appearance in a Trenton drug store early Thursday morning.

Joseph Lefebvre has been charged with breaking and entering Simmons Drug Store and will appear in magistrate's court at Trenton next Tuesday.

Inspector R. J. Rutherford of the Trenton police department, said yesterday that Constable Roy Miller, while on patrol duty, discovered that the window in the door of the Dundas Street West store had been broken. Upon entering the store he had come upon Lefebvre.

Add Five Voters

TRENTON — Five o'clock yesterday was the deadline for Trenton citizens to contact clerk comptroller O. W. Larry if their names failed to appear on this year's voters list. Five persons had had their names added to the list which now numbers the 7,205 voters.

Two Trustees Will Not Seek Re-election

TRENTON — Gerald Farrar, a member of the Trenton Board of Education for the past two years, announced yesterday that he would not stand for re-election in the 1963 voting for the forthcoming December elections. Mr. Farrar gave business pressure as his reason for retiring from public office.

During his first year of office Mr. Farrar served as chairman of auxiliary agencies. This year he has devoted himself to liaison between the board and the high school air cadet squadron.

Mrs. Gabrielle Griffiths, who has also served two years with the board, as chairman of supply in 1961 and this year as chairman of education, has tendered her resignation to board chairman D. G. Phinney. Mrs. Griffiths gives home duties as her reason for retirement.

As Mr. Phinney has also announced his resignation (as has also chairman of management Ronald Reid) Trenton voters will be asked to elect at least four new members to the board.

George Greer, a board member for nine years, has made no statement as to whether he will seek re-election this year or not. Mr. Greer's term of office expires next month.

Warns Against European-Type Economic Plans

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada should beware of adopting the European type of government-planned economy, says a Canadian industrialist who studied planning in Europe last summer as a member of a national productivity council mission.

J. Herbert Smith of Toronto, president of Canadian General Electric Company Limited, said the throne speech in June announcing formation of a National Economic Development Board suggested Canada may soon be following the European pattern of economic planning.

He warned:

"In adapting European economic planning approaches to Canada, we must guard against the tendency of such central planning to become directive and rigid rather than voluntary and indicative."

Addressing a meeting Thursday of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, he said if a central planning authority drew too closely detailed a blueprint for the entire economy, the ability of the millions of individual units comprising the economy to make their own plans would be restricted.

"It would seem impossible to have ultimately a high degree of central planning and a continuation of the present energetic making and carry-out of independent plans."

(AP)—Patrick Farrow, 19-year-old son of actress Maureen O'Sullivan, was ordered Thursday to appear in Superior Court at Santa Monica Nov. 30 for arraignment on a narcotics possession charge. Farrow was arrested at his home here Oct. 23. Police said he had marijuana and a hypodermic syringe in his possession.

An Unwise Sentence

At Winnipeg the other day a 34-year-old mother of eleven children pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods. According to a story by The Canadian Press she "was forbidden to leave house for two years or to receive any visitors other than relatives.—Magistrate Isaac Rice . . . also placed her on suspended sentence and forbade anyone to provide her with liquor."

No magistrate or judge has the right to the power to order a person to remain at home for two years. Despite the wording of the report, it is evident this "house arrest" was one of the conditions for the granting of suspended sentence, and that the woman had the right to refuse to abide by these conditions. That, though, would have made her liable for a jail term. Most people believe anything is better than jail, and agree to any conditions. Later they may revise their opinions.

The terms devised by this Winnipeg magistrate are, we suggest, unwise. Even if this woman's home life were ideal, two-years' restriction to the limits of the house would prove intolerable. It may be argued such confinement should be much easier to endure than confinement in a jail for a like period. We doubt this. The very routine of jail life would be an asset, rather than a handicap. In this case there are the added facts the woman's husband is in jail, that the man with whom she had been living was sent to jail last month by Magistrate Rice and that she had been living on welfare payments. We do not know how many of her eleven children are living at home, but if there are many of them they will probably prove an additional burden to their mother, and she will almost certainly prove a blight on their lives when the inhumane conditions of suspended sentence have frayed her temper, which may not be angelic under the best of conditions.

Something, we suggest, ought to be done by legislative processes to stop the courts from imposing such sentences as the above. True, it is not often that one reads of conditions as unreasonable as these, but quite frequently there are conditions which are an infringement on the most basic civil rights. Such conditions as church attendance or Bible reading, a favorite with some magistrates, are incompatible with freedom of worship. In other cases those on suspended sentence may be required to be at home by a certain hour, when late hours had nothing whatever to do with the offence with which they are charged. Suspended sentences are supposed to be used where there is reason to believe the offender will not repeat the offence. Conditions imposed can reasonably limit those previous activities which led the offender into temptation, such as a curb on the consumption of liquor. Otherwise the accused should be free to live a normal law-abiding life, because that is precisely the aim of the suspended sentence. Obviously this purpose was poorly served by the conditions imposed by Magistrate Rice on this Winnipeg woman.

Point Overlooked

The House of Commons is considering a bill to amend the Food and Drugs Act. One change will curb the distribution of samples of new drugs. When the amendment becomes law, drug firms will be permitted to send samples only to doctors, dentists, veterinary surgeons and druggists on request (that is, in writing).

Hon. J. W. Monteith, Minister of National Health and Welfare, dropped a hint in the House that he believes this control of samples may result in some reduction in drug prices. T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, was more outspoken. He said he understands some firms send out as many as 20,000 samples of new drugs and he argued this was bound to add to the market cost of the drugs.

Perhaps a defence of past sampling practices could be based on the contention that they promoted eventual demand and thereby reduced unit cost.

Altogether aside from that, though, Mr. Monteith and Mr. Douglas appear to be overlooking one point. Few, if any, doctors who received free samples of drugs made any charge for them when they distributed them to patients. We suspect that many doctors have made wide use of such samples to assist those of their patients whose financial circumstances were not good. Thus any overall reduction in the cost of drugs may be obtained at least in part at the expense of the poor, who will find that their doctors have not so many drug samples to give them free of charge.

As the Wall Street Journal observes: "Disarmament talks are bound to fail when both sides stick to their guns."

Letter to The Editor

Appoves Editorial On Deformed Babies

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Thank you for your editorial on November 12th, entitled "Deformed Have Right to Live". I have felt for some time that someone should point out the fact these mentally retarded or deformed babies may often have quite undeformed intellects.

As the parent of a mentally-retarded child, who will never attain a mental age of more than seven or eight, I would like to tell the parents of these deformed children not to despair too easily.

The task of raising such children may seem almost insurmountable at first, but there is help available, and the rewards may be very great. No one knows but that the brain which discovers the cure for cancer or the mind which brings peace to the nations, may be housed in a deformed body? In these days it would certainly seem that brains are of more importance than brawn.

Vote Shows Racial Split

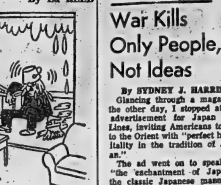
New York Times

The outcome of the Northern Rhodesian election signals a split along radical lines between whites and blacks that confirms the fear that moderatism in the federation is a lost cause. Particularly to be regretted is the defeat of the Liberal party, which had striven for a genuine inter-understanding between the races. But not enough whites voted for Africans, nor Africans for whites, to give the new Legislative Council the balance of representation that had been envisioned.

With their neighbors on many sides achieving self-government and independence, the Africans in both Northern Rhodesia and Southern Rhodesia understandably are impatient for political gains. But most of the whites, many of them second and even third generation settlers, want to go slowly if at all toward this end. They have been frightened by events in the Congo.

The election in Northern Rhodesia was orderly and a 92 per cent turnout of voters is deep interest that exists on all sides. Restraint and true statesmanship by both races will mark white leaders now becomes a prime responsibility. As was to be expected, a majority of the two African parties, the United National Independence party and the African National Congress, to form a majority against the predominantly white United Federal party appears to be in the making.

In Southern Rhodesia, the restrictions on African political activity in advance of the election in December, coupled with the African opposition with the colony's new constitution, make the outlook there grim. Sir Edgar Whitehead, the Prime Minister, rightfully claims credit for recent efforts to reduce racial discrimination and says that Africans will control the Southern Rhodesian Government in 15 years. But the Africans are unlikely to be willing to wait that long.



Two Families Swap Homes

The Printed Word

Two Canadian families, who are friends living in separate towns, are swapping towns for business reasons. There has been some correspondence between them, and entirely jocular about the possibilities of swapping split levels, furnished. As both have to pay for moving the savings offered are attractive enough to keep discussing them.

This information comes from one of the husbands, who says with a wry objective view of what the machine age has done to him, that the houses and furnishings are so similar neither family would notice much difference. He says both sets of parents have so far resisted the temptation to leave behind some of their more fractious children, in the hope the people moving in would not notice. It also seems fairly well settled that the arrangement should not be an overnight affair, to move only the husbands although the savings of moving in a couple of suitcases are attractive and both families say nobody notices husbands.

Take Golfers Out of Rain

Vancouver Sun

The trouble with golf has been a natural consequence of importing it from an energetic and barbaric environment. The untutored Scot probably never was aware of the wear, tear, discomfort and inefficiency of lugging his clubs — and himself — over leagues of rough, rain-swept and brush. He was exposed to the weather, the wind, the sun, the perils of unconditioned air. His ball got into inconvenient holes and grass, irritating his nerves and his digestive system.

Invading Englishmen began civilization of the game. They hired Scottish caddies to carry their clubs.

In North America, the electric golf cart was developed to carry both clubs and player around the course, eliminating the dangers of too much walking.

Now ingenious Americans have eliminated exposure to the weather. The golfer stands indoors upon a platform and strokes the ball toward a multi-color picture of the golf course. A photo-electric device nets the ball and indicates where it would have landed. The golfer presses a button, the picture changes and he strokes the ball again, apparently from where his previous shot landed. This also eliminates the danger of the ball landing in a hole or bush.

The device is expected to earn $110 million on this continent next year.

This is progress.

Only cockeyed golf remains to make the primitive game of golf fit for civilized players. This is to provide them with comfortable chairs while imported burly Scots strike the balls for them.

Modern Ships Open up North

Edmonton Journal

Our attitude to surface navigation in Arctic waters is colored by the success of the Arctic exploration. In the historic search for the Northwest Passage and in the equally historic race to the Pole, the inexorable power of ice-cold ice proved more than a match for men and ships.

But that was an earlier day. Shipping, perhaps man's oldest form of transportation, has advanced. More important, design and construction of ice-breakers has come a long way. HMCS Labrador has already demonstrated this past summer. In a series of voyages, she pushed north into the rim of the permanent polar ice-pack and practically to the northern rim of the Arctic archipelago.

Where an ice-breaker can go, a merchant ship, may eventually follow. The transport department's ice - breakers and supply ships, together, ranged over a greater area than ever before. They set new records not only in northward penetration but in roving about the waters of the archipelago.

This success should not be lost on those who look to the development of Arctic oil resources. Commercial development may not have to await the technical achievement of the submarine oil tanker.

War Kills Only People, Not Ideas

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Glancing through a magazine the other day, I stopped at an advertisement for Japan Air Lines, inviting Americans to fly to the Orient with "special hospitality in the traditions of Japan."

The ad went on to speak of "the enchantment of Japan," "the classic Japanese manner," "the calm beauty of Japan," "the delicacy the courtesy, the charm of the Japanese culture."

All too often, as any soldier can testify, and then I thought back to less than 20 years, and wondered if those words and the same people we were fighting — those "queer little inhuman monsters," those "grinning little devils," those "yellow fiends."

How they are our allies and our friends, as they should be; and so are the Germans, and so are the Italians. And I pondered about another ad, 20 years hence, if the world should survive and would offer an atomic catastrophe.

I could see the four-color splash for Supreme Air Lines: The charming Russian stewardess serving tea to the American passengers. The hospitality (truthful) statements about Russian warmth, Russian hospitality, Russian respect for the classic Moscovite tradition.

For there is no doubt that those of us who are left — if any are — after the next holocaust will do the same as we have always done: will make friends and allies out of our former enemies, will quickly perceive their virtues and their talents, will admit them as full fledged members of the human race, will even help rebuild their economy and restore their civilization.

The truly terrible thing about the war spirit, about the fear of the "other" and the hatred of sets, is that it forces us to think abstractions — those "they" and talk and feel in terms of "nationists" this time, those "fascists" last time.

But those we are fighting and killing are people — men, women and children, not political, geographic or economic abstractions. They are, in the main, as decent people as we are, as kind people as we are. And they regard us as abstractions as much as we regard them.

It is only after the conflict that enemies emerge as people once more. Now the soldiers in under control, but he has two long conditions which will continue to harass him for months. It's up to him to keep his activity within the limits of his breathing capacity.

Now Dickens Re-Written

The Printed Word

A news despatch from London brings word that Miss Doris Hackett, a great-granddaughter of Charles, is "judiciously rewriting" the novels of her famous ancestor. She has already produced her condensations of Oliver Twist and Great Expectations and is now working on Nicholas Nickleby and Barnaby Rudge.

It seems a pity, but it would be fruitless to voice much of a protest. Dickens is in the public domain, and anyone is free to do with his works whatever they seem good to him or her. Other literary geniuses of England have not escaped the hand of the reviser. Charles Lamb and his sister rewrote many of Shakespeare's plays to make them comprehensible to juvenile intelligence.

Thomas Bowdler did worse than that by expurgating the plays to make them fit, in his narrow opinion, for family reading. He also improved the last years of his life in preparing an expurgated edition of Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire.

Scott and Thackeray have been fairly free from the vandals, although there has been a revision version of Vanity Fashion which owes nothing but its name to the work of Sir Walter.

There is no defense for re-remembering that the classics have a vitality that resists the worst their modern revisers can do to them. Every few years, in the name of simplification, someone produces a new, and perhaps more accurate, version of the Bible; but the King James version remains the one that most people quote or misquote.

To Your Good Health

We Must Learn to Live With Various Problems

By JOSEPH G MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is 49 and last year he began losing weight. It was later found that he had diabetes. Almost at the same time he developed a cough and after X-rays and bronchospy we were told that he had bronchiectasis and "some" emphysema.

The diabetes was brought under control with diet pill but bronchiectasis was "spattered in both lungs" and surgery was not possible.

He lost 35 pounds of which he has gained back 18 to 15. Our doctor says it would be good if he gained back 30, as he was 25 pounds overweight.

I am concerned at his lack of energy and pep. It has been seven months since the lung diagnosis. The specialist told him he can "live" as long as he takes care of himself, that he must learn to live with the coughing," and that a little chest condition will seem to be better and sometimes worse.

Are we being realistic about his weight? He breathes shorter than he used to and heavy lifting or pushing makes him cough, but he is able to work as usual.

Will his energy improve? Are we overly concerned about the bronchiectasis? Does one survive it? Is it very common? We never heard of it before we were told he had it. — Mrs. R.B.

Yes, you're too impatient in my opinion, but I think you've had excellent medical advice and care. The diabetes is controlled. You've been assured that the cough will continue as a threat to life if he takes care of himself, and you have been warned that they aren't curable — that's what "learning to live with a condition" means. Can't be cured but you can get along in spite of it.

Bronchiectasis (or pouch-like places where phlegm can puddle) is far from uncommon but it isn't a "dirty word" to be hushed publicised aliment so you, like many others, don't remember hearing about it until it becomes a personal matter. I've written on this in numerous times because so many people like you skim over things that don't at the moment concern them. This is human nature!

Your husband has been pretty sick. Now the diabetes is under control, but he has two lung conditions which will continue to harass him for months. It's up to him to keep his activity within the limits of his breathing capacity.

His gain in weight so far indicates that he is improving. Why be it be up to 200 pounds? Weight alone won't increase his pep. If he will exercise himself to less exertion than degree that makes him huff, puff and cough (and I assume he has been smart enough to quit smoking) he will find that his "pep" will increase.

If he thinks he can push himself to the point at which he coughs, wheezes or has to gasp for breath, he won't improve by it. On the contrary, he will make his condition worse.

His shortness of breath and cough are nature's built-in signals telling him to remain within his physical limitations. Many of us have to learn to live with" various problems. Don't forget the wisdom of the old saw about the way to a long life: Have some chronic condition that forces you to take it yourself.

Pediatrician, general practitioner or gynecologist, any would be a reasonable choice. The condition should be checked.

THE PACKSACK

by GREGORY CLARK

At a bus stop, shortly after three thirty, four little school girls around ten or eleven years of age, scrambled aboard, and with the usual excited exclamations, charged for the back of the bus, the wide seat, and immediately burst into animated chatter and cries characteristic of their age.

At the next bus stop, two more exuberant little girls, of the same age, tumbled aboard. When they saw the four at the back, their faces lighted up the way little girls' faces can light up, and they raced back to join them.

There was a sudden cessation of chatter. In a moment, blushing furiously, with a hint of tears in their eyes, and bowed a little in humiliation, the two latecomers returned to the bus and took seats near the front. They cast furtive and anguished glances toward the back.

They had been snubbed. Snubbed little girls have a special and sure way in this commiserative mind, when the smaller of the two, groping in her small red purse, drew forth a folded sheet of paper. With an air of enormous secrecy, she showed it to her friend. The two of them bent over the paper, staged a magnificent pantomime of excitement. A slow silence grew at the rear of the bus.

I guess you'll have to commiserate little girls. They can look after themselves.

Picton Youth Given 7 Days, Fined $50

Magistrate T. Y. Wills sent a 17-year-old Picton youth to jail for seven days this morning for driving a car while disqualified.

"You might as well learn if you are going to break the law this is what happens," the magistrate told the Eric Mary, R.R. 1, Picton.

He also fined the youth $50 and $7.50 costs for careless driving.

Police evidence to the court charged that a car driven by Akey tried to give a police cruiser the slip on Front Street, October 20. The ensuing chase along Moira Street West to the city limits, saw the Akey car reach speeds up to 70 miles an hour, police claimed. When the automobile finally stopped, the pursuing officers said Akey switched places with a passenger.

"If you do not get this car craze out of your head, it is going to get you," the magistrate reprimanded Akey as he imposed sentence. "I hope this will be a lesson to you."

Royal Family Regarded as Saints, Scapegoats for Sins of People

LONDON (Reuters)—Britons regard their Royal Family as stained glass saints offering themselves as scapegoats for all the squalid sins of their people," a British writer says.

The subject-eye view of British monarchy was given by British author, critic and former diplomat Sir Harold Nicholson in his book Monarchy, published today.

The book is a study of the various forms of kingship throughout the ages and in many countries, tracing its developments from the primitive priest-kings to modern constitutional monarchies.

The biggest problem of kingship today is the question of publicity, Nicholson wrote.

The British sovereign as symbol of the state and head of the Church of England must observe the highest moral code, he said. The private lives of the Royal Family are expected to be patterns of perfect domesticity.

'FLATTER THEMSELVES'

"The public flatter themselves that the Royal Family are stained glass saints offering themselves as scapegoats for all the squalid sins of their people," he said.

"It would be a shock to the British people if their scapegoat 'let them down,' he said.

Too much publicity would stain the essential mystery of the crown, even its dignity, but too little would be regarded as undemocratic and would make the gulf between the sovereign and the ordinary subject an "unfortunate barrier" rather than a necessity of segregation, he wrote.

"The real personality of monarchs is seldom revealed to their peoples until many years after their deaths," Nicholson wrote.

U.S. Govt. Plans Statement To Show Present Fallout From Tests Not Dangerous

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A U.S. government advisory panel is reportedly seeking to dispel public concern over the dangers of radioactive fallout. Plans to produce what it describes as "clarifying" statements next month to show that the present amount of fallout is not serious.

An official of the Federal Radiation Council said the council will in no way attempt to revise or interfere with established radiation guidelines. It merely wants to add a clarifying note to show that a person may absorb many times the radiation limits established by the guidelines and still be free from any health hazard.

This move by the council likely will cause increased questioning of whether the public is getting all the facts about the health and genetic effects of the Soviet and American nuclear testing in the atmosphere. One of the guidelines says a person can absorb as much as 15,000 micromicrocuries of radioactive iodine 131 annually without any health danger. But in a recent footnote to this guide, the U.S. public health service said the established figure is an acceptable risk for infants and young children. Adults could safely absorb ten times that amount—150,000 micromicrocuries annually. Radioactive iodine 131, a byproduct of nuclear fission, is found mainly in fresh milk.

FIGURE SURPRISED

A federal survey shows the acceptable risk of 36,500 micromicrocuries was exceeded in the 12 months ending last September at an Alaska checkpoint where the total climbed to 39,600. Spots in Utah and Missouri edged close to the 36,500 figure.

Both Minnesota and Utah took cows off open pasture last summer and put them on stored feed which is considered free of the short-lived fallout. Some Americans switched to canned milk from fresh milk as a precaution and this brought protests from the dairy industry which claimed the canned milk was unnecessary and disrupted fresh milk marketing.

Health, Education, Welfare Secretary Anthony Celebrezze said the radiation council found the amount of radioactivity from Soviet and American tests had not reached dangerous levels.

But Dr. James C. Crow of the University of Wisconsin, a noted geneticist, estimates that hundreds of thousands of persons have been or will be injured by nuclear radiation.

In a Boston speech Dr. Crow said that during the next 1,000 years—if the human race lasts that long—radiation will go on altering the human system causing "countless forms of unseen deterioration."

Youth Given Probation Term Of Two Years

A 17-year-old Belleville youth this morning was given two years suspended sentence after he pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft of the Quinte Curling Club on Sunday. Placed on probation was Michael Francis Culhane.

He was one of four youths charged with the break-in after police allege they disturbed the attempt on the safe. The other three youths have yet to make an election on their trial.

City Inspector J. B. McLauchlan told the court this morning the break-in was discovered by a police constable patrolling the Belleville Fairgrounds in a cruiser.

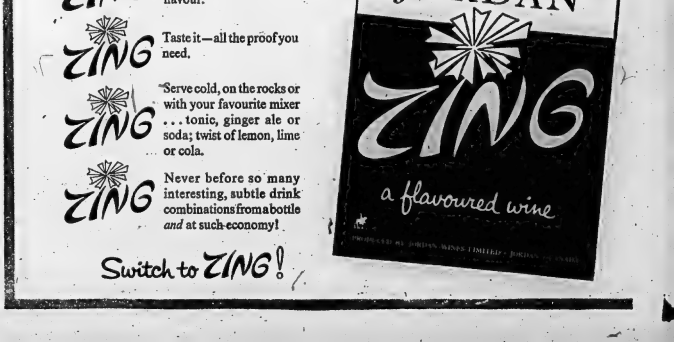
Constable Robert Hall had extinguished the lights on his cruiser as he approached the club building, at the west end of the Fairgrounds. By moonlight, he observed a panel truck drawn up on the nearby Marshall Road, and a man leave the club carrying a filled army dunnage bag. The officer switched on the cruiser's headlights, said the inspector, the first indication the intruders had that they were being watched. The truck took off; the man carrying the bag, dropped it, two other figures dashed, from the building and the three men fled in different directions. Police reinforcements rushed to the area and the four youths were subsequently charged Monday.

"Through his good cooperation we found that he (Culhane) was the youth with the dunnage bag," said the inspector.

The bag contained cigarettes, beer and a transistor radio which, said the inspector, were taken from the club bar. Damage to doors in the break-in was about $75.

Crown attorney John Pringle noted this was Culhane's first offence.

"I would be prepared to recommend, especially in view of his youth that he be placed on suspended sentence for the maximum period."



Magistrate T. Y. Wills agreed with the proposal and ordered Culhane to report to the county probation officer.

"Now it is up to you," he warned the youth.

Overloading Section of HTA Called Stupid

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP) The overloading section of the Ontario Highway Traffic Act was called "foolish and stupid" by a magistrate Thursday in dismissing a charge against a trucking firm.

Magistrate Norman Young of Haldimand court upheld the defence contention that, while the act bans overloading, it does not cover the persons to be penalized.

Acting Crown Attorney Victor Collins termed the situation "ridiculous" and "foolish" and said no more overloading charges should be laid until the law is changed.

Thomas Jacob, Dunnville lawyer, won the case on behalf of Cayuga Quarry Limited, one of whose trucks had been found overloaded by a transport department officer.

'ONUS ON VEHICLE'

The magistrate said that Sub-Section 1, Section 54, of the Highway Traffic Act says that no motor vehicle or trailer should be overloaded, suggesting the onus was on the vehicle since the subsection does not mention the owner.

"The section does not specify 'person'," the magistrate said. "It is foolish and stupid."

After the dismissal, the acting Crown attorney said the legislature should amend the section immediately and added a report on the case will be submitted to the provincial transport department.

Various opposition members described a $50 increase to $300 in the income tax exemption for each dependent child or relative as a "pittance." It would aid large taxpayers most.

Mr. Fowler replied that the change will mean an annual loss of $35,000,000 to the federal treasury.

William M. Benidickson (L—Kenora-Rainy River) objected that many sections of the tax amending bill had been available to members for 24 hours only. He said it was customary to give MPs time to study tax changes.

The finance minister said the "bulk" of the changes were included in former finance minister Fleming's April budget.

The ship radioed an S O S at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday night from 300 miles northeast of Bermuda after an explosion started a fire below decks.

The crew fought explosives overboard, but made no headway in checking flames in the after section where oil and explosives were still on deck.

Once, he radioed: "Expect explosion to go up any moment. Help!"

Thirteen hours after the explosion he radioed that the crew was abandoning ship.

But it was six hours later, at 4:36 p.m., before the first lifeboat was launched, apparently because the crew could not get the boats off in the teeth of winds blowing 40 to 80 knots.

Socred, NDP Leaders Want To Get in Act

OTTAWA (CP) — The leaders of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties want to be in television debates held between the leaders of the older parties in the next federal election campaign.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson and New Democratic Party Leader Hazen Douglas endorsed the general idea of TV election debates but took strong exception in a letter written to CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet by Senator John J. Connolly, president of the National Liberal Federation.

In his letter, made public Wednesday, Senator Connolly urged the publicly - owned CBC to provide for a debate between Liberal Leader Pearson and Prime Minister Diefenbaker in its television and radio planning for the next election.

A senior Conservative party official said negotiations have been under way for two years on such a proposal, and that the Conservatives cannot agree if an acceptable formula for such a debate could be found. Chances of this are considered unlikely.

Mr. Thompson and Mr. Douglas criticized the older parties for leaving them out in the cold.

Mr. Thompson said in an interview: "The very fact that senator Connolly would write as he did indicates his narrow political perspective, which I deplore."

"I'd be happy to go along on a three-way discussion. I think that ought to be done. I think the people have a right to be able to judge leaders in this way. There are, perhaps, many pitfalls for some leaders, but that is the test of what leadership is made of."

Mr. Douglas told a reporter that he takes strong exception to Senator Connolly's letter. Even though the New Democratic Party was fourth in electoral strength in the Commons now, it was a national party deserving of equal recognition.

Senator Connolly said in his letter to the CBC that discussions on the form and distribution of free - time political broadcasts during the next election campaign should proceed now, "especially in the present uncertain political situation."

He said the debate between Premier Lesage of Quebec and Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson last Sunday "aroused great interest".

Mr. Diefenbaker's view is that the only place for such debates on national political issues is the House of Commons.

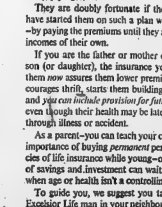
OTTAWA (CP)The interest rate on 91 - day government treasury bills dropped sharply Thursday to 3.62 per cent from 4.09 last week in the wake of Tuesday's sharp cut in the Bank of. Canada interest rate.



The treasury bill rate, considered an indicator of conditions in the money market, now is back to the level of last June 7.

Thursday's drop of nearly one-half of a percentage point was the sharpest decline since a mid-October decline following the previous bank rate cut.

ARREST MEN

Young people are fortunate if, early in life, they are taught the values and uses of life insurance—and how to build a step-by-step security programme.

They are doubly fortunate if their parents have started them on such a plan while young —by paying the premiums until they are earning incomes of their own.

If you are the father or mother of a young son (or daughter), the insurance you buy for them now assures them lower premiums. It encourages thrift, starts them building an estate, and you can include provision for future policies even though their health may be later impaired through illness or accident.

As a parent—you can teach your children the importance of buying permanent personal policies of life insurance while young—other forms of savings and investment can wait until later when age or health isn't a controlling factor.

To guide you, we suggest you talk to The Excelsior Life man in your neighbourhood—he has been selected and trained to help you and your children develop your own "Blueprints for Security".

Sunday School Lesson

Redemption Gift of God

By ROY L. SMITH

One of our larger American cults lave wide publicity a few years ago to the declaration that "Millions now living will never die." Some wag, finding it inscribed on a street car card, scrawled beneath it the cryptic comment: "Millions now living are already dead." And it was more than a mere bit of witticism.

LIFE IS GIFT OF GOD

Physical life is the gift of God. The biologists, chemists, paleontologists and astrophysicists have spent much time and effort of late to discover, if possible, the origins of life and, though they have developed some interesting theories, they freely confess that they do not know.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 18: "Redemption, God's Gift" is Isaiah 53; Acts 8:1-3; 9:1-9; 22:3-11; 2 Corinthians 5:18-21; Ephesians 1:3-14; 2:1-10; Colossians 1:15-22; 1 Timothy 2: 5-6.

We know that life is impossible unless certain physical conditions exist, and therefore the possibility of life on other planets is strictly limited, though scientists agree that some form of life doubtless exists on many planets.

But the existence of life on other planets does not explain life on this planet, nor does it minimize the importance or the mystery of life.

The simplest possible explanation of life is that there is a living creator who stands back in the shadows directing the details and development of life.

Alan Moock, a Nobel Prize Winner, and one of the world's greatest physicists (author of "Mountain Beyond Mountain") has said, "Religion and modern science are fighting a joint battle in an incessant, never relaxing crusade against skepticism and against dogmatism, against disbelief and against superstition and the rallying cry in this crusade has always been, and always will be: 'On To God!'" (The Creative Power of Mind, edited by Willis H. Kinnear, copyright 1937, Pentice-Hall, Inc.)

One of the greatest moments in all the 5,000,000 year history of this universe came when one primitive creature straightened up and said, "I think."

Quite properly, we hold a very great many opinions in contempt. We see their lack of logic, their evasions, and their unreasonableness. But the very fact that a man may have opinions—that he is capable of judging (even imperfectly) between ideas—identifies him as one of the highest achievements of the creative process we call life.

The very moment that the first man said "I think" there appeared on the face of this earth an entirely new force. There was one creature, at least capable of judging the creative process. One "animal" was capable of weighing evidence and reaching a contrary opinion. No longer did the universe accept blindly and helplessly the acts of creation. At last one individual was capable of exercising a judgment, and acting in accordance with an opinion. At that moment the possibility of rebellion and revolt appeared.

Up to that moment all the mistakes made in the course of the evolutionary process had to be assigned to the Creator. With the appearance of man in the world, saying "I think," and acting in accordance with that thinking, the Creator was confronted with a rival. And as soon as that same individual advanced the point where he could say "I believe," the possibility of sin appeared.

REDEMPTION IS A GIFT

Deep down within the consciousness of every man there is an accumulation of mistakes, judgments, evil choices, defiant efforts, moral rebellions, and unbridled desires.

To all this the theologians have given the name "man's sin" nature. Undiscerned it can wreck all of life, reducing it to chaos and self-inflicted punishment.

But in Jesus Christ God has offered to all men the chance at redemption, the taste free and fetid mass of complexes, defiant desires, passions and hatreds, a Holy Spirit, directing to God, may be introduced, and the resulting cleansing is one of the thrilling experiences through which any human being can ever pass.

It is the utmost importance, however, that we shall remember that this redemption is a gift from God, and not an achievement of man.

Sales Tax Earns $78,746,682 in First 6 Months

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's retail sales tax per cent yielded $78,746,632 in its first six months of operation, the provincial treasurer's office announced Wednesday.

Provincial treasurer James N. Allan said his department had predicted a $50,000,000 revenue in the first six months at the three per cent tax, introduced in September, 1961.

He said the forecast had been unconservative partly because expected rush of last-minute buying before the tax went into effect failed to materialize. Also, his department had no precedent on which to base the forecast.

Mr. Allan said a first-year estimate of revenue from the tax, originally set at $150,000,000 but was revised in September to $180,000,000.

in the CTV production," arguing that the ruling about commercials is beyond the BBG's powers and thus invalid.

It added that any attempt to block the CBC from carrying the game would be construed by the corporation and the public as "additional proof that commercial interests surrounding the Grey Cup telecast have been placed above the public interest."

The CBC said an offer it had made to resolve the dispute with the CTV still stood but, if "as a last resort," it carried the Grey Cup, it would "in no way" be responsible for CTV's sponsors' commercials. "The public interest will remain paramount in the minds of all parties concerned."

REGRETS POSITION

The CBC said it regretted it had been "forced into its present position not only by CTV and its associates in their efforts to obtain the CBC's national sports rights, but also by the regulation of the BBG which achieved this result."

The corporation repeated its previous stand that the appointence on the CBC accepting the advertising messages of another network was the crux of the problem.

"The CBC does not intend to accept for sale any such advertised person or organization, either directly or indirectly, in the sports or broadcasting service as a sales tool."

The CBC released separate letters from Dr. E. A. Driedger, deputy attorney-general of Canada, and Toronto lawyer C. F. H. Carson to support its contention that the BBG decision respecting use of commercials went beyond the board's authority.

Meanwhile, Ottawa and CTV said they had received legal advice to the effect that the regulation is invalid.

Maximum penalty for noncompliance with the BBG regulation under the broadcasting act is $500 fine and six months' imprisonment.

The CBC could also take action to suspend the licence of a station, or group of stations.

Lover's Quarrels Bother Brother

DEAR DORIS—My sister, who is to be married very soon, is always fighting with her boy friend. They argue over the silliest things. They are looking for a house and they had a big argument over where they should live.

My sister is always deciding where they should go at night. When he asks her to go somewhere, she gets angry and then they have an argument. Please tell me what she should do—BROTHER, TRYING TO BE HELPFUL.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR BROTHER—Will she do what you tell her? From where you and I sit she is oft to a poor start. If there is true love, there is consideration for each other.

But younger brothers seldom know the whole story. Better keep out of it and hope your romancers will grow up.

DEAR DORIS—I am 19 years of age. But I often have an argument with my mother about going out during the week, even with my girl friends. She won't give any reason for it, and I think I deserve one. My father doesn't object to my going out as long as I arrive home by a certain time — 10.00 o'clock. My boy friend and my best girl friend tell me to just go out without her permission and to tell her, "I'm going out and I'll be home at 10.00 p.m." Well, I can't—because I feel that I'll hurt my mother's feelings if I do, but I'm getting pretty tired of arguing with her on this matter.

My parents say they like my friends and that they have nothing against them, so why does my mother act the way she does. I used to be quite shy (and I still am a little bit) and I never went out very much — the "stay-at-home" type. Now, I want to go out and have fun but that seems almost impossible to do, unless I disobey.

I don't want to hurt my mother's feelings, so what am I to do? I'm old enough to know what's right and what isn't right. I'm not saying that I don't need my mother's advice now and then, but I'd like to be more on my own. I want to get away from home more often.—TIED-DOWN GIRL.

DEAR TIED-DOWN—You have a right to a reason. Was your mother raised in a strict home? Perhaps dating was out for her and she just can't admit this to you. And can't answer your arguments.

Doubtless, she is anxious about you. She may even feel it is unwise for a girl and boy to see too much of each other. Yet you are earning your own living.

Call them all together—father, mother, brother—and ask for their help. Point out that in a year or two you will be married and running your own show. That you work hard and need to relax with friends sometimes.

DEAR DORIS—My problem is dancing. I would like to learn how to dance, such as waltz, polka, or two step, etc.

Is it best to take lessons? If so, what would the cost be, how long would they last? Is it possible to have lessons at night as I do work every day?—A. PARADIS.

DEAR READER—Take lessons by all means. With even a little professional help you can keep step to music and off the other person's feet—a real asset with the other sex.

Cost varies with teacher. How long depends on how awkward you are and what you can afford. Lessons are often given at night.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LAURA—There is a strong physical attraction between you. Otherwise, I wonder. He is jealous and even abusive. If you could see the pile of letters I have from women who have gotten what he once beaten down by men who are bullies, you might start running in the opposite direction.

DEAR DORIS—My husband and I are in need of a second income. Would you please advise possibilities of work at home.

(1)—Are there reputable businesses or factories who hire people for sewing or jewellery assembly; (These are my hobbies.)

(2)—Doing mailings or handwriting?—HOMEWORK.

DEAR HOMEWORK—(1) Re sewing: Hospitals, department stores, tailoring establishments. Each is known to pass out work to seamstresses in their homes. A market for hand made baby clothes has often been created by a dressmaker who made up one sample and found a merchant who would display it.

About jewellery assembly, ask this question of a retail jeweller who can steer you to his supplier.

(2) Direct mail service at home hasn't worked out to anyone's advantage, in most cases. Problems of delivery and other details are too complicated.

Some women make pickles, some cook and cater for banquets, some do dressmaking, some even make wigs. Visit the Women's Division of your National Employment Service to learn what's in demand where you are.

CONFIDENTIAL TO R. M.—Let your conscience be your guide. The woman has no status. Actually you are free to invite your uncle without her. If you are interested in her, I believe it would be best to invite them both, using the name for her by which she goes in public. Whether or not you invite the children, who are blood relations but have no legal connection, depends on how you feel about this.

(Do you wonder why people act the way they do? Write your problem to Doris, who has studied human behavior and will be glad to help you.)

Clinic Built In Egypt to Be Enlarged

OTTAWA (CP) — A maternity centre and well baby clinic for Palestine refugees, built nearly two years ago with cash donations from Canadian workers serving in the UN Emergency Force in Egypt, will soon be enlarged.

Money for new construction, $11,000 - has been contributed by the Canadian members of UNEF. About 50 babies a month are born in the single-storey white brick structure. Up to 300 outpatient cases are handled daily.

Just outside the entrance, a bronze plaque on a large maple leaf and "Canada" tells in English and Arabic the story of the 1960 Canadian gift to Canadian soldiers to the refugees.

The Khan Yunis fraternity centre contains a section dedicated to the memory of Alice Lalande, a Canadian UN official who died in September, 1961, in the plane crash which took the life of UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. She worked in the Gaza Strip before going to UN headquarters.

There are eight UNWRA refugee camps in the Gaza area, the largest being Rafah with more than 39,000 population As many as 10 persons live in a single room.

A major portion of the refugee population in the strip is almost entirely dependent on UNWRA for even the basic necessities.

The agency maintains 16 milk and supplementary feeding centres, distributes rations and clothing, and kerosene in winter for heat, and operates 85 schools and two training centres.

'Advances in Gynaecology' Talk to Nurses at B.G.H.

The third of five lectures in the fall series of "Nursing Education" was held at the Belleville General Hospital Education Hall Monday evening. The topic of "Advances in Gynaecology" was clearly and concisely given by Dr. James R. Birchard, M.D., F.R.C.S.

Miss Marguerite Hicks, president of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry, welcomed all those present, and Mrs. Joan McDonnell introduced the guest speaker.

The well-attended audience listened with interest as Dr. Birchard clarified how hormones regulate the menstrual cycle, and how various effects result from hormonal deficiencies.

He stated that for many years, gynaecology was hampered since it was associated with general surgery. However, it is now recognized more as a specialization in endocrinology, the study of ductless glands.

DUCTLESS GLANDS

The doctor compared the interdependence of the ductless gland will upset balance in all the pituitary gland being the conductor, controlling the various members—thyroid, adrenal and ovary glands. As members of an orchestra can frustrate the conductor, likewise the glands can frustrate the action of the pituitary. Thus a smallest upset in any gland will upset balance in all cycles, causing changes in emotional and menstrual pattern, weight and could even cause infertility. As more information became isolated, conditions can now be treated which were upsetting and facetious years ago.

With the use of blackboard diagrams, the gynaecologist explained the function of female menstrual cycle, and the physiology of pregnancy, stressing the interaction of hormones from the pituitary and estrogen and progesterone hormones from the ovary. He stated that the relationship of estrogen and progesterone is the key to modern gynaecology.

MENOPAUSE

Dr. Birchard said that menopause is the commonest state of deficiency of sex hormones. He stated that 75 per cent of women at climateric suffer from symptoms, but only 10 per cent have their daily life affected, especially if they are insecure and feel they are no longer essential. He emphasized that both physical and mental activity is essential for mental health of the couple. Symptoms of menopause in women could be lessened or prevented by giving small doses of estrogen in carefully chosen situations.

In 1928 progesterone was first isolated and prescribed. However, it wasn't until the last decade this hormone became available for therapeutic use.

ORAL PROGESTERONE

Oral progesterone can be given to save a threatened abortion, offset premenstrual tension and dysmenorrhea and can be used as a pregnancy test. It can also be used for birth control by knowledge of the cycle. Both estrogen and progesterone can be given at a proper time to correct upset the menstrual cycle which has become unbalanced due to emotional upset.

An interesting question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Doris Howie thanked the speaker for his informative and factual address.

These Nursing Education lectures are sponsored during November by the Community Nursing Registry.

Next Monday Dr. Harold Williamson will demonstrate orthopaedic equipment and the B.G.H. female ward will demonstrate various important nursing procedures.

All nurses interested urged to attend.

'Church Nurse' in Hospital Has Many Questions to Answer

TORONTO (CP) — Did God really start that fire that took Mommy and Daddy away? Am I going to die too? What's it like to die? Do they have tables and chairs in heaven?

Confronted with questions like these, a nurse's easiest way out is to say: "Here, have a glass of juice" and rush off to her next patient.

"But you don't just nurse a body; you nurse body, mind and spirit," says Joyce Relyea whose job it is to answer the Sick/ Children's to is to answer these very questions.

The basic problem of most children in hospital is one of separation, Miss Relyea says. Most children who come to hospital, especially those up to the ages of six and seven, feel that everyone has left them down—both God and their families.

DEATH BECOMES REAL

Death also becomes a problem for them because for the first time they become conscious of children their own age dying. She can remember the vastness of the institution filled with "white ghosts" and with which they often have an unhappy association such as "white" and medicine came to the hospital, she died."

To help children overcome their fear of hospitalization, Miss Relyea tries to establish a relationship between each child and God. In relationship in which the child will put his faith and trust in God.

During visits with individual children, she tells them that God is in the hospital with them and that He is there them and will care for them.

"I say that even when things seem to be going wrong, God hasn't lost control and knows what is happening."

Since the only visit between 10 and 20 children each week and also because many children require conversational attention over several weeks, Miss Relyea endeavors to be the student nurses at the hospital, telling them how to help children with spiritual needs.

She also organizes a Sunday school program that is interdenominational and centres on the immediate fears of the child in the hospital environment.

The children are not forced to go to the Sunday school and Jewish and Roman Catholic children do not attend. On her personal visits, however, Miss Relyea talks to children of all faiths.

"One little girl of six did argue that God doesn't have anything to do with the material world. We had an interesting talk.

"I also find that Jewish children have a good knowledge of their own religion and are interested in discussing the differences between Judaism and Christianity."

Miss Relyea, who works as one of the hospital staff but is paid by the Anglican Church of Canada says she has never had any parent object to her work.

"I am not here to convert children to Anglicanism. The time of sickness is no time to be converting and upsetting but it is a time when a person either grows or weakens in his faith. And children are so open and capable of tremendous faith."

The position of church nurse, set up six years ago by the Anglican chaplaincy committee to Toronto, turned out to be a successful experiment.

Miss Relyea is the second church nurse at the Hospital for Sick Children and there is another, also employed by the Anglican Church, at the Crippled Children's Hospital.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

One of our young teachers is being married and I would like to have the women teachers in to tea early in December. I have never done this. Have you suggestions for something I could serve — prepared ahead of time? It would be a plates-on-laps meal and should be fairly substantial. I have a freezer. Have you something that would fit in all of those "need-to-be's"? . . D. C.

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY

Broiled Crumbed Fish Fillets with Lemon Butter; Oven French Fries; Zucchini Squash; Cheese-Stuffed Celery; Chocolate Blanc Mange; Peanut Butter Cookies; Coffee.

(Note: If you did not entertain Saturday try the following for a Sunday Supper Party)

SUNDAY

(Buffet Supper for Guests) Jessie's One-Dish Party Chicken (Make Friday); Casserole of Asparagus and Hard-cooked Eggs in White Sauce; Generous Tossed Light and Dark Green Salad with Hard Dressing; Hot Biscuits Supreme (see Friday); Fresh Fruit Platter; Starter Fruit Cake (see Wednesday, November 7th); or Blonde Blonde Cake (see Wednesday); Coffee.

ANSWER:

I'm pleased to receive this request for my secretary attended a similar "do" and came home enthusing over this one-dish party chicken. With it was served ready-baked cheese rolls (which had to be heated for a short time in the oven while the chicken dish was baking) and a generous beautiful crisp salad. This was a birthday party so they had a huge birthday cake. Could you order a big slab cake decorated with an "Happy Approaching Wedding Day" theme. (To others considering this menu for their parties at Christmas time the cake could be rich fruit cake decorated appropriately for the occasion and shortbreads or other Christmas cookies.) If you wanted more food buy special ice cream and keep in the home freezer until near serving time and serve it with the cake.

JESSIE'S ONE-DISH-PARTY-CHICKEN (serves 8):

2 cans (10½ oz. each) cream of mushroom soup (undiluted), 2 cups well-packed, medium diced (4½) chicken, 1 cup slivered mushrooms (raw or canned; if canned reserve liquid), 1 cup finely chopped celery (inner stalks), 1 cup finely chopped onion, ¼ lb. (about 2 cups) coarsely chopped blanched almonds, ¼ cup mushroom liquid (see above), or water, ¼ teaspoon salt, generous shake of pepper, 1 to 2 tbsp. (approx. 2 cups) chow mein noodles.

Turn the 2 cans undiluted mushroom soup into a large bowl and add all ingredients except almonds and chow mein noodles. Stir to mix. Reserve ½ cup of the almonds and chow mein noodles. Mix in remainder. Turn this mixture into 1 large buttered 9" casserole or 3 medium - sized casseroles. Sprinkle with reserved almond and chow mein noodles over top. Bake at 325 deg. F. about 45 minutes.

QUESTION:

I have lost the recipe for Tea Biscuits Supreme. Would you please furnishing it again? . . . Mrs. P. B.

ANSWER:

Please include your name and address, next time you write.

TEA BISCUITS SUPREME

Add milk all at once and stir lightly. Turn out on flour-sprinkled board, pat/smoothly to ¾" thickness and cut out with 1½" floured cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet at 450 deg. F. for 10 minutes.

Gordon K.: I refuse to invite the Smiths. They'll gum things up.

Olive K.: I say forgive them for the last mixup. Let them explain.

Gordon K.: Picture our last dinner party. There we sat, awaiting the Smiths who had been invited for 8 p.m. and another couple. They'd accepted, and all was ready-who we kept the hot things at a low heat and the cold things in the refrigerator. Then phone call came to explain. No answer when we tried their number. After a hour and a half we gave up. But to this day we don't know what happened.

I don't want to go through that sort of thing again. Some day we can track them down and find out. But for the one party we plan, I say leave them out.

Olive K.: The Smiths haven't communicated with us since last month's fiasco, and Gordon won't let me get in touch with them. His pride is hurt. But I say that with such old friends we should give them the benefit of the doubt and assume that there's a very good reason for the no-show behavior.

We're planning a bigger party for next month, a group of friends who have known each other for 25 years at least. The Smiths have always been included in the circle. Their absence will be conspicuous and will look like a break-up in the old crowd. I want to give them another chance.

The Council: What's the score for the Smiths? If last time was the first time for such cavalier treatment of their host we say forgive it — even if you can't forget the overdone roast and the defeated pellet ice cubes — and try again. But if, through carelessness and inconsiderateness, they make a practice of such affectations behind backing out for "something better," omitting apology or notice of cancellation, we say drop them from your list.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Small intimate dinners for six or eight are quite fashionable this time of year. With a limited number of guests, the hostess can easily handle the service graciously without the assistance of a maid. Of course, some questions do arise. Like:

1. Since place cards are not used at a small, informal dinner, how should guests be directed to their seats?

2. Who pulls out the chairs for the women in the group? Does the host attend to this alone?

3. Is it permissible to place serving dishes of meat and vegetables on the table, family style?

4. How is wine served?

5. Are rolls and butter served at this type of meal?

6. Is the salad course served separately?

7. How may the hostess clear the table neatly and efficiently?

8. Does the host help clear the table for the dessert course?

9. Is the dessert silver placed on the table at this point, or placed on the dessert dishes when they are served?

10. Should regular cups of coffee be served at this type of dinner, or is demitasse preferable?

ANSWER:

1. The hostess tells the guests where to sit. They are directed to their seats first, and then the hostess indicates where each is to sit.

2. Each man takes care of seating the woman on his right before getting settled himself.

3. Yes, but if this makes the table look cluttered, it also may be served from a side-board or from a table placed near the host's right hand.

4. The host pours a little wine into his own glass, then serves the woman on his right. He then passes the bottle to the man next in line on the left. He serves the man next to him, and then passes it along to the next man who does likewise to the woman on his right. The bottle eventually is passed back to the host who then serves himself.

5. It's permissible to include bread and butter places in each place setting.

6. It may be, but generally, at this type of informal dinner, it's cleared along with each new course.

7. If she has a cart alongside the table, guests may pass their empty plates and used silver to the hostess, who deposits them on a lower tier. If such auxiliary table is not used, the hostess passes each plate separately and removes the dishes to the kitchen.

No. A woman guest might help, but the host does not leave his guests alone to help clear the table.

9. It's brought in on the dessert plates.

10. Either may correctly be served at this type of dinner.

Small Talk

By Zena Cherry

Ever wondered what public relations means?

It's a wondrous two-billion-dollar-a-year world of inexact science.

In Canada there are some 50 public relations firms and more than 1,000 men and women earning their livelihood from this business of event persuading. In your years there may have been called press agents but by some weird and wondrous process they are now known as Public Relations Counsels. Last year Prime Minister Diefenbaker hired, as Public Relations man, John W. Fisher. Mr. Fisher receives the same salary as Mr. Diefenbaker — they each get $35,000 a year.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE

One concrete example of PR: A man died. Fifteen years ago the pickle industry in the United States retained a public relations firm to convince homemakers that commercially packed pickles are superior to home-made ones. Now they are the leading canned vegetable in sales and have overtaken canned corn. Peas and tomatoes by sizeable margins. Annual pickle sales increased from 24 million cases in 1946 to over 46 million cases in 1961. Which is a 92 per cent increase in a period when the population went up only 25 per cent. That's public relations.

Many Attend Remembrance Day Services

STIRLING—A large group of citizens gathered Sunday morning at the Stirling Cenotaph for a brief Remembrance Service before attending the church services.

The Stirling-Rawdon high school band under the direction of Mr. Maurice Bell provided the music which included "O God Our Help in Ages Past," Mr. Gilbert Finkle, president of the Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion and a number of veterans. This was followed by I.O.D.E. members, Brownies, Guides, Scouts and Scouts.

Cross-Canada Survey

4,000 Persons Are Attending Russian-Language Courses In Many Canadian Schools

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Russia's importance in world affairs and her scientific and cultural achievements in recent years have prompted more and more Canadian schools to offer courses in the Russian language.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that at least 4,000 persons are attending Russian - language courses—from beginner's conversational Russian to advanced honors classes—in universities, high schools and adult-education programs.

TEACHES RUSSIAN. — Prof. Julian L. Laychuk, a native of High Prairies, Alta., is one of three native Canadians teaching Russian in this country. At least 4,000 persons are attending Russian - language classes in Canadian universities, high schools and adult education programs, but most of the instructors were born abroad. (CP Photo).

Many universities in Canada began giving instruction in Russian language and Soviet affairs soon after the Second World War when Russia's prominence began to grow rapidly.

Many more have entered this field of education in the post-Sputnik era—since the Soviet Union startled the scientific world with the launching of the first earth satellite in 1957.

HELPS UNDERSTANDING

Dr. James St. - Clair Sobell heads the University of B.C. department of Russian and Slavonic studies, which with enrolment of 1,200 students is the largest in Canada. Established in 1946, it also is one of the oldest such departments in Canadian universities.

In a divided world, filled with tensions, it is important, he says, that the Western world understand the Soviet Union in all its aspects.

James A. Gibson, dean of arts and sciences at Carleton University, Ottawa, which has offered Russian - language courses since 1943, says:

"The courses were introduced originally because of the importance of the subject in wartime and the availability of highly qualified instructors.

"They have since been continued largely owing to the growing volume of scientific and political literature in Russian and to the importance of a detailed knowledge of the U.S.S.R."

Rev. Fr. C. J. Drouillard, head of the language department at Assumption University in Windsor, Ont., says:

"Russian has a built-in interest for general arts students because of Russia's prominence in world affairs. Also, many science and engineering students study Russian because of the great technological strides Russia has made."

FIRST IN WEST

In the West, the University of Saskatchewan has offered Russian language since 1944, British Columbia since 1946, Alberta since 1948 and Manitoba since 1949. Adult-education programs in Vancouver have had conversational Russian classes for seven years. Three high schools in Saskatchewan — in Saskatoon, Regina and Blaine Lake—have Russian language classes.

Carleton's department is the oldest in Ontario. The University of Toronto and Ottawa University began theirs in 1949. McMaster, Waterloo University, Assumption and Waterloo Lutheran are among the post-Sputnik schools, all beginning Russian courses since 1958.

High schools in Toronto and Ottawa have had Russian classes for several years.

The University of Montreal, with an internationally known Slavonic studies department, began courses in 1947. McGill, where Russian has been taught in various classes since 1918, has had it as part of a Russian-German department since 1957. Now it has set up a separate department. Laval in Quebec City started in 1962, Sir George Williams, Montreal, 1959, and Bishop's at Lennoxville, Que., this year.

11 UBC COURSES

Dalhousie University in Halifax has had such a department for 10 years and St. Francis Xavier in Antigonish, N.S., began classes last year. Memorial University in Newfoundland began introducing a basic course in Russian this year.

UBC has 11 courses in Russian language and they cover not only teaching of the language but literature, economics, history, geography, political theory and current Soviet affairs. The general Slavonic course does not require Russian language, but the department says serious students generally take it.

FIGHTS DEPORTATION

The most widely known of Canada's teachers of Russian is Irene Rebrin, who was born in China of Byelorussian parents. She fled her native land when the communists took over and took refuge in Brazil before coming to Canada. The government has tried to deport her as a security risk but she remains as an instructor at the University of British Columbia pending outcome of the court action. (CP Photo).

The University of Montreal offers a teachers' training course and advanced students may take studies on the Soviet state, its institutions, history, economics, political development and literature.

In most other universities in Canada, the courses are basically confined to Russian language and literature. Some offer Russian-language courses to students in the sciences so they can read Russian publications in their selected field.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSES

North Toronto Collegiate has been teaching Russian language in Grades 10 to 13 for five years, giving instruction in grammar and conversation in the first year, then progressing through stories, classical literature and more advanced conversation. The school says that after four years, the student is able to understand, read and write the language.

Principal S. L. Bradley of Hillcrest High School in Ottawa, which began a Russian-language course this year, says: "We felt that students today need Russian to meet the challenge of the scientific world."

Teaching these classes are people from a wide variety of ethnic and educational backgrounds.

Dr. Sobell, heading UBC's Slavonic studies, is an Australian. John G. Garrard of Carleton's Slavonic studies department was born in England and studied at Cambridge and Oxford.

Prof. J. B. Rudnyckyj, head of the department at the University of Manitoba, came to Canada for that purpose in 1949 from the Western Ukraine. He studied and taught at Prague University.

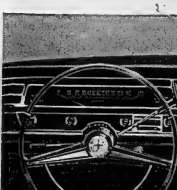
FEW CANADIAN TEACHERS

Julian L. Laychuk, 28-year-old native of High Prairie, Alta., who teaches at the University of Alberta, is said by the university to be one of three Canadians teaching Russian in universities in this country.

Mrs. Irene Coffin who teaches all Russian language courses at Dalhousie was born in Russia but has been in Canada for more than 30 years.

Three of the four professors at the University of Montreal were born and educated in Russia. The other is from Poland.

The most publicized Russian-language instructor in Canada is Irene Rebrin, born to parents of Byelorussian parents, who came to Canada from Brazil where she had fled from the Communist Chinese. She made headlines about two years ago when the federal government attempted to deport her, stating she was a security risk.



Miss Rebrin is an instructor in the Slavonics department at UBC. Her immigration status remains undetermined pending outcome of a court case.

The University of Toronto, with 400 students studying Russian, has the largest enrolment in this field outside B.C. The University of Montreal has 200 daytime students and 150 at night school. At Alberta, 230 are taking Russian language. Figures elsewhere range from about 50 at Dalhousie to 140 at McMaster.

Guernsey Cows Put Through Survival Test

OMAHA (AP) — Seventy-seven purebred Guernsey cows were put through a survival exercise Wednesday, trying out the first time a $40,000 fall-out shelter built for them.

Civil defense officials watching the exercise called it a significant step in providing protection for farm animals in the event of a nuclear attack—a measure to safeguard the nation's food potential.

In just eight minutes the cattle were herded from their feedlot at the farm of J. Gordon Roberts, Omaha dairy farmer, to the concrete and steel shelter buried under 10 to 11 feet of earth in the side of a hill about 100 yards away.

The shelter, which will accommodate 217 cows and two bulls, is stocked with enough hay and protein pellets to provide the cattle with a maintenance ration for two weeks. Bunks and food are supplied for three herdsmen and a 10,000 gallon water tank buried nearby delivers water by gravity flow to the shelter.

Five ventilating fans draw in filtered air and force it out the entrance, forming a barrier of air pressure against radiation particles.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Early man, psychological costs of isolation, and cosmic radio signals.

HIDDEN HISTORY

A scientific expedition is turning up evidence that man lived and hunted in the western hemisphere as long as 32,000 years ago.

Digging in the desert 10 miles north of Las Vegas, Nevada, scientists have found charcoal, believed to be from campfires, which radioactivity analysis shows to be 28,000 to 32,000 years old. Dissected bones of mammoths, camels, horses and bison indicate ancient man hunted and ate such prey.

Dr. Richard Shutler Jr., anthropologist of the Nevada State Museum, is leading the museum's Tule Springs expedition.

COSTS OF LONELINESS

Playmates of the same age may be more important to a child's development than mother love if studies of grhesus monkeys apply to humans.

Dr. Harry F. Harlow and associates of the University of Wisconsin have been observing development of monkeys, from birth onward, when some were deprived of their mothers, or kept separated from playmates, or both. The monkeys turn to similar types of behavior.

Similar, but less severe, symptoms occurred in young monkeys receiving adequate maternal care, but kept from association with monkeys of their own age. If allowed to have playmates, while deprived as babies, they also developed strange behavior.

RADIO WINDOWS

Near Danville, Ill., University of Illinois astronomers are putting a huge new radio telescope to work to study distant galaxies. The energy the galaxies send across space, as radio noise or signals, could supply keys to the origin and future net only of these great families of stars, but the universe also.

These cosmic signals are terribly weak by the time they reach earth, and all sorts of man-made radio waves could interfere with receiving them clearly, even with the five-acre reflecting surface of the new Illinois telescope.

Radio astronomers are working for international agreements to keep a series of narrow radio frequency bands open as radio windows to the universe.

SEA TRAFFIC UP

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Fred Campbell in the death of her sister, Mrs. George Foster of Moira.

Good Old Family Paper Getting Play in Schools

By JACK HUTTON

A new textbook is getting firm grip on the great majority of Canadian classrooms — the good old family newspaper.

A survey of schools in our 10 provinces shows that free classrooms today do not have at least one or two newspaper clippings stuck on the bulletin board.

And nothing has proven the value so much as the last few weeks. Were you one of the many Canadian teenagers who for the first time read a newspaper during the international crisis?

An increasing number of large school systems are trying this fall experimental classes in helping their students to read a daily or weekly newspaper over the period of a few months.

How do you read a newspaper? You wouldn't be reading this column if you didn't read one—but there is a lot more to reading a newspaper than skipping over headlines and one or two stories.

Remember that old saying: you get out of something what you put into it. That saying is just as true when you apply it to sitting down and leafing through the family newspaper.

ONE A DAY

I remember a lecturer at university telling us during my first journalism class, read a newspaper. "Read more than one if you can, but make a habit of reading one a day. That's the only way to learn about them."

What are the main issues in your local politics? Who is the Prime Minister of India, and what is happening in the Chinese-Indian border warfare? You can answer these questions if you're a newspaper reader.

Every newspaper has its own personality which you grasp after reading it for some time. But, if you are not a faithful reader of any paper, here are some tips to get the most out of what you read.

First, don't help entirely on headlines. These tell you something about the story below, but they can't sum up everything in limited space. And later you may disagree with the headline. Remember that in a news story you are reading facts. If a story has the reporter's name above (a byline), the reporter is often given the chance to express some of his own opinions.

But usually you will find the newspaper's opinions expressed on the editorial page. This is the page that expresses the views of the publisher or the person in charge of the newspaper.

Try reading the editorial page as often as you can—and compare what it has to say with other newspapers. The editorial page doesn't tell you what to think. But it should make you think about certain issues.

THE SOURCES

There are many other tricks to reading a newspaper which some adults only grasp after years of reading. Beware, for instance, of strong statements which aren't pinned down to any one source.

And watch out for the easy statistic. The politician is quoted as saying that every third teen ager in Canada is absentminded. How does he know? What is his source of information? Don't accept his statement unless you're satisfied.

Remember too that you can't read everything in a newspaper in the same quick way that you pass through the comics. (I like the comics, by the way!) Stories or columns which give you the background on day-to-day events should be carefully read.

Develop a healthy skepticism. "What's his basis for saying that?" should be your motto. Never accept anything as true simply because it's in black-and-white before your eyes.

The newspaper is going to be a key tool for you in understanding what is going on for the rest of your life. Might as well learn how to use it now.

FAG GAG

A 16-year-old friend tells me he has been stumping all his father's smoking friends by waiting until they pull out a package of cigarettes and then asking: "How do you make that a cigarette lighter?"

The answer: "Take one cigarette out."

Recently I mentioned the "Pitch-In" movement, which encourages high school students to set up model companies, helped by local businessmen, to learn how firms really operate.

The first board of 45 students in Minneapolis, Minn., who have formed their own company called Hi-Top Records. Adults are so convinced it will work that they've invested $2,500.

Their first effort will be an LP featuring young folksingers from the local area, and it should be finished this month. If it sells the company may become permanent.

The company has already received orders for 1,000 stereo and 4,000 monaural recordings. Small wonder that the adult advisors aren't worried about losing their "backing" money.

A great deal of the credit is due to the adult advisors but almost everything in the operation is being done by the teenagers. They've handled the recording, the engineering — even the art on the record jacket.

Sounds like the project could be imitated by other groups, even though it needn't be as ambitious. It could be an interesting way of finding out about business and also raising money for the local high school or for charity.

"After all if teenagers are the main buyers of records why shouldn't they be allowed to help make them?"

Indian Troops Determined To Repulse Chinese From Positions on Roof of World

By V. M. NAIR

SELA, India (Reuters)—India's troops fighting here on the roof of the world in freezing blizzards are grimly determined to hurl Communist Chinese forces from their homeland.

Here in a mountain pass nearly 14,000 feet up in the Himalayas, the Indians now are firmly entrenched—as in other points along the disputed northeast frontier—to withstand a Chinese onslaught.

A group of Indian and foreign correspondents visiting this forward post saw little actual fighting other than the sporadic exchange of heavy artillery fire but the Indians were ready for war.

The Chinese are equally well entrenched about eight miles away at Jang, within easy range of the heavy guns.

With clouds blanketing the Sela Pass and the lofty surrounding ridges, the battle-hardened Indian soldiers appeared like ghosts, hardly visible in their camouflaged uniforms.

The troops here include some of the finest fighting men in the Indian army: Tall turbaned Sikhs from the Punjab who bring with them a tradition of bravery won in the Second World War, tough, short hillmen from the Garhwal Himalayas and sturdy Gurkhas, South Indians noted for their technical skills.

"During a four-hour stay here, I have seen the Indians keeping a close watch on the Chinese lines from their observation posts. But the Chinese stayed in their bunkers, limiting their activity to the returning of artillery fire from the Indian side.

Reports the Chinese were superior in both manpower and equipment—at least for the time being—did not faze the Indians who showed little sign of apprehension and appeared supremely confident of repulsing any Chinese attack.

To maintain their positions in this remote area at the Himalayas the Indians have had to resort to a massive airlift of everything from ammunition to mules for slogging bags to field rations. All this must be flown in from the Assam Plains.

Army authorities said the Chinese are living off the land, forcibly procuring provisions from local villagers.

The onset of the cruel mountain winter has brought with it snow and biting winds.

The Chinese have penetrated 30 miles inside the McMahon line which India claims is the international boundary, but there appears to be little chance they will be able to break through the Indian positions here.

Qualified observers said the Himalayan winter might not stop the Chinese. There is no indication as to how long the lull in the fighting will last.

New Automatic Transmission Test-Driven

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Detroit mechanic who has developed a simplified automatic transmission allowed an automotive writer to test drive the car in which it is installed Thursday.

The mechanic, whose identity has been withheld, hopes to interest some automotive manufacturer in mass-producing the transmission.

The car, a 1957 Ford with a V-6 engine, was test-driven by Ted Douglas, automotive columnist for The Windsor Star.

In a story on the test, Mr. Douglas said the unit "gives generally lively performance."

"However, acceleration from rest to about 15 miles per hour is extremely sluggish," Mr. Douglas said.

SEES DRAWBACK

"There is no way to select low gear ratio. Should the operator be driving down the Ambassador Bridge ramp and find his brakes have failed, he would have to rely solely on the normal braking power or drag of the engine for this purpose."

The columnist said all automatic transmissions now in use can be manually forced into low gear to reduce the car's speed. He said this was considered a vital feature.

Mr. Douglas quoted the mechanic as saying that correcting the sluggish start and the requirement for the selection of a low gear ratio could be applied to his transmission without greatly increasing the parts count.

Earlier the mechanic said his transmission could be built with half the normal parts and for half the normal cost of the type of transmission now used in cars.

Kennedy Will Not Accede To Nikita's Latest Proposal

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Soviet Premier Khrushchev is reported in high U.S. diplomatic quarters as having expressed readiness to remove Soviet jet bombers from Cuba if President Kennedy first will lift the Caribbean blockade and sign a pledge not to invade Cuba.

This Kennedy won't do. His aides say this latest Khrushchev proposal, conveyed in a letter to Kennedy, places "the cart before the horse." They say the president will tell Khrushchev the bombers must be removed before the blockade is lifted.

The aides say Kennedy won't sign a no-invasion pledge until there is international on-site inspection in Cuba to verify that the missiles and bombers have been removed. Because of suspicion that some missiles may have been hidden in the ban caves, the international inspection would have to be extensive.

There also would have to be machinery set up to make sure no more missiles and bombers are brought into the Communist Caribbean stronghold.

U.S. informants say Khrushchev has argued that the question of on-site inspection can not be settled by Moscow—that the decision must rest with Fidel Castro. The Cuban premier would have to give his approval since Cuban sovereignty is involved.

Castro has stated there will be no international inspection on Cuban territory. However, since the visit of Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan to Cuba, Castro has been reported to have adopted a less rigid position on the inspection issue.

In view of the Soviet leader's quick retreat when faced with U.S. demands that Soviet missiles be withdrawn, U.S. officials are perplexed as why Khrushchev continues to show reluctance to fulfil the remaining portions of his withdrawal agreement. The conclusion reached is that he is attempting to milk the Cuban situation for whatever face-saving concessions he can get out of it.

Recalling Khrushchev may be having trouble at home with Stalinist Kremlin opponents, Kennedy is described as deliberately moving cautiously—insisting on major points of the original withdrawal agreement but without issuing ultimatums.

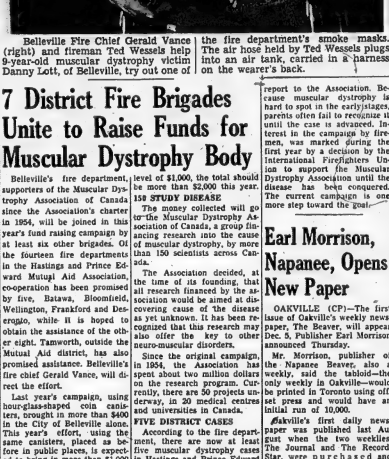
7 District Fire Brigades Unite to Raise Funds for Muscular Dystrophy Body

Belleville's fire department, supporters of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada since the Association's charter in 1954, will be joined in this year's fund raising campaign by at least six other brigades. Of the fourteen fire departments in the Hastings and Prince Edward Mutagi Aid Association, co-operation has been promised by five, Batawa, Bloomfield, Wellington, Frankford and Desereglo, while it is hoped to obtain the assistance of the other eight. Tamworth, outside the Mutual Aid district, has also promised assistance. Belleville's fire chief Gerald Vance, will direct the effort.

Last year's campaign, using hour-glass-shaped coin canisters, brought in more than $400 in the city of Belleville alone. This year's effort, using the same canisters, placed as before in public places, is expected to bring in more than $1,000 throughout the two counties, during the week, November 18-24. If the Trenton fire department maintains its last year's level of $1,000, the total should be more than $2,000 this year.

159 STUDY DISEASE



The money collected will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada, a group financing research into the cause of muscular dystrophy, by more than 150 scientists across Canada.

The Association decided, at the time of its founding, that all research financed by the association would be aimed at discovering cause of the disease as yet unknown. It has been recognized that this research may also offer the key to other neuro-muscular disorders.

Since the original campaign in 1954, the Association has spent about two million dollars on the research program. Currently, there are 50 projects under way, in 20 medical centres and universities in Canada.

FIVE DISTRICT CASES

According to the fire department, there are now at least five muscular dystrophy cases in Hastings and Prince Edward counties. Five departments throughout the country conduct a constant search for new victims of the disease, which they report to the Association. Because muscular dystrophy is hard to spot in the early stages, parents often fail to recognize it until the case is advanced. Interest in the campaign by firemen, was marked during the first year by a decision by the International Firefighters Union to support the Muscular Dystrophy Association until the disease has been conquered. The current campaign is one more step toward the goal.

Cyrus Eaton's Name Put on Canada Goose

KINGSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A Canada goose, wearing a leg band with industrialist Cyrus Eaton's name on it, winged its way from the Jack Miner bird sanctuary here Wednesday.

The goose, the 60,000th bird to be banded at the sanctuary, was released when Mr. Eaton visited the sanctuary.

Mr. Eaton spent most of Wednesday afternoon touring the sanctuary. He was accompanied by Dr. John Novatney, president of the Canadian Campfire Club, Frank Floyd, Cleveland, Ohio, chairman of Ducks Unlimited and several Cleveland and Detroit businessmen.

Jasper Miner, one of the operators of the sanctuary, said it was a coincidence that Mr. Eaton arrived in time to see the 60,000th goose banded. Mr. Miner said he decided to observe the visit by putting an extra band, with Mr. Eaton's name on it, on the bird's leg.

Was Offered Commission To Cash Bonds

TORONTO (CP)—Bank accountant P. N. F. Smith said Thursday Martin Resnick offered him a commission of 10 per cent to cash bonds at the bank.

He was giving evidence at the trial of Resnick, 30, and Jugoslav MacPherson, 52, both of Toronto, who face five counts charges of possessing $25,350 in stolen bonds.

Most of the bonds were stolen in the biggest burglary in Canada's history from the Montgomery of the Brockville Trust and Savings Company in May, 1960.

Mr. Smith testified he was introduced to Resnick in Toronto office in January, 1960. He was asked if he could check the serial numbers of bonds against lists of stolen bonds.

When he said he could do so, Resnick suggested he should give Mr. Smith the serial numbers of bonds to check against the list.

"If they were not on, they would be presented at my office for cashing," Mr. Smith said. He said he was to receive 10 per cent of the cash value of bonds as commission.

He added he had been given to understand that bonds had previously been negotiated in this way by Resnick or on his behalf.

The accountant notified police and bank authorities.

He said Resnick never did show up to cash any bonds.

The trial is continuing.

SIU Official Denies Union Is Soft on Grievances With Canada Steamship Lines

OTTAWA (CP) — Leonard J. McLaughlin, executive vice-president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada, denied Thursday that his union is soft in processing grievances against Canada Steamships Lines.

"If we have, it's been pretty expensive for CSL," said the SIU official. "I deny the charge."

Mr. McLaughlin was testifying before the federal shipping inquiry of allegations made earlier that the SIU made special concessions to CSL, Canada's biggest shipping firm on the Great Lakes.

He said CSL had about the same average number of grievances as had most other Lake shipping lines. It was an "easy company" with which to deal, since it gave its ships some authority to handle shipboard grievances and had agents at key lake ports to meet union representatives.

Mr. McLaughlin also said there was "not a little of truth" in the charge that SIU President Hal C. Banks personally handled all grievances against CSL ships. A series of letters were filed to show correspondence between various SIU officials and the shipping company on contract "briefs."

The SIU official appeared in Ottawa before Mr. Justice T. G. Norris, who is investigating labor strife and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes.

Most of his testimony has been aimed at refuting evidence by Michael Sheehan, a former SIU patrolman who now heads the rival Canadian Maritime Union. The CMU is trying to oust the SIU among Great Lakes seamen.

Mr. Sheehan testified that the SIU signed sweetheart deals with CSL for its ocean freighters and with Reoch Steamships for its Lake ships. He said the Reoch line was allowed to operate its ships with smaller crews.

Mr. McLaughlin did not specifically deal with the CSL-SIU contract for ocean ships.

He said the Reoch Line was allowed to operate without a galley porter because it had bought ships from another line whose SIU contract did not call for a porter.

Mr. McLaughlin also filed documents explaining $59 in deductions from a sailor's pay in 1961—money taken off in three months as union dues. The SIU official said $24 was for six months union dues and the rest $35 was for special assessments.

The hearing continues.

Parliamentary Notebook

OTTAWA (CP) — Just how much weight does the House of Commons have in shaping government policy?

Alan Macnaughton (L—Montreal Mount Royal) may provide an answer to that with his latest attempt to have Parliament direct the government to give greater help to Canadians he considers are receiving second-class health care.

The people involved are the mentally ill and mentally retarded. Mr. Macnaughton has stressed that one out of every 15 Canadians at some time in his life will spend a period under care for mental illness. More than 75,000 Canadians now are under treatment.

Two years ago, in an almost unprecedented step, the Commons unanimously approved Mr. Macnaughton resolution calling on the federal government to undertake a national survey in co-operation with the provinces to learn the extent, causes and problems and treatment of mental illness.

Nothing, time, very little if anything has been done," Mr. Macnaughton said Mental health was not even part of the current royal commission on health needs "but I doubt if any real pressure has been exerted."

TRIED AGAIN

Undismayed by an apparent inability to get a receptive hearing from the government he took the unanimously - expressed will of the Commons, Mr. Macnaughton has returned to the subject with a new resolution aimed at getting the subject before the public again, forcing the government to act and putting pressure on the royal commission.

It is based on many of the recommendations in the royal commission by the Canadian association for mental health.

His proposal calls for additional federal funds so that the provinces can include in their "hospital insurance programs provisions for treatment of mentally ill and care and training of mentally retarded children.

It urges assistance so the provinces can integrate mental health programs as a community basis and replace "overlarge" mental hospitals by smaller, more effective treatment centres. A crash research program into causes and treatment and into personnel training is urged.

PROPOSES COMMISSION

Finally, it proposes a mental health commission to study incidence of mental illness and mental retardation, treatment facilities and the constitutional and financial responsibility of various levels of government.

In support of his argument that the number of those mentally retarded don't get a fair deal in health care, Mr. Macnaughton quoted figures tabled in the Commons at his request showing that in the 1961-62 fiscal year federal contributions for hospital construction totalled $17,220,000 for general hospitals but only $1,648,000 for mental hospitals. In the two preceding fiscal years the figures were $14,400,000 against $800,000 in 1960-61 and $11,200,000 against $2,700, in 1959-6.

Florida Business Leaders See Busy Tourist Season

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Many Florida business leaders forecast one of the busiest tourist seasons in years in the wake of the Cuban crisis which took shape 90 miles from its shores.

There are exceptions to the bright predictions but generally the tone is one of optimism.

The businessmen say their earlier fears that the crisis would cripple the vital tourist trade have been dispelled. Tourists already are beginning annual vacations in the state.

A survey by the Florida Council of 100, a business advisory group formed by Governor Farris Bryant, resulted in a prediction that 1963 will be the biggest year yet in the history of Florida's economy.

The council predicted 14,700,000 tourists would visit Florida, compared with an estimated 12,200,000 this year.

Fred O. Dickinson of Palm Beach, council chairman, said: "The crisis has been a tremendous boost because of the thousands of servicemen who have been sent to Florida and are spending money in Florida hotels and restaurants.

"Also the hundreds of civilians in and out of government who have been sent to Florida for briefings and conferences have been impressed with the beauty of the state and have told their friends about it.

"It is obvious now because of the tremendous military buildup in the state that Florida is the best protected area in the United States."

Airlines reported travel from northern areas to Florida resorts was improving, as expected with the appearance of cold-weather.

Edwin Bishop, district sales manager for Delta Air Lines, said travel was approximately 10 per cent higher than a year ago.

Florida business officials said the greatest danger of harm to winter tourism was the spread of false rumors.

To offset these, tourist officials plan to step up northern advertising programs to demonstrate that Florida is a pleasant and safe place for a winter stay.

OLD BAILEY CHANGES

LONDON (CP) — Old Bailey, the capital's world-famous central criminal court, is to be enlarged. Four more courtrooms and offices and restaurants will be added. The courthouse has stood on the site since 966.

NORAD, Now 5 Years Old, Is Still Growing and Still Partly Misunderstood

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—North American Air Defence Command, a joint Canadian - United States undertaking to try to prevent war, is five years old. Like any five-year-old, it is still growing — and still partly misunderstood.

NORAD was established as a purely defensive command in 1957. It cannot start a war, nuclear or conventional, even by accident. It would go into action only when enemy bombers were overhead. And its weapons can't reach the Soviet Union, even supposing one were fired by accident.

Before 1957, Canada and the U.S. had long had their separate air defence commands and they worked closely together. But it was felt that because, for air defence purposes, the two countries are a single unit, air defence operations should be even more closely knit under a single headquarters. NORAD, with headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., was the result.

The West's chief arm of retaliation against any Soviet aggression is the Strategic Air Command of the U.S. Air Force. SAC is the main deterrent to war because the U.S.S.R., if it planned to strike, would know in advance it would have to take a massive counter-blow which might destroy it.

PROTECTS SAC

But SAC in itself has never been considered a complete deterrent, if there is such a thing. It would have to be protected so that its bombers could not be caught on the ground and incinerated in any sneak attack. NORAD is SAC's protector.

NORAD is responsible for two things: providing warning of any air or space attack on North America and fighting the defensive air battle. Billions of dollars have been spent for these purposes.

When NORAD was formed, the basic elements of air defence already existed: Jet interceptors and radars for warning and interceptor control.

But since its establishment there has been a vast improvement in capabilities. Here are some examples:

NORAD now has a ballistic missile early warning system in Alaska and Greenland to provide some 15 to 30 minutes warning of intercontinental rocket assault.

It has a system to track—and keep track of—all space vehicles, weather satellites or burned-out rockets.

The U.S. Army has successfully test-fired a Nike - Zeus rocket designed to destroy ballistic missiles in space.

The Distant Early Warning radar line across northern Alaska and the Canadian Arctic has been extended far into the Aleutians on the west and across Greenland and Iceland to Britain on the east.

There are 10 bases, two in Canada, with 28 launching pads each for the Bomarc-B anti-aircraft missile which has a range of some 400 miles.

An electronic control network known as SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) has been built to provide faster and more efficient control over manned and unmanned interceptors.

U.S. interceptors, including some in the National Guard (reserve squadrons), are equipped with nuclear air-to-air rockets.

RCAF Air Defence Command this year was equipped with a new interceptor, the American CF-101B Voodoo supersonic jet.

NORAD is far from content with this build-up, however. It wants a new long-range jet to intercept any enemy bombers much farther north. This requirement has been dictated by the advent of the air-to-ground missile which can be fired by a bomber when it is still hundreds of miles from its target.

NORAD is working on a backup system for SAGE so that it would still have control over interceptors even if SAGE were knocked out in an attack.

It will put its headquarters deep underground in Cheyenne Mountain near Colorado Springs.

And it wants, of course, the Canadian government to accept nuclear warheads for the Bomarc and Voodoo.

The NORAD agreement runs to 1977. Officials say the bomber threat will last much longer than that and that there is little doubt the agreement will be renewed.

RCAF Air Marshal Roy Slemon, deputy commander of NORAD, now is working without—under — the third U.S. NORAD commander. Last year, Slemon was in charge some two-thirds of the time.

Nagas Propose Truce So They Can Fight Reds

LONDON (AP) — The tough Naga tribesmen have offered to join India in fighting off the Chinese Communists, the leader of the Nagas said Thursday.

A. Z. Phizo, self-exiled president of the Naga National Council which is demanding independence from India, told a press conference he had sent two telegrams to Premier Nehru proposing a cease-fire in the India-Nagaland dispute.

Phizo said:

"This would mean that the 40,000 trained Nagaland guerrilla tribesmen could be freed to fight a bitter harrassing action against the Chinese invader.

"It would also mean that an equal number of first-class Indian troops, tanks, artillery and rocket-firing jet planes, opposing our guerrilla forces, could now be freed to turn their energy to defending their homeland against the Chinese aggressor."

The independence - seeking state of Nagaland lies in the hills of the south east Himalayan slopes, on the borders between India and Burma.

Its 1,000,000 inhabitants have for years been resisting India's efforts to incorporate and federate them in the Indian union. For years Nagaland tribesmen have fought a running guerrilla war against Indian occupation forces.

British-Proposed A-Bomb Tests Are Causing Dismay

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United States and the Soviet Union announced Wednesday night the 17-nation disarmament committee will resume sessions in Geneva Nov. 26.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean and Russia's Valerian Zorin, committee co-chairmen, set the date at a meeting.

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian disarmament delegate, hailed their agreement as "an encouraging factor" and expressed the belief "we will get down to serious negotiations."

Canada has been urging an early resumption of negotiations at practically every opportunity, in statements by diplomats here and by External Affairs Minister Howard Green at Ottawa.

The Geneva talks, recessed before the UN General Assembly opened sessions in New York in mid-September, were supposed to resume Nov. 12 but the 110-member body was deep in disarmament debate at that time, and still is.

Communist Yugoslavia's Mischa Pavicevic said Wednesday the Cuban crisis showed that disarmament is not only a "burning problem" of the age but that some of its aspects—the nuclear arms race—"in themselves constitute a direct threat to the peace."

In the eyes of some delegates, however, at least one good thing came out of the Cuban crisis. President Kennedy, Premier Khrushchev and Prime Minister Macmillan exchanged messages pledging their best efforts to reach agreement on an end of all nuclear tests.

STEP FORWARD

Building on this, the assembly overwhelmingly approved a resolution urging that all tests cease forthwith, but in any case by Jan. 1. This was regarded as a step forward even if the big nuclear powers did merely abstain, refusing to take a yes or no stand on the issue.

Macmillan, therefore, caused considerable dismay at the UN —and elsewhere—when he announced this week Britain would conduct a nuclear test, albeit small and underground, at the Nevada site.

Moscow newspapers said the move threatens the possibility of reaching international agreement on a test ban—the opposing positions of East and West were said to be closer now than for many years.

The British Labor party introduced a motion of censure and British newspapers also attacked the idea, saying it a "miserably clumsy gesture" and "a piece of military folly."

Macmillan's defenders say that the explosion will be a mere firecracker—a triggering device — compared with tests conducted by the U.S. and Russia which, however, were coming to the end of their current series.

But UN diplomats say British and the West generally will be blinded to evidence if the British test occurs on the eve of resumption of the Geneva negotiations. They say the criticism would likely be even more intense if the blast came after the talks open.

Decision Rests With Brass

Clair Rider G. M. - If - -

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Rider coach Frank Clair left for his home in Indiana, Thursday after releasing a press statement in which he said he would be interested in becoming general manager of the Eastern Football Conference club "only when and if a change is made."

For the last two weeks published reports have predicted that George Terlep, the present general manager, is to be fired.

Clair told reporters earlier this week that he is interested in the job if he can retain his present position of head coach as well.

In his statement Clair emphasized he is interested in the dual role "only when the post of general manager is open."

"I'm not pushing for anything," the coach said.

"I'm just interested in what's best for the football club and when the directors make a decision, naturally I'll respect it.

"But I know what's needed and I know I could do what's required if a business manager were available for detail work.

"If and when that day comes, if the directors are going to make a change, naturally I'm interested in such a change as it will affect the whole organization."

Clair held a brief meeting with club president J. Barry O'Brien before leaving the capital. The two are to meet again after the Grey Cup game.

O'Brien said:

"George Terlep, as I keep repeating, is the general manager and he remains in the job."

O'Brien said front - office changes will be announced later after a thorough review.

Question Put About Wives Brought Variety of Answers

These are called wives.

A man generally feels he knows a girl until he marries her. It is then she begins to grow mysterious, confusing and unpredictable.

Why?

Just what is this elusive quality about wives that sometimes sets husbands, sometimes annoys, and always befuddles their husbands?

To be specific, I asked 32 husbands to give a one-sentence reply to this question: "What is the thing you find hardest to understand about your wife?"

Well, the husbands had been in bondage from periods varying from four months to 39 years, and their answers showed a wide, wide range.

The four-month husband expressed surprise that his bride "expects me to agree with her views on everything from the outcome of movies to the personalities of people and the expenses of furnishing an apartment."

Chastened by experience, the 39-year veteran in mutual harness wondered only, "Why won't my wife pay my club dues like other wives do?"

SOME STILL GALLANT

Gallantry is by no means dead in husbands. Seven, married from 1½ years to 37, voiced profound gratitude. They were humbly surprised that their wives had married them in the first place and, in the second place, had remained married to them after finding out their faults.

23-year husband: What I don't understand is how my wife has managed to stay so dumb. She still thinks everything in life is cute."

19-year husband: "Why will she believe something I've been telling her for years when she hears it from someone else?"

25-year husband: "Why is it she never admits she made a mistake?"

11-year husband: "Why has she forgotten everything she promised to do 11 years ago but still remembers everything I promised to do?"

23-year husband: "Why does she think more of our cat than she does the rest of the family?"

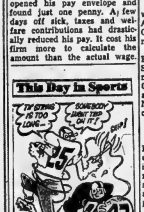
14-year husband: "What I don't understand about her is why she don't muststand me. I've been around long enough."

One husband had an odd complaint: "Why does she trust me so much when I tell her I'm going to spend a night out with the boys? We've only been married 28 years."

Most wives act like women —Only more so!

MacDonald Back With Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Parker MacDonald, Detroit Red Wings' leftwinger, is expected to be back into action against the Maple Leafs at Toronto Saturday.



MacDonald, a native of Sydney, N.S., was hit above the ankle by a shot Sunday in New York and doctors kept him out of the game which the wings lost 4-2 to the Hawks in Chicago Wednesday night.

X-ray pictures show no fracture or bone chip, so MacDonald is scheduled for weekend duty at Toronto and Boston.

Screen Actors Guild Will Not Seek Wage Increases

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This week the Screen Actors Guild made the somewhat startling announcement that it will seek no wage increase in its new contract for theatrical films.

What effect will this have on the ailing motion picture industry in Hollywood?

In itself the hold-the-line policy won't make much difference in movie costs. The actors' contract governs minimum salaries for players. They get a minimum of $100 a day, and a $10 raise wouldn't have meant much to a movie's budget.

The Guild's stand was more of a gesture illustrating the desperation of film unions to get the wheels of production rolling again.

"It's a start," said one prominent actor who is a Guild official. "Our hope is that this will start a trend and the other unions will follow suit."

There are indications other unions are willing to accommodate producers in keeping costs down. George Stevens made progress in getting concessions from several guilds and unions for his Greatest Story Ever Told.

At the actors' meeting this week, some dissidents pointed out that the major problem is not the salaries of bit players but of stars.

"That situation has got out of hand," admitted a Guild officer, speaking unofficially. "Some of their agents inflate their salaries, meaning them think it lent prestige. The government got most of the money in taxes, and production costs went higher and higher."

There are a few signs that producers are finally taking a stand against stars' demands.

The Mirisch Company, which has not been niggardly in payments in years, let the late Ava Gardner's demands to do The Pink Panther. A spokesman said that the company was ready to pay her $400,000 fee, but balked, when her other whims were outlined: Her own chauffeur, makeup man, hairdresser, plus an all-expense-paid villa, police protection, closed set and so on.

The Mirisches figured this would bring the total cost for Ava to $500,000. They balked. Capucine now is playing the role.

Another indication: Warren Beatty. The talented brother of Shirley MacLaia was termed a new star after Splendor in the Grass. His asking price shot up as high as $250,000 a picture. He balkers. He hasn't worked in over a year.

DRYSDALE 'THRILLED'

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers said Thursday this is one of the high-points of my career," after being named winner of 1962 Cy Young Award as baseball's outstanding pitcher.

"It's quite a thrill to be so honored by the Baseball Writers Association of America," the 26-year-old right - hander said. "This is my greatest personal achievement. It ranks with the team thrill of winning World Series. in 1959 and with being named 'Player of the Game' in the 1959 all-star game."

Drysdale won 25 games last season and led the major league in strikeouts with 232. He lost nine games, some of them in the stretch drive after southpaw Sandy Koufax was sidelined in July by a numbed pitching hand.

Average TV Set Is On About Ten Hours a Day

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most widely-used statistics concerning television is the estimate that the "average" set is in use a little more than five hours a day. It is a misleading one.

Studies of its audience samples by the Nielsen research organization however, lead to a conclusion that the "heaviest viewers" — who account for about 32 per cent of the total viewing hours—have their sets on for about 10 hours during an average day.

But on the other end of the spectrum are the so - called "light viewers"—those who use their sets on a daily average of an hour or less a day.

The "heavy" viewing families, Nielsen finds, consist importantly of large, young, middle-income families — five and more—in large cities.

The "light" viewers, are smaller families and about split evenly between heavily populated centres and more sparsely settled areas. Almost half are in the low-income groups, and one important quarter, upper income.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Come to think of it, it might not be a bad idea to have the "return bout", if any, between Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, and Paul Tardif, M.P., also of Bytown, staged in this city.

Both have followings here and neutral fandom would go for the novel hassle in a big way.

The Ottawa mayor has the proud blood of the Hastings county Whittons coursing through her veins. She comes from a strain of bloodied stock that helped make this county one of the best in the province. The name of Whitton has been recorded in many the achievements credited to this district.

The fighting mayoress perhaps "ain't what she used to be" in youthful days, but Time hasn't dimmed the fierce fighting spirit. And being a Whitton she wants to be in the thick of things.

I recall a few years ago when the Trenton RCAF Sports Association organized a district boxing card. The matches were scheduled for the sports hangar of the south station and a fine slate of boxers, service and otherwise, were brought in for the show.

Enterprising promoters developed several "gimmicks" for fan attraction purposes. The highlight was a three-minute bout between two chief magistrates of the area.

In this corner would be Mayor Jack Both of Belleville, and opposing him in the opposite corner Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton. They were to use 26-ounce gloves with no holds barred. As a matter of fact, when they appeared in the ring they looked as though their seconds had attached apple-hampers to their fists. It was all they could do to lift the gloves, let alone deliver any haymakers.

Then the promoters came up with another idea. How about getting the mayor of another community to referee the "Battle of the Brains?"

Someone suggested the mayor of Ottawa, who at that time happened to be one Charlotte Whitton. This reporter was assigned to telegraph Her Honor and extend the invitation.

I explained the situation in the telegram to Her Worship and invited her to act as the third mayor in the ring.

I could almost feel the "fire" in the wire the first municipal lady of Ottawa sent me in reply. After graciously declining the invitation because of previous official commitments, she added:

"Besides, a Hastings county Whitton never enters the ring of combat no matter what sphere, as an official, always a combatant."

Paul Tardif, a dapper debonair "lightweight" as far as municipal "boxing ratings" are concerned, was a member of the "civilian" party which accompanied the Belleville McFarlands on their world championship tour to Europe in 1959.

Paul was closely associated with his intimate friend, Robert Temple, and we were told in Prague that these two immaculately dressed gentlemen caused many a head to turn when they strolled along the strasses in Vienna. In fact they didn't do a bad job in the land of the Czechs either.

Mr. Tardif proved one of the "lives" of our party. He mingled freely with the press, radio and television fraternity and a delightful sense of humor and an outstanding personality made him extremely popular.

But we never saw him in pugilistic action. Not Paul. He is not the type. However, a man must defend himself and I think Mr. Tardif can do that. Ask Mayor Whitton.

National Fitness

Two Million 'Considered'

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet is "considering" the allocation of $2,000,000 for the national fitness program in the 1963-64 fiscal year, Health Minister Monteith said Thursday.

Half of this amount would be paid to the provinces in grants and half allotted directly to national sport and fitness organizations.

Mr. Monteith reported the figure in a speech to the third meeting of the 30-member advisory council on fitness and amateur sport.

He said the final decision on the council's 1963-64 budget "will be tempered both by the ceiling and organizing fitness and government's financial position which . . . seems to be steadily improving, and by the program's needs."

Parliament approved an annual appropriation of $5,000,000 when it established the fitness program last year. Mr. Monteith said the $5,000,000 is provided in the federal estimates and half allotted directly to national sport and fitness organizations "I am convinced . . . it would not be possible for us to spend this whole sum wisely each year in the early period of the program."

So far $958,543 has been spent since the program got under way last January. A third of this has gone directly to the provinces as a grant for planning and organizing fitness and amateur sport projects.

Clay Called The Shot ★★★★★

Came Round 4-There 'Aint' No Moore

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cassius Marcellus Clay, the 20-year-old Louisville Lip who calls the round for a knockout and makes it come true, is the new crown prince of heavyweight boxing.

He established himself as heir apparent to the heavyweight throne Thursday night in the fourth round—the round he had predicted—when he knocked out game, gallant, old and out classed Archie Moore.

It was not a great fight. But it had its dramatic overtones.

Here is youthful, ebullient Clay, unbeaten in 18 straight fights as a professional, brash, cocky—and faced with the fact there is hardly anyone left in the depleted heavyweight section to fight except the champion himself, Sonny Liston.

But even William Faversham, Clay's chief manager, said he is in no hurry to see his boy tangle with Sonny.

Moore's future? What will happen to a remarkable pro, a man whose sole future for almost 30 years has been the trade of prizefighting?

Tears were in old Archie's eyes when he confronted newspaper men in the dressing room after the fight. Was this the end after 229 battles?

"I don't know," said Arch, who will never see birthday No. 49 again. "It might be."

HAS SECOND THOUGHTS

Archie sat on a rubbing table with a bag of ice around his mid-section and thought a while longer.

There was a glove bruise on the forehead above his left eye. Otherwise he was unmarked.

"Every morning brings a new ray of sunshine, a new ray of hope," the Old Mongoose said. "I've had cloudy nights before."

Clay started Moore out in the third round of the scheduled 12-rounder as a crowd of 16,200 watched drama unfold.

Again proving himself a sharpshooter with either hand, Clay had Archie groggy and backed onto the ropes.

Archie, who weighed 197 pounds to Clay's 204, managed to last the round. But when the bell brought on the fourth it was evident Archie was near the end of his astonishing string of years in the ring.

Perhaps it was a left hook that started the final downfall. Referee Tommy Hart said there was no single punch, just many of them that smashed through Archie's tired defence.

Archie went down three times, the first two went for counts of eight. The first time left Archie almost standing on his head.

On the final trip down, the count had reached four. But the referee was paying no attention. He had already moved in to stop the match.

The time: One minute, 35 seconds. It was the second knockout Moore had suffered in a career spanning some 30 years.

Moore admitted Cassius had rendered him dizzy in the third round and had him in even worse mental difficulties in the fourth.

"Cassius is brainier than I thought," said Archie. "Brainier than Floyd Patterson."

Moore was knocked out by Patterson in 1956 in the fight for the heavyweight title vacated by Rocky Marciano.

The year before, Moore tried to take the title from Marciano, who got off the floor to retain the championship.

Said Cassius: "I am the greatest, and I am also the double greatest, 'cause I took Archie out in four just like I told you I would."

In his last appearance here, Clay predicted he would knock out Alejandro Lavorante in five rounds, but time II took Moore to accomplish the same job.

Clay did it in five. He says he has named the finishing round in 11 of his bouts.

Junior "B" Opener

Kingston Here Tonight!

Coach Don Barclay named a 17-man squad, consisting of two goalies, four defencemen and 11 forwards, who will wear the colors of the Belleville Juniors as the OHA Eastern hockey league season opens here tonight.

Belleville Junior "B"'s will play host to the strong Kingston Frontenac squad in a nine o'clock fixture at Memorial Arena.

Barclay selected Sam Hall, who played part of last year with the Mees here, as his starting goalie, to be backed by Barry Duguid.

Gary Reid and Paul Zakos form one experienced defence pair with Ted Rowland and the impressive rookie, Paul Paquin, working as the other unit. Forward Lyle Adams may also see some action behind the blueline.

A second trio has Jerry Jones, Don Goodfellow and Jim Rutherford while a third consists of Lyle Adams, Les Moreau and Glen Hagerman. Two other forwards with the club are Gary McMillan and Billy Bunklow.

A first impression is one of a strong defence in front of a hot - and - cold goal-tending and behind, a young, questionable front-line force. The Duvall-Hull-Muirhead line is the only one with experience but Barclay seems confident that the other units will work out fine with a little experience.

Kingston's club will be much the same as last year. Kurt Dressler is the goalie, backed by Neil Perry, while the defence includes Garfield Ball, Ken Whit, Eddy Loog and Ron Reid.

The Frontenacs defeated Peterborough Monsens 5-3 in the loop opener in Kingston the other night in a tilt which erupted in'o a wild, thirdperiod riot. Belleville plays in Peterborough Monday night.

Tonight's game will be preceded by opening ceremonies.

Bombers Favored Over Stamps 2-1

CALGARY (CP)—The tough and cagey Winnipeg Blue Bombers collide with Calgary Stampeders in the opener of the Western Football Conference final series here Saturday with many folks wondering what Bud Grant has up his sleeve. The Winnipeg coach usually conceals an ace or two.

The Bombers, who wound up the regular 16-game schedule in first place and had a good rest while the Stampeders belted Saskatchewan Roughriders out of the semi-final series, are four-point favorites to beat Calgary Saturday and 2 - to - 1 at McMahon Stadium can be swept off and it will look almost "summery green."

"I will leave it up to the injured to say what effect shoes but if the field is frozen, as expected, I think most of the players will be wearing sneakers," Dobbs said.

Much Winnipeg strategy has gone into plays designed to stop quarterback Eagle Day performing the passing displays which led the Stampeders to a 43-7 victory over Saskatchewan in the two-game, total-points, semi-final.

While the Stamps were practising this week, ominous notes were filtering out of Winnipeg, where Grant said the Bombers will be some "new wrinkles" for the final.

He has had great success with wrinkles. When they don't work, he goes back to his basic after a big lead.

But, what if Montreal jumps into the lead and builds up a sizable margin?

"We've experienced that," said Trimble. "Remember, Toronto Argonauts held an 18-point lead on us in a similar situation last year." Meais, though, overcame the deficit in the second game to earn a berth in the Grey Cup final.

SANCTION BOUT

QUEBEC (CP)—The Canadian Boxing Federation sanctioned Thursday a bout for the Canadian welterweight title between Peter Schmidt of Toronto and Joey Durelle of Baie-Ste-Anne, N.B. Gene Letourneau, chairman of the federation, said the 12-round bout will be held in Montreal Dec. 3.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Is Cassius Clay ready to tangle with Sonny Liston, world heavy-weight boxing champion?

"I think you'd better ask his manager about it", said Liston after watching Cassius knock out Archie Moore in rounds Thursday night.

As he had told others, talkative Cassius informed Liston he would "let him last eight rounds" if and when they meet.

Liston replied: "You go eight seconds with me and I'll give you the fight".

Als Think Sandy Dandy

HAMILTON"(CP)—Montreal Alouettes feel they have an outstanding rookie in quarterback Sandy Stephens, but Hamilton Tiger-Cats aren't impressed.

Ticats, who meet Als Saturday at Montreal in the first game of the Eastern Football Conference finals, feel they have a pretty good rookie quarterback in Joe Zuger—the quiet man.

Zuger, a graduate of Arizona State University, was a loser light when he came to Hamilton this year. He had been called the finest quarterback in Arizona State history—but he wasn't an All-American like Stephens.

Bernie Faloney was Hamilton's No. 1 signal-caller and Canadian-born Frank Cosentino was established as his understudy. Zuger didn't get a chance to start as a quarterback until late in the season after Faloney was injured and Cosentino faltered.

What he did isn't news any more. His name is still etched in Canadian professional football record books as a result of his passing display.

"Compare them!" said Ticat coach Jim Trimble when asked his opinion of Stephens and Zuger. "You don't have to Look at the records, Zuger had 70 per-cent passing average."

Saturday's game is the first of a two-game, total-points series. Therefore, a decisive win is the aim of both clubs.

Trimble has made no bones about the fact that he's going

Joe Di Genova of the Quinte Mixed Bowling League, knocked on the door of the kegling Hall of Fame last night.

Joe was closer to a perfect game than his next breath—and he missed it by that much.

He came up with a 408, the first Bowl-O-Drome "400" game this year, while playing in league competition.

Joe rolled six straight strikes. Then came the unlucky seventh when he picked a three-pin. From then on he was unbeatable, toppling the pins for five more strikes.

Di Genova is one of the city's most promising bowlers. He started the game about a year ago and in his first season won the "Mr. Bowling" tournament at the Bowl-D-Drome.

Als Over Cats Say Bookies

'Stuff Versus Wrinkles'

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Perry Moss says he has spotted a flaw in the Hamilton defence.

"They do something where if you catch them just right you can really hurt them," he was saying Thursday night.

But he indicated his Montreal Alouettes have been working on a couple of fresh offensive patterns to exploit it.

Irrepressible Perry, Montreal's head coach and general manager was interviewed after the club spent 15 minutes on the practice field sharpening up for Saturday's game with the Tiger-Cats.

It's the opener in a home-and-home series, total points to count, from which will emerge the eastern qualifier for football's Grey Cup game.

"We'll have some new stuff for them," said Moss. "And they'll have some new wrinkles for us."

There was no mistaking his concern when he talked about the Hamilton attack.

"They have all sorts of talent," he said. "They could run every play and make it tough. And it would be the same thing if they passed every play."

He was asked which Hamilton quarterback he would rather face.

"I don't have any preferences," he said. "We're going to have to play like hell to stop either one of them."

Coach Jim Trimble of the Tiger-Cats has said he plans to start quarterback Joe Zuger at quarter, restricting homebred Frank Cosentino to the sidelines for early part of the game at least.

Trimble evidently feels Cosentino is a slower starter. He works better when he has had some time to watch play for a quarter or so.

His assistant Leo Cahill has in the meantime provided a subtle psychological boost.

On a bulletin board in the dressing room at Montreal's north-end practice field, Cahill placed a letter from 12-year-old Sidney Hodgson who signed himself: "Your loyal fan."

With it is a crayon drawing depicting the team in action and titled: "Grey Cup champs, 1962."

Moss said he plans to go with the same 30-player roster that beat Ottawa in the semi-final game last Saturday.

Trainer Stan Wilson reported everyone healthy.

Bookmakers here Thursday surprisingly listed Montreal as 3½ - point favorites, aside from making first to Montreal's third. In the three scheduled games between the teams this season, Hamilton won twice and the other was a tie.

It appeared possible that running backs might be the vogue Saturday instead of cleats.

The playing surface at Molson Stadium Thursday night was mainly frozen mud with a few small patches of grass on the sidelines. The weather forecast is for temperatures in the 30s.

Jack Calnan triggered three goals, Al-Wright had two goals and three assists, Bob Wannamaker a goal and three assists and Wally Istead and Pete Cooper two goals apiece. B. Kid Sets Canadian Target

First Four-Minute Mile

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

PERTH, Australia (CP) — Bruce Kidd of Toronto is determined to become Canada's first four-minute miler and will have his chance at a Commonwealth track meet Saturday at the coastal town of Bunbury, 110 miles south of here. That's what he will make his big effort.

"I want to be the first Canadian to run the four-minute mile and if conditions are right I'm going after it in this meet," Kidd said in an interview Thursday.

He revealed there is friendly but fierce rivalry between him and Bill Crothers of Toronto to break the barrier. Crothers was timed in 4:07.2 in his first mile a year ago after only a week of serious training last summer while Kidd set a Canadian native record at Toronto in July by running the mile in 4:01.4.

"I figure Bill will get down to 3:54 in the next year," Kidd added. "He's getting stronger every time out and I've just got to beat him to it. Of course in Bunbury or anywhere else I could run all out all night and be clocked in 4:10."

ASKED ABOUT ENTRY

If he didn't make it Saturday did this mean he'd enter the mile event in the British Empire Games?

"I cannot say that. I've entered in four events—six-mile, said, three-mile, marathon and mile. "I'll go in three of them but I'm not sure which three until the games start."

He is considered a definite starter in the six-mile event Saturday, Nov. 24, the opening session of track and field, and in the three-mile event 48 hours later. The mile heats and marathon are scheduled for Thursday and there is some talk around Perth that he'll go into the marathon for the first time in his life.

"I put my name in for the marathon just for the fun of it," said Kidd.

There is little doubt he could cover the 26-mile, 385-yard distance. He's at about his peak form and early Friday went out for an hour-long run with Gordon Dickson of Hamilton, who later described Kidd as "fantastic."

"That guy was going so fast I couldn't hope to keep up with him. Marathoners are used to a slower pace."

MAY NOT RUN

Meanwhile Kidd and coach Fred Foot of Toronto are hoping New Zealand's Murray Halberg will go in the six-mile event but there is not much chance of this. Halberg is not talking but the consensus around the training tracks is that he'll pass up the longer distance and concentrate on three miles a good shot.

Halberg set a world record in Stockholm July 25, 1961, by running the three-mile distance in 12:52.8. He also holds the world two-mile record in 8:30.0.

"If Halberg goes in the six miles we'll murder him," Foot said.

Meanwhile experts around here say Kidd hasn't a chance in the six or three miles. But the youngster did 20 quarter-mile runs in Friday's training with only 1½ minutes in between and was clocked at times from 59.5 to 63 seconds.

Experts are expecting Canada one gold medal in track—Harry Jerome of Vancouver in the 100-yard event. Jerome is determined to win at least one gold medal.

WANTS TO WIN

"I couldn't say what time will be needed to win," Jerome said, "but if I take it in 9.4 seconds I'd be satisfied. All I want to do is win."

Jerome has been helping Yvonne Breeden of Vancouver with her starts while the other members of the Canadian track team continued tough workouts.

Boxer Ronald Arthur Jones of Montreal is fast becoming the character of the athletes in the village. He told an Australian writer he'd "beat any of the fellows here to a pulp."

Jones is getting more space in the Perth newspapers than any other individual athlete and has been tagged by them with the nickname "The Killer."

Rumor Insists He's Through

'Bum Rap' For Watson?

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Phil Watson's three - year contract as coach of Boston Bruins extends to 1963. But there is growing speculation around the National Hockey League that he may not be around that long.

The Bruins, a last-place club in the two seasons previous to this one, have won only one game in 13 so far this year and in some quarters it is believed changes are in the wind.

In Boston, the proclamations from the front office obviously did not preclude the possibility.

The chairman of the board, Weston W. Adams, declined to comment on the situation.

"That's the general manager's job," he said.

General manager Lynn Patrick meanwhile was away somewhere on a scouting trip and unavailable for comment.

But a source close to the team told a Montreal reporter by telephone:

"Something drastic has to be done."

Boston fans meanwhile have proved stoically tolerant.

For eight home games, the Bruins have drawn a total of more than 96,000 something better than 12,000 each time out, a good money-making clip.

The word elsewhere around the league, too, is that it's possible Phil might be taking a bum rap.

BLAME FRONT OFFICE

Pro - Watson people say the blame for Boston's poor showing lies with the club's entire front office and not Phil specifically.

They point to the league's annual intra-league draft where the Bruins have tended to work selectively in the last few seasons - and as it turned out, missed a couple of good bets.

Last year Boston wound up 22 points behind fifth-place Detoit, emerging from the 70-game schedule with only 15 wins and eight ties.

K-W Tigers Trounce Bulldogs

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers handed the league - leading Windsor Bulldogs a 7-3 lacing here Thursday night and moved to within a point of fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series.

A hat trick by Bobby Robinson and two-goal efforts by Lou Angotti and Jim Dahmer made up the Tiger scoring total. Jack Costello, Bob Brown and Real Chevrefils scored for the Bulldogs, all within the last 13 minutes of the game, after the Tigers had run up a 7-0 lead.

Both teams scored a goal with the opposition shorthanded. Angotti opening the second-period scoring with Costello sidelined. In the third Brown counted with Joe Hogan off for tripping.

Six minors were called, three to each club.

Packers Eye Unbeaten Mark

By JACK CLARY

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay Packers' bid to become the first National Football League team in 20 years to go through a regular season unbeaten gets a two-fold test this week, beginning Sunday on Green Bay against the Baltimore Colts.

On Thanksgiving Day, the Packers will try to beat the Detroit Lions for a second time this season in their annual game in Detroit. But it is doubtful if either game will match the proportions of Green Bay's 49-0 victory over Philadelphia last week, one which prompted a wit to remark:

The Packers will be favored over both the Colts and Lions, as they have in all of their nine and 11th victories this season. A pair of wins would leave still three games to go for a perfect season, last achieved by Chicago Bears with a 11-0 record in 1942.

GIANTS PLAY EAGLES

Elsewhere this weekend in the NFL, New York's Giants will try to strengthen their hold on first place in the Eastern Conference when they play the Eagles, while their closest pursuers, Washington and Pittsburgh, battle at Pittsburgh. Detroit travels to meet Minnesota Vikings, St. Louis is at Cleveland, Chicago Bears play Los Angeles and the San Francisco 49ers play in Los Angeles.

In the American League, the lead in both the eastern and western divisions is at stake. Boston, leading Houston by a half game in the east, faces the Oilers in Houston. Western leaders Dallas Texans take the half game edge against second-place San Diego, while first-place Oakland Raiders meet Buffalo in the other scheduled game.

HEADS HOCKEY GROUP

GALT (CP)—T. J. (Dubby) Duvall of Hespeler was named president by acclamation of the Ontario Rural Hockey Association at the annual meeting held here. Dave S.-Whytock of Troy, Sam Kehoe of Streetsville and Alvin Poll of Ayr were named as first, second and third vice-presidents respectively while H. D. Ovenden of Wainfleet was returned as secretary-treasurer.

Hamilton Goalie Stars

Red Wings Zero Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Buddy Blom left, so did the fortunes of Hamilton Red Wings.

That was until Thursday night when the Memorial Cup champions got a hint of better things.

Blom, the goaltender for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A club last season, quit this season for scholastic endeavor.

Since his departure, assorted goaltenders have taken his place, and allowed more goals than any other team in the circuit.

The Wings' goals-against average of 7.3 for their first 10 games dropped suddenly Thursday night with the appearance of Ledger Doncette, a 17-year-old up from the Junior B club in Burlington. In his first Junior A appearance he shut out St. Catharines Black Hawks 7-0.

The victory, their first in eight games, boosted the Wings from last place to a fourth-place tie with Toronto.

The third-place Peterborough Petes maintained a three-point edge by licking Guelph Royals 10-3, leaving the Royals in last place with six points, one behind the Wings and Hawks.

HENDERSON GETS TWO

Providing the offensive punch for Doucette were Paul Henderson with two goals and Keith Burling, Fit Martin, John Gofton, Jim Watson and Jim Peters with one each.

Martin also had two assists and moved into first place in the loop's points race.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Jammed Lucky won the featured Blue Prince Purse at Old Woodbine Thursday, coming from more than 10 lengths off the pace to beat Indian Crossing by more than a length.

EDUCATION GRANTS DOWN

TORONTO (CP)—The total of education grants by Canadian business and industry in 1961 was the lowest for three years, it was announced Thursday. S. H. Smeeton, executive director of the Industrial Foundation on Education, said the grants amounted to $10,900,000, compared with $11,400,000 in 1960 and $12,400,000 in 1959.

McGill, Queens Clash

Battle Of Quarterbacks

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A familiar face will be missing Saturday when Queen's Golden Gaels meet McGill Redmen in a sudden-death game at Kingston for the Intercollegiate Senior Football League championship.

It's the third year in succession that the same two teams have had to settle the issue in a post-season game. McGill won in 1960 and Queen's took the honors last year.

A star member of the Queen's team in 1960 was a fellow from Stoney Creek, Ont., named Dave Skene, an outstanding linebacker. Last season, Skene, then captain of the team, was again a standout.

QUARTERBACKS' BATTLE

The playoff is a battle between two quarterbacks. McGill's Tom Skypeck and Cal Connor of Queen's.

Skypeck, from Cornell University, is a terrific passer who also calls a good game and is capable of plunging for needed yards. He also punts.

Connor, from Burlington, Ont., has been Skypeck's opponent in all three playoffs but is hampered this year by a wrist that was broken while he tried out for the professional Montreal Alouettes last summer.

When right, Connor is equally proficient at running and passing and has the reputation of being a daring operator.

Bill Sewley, former Alouette who now is McGill's coach, is going into his first playoff. He expects coach Frank Tindall of Queen's to come up with a few new formations.

Tindall would like to see mud. His best attack is on the ground, where rookies Jim Young and Bayne Norrie and halfbacks Robin Ritchie and Bill Edwards are great.

McGill also has a strong runner in scoring champion Eric Walters, but the Redmen rely mainly on the pass.

How do they rate going into the big game?

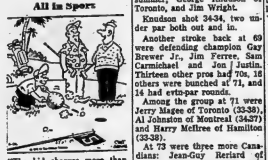
Score Was 7-3

Russ Beat Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia's national hockey team began its nine-game Canadian tour on a successful note Thursday night, beating Ottawa Senior Montagnards 7-3 before 4,230 fans.



Montagnards, yet to play their first league game, held up an edge over the Russians in the first period when they ran up a 3-1 lead but the visitors came back strongly in the second to tie the score 3-3.

It was no contest in the final 20 minutes as the Russians fired four goals without a reply from the Ottawa club.

Left winger Alexander Almetov scored five goals for the Russians. Edouard Ivanov and Victor Starshinov added singles.

J. P. Jones Leads Mobile Golf

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Latefinishing John Paul Jones rallied with a seven-under-par 65 Thursday and took the first-round lead in the $15,000 Mobile Open golf tournament.

Until the assistant pro from Hinesdale, Ill., came in, a 33-34—67 by Tony Lema had stood as the low mark of the round over the par 36-36—72 course.

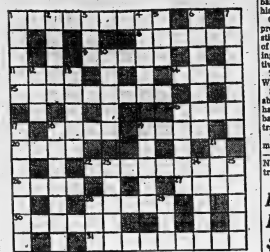
Bunched at 68 were singer Don Cherry, who turned pro only a week ago; Downing Gray, runner-up in the national amateur tournament this summer; George Knudson of Toronto, and Jim Wright.

Knudson shot 34-34, two under par both out and in.

Another stroke back at 69 were defending champion Gay Brewer Jr., Jim Ferree, Sam Carmichael and Jon Justin. Thirteen other pros had 70s, 16 others were bunched at 71, and 14 had even-par rounds.

Among the group at 71 were Jerry Magee of Toronto (35-36), Al Johnston of Montreal (34-37) and Harry McIlree of Hamilton (33-38).

At 73 were three more Canadians: Jean-Guy Reriard of Boucherville, Que., Jack Bissegger of Val Moron, Que. (39-34) and Bob Panasiuk of Toronto (36-37).



Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg shot a 37-37—74.

Ask Waivers On Wynn

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox of the American Baseball League cleared the way Thursday for 42-year-old pitcher Early Wynn to seek a front office job anywhere in baseball by asking waivers for his unconditional release.

General manager Ed Short previously authorized Wynn still one lifetime victory short of 300, to negotiate with Washington Senators for an executive post.

The claiming price is $1, and Wynn could refuse any claim.

Short said that if Wynn is unable to land the sort of job he has in mind, he could report back to the White Sox in spring training.

"If he proves to himself and manager Al Lopez he can pitch —and at least try to nail down No. 300-he will be given a contract," Short said.

Anglican Bishop Defends Canada's Immigration Laws

MONTREAL (CP)—Very Rev. Kenneth Maguire, 39-year-old Anglican bishop-elect of Montreal, is still listed in government files as a "landed immigrant."

It is not surprising, then, to hear the new bachelor defend Canada's immigration policies.

When asked to comment on suggestions by some Anglican Protestant clergymen that there was a preponderance of Roman Catholics among current immigrants he said he was "strongly opposed" to any suggestion that Canada's immigration policy should in any way be distinguished by reasons of a person's creed.

"To do this would be unfortunate, to say the least," he declared.

One of the youngest bishops ever chosen in the history of the Anglican Church, Bishop Maguire is an Irishman who must wait for two years before he receives his Canadian citizenship.

Speaking still with an Irish brogue, he describes himself as a "Canadian by choice." He is one of three Irish Maguires listed in the Crockford's clerical dictionary—the two others are in Northern Ireland.

IMMIGRANTS' NEED

Bishop Maguire is keenly conscious of the spiritual needs of immigrants in Montreal. "Above all, my passport still lists me as a landed immigrant," he noted.

"Many immigrants are flooding the city from all parts of the world and the church is keenly aware of the task that lies ahead in getting its message to these people.

"Many of the newcomers have no church affiliations whatsoever."

He said he is following the progress of the Roman Catholic ecumenical council at Rome closely. "I have taken part in ecumenical discussions here in Montreal."

He feels the possibility of a nuclear war is of the deepest concern to all Christians.

"There are, of course, things which are worse than mere destruction of the body.

"Many Christians feel they would be failing in terms of Christian responsibility if they advocated unilateral disarmament. However, they are strongly opposed to the use of nuclear weapons."

He says there is "an awareness today of a very real urgency in the Christian world."

He feels that "despite talks about the gravity of the Christian churches in North America we must be on our guard against complacency, against forgetting about the plight of of men in other parts of the world."

Educated at Trinity College, Dublin, Bishop Maguire was ordained as a deacon in 1947 and raised to the priesthood in 1948. He served as curate at the church of St. James the Apostle in Montreal from 1949 to 1952, then returned to Ireland to become dean of residence at Trinity College for eight years.

In 1960 he returned to Montreal as rector of Christ Church Cathedral and last year became dean of the cathedral.

Many Soviet Spies Operating In U.K. Report

LONDON (AP) — The civil lord of the admiralty said Wednesday there are thousands of Soviet spies operating in Britain.

Charles Ian Orr-Ewing said: "They are all trained to detect weaknesses in character, weakness for drink, blondes, drugs or homosexuality. They are carefully screened for any departure use."

He called for restrictions on the movement of Russians in Britain.

If this is not done, Orr-Ewing told the Hendon Chamber of Commerce, the only solution is "more guns on each other which is not right in any democracy."

Russian spies, Orr - Ewing said, "are in the embassies, the consulates and the trade missions," of the Iron Curtain countries.

The civil lord, top civilian chief of the Royal Navy, said British girls going out to serve Russia's new embassy in the sea route are warned "to be on the alert for trained gigolos who first seduce them and then blackmail them into giving information."

Talking about the Russian spy system here, Orr - Ewing said:

"There are not a dozen, or a hundred, but thousands of them."

Chinese Reds Issue Call For 'Head-on' Fight Against Imperialism and Revisionism

By ADAM KELLETT-LONG

PEKING (Reuters)—The Chinese Communist party has called for "a head-on struggle" against "imperialism" and said it was "absolutely impermissible" to "barter away principles" in negotiations with the West.

It also renewed calls for "defence of the purity of Marxism-Leninism" and said all Communists should "fight resolutely against imperialism, chauvinism and sectarian activities of modern revisionists."

The Chinese party newspaper People's Daily made these points in a front-page editorial setting out the party's position on international affairs and ideological questions which, are still reported causing disagreement among the world's Communist parties.

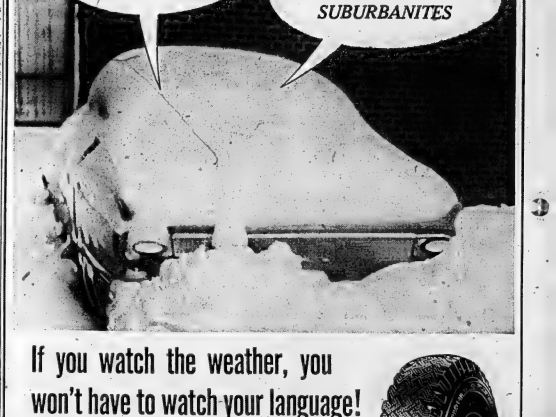
The editorial was seen as a forthright statement of Chinese policy in the face of various criticisms of it at the Bulgarian party congress last week.

It was also seen as setting the tone for further debate at the forthcoming Hungarian, Czechoslovak and East German party congresses.

CALLS FOR STRENGTH

The editorial called for the strengthening of the unity of the Communist camp and rejected attacks on "modern revisionism" as represented by the "Tito clique."

"The main danger in the international Communist movement at present is revisionism. "The socialist countries have always stood for peaceful coexistence between countries having a different social system, and made constant efforts for the relaxation of international tension.



"But in any negotiation and compromise it is absolutely impermissible to barter away principle nor is it ever permissible to barter away the vital interests of the people and their revolution.

"The modern revisionists, represented by the Tito group, instead of waging a head-on struggle against imperialism, are spreading illusions about imperialism, publicizing the allegation that the nature of imperialism has changed and wanting people to believe the assurances . . . of such imperialists as (president) Kennedy.

"Under the signboards of 'peace,' 'neutrality,' and 'nonalignment' the Tito group peddles in Asian, African and Latin American countries the neo-colonialism of the United States, in an attempt to weaken and disintegrate the national liberation movement."

All for Thespis

The 'Little Theatre' Poses Big-Time Problems For Enthusiasts Only

Rehearsing for the next production of the Belleville Theatre Guild, Harry Mulhall, playing the villain, threatens prospective victim Flo Yanover, who is held captive by assistant villain Lee Jourard.

Since Belleville's Theatre Guild began, during the spring of 1951 membership has fluctuated from a high of 120, in 1953, to a low of less than 20. Present membership, 21 at the end of October is rising fast, and expected to reach 75 by the end of the year.

The members are drawn from all age and social groups, by a common desire to work late into the night, and face an unknown audience through glaring footlights, for no financial return. Less dedicated citizens might term this insanity. Members of the Guild will sometimes agree verbally, but held by a six thousand year tradition, the enthusiasts carry on.

The art of theatre began about the end of the third millenium BC, as far as Western culture is concerned. The Egyptians produced the first plays, many in the form of religious observance, and passed their lore and tradition along to the ancient Greeks. In Greece the tradition was expanded through festivals, but it was not until about 600 BC that the first really star of the stage, a man named Thespis, became a national idol. The Greek tradition was passed on, in comedies, to Rome, and eventually migrated to Engand during the early 16th century.

Even so, the early English theatre was concerned mostly with tales of murder and violence that would put modern television to shame, and it was not until near the end of the century, with Shakespeare, that the personality of a character was established before he was killed off. Shakespeare's plays follow the early tradition, for the most part, but differ in that the reason behind the murder is treated in more detail than the act.

EFFECTIVE EFFORT

From the first days in Egypt, probably, theatre has been an endeavour as much as professional theatre, but not so well recorded. As far as our own continent is concerned, the first effective effort to organize and sponsor amateur theatre came about 1919, with the formation of the Drama League of America. Formed to set standards, provide training, and advice, and to co-ordinate the thousands of "Little Theatres" in the U.S. at that time, the Drama League of America is often credited with being the most important influence in the American Theatre.

In Canada, the Dominion Drama League, with scores of subsidiary organizations, serves the same function. Locally, the Belleville Theatre Guild is a member of the Eastern Ontario Drama League.

In 1952, the year after it began, the Belleville group took a one-act play, "The Voice of the People", to an E.O.D.L. festival in Peterborough. The play won top honors of the festival and was invited to visit, as a non-contestant, in the Dominion Drama Festival, in St. John's Nfld., that year.

FIRST MEET

Since their first meeting in the Council Chambers at Belleville City Hall, the Guild has moved through the city finding other places to meet. The early plays were rehearsed and produced in public school auditoriums, for example, and the Dundas St. Firehall was once a centre for rehearsals. Now, monthly meetings are held in the Recreation Centre, and the Guild has its own quarters for rehearsals, prop building and storage, and workshops.

"Campbell Street," as the Guild's building is known, opens on a back alley to the south of Campbell Street, front. The building was a warehouse, until gutted by a fire years ago. Still sound, the building was left standing, but derelict for years. When the Guild took over, at nominal rent from a sympathetic landlord, they cleaned the walls and ceiling, still fire marked, and installed a space heater and lighting over their stage area.

The stage, in one of the two rooms, is used for rehearsals only. Facing it, on the same level, there is just barely room for the director, prompter and between - scenes - actors in front of the stage. Non-participating members of the Guild occasionally sit here to watch rehearsals for major productions.

THE GALLERY

There is a gallery, also facing the stage, a gallery composed of what was left when half the second floor was removed, to make more headroom over the stage, is unlighted, filled with props, and with no means of access more convenient than a ladder. Its only virtue in fact, is that in the winter months, it is the only warm place in the building. The one kerosene space heater, supplemented by a fan heater, is not effective against ground level cold.

In the other room of the building, scenery from old productions is stored, and scenery and props for new ones is made. This section with even worse heating than the "stage" section, has the further disadvantage of poor lighting.

But the building has advantages, too. With a good central location, the rent for any other accomodation would be much is high for an amateur group.

The building is far enough from the street that there is no noise of traffic to interfere, and far enough from the neighbors that rehearsals may continue all night without disturbing anyone.

WORKSHOPS

Most rehearsals for the twice yearly productions are held in the Campbell Street area, with the exception of the last few, which are held in the auditorium in which the play is to be presented. In addition, the Campbell Street building is the usual location of the weekly "workshops" in which newcomers learn the craft of the stage.

The "workshops," held Tuesday night, include play reading, voice and movement instruction, makeup and other theatrical subjects. In addition, the workshops often produce one act plays, distinct from the Guild's larger productions, and they sometimes develop individual scenes, to be produced within the Guild, purely for the art involved.

One of the two major productions presented by the Guild each year is dedicated to the art, rather than to the box office. The usual procedure is a "box office" play, of mass appeal, during the fall, which is expected to put the Guild on a sound financial footing for the year. The following spring, from this solid footing, the Guild can operate with less concern for profit, and present a play chosen only for its artistic value.

OFTEN IGNORED

The artistic side of the theatre is often ignored by the play-going public. They are found to be amused, and usually are. But to the players, the art is of more importance than the amusement, and it is the art that provides the motive for their participation. Amusement alone could not drag them out, night after night, to rehearsals, and there is little amusement left, for them, in the play by the time it is ready to be presented. But there is still the possibility of discovering a more effective way to present a scene, the chance of finding a way to improving a line with re-emphasis or the chance of developing a new lighting effect. Finally, there is the truest challenge of all after the rehearsals are over. When the play is presented to the public, the players must hold their audience for the length of the play, usually two hours or more. In a silent audience, wrapped up in the action and story of a play, the actors get their reward.

Chinese Suffer First Setback But Press On

Indians Forced Back After Earlier Success

By PETER JACKSON.

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian troops have been forced to yield some ground after repeated Communist Chinese attacks in the Walong area on the eastern sector of the disputed northeastern frontier, a defence ministry spokesman announced today.

The fierce fighting began with a massive Chinese assault in the area Friday and heavy casualties have been reported on both sides.

"Our troops are offering stout resistance but had to yield after successive attacks by the enemy," said a defence ministry spokesman. "Fierce fighting is still going on, according to the last report here, on Saturday morning."

The Walong positions are considered highly important by Indian commanders because a Chinese breakthrough there could mean a dead advance into India's Assam state.

The spokesman said Indian troops had repulsed four Chinese attacks around Jang, about 300 miles west of Walong. Jang is also reported a strategic point in defence point. It lies below the Indian defence line of the 13,000-foot Se La pass.

The counter - attack was launched by Indian troops to push the Chinese out of the strategic region in the Namka River valley near Wa-long where the Chinese had penetrated 17 miles past the McMahon line claimed by India, but not China, recognizes as the border.

Reports from the front were confused but informed sources at Tezpur, where Indian headquarters are located, said the Chinese suffered their first major setbacks since border war flared up last month. The Indians suffered minor casualties and inflicted heavier losses in the Chinese ranks.

The area around Wa Buddhist monastery town of Towang in India's Northeast Frontier Agency is a critical point. The Indians are based on 13,756-foot Se Pass, a dozen miles east of Towang, and the large-scale battle here might determine whether the Chinese would press their drive to push into a full-dress invasion of the thickly-settled Plains of Assam below the mountains.

The Chinese struck in the Walong area, near the Burma

Ottawa Cool To Proposed NATO A-Force

OTTAWA (CP)—Government and opposition leaders were cautious and cool in their reaction Friday to a United States offer to help European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization form an integrated nuclear force.

A cabinet source, declining attributed comment because he had not yet seen the fifft text of a speech delivered to the NATO parliamentary conference by the U.S. undersecretary of state, George W. Ball, said the proposal was not entirely new.

But the proposal as reported from Paris appeared to indicate some softening of the original U.S. drive to have NATO's European forces equipped with nuclear weapons, the source said.

Liberal Leader Pearson also declined detailed comment. but said he welcomed Mr. Ball's plea for closer partnership between the U.S. and Western Europe within the framework of NATO.

Government policy has been that there should be no spread of nuclear weapons as long as there is any chance of negotiating a disarmament agreement. But the government has not taken any policy decision against ever acquiring nuclear weapons, believing that in critical circumstances they might be needed.

Liquor Licence Is Opposed

OTTAWA (CP)—Strong opposition was given before the Ontario liquor licence board Friday to an application from Rideau-Carleton Raceway for sale of beer and wine with meals.

The application was one of more than 25 from Eastern Ontario placed before the board. Judgment was reserved in all cases.

The City 01 Ottawa opposed all applications for new licences within its boundaries.

Haiti Calls Catholic Bishop Foe For Crusading Against Voodoism

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The Negro republic of Haiti, in a relapse of a feud with the church, Friday accused a Roman Catholic bishop of crusading against voodoo and ordered him and three priests deported.

The Haitian government also charged that the 60-year-old French-born bishop, Most Rev. Paul Robert, had conducted a defamation campaign against strongman President Francois Duvalier, 1957, when Duvalier won re-election to a second term. The bishop was called "an enemy of the government."

The voodoo charges date back to 1941.

Bishop Robert and the priests were to fly to New York today via Miami, Fla. The bishop was to go on to Rome to report to the Vatican.

IRON COMPANIES GIVEN SPECIAL CONSIDERATION

Income Tax Act Is Amended

OTTAWA (CP)—A warning that investment in the great iron ore lands of northeastern Quebec and Labrador might fall off unless foreign companies involved receive special tax consideration was sounded Friday by Finance Minister Nowlan.

Mr. Nowlan told the Commons iron ore is "running out of sands of countries in Latin America—he mentioned Venezuela and Africa.

"In fact they have richer iron ore and more of it than we have, and were it not for the fact steel companies had spent millions and millions of dollars developing iron ore companies in Canada I doubt if we would be able to get them to do that at the present time."

Mr. Nowlan was speaking on a government proposal to add iron ore companies to the list of corporations exempted from the special 15-per-cent tax on embedded profits carrying on business in Canada.

RULE OUT AMENDMENT

Social Credit member Gilles Grenier (Lac St. John) had moved to have the proposal killed. But the form of his amendment was ruled out of order.

The measure was contained in a $155-million bill to amend income Tax Act which received third and final reading after lengthy and often contentious debate. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Other vigorously-debated proposal offers valuable tax rebates to manufacturing corporations which increase their sales. It is designed primarily to encourage expanded exports and stimulate employment.

Liberal speakers, led by the party's economic affairs critic, Walter Gordon of Toronto Davenport, attacked the proposal on the ground Ottawa loosely drawn and capable of being

Nfld. Party Leaders Trade Bitter Closing Broadsides

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland election campaign, showing signs of life only during the last few days, will all but wound up Friday with charges and counter charges by both party leaders. Monday is voting day.

Conservative Leader James J. Greene charged Liberal corruption, bribery and the "ridiculous farce" of a fisheries minister.

New Democratic Leader Ed Finn Jr., branded the Liberal government "evil", contending it has "anti-labor" laws.

It was the "dullest, most uninteresting and probably the most unnecessary election in the history of responsible government," said Mr. Smallwood. Duffy, only candidate of the one-man United Newfoundland Party.

Mr. Smallwood said the Conservatives started their campaign with protests about the mandate the Liberals said they need to initiate a fishing develop ment program. This line had been dropped when Conservative Leader Walter Shaw of Prince Edward Island called an election too.

Mr. Greene, who has called it a "pink paper election" ever since he said a pink slip of paper obtainable in Liberal headquarters could be exchanged for $5 worth of groceries, hit again with charges that Mr. Smallwood is trying to "hoodwink" the voters.

This arose out of recommendations of a fisheries commission, on which Mr. Smallwood based his development program. Mr. Greene says the report got to the Liberals before it in Liberal pamphlets days before it fold the people he received it from the commission.

Mr. Smallwood contends Mr. Greene "stole" the report from the commission and published it two days early as part of his own platform. Mr. Greene says he got it from Liberal literature being circulated outside St. John's.

The four party leaders delivered closing speeches on television Friday night. Most of the election has been fought on TV, which is not permitted to carry political broadcasts during the 48-hour period before the election.

Standings at dissolution in the 36-seat House were Liberals 31, Conservatives three, and United Newfoundland Party one. Two more seats have been added by redistribution.

Jury Blames U.S. Marshals; Makes 2 Secret Indictments

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The Lafayette County grand jury, blaming federal marshals for "agitating and provoking violence" during desegregation rioting at the University of Mississippi, has handed down two secret indictments.

No names were released by the grand jury as it acted Friday after standing for a week the Sept. 30 riot that followed arrival of Negro James H. Meredith on the university campus.

However, it lashed out at former U.S. Marshal James P. McShane for his order to fire tear gas at demonstrators that night. "We find that this illegal action on the part of McShane set off the tragic violence which followed," the grand jury report said.

Sheriff Joe Ford of Lafayette County was directed to arrest the two persons and have them in the next session of court, scheduled for March 4, 1963.

Under Mississippi law the names of the indicted persons will not be released until they are arrested. Both are from outside Mississippi, the circuit Judge Walter M. O'Barr said.

Therefore, the names could not be released when the judge signs papers to extradite them to Mississippi. O'Barr said District Attorney John Ellzey would prepare the extradition papers.

O'Barr, a native of Mississippi, had charged the grand jury to indict anyone who violated state laws—including President Kennedy and his brother, Attorney-General Kennedy. That was on Monday. On Friday that "neither the president nor the attorney-general was named."

In a related development, the justice department announced it hoked to file papers in the criminal contempt cases against Governor Ross Barnett and Lieutenant - Governor Paul B. Johnson Jr., shortly after Thanksgiving." U.S. Thanksgiving is Nov. 22.

The Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans on Thursday directed the justice department to bring the criminal contempt charges. Both Barnett and Johnson already have been found guilty of civil contempt by the court for their parts in blocking Meredith's admission to the school, but no penalties have been imposed.

Hope Wanes For 18 Men Lost in Sea

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Ships and planes off Bermuda pressed an apparently hopeless search today for 18 seamen from the abandoned and still burning freighter Captain Carvell.

Fifty - mile - an - hour winds whipped flames on the exploding ship's coal cargo and the floating powderkeg more than 300 miles northeast of Bermuda. Coast guard officials said the fire had eaten away the after superstructure.

Rescue planes were going forward for the 55-foot schooner Windfall with five men aboard. The 18 missing were crewmembers of the 5,000-ton Carvell.

They were headed for St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. The Carvell left Baltimore Tuesday Thursday night but its crew was rescued.

The Curlew survivors expressed fear that the Windfall also was unable to ride the Portugale and its crew was drowned after the Belgian freighter Sud Expross reported sighting briefly what appeared to be five men adrift and the wreckage of a lifeboat. The sighting was reported in 40-foot waves about 300 miles southeast of Cape Henry, Va.

Guatemala's Naval Chief Wants To Invade Cuba Despite Likely Blood Bath

Maybe 100,000 Dead in Havana But We Can't Wait Any Longer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Herald quotes Guatemala's chief of naval operations as saying the time to invade Cuba is "right now."

"It will be a blood bath—maybe 100,000 dead in the streets of Havana—but we can't wait any longer," Commander Manuel Francisco Sosa Avila is quoted as telling an interviewer.

Sosa is in Miami in connection with repairs to a Guatemalan patrol boat and his country's presidential yacht.

He says that regardless of the problem of Soviet missile bases in Cuba "the great danger would be in leaving Cuba,to the Communists as a propaganda base aimed at the rest of Latin America."

"This is a job for all freedom-loving nations of the western hemisphere. Our survival is "i stake. The only way to solve the problem is to invade Cuba by the democracies of America. "Guatemala is ready to fight."

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A threat by Premier Fidel Castro to shoot down U.S. reconnaissance planes heightened the fears of many delegates today that a shooting incident might torpedo talks to settle the Cuban crisis.

In Washington, U.S. officials were inclined to think that the Russians would not support Castro in any action actually risking U.S. retaliation. There was a conviction that anti-aircraft missiles batteries in Cuba are manned by Russians not subject to Castro's orders.

Nevertheless, Castro got Soviet verbal support Friday as U.S. delegate Arthur Dean and Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin clashed on the issue before the UN political committee.

Zorin called the Cuban leader's warning against U.S. flights "perfectly legitimate."

Dean said the U.S. will continue aerial surveillance of Cuba as long as necessary and give its planes protection if need be.

He said Zorin supported Fidel Castro's threat carries no weight with the United States. Such flights are essential, he said, until Premier Khrushchev carries out his promise of on-site inspection to make sure the Soviet rockets have been pulled out of Cuba.

Dean said Khrushchev had been found "with his hand in the Cuban missile pot, or if you will, plot."

Stung by Dean's remarks, Zorin said an attack by the United States to violate Cuban sovereignty, "cannot but provoke a most resolute reaction."

The exchange was triggered by Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga who interrupted the committee's disarmament debate to announce that Castro's warning went into effect "as of today."

12-SIDED NICKEL TO BE REPLACED BY ROUND ONE

Start Production In New Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 12-sided nickel is about to go the way of the silver five-cent coin, the large penny and the dollar bill "shinplaster" banknote. Operators of coin - operated machines will be the main losers.

A proclamation in the Canada Gazette today announced that the Royal Canadian Mint will cease production of the rounded five-cent nickel coin, effective Jan. 2, 1963.

The Canadian Mint has had 12 sides since 1943 when the government changed the composition of the coin to conserve nickel, a strategic wartime metal.

The substitute was an alloy of copper and zinc which produced a coin as efficient as silver coin at the penny. It was called the "tombac," the Latin word for copper alloys.

MISTAKEN FOR PENNY

Twelve sides were supposed to avoid confusion between the nickel, dime and the old sterling copper. But the difference sometimes wasn't enough and coins holding garages were taken for coppers.

Because of the confusion, the mint switched to chrome-plated steel coins in 1944, and 1945. when more than 200 million pure nickel was resumed. But the 12-sided design was not changed.

N. A. Parker, master of the mint, said in an interview the new rounded nickel will carry the same design as the present

Refuse to Ease Newsprint Stand

BRUSSELS (CP-Reuters) — The six European Common Market nations Friday refused to ease their stand on entry into Britain of Canadian newsprint if British enters the economic community, British sources reported.

Heath said the situation was held up by a disagreement among the market members over the British plan for special regulation of the Market agricultural policy.

The British sources said that on newsprint the Six maintained their offer of a limited, duty-free quota from Britain, which would mean Britain would have no restrict imports from Canada.

The Six agreed to draft a written statement to support their offer at senior officials level, which Heath could use as a basis for talking to the Canadian government, the sources said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported to be increasing its diplomatic pressure on Russia for prompt removal of Soviet jet bombers in Cuba.

Withdrawal of the planes—the last of the "offensive weapons" to which the U.S. made specific objection — dominates all U.S.-Soviet contacts, including personal exchanges between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev, informants said.

Kennedy is understood to have made clear to Khrushchev that it will be impossible for the U.S. to move on any other front of diplomatic relations until the bomber problem is settled.

The president and his advisers view the large part at issue of good faith, since Khrushchev promised to take from Cuba all the offensive weapons to which Kennedy objected and not just the 42 missiles cleared out last weekend.

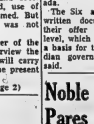
WORRY OVER PLANES

U.S. officials said the bomber issue is of greater concern than Such flights are essential, he said, until Premier Khrushchev carries out his promise of on-site inspection to make sure the Soviet rockets have been pulled out of Cuba.

Dean said Khrushchev had been found "with his hand in the Cuban missile pot, or if you will, plot."

Stung by Dean's remarks, Zorin said an attack by the United States to violate Cuban sovereignty, "cannot but provoke a most resolute reaction."

The exchange was triggered by Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga who interrupted the committee's disarmament debate to announce that Castro's warning went into effect "as of today."



Noble Guard Swings His Sword, Pares Candle to Proper Length

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A speaker was droning on in Latin during a ceremonial papal session, closed like every session to all but council fathers.

The coffee bar installed in a hall of St. Peter's Basilica was unusually jammed with prelates. One bishop found himself standing behind a bishop he knew. He nudged his friend, pulled out a pocket candle, brought together 2,200 prelates from 100 countries.

A priest among the council advisers tells of an incident as the Book of Gospels was about to be enthroned on the council altar to start a day's business.

Two monsignors stood off to one side, holding garments and readiness to escort an archbishop to the altar. Suddenly one candle fell to the basilica floor and broke in two.

For a year of ceremonies, rather disturbed, motioned to a noble guard in medieval court dress. The guard walked over, whipped his sword from its scabbard and proceeded to ream caked wax out of the candlestick so the broken candle would fit properly.

There was furtive gesturing about the problem of one long candle and one short candle. The guard laid the unbroken candle on the marble floor, raised his sword and chopped the candle to matching size.

Then the archbishop carried the book, flanked by burning candles of equal level—with few of the 2,200 council fathers aware of the minor crisis just resolved.

Ecumenical Council Impresses Protestant

May Improve Inter-Church Relationships

GENEVA (AP)—A leader of world Protestantism says the Roman Catholic ecumenical council is providing "far more real expression of the total life of the church than many thought possible beforehand."

Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft, the general secretary of the World Council of Churches, is "impressed with the possibilities" for closer acquaintanceship given by the council to improve interchurch relationships.

"However, it's still too soon to know how the land will lie when the council goes into the real theological issues," he said in an interview.

The organization of which he is chief administrator includes most of the major Eastern Orthodox and Protestant denominations in the world.

"We were aware of the new thinking going on at some levels among Roman Catholic leaders," he said, "but we didn't know they would speak out on it so openly."

Dr. Visser 't Hooft, who is fully briefed on council proceedings, said the Portestant observer-delegates at the meeting in Rome are "no mere observers."

"Already a real give-and-take is going on between them and the council fathers. There is far more real discussion between them that we had considered likely. This is an exceedingly interesting and good thing."

He said the interchange is taking place not only through the bishops themselves but in Christian Unity but also through the initiative of many Catholic bishops even to the Protestant delegation for frank, probing discussions of issues.

"This is a very unprecedented thing," Dr. Visser 't Hooft said.

One of the aims of the council is to clear away some of the obstacles to eventual Christian reunion.

Dr. Visser 't Hooft said the council atmosphere was apparently offering fresh impetus to the bishops to speak their minds.

Ordinarily, he noted, individual bishops have relatively little general voice in contrast to the powerful administrative curia of the Vatican, but when they gathered there they gain new confidence.

He said he was impressed with the weight carried by the west-central European bishops in the formation of council commissions. Despite their numerical inferiority, the bishops of Belgium and Austria have been in the forefront of moves for church reforms and closer relationships with other Christian bodies.

"They represent the very best theology of the whole Roman Catholic Church," Dr. Visser 't Hooft said. "They are the fellows whose books we all read."

Traffic Club Hears Address On Survival

The Quinte Traffic Club held its regular dinner meeting Wednesday evening with an address by Lieutenant-Colonel Angus Duffy, Quinte Area Civil Defence co-ordinator. Col. Duffy gave a talk on the Emergency Measures Organization as it applies to industry and transportation, stressing the purposes of EMO, and what is being done in order to co-ordinate their planning with respect to Emergency.

Probably the most important problem involved in survival which depends upon the preparation each individual makes, and although everyone hopes a nuclear war never happens, it is most important to be prepared.

Col. Duffy outlined the set-up within the organization of transport authorities, and outlined how important their job is for survival.

Cst Duffy was introduced by Mr. J. A. Rollins, Lafferty-Smith Transport Ltd., and thanked by Cst. Cowan, Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co. Limited. The meeting was chaired by R. H. Goodfellow of Direct Winters Transport Ltd.

Following the address and as part of the evening's business, the meeting went on record as fully appreciating the seriousness of the emergency measures situation and heartily endorsed the preparedness necessary and pledged full support in any way possible in the field of Transportation.

'El Cid' Proves To Be Fine Entertainment

If you will, put out more flags, for the George Forhan entertainment arena has done it again with a banner production.

Mr. Forhan's playspace, commonly known as the Belle Theatre, has a record of introducing rather than presenting movie entertainment to his patrons. Today this means running the latest. This is what Mr. Forhan has — a veteran of theatre management — is now running at his theatre.

"El Cid" may have its artistic drawbacks. Its entertainment potential is beyond question. Good theatre manager that he is, Mr. Forhan thinks primarily of his audience. He has the material to satisfy it in "El Cid."

The Cid is a part of legend and romance. History has him changing sides off and on and fighting with Moslems on this side of any cause he thought just. The film is slightly different. But that doesn't take from its entertainment-value. Neither is the way does it take from its artistic attempts.

The Cid was a Spanish knight of the days when Moslems waged wars in the tradition of nobility. Legend has it that he fought for whatever he thought was right. To pursue the historical background would take a volume. This the screenwriters have wisely realized. Instead they have set down their own story along with the legend of Spain. In this way the film becomes a glorious entertainment of action and romance.

It is an entertainment that rightly merited the full house at the Belle Theatre last night.

Artistically, the film may lack something — but not everything. It is an epic, but the camera work by Harold Wellman, director of photography for the photographers and the lighting experts.

MUST TO PONDER

Photographers will find much to ponder on the angles used in many a scene in "El Cid." In some spots it seems that the camera directors had carefully studied the Rembrandt paintings for their light effects. They may have historically. They showed their knowledge practically they were just right.

If there is any argument against "El Cid" it is that the antagonists are killed off too often. Spots of carnage, this may be a critical complete left out of the film. Tom Saltz bone days when the villains was given his come-uppance in the last seal.

Again, for effective timing, the purists can't deny the reason in price this role played between Charlton Heston and Sophia Loren. This perhaps is the highlight of the film—for those who seek purely artistic merit in a movie production.

But there is much more yet to come in this stirring three-hour epic. The endeavors of many leading artists in all phases of the entertainment industry have been harnessed to this production. So far, it has drawn capacity houses in Belleville, it also filled the Belle Theatre last night. It's a safe bet it will repeat this achievement for the duration of its run.

Jaime Laredo, Violinist, Gives Fine Performance

By EUGENE LANG

Thursday evening marked the second of this season's series of Community Concerts in the Collegiate Auditorium and featured the renowned young violinist, Jaime Laredo, in his first appearance here. Born in Bolivia, this twenty-one year old musician has been playing the violin since he was six, coming to the United States to further his studies because of his gifted talents.

Three years ago he won the Queen Elizabeth International Music Competition award, which naturally brought world fame from more or less obscurity in the music world. Since then he has toured Europe three times, debuted in recital in New York and Philadelphia and appeared with orchestras in the latter named city along with Dallas, Cleveland, Boston and Washington. His first recording won the distinction as the best young performing artist of the year in the instrumental category and Laredo's second album on this label, Concerto has also won him acclaim internationally. Because of his success his native land has issued a commemorative series of twelve stamps which carry his picture, gracefully making him one of the few living musicians so honored.

Jaime Laredo's choice of careful choosing which included works by such masters of writing for the violin as Bach, Mozart, Schumann, Saint-Saens, Bartok and Wieniawski, in each of which compositions he displayed he demonstrated remarkable insight into the stylistic idiom of the various composers. A warm mellow tone and schooled technique fit him for the first movement of the Tartini G. Minor Sonata as well as the solo instrument.

In the Adagion in E Major, K. 261 of Mozart, again being realized in the second half of the recital in the opening of Schumann's Romantic Fantasy and the Helfetz arrangement of Gershwin's piano Preludo No. 2.

EXCITING DANCES

He gave an exciting and impassioned reading to the Schumann Sonata in D Minor, Op. 105, imbuing it with that sense of impetuous romanticism inherent in Schumann's chamber works. His performance of the Mozart Rondo in C Major was marred by dodgy piano accompaniments that bogged the music down instead of giving it a lilting lift. The Havanise of Saint-Saens along with Wieniawski's "Scherzo-Tarantelle" gave the artist ample opportunity to give vent to his dynamic virtuosity in which he ably overcame any technical barriers set in his path by the composers. Of an unusual nature was the Sonatina by Brazilian Dances by Bela Bartok that Mr. Laredo included in the first program. The addition of these being suffused with rhythmic drive and vivid colorations by various ensembles of these central European dances of earthiness.

The piano parts were played by Mr. Laredo, the Gypsy Dance of Fritz Kreisler and the Carmen of Pablo de Sarasate. Especially, these two short items capping a recital of dignity and musicianship by this young violinist who has just started out on a career that promises much more for him in the years to come.

He was ably assisted at the piano by his wife, Ruth Laredo, in the accompaniments to the solo instrument.

Well-Attended Market Despite Chilly Weather

A fair crowd was in attendance on the Belleville market morning, despite the chilly weather.

Prices on the market held steady this morning, varying little, if any, from previous weeks, with the usual produce for sale.

Potatoes have sold at a steady pace at the local parking for several weeks now. A six-quart basket has sold for 50¢ during the fall market season.

A few vegetables remained on sale today, cabbage selling for 15 to 25c a head, according to size; radishes 10c a bunch and carrots 15 to 20c a bunch.

Eggs remained about the same in price this week, being sold 55c a dozen for small, medium and large.

A large assortment of pastry was on sale. Fair size roasting chickens were selling from 45 to 50c a pound.

Fred Croft Jr. Suffers Stroke, Said Critical

KINGSTON (CP) — A police commission will meet here early next week to investigate the circumstances of an incident in which a 54-year-old man suffered a stroke—discovered after he spent four hours in a police cell on a drunk driving charge.

Magistrate T. T. Mills said that on hearing of the incident he had immediately requested the commission be made up of Magistrate James Garvin and Judge Maxwell Strange.

Friday night Fred Croft Jr. was still in critical condition and semi-conscious in hospital here. He was arrested Monday after his car hit a pole.

Four hours after he was lodged in jail, guards became alarmed at his condition and called Coroner Dr. J. F. Macdonnell who advised he be taken to hospital.

Dr. Macdonnell said it was a clear case of a man suffering from a stroke. "I asked if anyone had called his friends and the police said they hadn't."

Police Chief Robert Nesbitt said Friday night a doctor had been no withdrawal or reduction of the charge of drunken driving.

Editor's Note: Mr. Croft was a former well-known resident of this city. He was employed with the Bell Telephone Company.

Twenty-five year pins were presented to two Belleville Branch 99, Royal Canadian Legion members, Mr. Frank Grandame and Mr. Charles Marriott, by Dr. D. C. McVicker, Zone Commander, at the Remembrance banquet held in the Legion hall.

Lt.-Col. J. Black Speaks As Legion Branches Hold Remembrance Day Dinner

The importance of having a nucleus of modern militia was stressed by Lt. Col. J. Black, Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, speaker at the Remembrance banquet at the Legion hall last evening.

He told the gathering which included four First War Veterans, and members of Legion Branch 99 and the Col. Fhay Wills Branch for ex-service women, that the task before the regiment is to train the younger generation so that it will be prepared. There will not be time for preparation if another war should break out. Women will be an essential part of the army and today the Hasty Pees are giving a women's reserve similar training to the men.

The commanding officer was very gratified with the response the reserve received from high school students for the five-week summer training. Because of restricted facilities the training between 150 and 200 applications could not be accepted. The speaker felt that this is an indication of the insurance of the country's future and that the fallen of the First and Second World Wars are not forgotten.

Belleville and Picton now have approximately 900 men graduated from the National Survival Course, that were conducted last fall and winter.

A resume of the speaker's military achievements was given by Frank Grandame as he introduced Col. Black. Tom Hookings thanked the colonel for the "challenging" address.

Seated at the head table were: William Bream, president of the Army, Navy, Air Association; Bram Humphreys, Branch 99 padre; W. Elmer Sandercock, Dep. for Hastings West; Dr. D. C. McVicker, Zone Commander; Lee Grills, MP Hastings South; Frank Digby, president Branch 99; Lt.-Col. J. Black, Commanding Officer the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; Frank Grandame; Cecil Brown, president of the ANAF, and Mrs. R. Kirby, president of Frank Wills Branch, 587.

As Protestant padre, Bram Humphreys paid tribute to the fallen of both wars, while Bob Les Digby, in the absence of Mayor A. M. Haig, extended civic greetings.

Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., praised the Dept. of Education for informing the public school students of the meaning behind November 11th.

Dr. McVicker made two 25-year membership awards, received by Frank Grandame and Charles Marriott, and also gave two shields in recognition of membership increases to both branches. Mrs. R. Kirby accepted on behalf of Branch 587, while R. Kirby, membership chairman, received for Branch 99.

The 50 acres of land are being offered through Frank S. Follwell, Belleville real estate broker.

Kennedy Paying Increasing Attention to Indo-China War

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Kennedy is reported to be paying increasing attention to the India - China border war and giving consideration to a vast arms and program for India providing he can reach a firm understanding with Prime Minister Nehru.

Just what Kennedy may have in mind is not too clear, but this much seems evident. Kennedy wants to see the harsh note of anti-Americanism eliminated or toned down in India; he wants to hear Nehru publicly declare support of U.S. foreign policy; and he wants to obtain convincing evidence for Congress that India is on the side of democracy and on the side of the United States in its struggle against communism.

Nehru may not find it easy to provide Kennedy with all that he wants. Traditionally, India has followed a policy of non-alignment, accepting help not only from the West but also from Russia. This has annoyed the U.S. legislators. More annoying was the biting criticism of U.S. policy voiced by V. K. Krishna Menon, Nehru's former defence minister.

Now Nehru has eliminated Krishna Menon from the cabinet—a source of high satisfaction to the Kennedy administration. But Kennedy's men want India's friendship, expressed in harder terms. What they now talk about is a military assistance program based on mutual "trust, respect, and understanding" which, they say, "we've not always had in the past."

So far the United States has shipped about $5,000,000 worth of military equipment to India. Just how much further it is prepared to go has not been disclosed by the White House. But Senator Stuart Symington, Missouri democrat, estimated the total may eventually reach "several billions of dollars."

The step up in the arms flow will take time. There will be no sudden rush to load Nehru down with all kinds of expensive equipment. But American officials believe time is on their side. The India-China border war has remained fairly close to the 14,000 foot mark on the ground. Neither side has used air power in the actual fighting and U.S. experts note there are some "tempting" air targets on both sides.

Caouette Loses Election Bet

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — That incredible Montreal high roller, Social Credit Deputy Leader Real Caouette, has crapped out. He dropped a cool $2,000 bet on the Quebec election. He bet $2,000 that Gerard DesJardins who has held the seat for constituents of Gatineau for the Union Nationale since 1948 would hold it and by 2,000 votes. DesJardins got to Liberal Roy Fournier by 1,822 votes and Caouette was out his $2,000. Caouette's bet, two $1,000 bills was deposited in a Hull bank Tuesday and a syndicate of four young Hull Liberals covered it. The story has been confirmed by Caouette's Social Credit colleagues here in the centre block.

Mrs. Ponter Has Man-Sized Job but Retains Feminity

TORONTO (CP) — Catherine Porter has a man-sized job but she doesn't think she has to change her character to match it.

She is president of the Porter Shipping Company and shore captain of the only all tanker Liquilassie — and she handles both jobs without loss of femininity.

When she is walking about the dockyards in narrow skirt and spiked heels, she looks as though she's about to go to lunch at a fashionable restaurant.

Women operators of tankers and owners of shipping companies aren't unusual in the United States and Norway, she says, but she thinks she is the only one in Canada.

Ever since Bob, as she delivered the mail and paycheques and transferred business was the ship's captain at most ports of call, all of which are within 150 miles of Toronto.

Her usual routine is to board the ship at one port and transact the business there before the port of call where a deckhand has driven her car to meet her. Mrs. Porter usually boards by the way of a gangplank but at the Welland Canal she may have to step aboard the ship reaches the right level in the locks. She finds the experience exhilarating but her insurance company considers it risky enough to insist that she has a male aide men working in the dockyards.

INSPECTS TANKS

One of her less pleasant chores, but one she considers challenging, is inspection of the inside of the oil tanks after they have been emptied of petroleum and chemicals. This is the only time she switches from her feminine clothes to coveralls because "it's cold down there."

Mrs. Porter's work is not the usual nine-to-five routine—"I'm often summoned in the middle of the night or over the week-end."

And although she has only one secretary helping her with her office work, she still finds time to serve on various agencies such as the United Appeal, the Mental Health Association, the Indian and Eskimo Association of Canada and the Canadian Save the Children Fund.

And her holidays are far from relaxing. Last summer, for example, she thumbed a ride in the Arctic aboard cargo and private planes, going as far as Tuktoyaktuk in the Beaufort Sea.

Record Vote Cast in Que. Election

Quebec electors cast a record 3,000,000 votes in returning the Liberal government of Premier Jean Lesage to power.

border, Thursday night.

Wednesday, India sent men against a Chinese - held hill northwest of Walong on the right bank of the Lohit River. The Indians captured the lower slopes of the hill with the loss of 10 dead and 20 wounded, a defence ministry spokesman said. The Chinese suffered the same casualties on the Chinese.

After the Indians reinforced their newly won position, the Chinese launched a counter-attack. Later, according to a defence ministry spokesman, the Chinese withdrew after a fierce attack at other points in the Walong area, using superior numbers of troops.

The Indians described the Chinese assault as the largest launched in the northeast since Towang fell Oct. 24.

The current fighting was reported to be the heaviest since major hostilities broke out Oct. 20.

Meanwhile, the Red Cross here today confirmed they were informed by China that 927 Indian prisoners of war had been taken in the border fighting.

Purse Missing As Family Leaves for North

The entire effects of a Belleville household were moved to Northern Ontario yesterday — with one exception. Missing was one of the most prized possessions — a housewife's purse.

City police say Mrs. Stanley Millie was supervising the movers loading furniture as the family prepared to move to Sudbury, when she discovered her purse was missing. Mrs. Millie, certain she left it on the front seat of her car, noticed it missing about 4 p.m. It contained $25 in cash, a wedding purse — articles of personal value to her. Hence, say police, she is anxious to recover it.

It is described as fairly large made of brown calf leather. Anyone who can help trace the article is asked to contact city police.

Accountants Club Meets at Kingston

The Chartered Accountants Club of Eastern Ontario held their second meeting of the season at the LaSalle Hotel, Kingston, with members of the Frontenac Bar Association present.

Dr. J. J. Deutsch, vice-principal of Queen's University, addressed the meeting, giving a resume of his recent trip to Poland under the sponsorship of The World University Services.

This was the first time a seminar of The World University Services had been permitted behind the iron curtain since the Second World War.

Covering the historical background of Poland, Dr. Deutsch was able to clarify many of the paradoxical conditions existing in that country today.

Qualify Order Against Wpg. Mother

WINNIPEG (CP)—Mrs. Rita Dzedzora, 34-year-old mother of 11 children, said in an interview Friday she doesn't know whether she can leave her province or not.

A two-year suspended sentence was imposed on her Nov. 2 with the condition that she could not leave her house for two years and that she could see no visitors other than close relatives. She had pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing stolen goods.

However, Magistrate Isaac Later granted her permission by telling the court probation officer, Mrs. Nora Milne, she could use her discretion in allowing Mrs. Dzedzora to go shopping, go to church or visit the penitentiary where she was with whom she was living is serving a sentence.

The magistrate also told a Baptist minister he could visit her.

The probation officer was in Toronto Friday and Mrs. Dzedzora was wondering whether she had to stay in the house until the officer returned.

She said she does not want to break the order "because if I do I'll lose my children."

Sidney to Get Federal Aid for Sewage Plant

A federal government loan of $94,720 to the township of Sidney to assist the municipality in the construction of a sewage treatment project to serve the community of Batawa, was announced today by Lee E. Grills, MP for Hastings South.

The loan, based on an estimated cost of $150,000, is for 20 years with interest at 5% per cent.

At present a combined sewage collection system empties into a small sedimentation tank which in turn discharges into the Trent River. The treatment afforded is inadequate, with resulting pollution of the Trent River. The town will intercept sewage and convey it to a treatment plant south of Batawa. The NHA loan will assist in the construction of a diversion chamber, 2,296 lineal feet of eight-inch and 15-inch outfall sewer and an activated sludge-type sewage treatment plant.

Under Part VI-B of the National Housing Act, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation may make a loan to a municipality or to a municipal sewerage corporation for the purpose of assisting in the construction of sewage works. A sewage treatment project. A project must be part of an overall plan for the elimination or prevention of water and soil pollution.

Montreal to Have World's Fair

The 1967 World's Fair will be held in Montreal. If Seattle can stage a successful world's fair—and it did—Montreal should have no real difficulty making the grade. It starts with many natural advantages. Few other cities have a natural observation point to match Mount Royal—or the split personality arising from Montreal's blending of two tongues and two cultures.

According to the rules, the application for the world's fair was sponsored by the Canadian Government, and federal authorities say an intensive effort is planned to make the fair representative of Canada as a whole. This is as it should be—but we hope the planners do not overlook the fact that no one city, in a nation of Canada's extent, can be considered truly representative of the whole country. Any effort to achieve the impossible will merely weaken Montreal's impact, while failing to substitute any atmosphere which could be described as typically Canadian.

No, this will be Montreal's fair and the most the rest of Canada can do will be to make certain that the varied customs and products of our wide-flung Dominion are on display—in a Montreal setting. Many visitors to the fair will probably avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing other parts of Canada. They should make their stay pleasant—and their egress and exit from Canada's largest metropolis easy. Fortunately Dorval airport has been rebuilt. Magnificent highways lead to the Laurentians north of Montreal. Ontario's 401 Highway should be completed by 1967—but this coming summer will be none too early for Quebec to start improving the road from Dorion to the Ontario border.

Coinciding as it does with our nation's centennial, the World's Fair can reasonably expect to benefit from some of the expenditures planned to commemorate that event. Historical displays and pageants would appear in order—while the extensive Seaway park system will provide an admirable setting for showing visitors how Canadians enjoy the natural assets of their land during the summer season.

Besides the opportunity to give our visitors an insight into Canada and Canadians, the World's Fair will also provide an unequalled chance for Canadians themselves to learn about foreign lands. It is to be hoped that, in our eagerness to be good hosts, we do not lose sight of this secondary role of the Fair, to bring to Canada a better understanding of the people and products of other lands.

Cure for Skidding

The other day, at Wilmington, Delaware, a new device was tested. It was a mechanism designed to prevent an automobile skidding. Results were little short of miraculous. When a car equipped with this device, and travelling at 50 miles an hour, had the brakes slammed on, it came to a smooth stop, in spite of the fact the road surface had been coated with soapy water.

The ultimate test, of course, will have to await the arrival of winter. Then, if the car can be safely stopped on an icy road which has been honed by a brisk wind and then licked by a passing drizzle, we will know that skidding can become as outdated as the dinosaur.

The inventor of this device is Frank Perrino and he estimates the cost of installation would be about the same as that of equipping a car with a radio or a heater.

At such a cost, or anything nearly resembling it, every car should have one. Indeed, unless manufacturers can show good cause for a contrary course, there would appear no reason why this device should not be installed on all new models.

Let us not have any painful duplication of the public reaction to safety belts. With these as optional equipment, comparatively few buyers of new cars demanded them. Skidding, though endangers not only the driver and occupants of the skidding car, but the lives of others in cars in the same vicinity. So the installation of any cheap, effective anti-skidding device ought to be made compulsory on all new cars.

Rowdy Disrespectful House Assumes Pugnacious Air

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Something is happening to this House of Commons.

And it is not good.

Those people around Parliament Hill who come under that general heading "veteran observers" you often see quoted in this, your favorite newspaper, will tell you that what is happening now to this Parliament has not happened before.

Not in living memory, anyway.

Not, certainly, to become personal for a moment, in the 22 years this not-so-veteran Parliamentary "observer" of yours has been seeing this high and politically windy Hill.

The other day it heckled and hooted, honked and harrassed him into silence.

Even in the mid days of the "Battle of the Pipeline", when the Opposition left its benches and removed, into the Centre Aisle of the Commons to shake its collective fist — actually and physically — under the astonished and frightened nose of Speaker Rene Beaudoin, the House paid former Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent the courtesy of silent attention.

THIS WAS A RESPECT

Even on its wildest days and nights and there were some doozies — Parliament and the House clawed and spit, sweated and swore its way through the long night of the "War of the Pipeline" — the Commons straightened and sobered up when it harrassed, tormented and barrassed Prime Minister rose amid the tumult to speak.

Now old "Uncle Louis" was a gentleman, and perhaps that made the difference.

Ungentle.

A fighter.

When he rises to speak, it is generally with fire in his eye, and his seems to have struck an answering flame across the House.

Then, too, this is what has aptly been called a "House of Minorities".

But it is more than that.

It is a nervous House, balanced on the razor's edge of excruciating uncertainties, full of political jockeying, some of whom wouldn't know how to behave in a township council meeting.

The House has that butterflies-in-the-stomach feeling that anything could happen, now and sooner or later — the rowdy elements seem to think soon — will, and with an explosive bang.

SOCK 'EM 'N' SOCK 'EM

So when Prime Minister Diefenbaker or Finance Minister Fleming mix it verbally with Liberal Jacques Flynn and his frontbenchers Paul Martin, Jack Pickersgill and Lionel Chevrier, some of the backbench boys whoop it up as if they were at a prize fight.

You can almost hear some of them shouting, "Hit him again, Dief," or "Polish him off Paul," or "Pound him, Pick," as they hammer their desks.

To the Liberal backbench mob, the Prime Minister is plain "Dief" and the Conservative rear ranks shout back at "Mike" and "Pick."

But rowdy.

When you have a strange, and undeniably dynamic political wrestling dervish in the House like Social Credit Colleader Real Caouette, backed by a pack of worshipping Frenchmen, you have a highly emotional and unstable situation.

And a politically explosive one.

In comparison to almost ridiculously right-of-centre Caouette and Company, those New Democrats, "ommy Doughs, Douglas Fisher, Max ey Knowles and other such "Liberals-in-a-hurry" who used to be regarded as somewhat left leaning, are almost smack in the middle of the political road.

BREAKING DOWN

Life and rest, even thunder, lightning and fire in the Commons are all to the stimulating good.

What bothers, what is disturbing, is the disrespectful, even insulting attitude that this particular and strangely oddball Commons has been taking to the Prime Minister.

The very office itself should command respect . . . certainly from any House that knew its manners or even an inkling of how to behave in a politically civilized way.

But this House will hoot and holler, ridicule and more recently shout down the Prime Minister, denying him the courtesy of a hearing.

Freedom of speech is suspended.

No Parliament in which "Uncle Louis" sat would have done that. No matter how the Opposition might dispute and at times, perhaps despise him, listened with be spoke, for he was the Prime Minister.

It would mean that if it did, tough old "Macking" would trot back to Laurier House, ascend to his third floor study with his crystal ball and the faded photo of his beloved mother — or retire to his East Block office and tuck his ridiculously tiny feet on his petit point bassock under the huge flat desk — and there, like a mathematician with abstract algebra, with cold calculation plot retribution.

Perhaps this Prime Minister will strike back . . . and not upon the House fears most . . . Dissolution . . . and a snap election at John Diefenbaker's choice of time and issues.

Soon maybe? Like shortly after the New Year?

Sea Is Free -- Sometimes

Ottawa Journal

Vice-admiral H. S. Rayner, chief of naval staff, said recently, as a sailor might be expected to say, that control of the seas is just as important today as it has ever been in the past.

The Cuba incident supports this theme. Ships permit the exercise of pressure on a country through a quarantine, and limited blockade without causing the implacable commitment to conflict involved in the landing of troops or the use of bomber aircraft.

The Russians now have a fleet of more than 400 submarines and construction of this force has been in part a response to a feeling of insecurity about control of the seas. While they have been able to enjoy the freedom of the seas, sustained by Britain, France and other major maritime powers, the Russians have been aware that they could not get to Africa, Asia and Latin America at the sufferance of allied powers whose ships dominate these waters.

In the Cuban situation, the U.S. had to depend on sea power to maintain the freedom of the seas in the Caribbean and preventing the building of a threat to its security.

The freedom of the seas has been a prize of the Democracies. It may have assisted the spread of Communist influence by allowing the free passage of Communist ships. But when quarantine became essential the specific freedom had to serve the greater.

Who Helps Crackpots?

Vancouver Sun

Dr. Neil Bartlett isn't a crackpot. He proved he was right.

But he was a crackpot — once. For according to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the University of B.C. assistant professor of chemistry challenged the entrenched dogma of science, and by current definition is to be a crackpot.

What Dr. Bartlett actually did was claim to be the maker of his combined xenon with something else and got a yellow powder. But Dr. Bartlett didn't do that in such scientific monasteries as the United States' Argonne National Laboratories, where they monkey with rocket fuels.

The important thing is that he did it, because until that books said it couldn't be done.

We remember learning our own chemistry from such a book. It said xenon, neon, argon and similar rare gases wouldn't combine with anything. So far as we know, nobody ever proved it.

It was just an article of faith. Some congratulations are due.

To Dr. Bartlett for proving the academic dogma was wrong. To the UBC department of chemistry and Faculty of Arts and Science for giving him the facilities and opportunity to prove it.

To the AAAS for beating its chest and telling the million scientists who it says were blind to the potential opportunity open to Dr. Bartlett.

But it makes us wonder how many other articles of scientific faith aren't true.

And in these days of multi-million-dollar scientific research programs, what chance has the average crackpot (pardon, healthy sceptic) of getting money to prove an article of faith wrong? Particularly, when most of the funds are administered by members of those same scientists who unquestionably accept the article of faith.

Dragging On

Ottawa Citizen

Efforts by the U.S. administration to have Cuba cited a deadline for removal of the special tariff surcharges imposed as part of the government's austerity program last June are quite justified. Many countries have found these imposts unwelcome. Their request that Ottawa set a target date for the complete elimination of these barriers to trade is reasonable under the circumstances. Special protective devices of this nature cannot be allowed to drag on indefinitely.

Physical Check-up Before Marriage Is Recommended

By JOSEPH G MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am to be married to a man who has five brothers with TB or something else, but not with him or his five sisters.

Do you think we could have children without anything being wrong with them? Mom and dad dont think so, and dont want me to marry him. — B.R.

In my opinion, all young people should go to a doctor for a check about such things before marriage. I don't say that it is either wrong or unwise to marry someone with a health defect, but you should know what you are doing.

In this particular case, the TB or something else is a bit vague. What are the "something elses"?

TB, of course, is not inherited. It is contagious, and is spread by transmitting the germ from person to person. Several cases of TB in one family indicate that they may have gotten it from some source or other and member may have given it to the others.

A firm rule of public health that when one member of a family is found to have the disease, the others as well as any friends or associates, should be tested for TB, and watched for a time to make sure that they don't get it — and keep on spreading it, too.

See that the young man has a thorough physical examination, most definitely including a chest X-ray, for any sign of TB plus some other tests. A urinalysis, which is simple and inexpensive test, is one. Others might depend on what diseases his brothers have had. The doctor could readily decide that.

The existence of five healthy sisters would indicate that the family stock isn't too bad. If the young man can pass such an examination, I can't see any reason to worry. If, on the other hand, the test shows some chronic, or possibly chronic, condition, he can benefit by knowing about it now. There are many health conditions which, if you find them out early, can be controlled, but are devastating if you don't know about them or ignore them.

The blood tests required before you can get a marriage license in most states, are aimed only at venereal diseases. They are a good thing.

But I feel quite certain that it is wise for all young people who are planning to be married to have proper, and very careful physical examinations.

As a believer in the idea that laws can't regulate everything, and that anyway its better for people to accept all the reasonable responsibilities for living for themselves, I can't say I favor this couple be forced to by law. But I certainly do think that we ought to encourage the idea of knowing about the health of our life partners — and also letting them know about ours. Its a two-way street.

Dear Doctor: Many people eat the skins of baked potatoes claiming they contain valuable vitamins and minerals. Is there anything to this theory? — V.T.

It's not a theory — it's so. The skins contain useful minerals. They'd be pressed in raw potato peelings, too, as far as that's concerned. Not a lot, but some.

Dear Sir: What type of pillow — hard, soft; foam rubber or other — is best to relax neck and shoulder muscles which are often tense? And for best sleeping generally? — A.H.S.

This will vary considerably according to the thickness of the pillow. The only answer is to use the one which feels the best to you. (My choice is soft, but other people find a hard one better, and some prefer none.

Interest Lag in Politics?

Owen Sound Sun-Times

Candidates must be sometimes disappointed when they are required to leave the party hand over vast amounts of money to have so-called professionals prepare addresses, advertisements or line up public meetings.

The elections of the past decades had robust, entirely free, support from businessmen, anxious to have their men elected and equally anxious to be in the thick and excitement of the campaign.

Times change and naturally, electioneering changes, too. But it seems things have reached a sorry pass when candidates must buy help for their parties. Perhaps they do this paying willingly in the hope that the workers will eventually believe what they are writing and talking . . . and support them at the poll without pay.

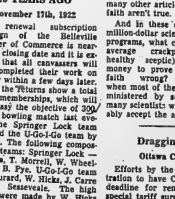
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK



What to do to call help when lost in the bush is one of the infrequent but often disastrous problems of the hunter's life. Signals fired with the rifle are the commonest accepted routine. Shots in series of three, that is, one shot to attract attention followed after a pause by two shots in rapid succession are a signal to harbour-craft or other interest by sportsmen. When this signal is followed after a few minutes pause by another series of three in the same particular sequence it results as a rule in prompt organization of a search party in the direction of the shots. This is the most useful signal in cases where a lone hunter fails and breaks a leg or comes to similar disaster in the bush.

Where a hunter is lost and strayed, and perhaps does not have enough shells left for signals, he usually makes a shelter and lies up for the night — and lucky little emergency procedure for the next day is to set the bush on fire to attract the foresters, or to catch the eye of aircraft pilots.

But there are now available at sporting goods stores across the country packets of three shells, to fit most popular calibres which, when fired at night shoot bullets 500 feet in the air, where they explode into bright flares.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

A TRUE CANADIAN

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

By this date we have as I "Au revoir" to the majority of our bird friends, but cheerful little chickadees remain on. Being good Canadians, they never leave Canadian soil, and may be found in all weather throughout the entire year wherever there are orchards and woodlands (indeed, wherever there are shade trees) from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

Not only have we all year round to keep an eye on them but we are given ample opportunity of close observation, because they come near habitations and seem to be quite fearless. If you want to study or photograph some bird there is no better choice than a chickadee. Noisily kiss the back of your own hand to draw attention, hold out a lump of suet, and before you realize it you may have one of the cute little, fluffy birds with the big heads perching on your finger.

Their actions are quite unlike those of other birds. They take in everything with their tiny black eyes, cock their heads on one side, and decide how to go about their next business. Sunflower seeds are their delight, but it is quite a job to open one and get the goody inside the shell. Holding the seed very firmly with both little feet they hammer the shell open with their bills, making their heads bob up and down like lightning.

WITHSTAND WINTER

Chickadees are able to withstand our hard winters because of their eating habits. Their tiny black bills are designed for poking into cracks in bark. So when wild fruit can no longer be found and snow covers seeds they are still able to live on some of the worst pests of gardens and orchards. They ferret out eggs, larvae, chrysalids, and small insects that inhabit tree trunks, getting into all sorts of acrobatic positions to extract them from the crevices. Just think of a whole cluster of insect eggs going with one gulp! Larger birds (a chickadee is but 5¼ inches) would ignore so tiny a mouthful. But that mouthful represents many injurious insects, our farmers should delight in chickadees. And, for their size, they must of necessity eat a lot in order to withstand the cold.

In autumn chickadees roam around in gangs, often joining forces with other small birds of similar habits, such as golden-crowned kinglets, brown creeper, woodpeckers. They are all the more welcome when the migrants have gone.

HIT HYMNS

LONDON (CP) — An east London church is to draw up a hit parade of hymns. A list of the 10 most popular hymns will be posted outside the church and members of the congregation invited to make their requests.

COLLECT ROYAL BIRDS

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth's racing pigeons are becoming collectors' pieces. Leonard Rush, who looks after the royal loft near the Queen's estate at Sandringham, Norfolk, says dozens of valuable birds are lost every year. The pigeons carry "ER" tags on their legs.

QUESTION:

I've misplaced my recipe for Peanut Butter cookies and my children say the present one I use isn't too good! I wonder if you have a recipe for them. I would be very grateful if you could give one soon. ... Lyn G.

ANSWER:

I am glad you asked. I have not given a peanut butter cookie here for over 10 years.

QUESTION:

It has been such a long time since I wrote to you that you have probably forgotten the wonderful help you gave me with our W.A. smorgasbord. Our minister's wife has asked me to help her with a choir party . . . something other than the usual sandwiches . She attended a party where the hostess served split buns with various fillings on top which she broiled at the last minute. She remembers creamed salmon and another that was particularly good seemed to have a creamy soupy hamburg, etc. It was not a hamburger but a creamy filling containing hamburg . . . Ruth M.

ANSWER:

It was like old home week to hear from you again, Ruth. I have sent out hundreds of recipes of your homemade soup formula.

I think the following is the hamburg recipe you are seeking. It is an excellent and recommended by me.

FILLED AND GRILLED SPLIT TEA BUNS:

1 lb. ground beef
melted butter, 1 10½-oz. can mushroom or chicken soup, undiluted, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup dairy sour cream split tea buns.

Combine ground beef and onion gently in butter. Stir in cream soup and simmer 10 minutes. Blend in flour and stir into ¾ cup of the dairy sour cream until smooth. Add remaining cream and cook

G.V. McEwan Tells W.C.C. Of West's Prize Personality

The west's prize personality, "Eye Opener, Bob Edwards," was described as a man having the vision of a prophet, the judgment of a philosopher, and the courage of a lion by an outstanding speaker, Mr. Grant V. MacEwan, B.S.A., M.S., M.L.A. as he addressed the Women's Canadian Club last evening, in Queen Alexandra School auditorium.

Mr. MacEwan, who was introduced by Club president Mrs. J. H. Forrester, obtained his primary schooling in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and took his post graduate work in Ontario. He was a staff member of the University of Saskatchewan and later was appointed Dean of Agriculture at the University of Manitoba where he remained until 1945 when he resigned to make his home in Calgary. As a prolific writer he has contributed to various papers and magazines mainly on topics in which he is thoroughly interested, including western history, conservation and agriculture and has to date written eight books.

WEST'S VAST RESOURCES

In his opening remarks the speaker briefly dealt with the vast resources of the west which included the vast oil reserves in Alberta, the power development on the South Saskatchewan River, and the great potash deposits, 1,000 feet below the surface of the earth, over an area of 400 miles located in the southern and central portion of Saskatchewan. But even with this abundance of God-given gifts of natural resources as recently discovered people in general are still backward in the resources of human personality.

In choosing the subject for the west's prize personality the speaker stated that he seized the opportunity, "about six years ago," in presenting a talk lot in Calgary and Edmonton to determine a personality having the most intelligence, influence and colorful personality which resulted in the winner being a man by the name of Bob Edwards.

CONTROVERSIAL FIGURE

Mr. MacEwan related that Edwards was one of the most controversial figures in the history of the west and, in his (MacEwan's) opinion, but for his wayward ways, at times he could have completely overshadowed Mark Twain as a humorist if he had set his mind to it. As a journalist, Edwards gave a new face to journalism. Through his column he could make people read, laugh and think and carried through his writing with great distinctiveness in the eye openers he prepared. He abhored hypocrisy, bluff and insincerity and did not mince any words in saying so. The social columns of the daily newspapers he described as "snobbery" and he wrote his own social items which almost dealt a death blow to the conventional social columns of the day. Much to the merriment of his audience the speaker quoted a number of these.

SCOTTISH DESCENT

The speaker went on to say that Bob Edwards was born in Edinburgh, Scotland and received his education in Glasgow and from there seemed to be a rolling stone so came to America and for a while rode the range in Wyoming. He arrived in Winnipeg in 1898 and from there continued west to Calgary and finally with $1.65 in his pocket he purchased a train ticket for Strathcona distance that amount would take him. This took him as far as the 16th siding or to a little settlement called Wetaskiwin (Hills of Peace), where he embarked upon journalism. Later he went to Leduc, then to South Edmonton, from there he wrote for the Free Press in Winnipeg and from there he went to a small place called High River where he continued his free way of writing. As a result the Eye Opener column in Calgary there was no guarantee of regularity but yet the circulation mounted. The apparent secret of his success was his outstanding personality along with the possession of sharp pencil and a brilliant mind.

PRONOUNCED INFLUENCE

The west's prize personality had a tremendous personal feeling for his fellow man and his influence was pronounced despite the skepticism of a lot of people in Calgary and across the west. At one time he had an intent dislike for the former Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, and did not in any way conceal it, but after a number of years, they became close friends.

Even though a drinking man he worked on the side of the drys as apparently he was approached by the "wet" committee and offered a large sum of money to work on their behalf, but being Bob Edwards he retorted "Gentlemen, the old eye-opener - can't be bought". Aided by his efforts the result was an overwhelming victory for the drys.

FUTURE VISION

Mr. MacEwan spoke of Edward's great vision of the future when over 40 years ago he wrote of conservation of resources, hospitalization, old age pension schemes, which are only now coming into effect. He wrote some terrible things about politicians and needless to say continuously, so after some urging entered the political field and was elected as an independent member in the city of Calgary in 1921. During this time he became a close friend with a minister, the Rev. Robert Pierson, and finally triumphed over his worst enemy (drinking), and passed away in 1922.

In closing, the speaker compared Edwards to the immortal Scottish poet Robert Burns and quoted: "an honest man is the noblest work of God" and a second message especially appropriate in 1962 was to be yourself and strive for individuality.

Appreciation, on behalf of those present, was expressed by Mrs. W. Langlois with Mrs. Forrester expressing additional appreciation.

A Lift for Living

Thank God for Many Freedoms Now Enjoyed by Human Race

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

No doubt most of you remember the story of Naboth's vineyard. Naboth owned a vineyard near the property of King Ahab. The greedy king desired to possess it. When the monarch went to his neighbor Naboth and sought to buy his property, the humble but self-respecting farmer replied: "The Lord forbid it me that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee."

Thwarted in his plan to purchase Naboth's vineyard, King Ahab returned sulky and sore, displeased to his palace. There, upon Queen Jezebel, who more than once revealed herself as the power behind the throne, took a hand. She chided her depressed husband for not exercising his royal prerogatives, saying unto him, "Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel? Let thine heart be merry; I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth."

Then Jezebel made her plot to have Naboth accused of blasphemy. Her minions arranged a public festival, saw to it that Naboth was put in a conspicuous place, then charged him with not making obeisance to God and to the king. This charge, false as it was, aroused the people. They seized the hapless victim, took him out and stoned him to death.

BY FAIR OR FOUL

When the wicked queen heard that Naboth was dead, she went to King Ahab and said "Arise, take possession of the vineyard, for Naboth is no longer alive." And Ahab set out to take over the property. Well, why not? There was a time when kings were a law unto themselves. Once having gotten power by fair means or foul, they held it above the law.

This weekend let us glance at our inheritance of human rights and see how it has grown since that early day when Naboth cried, "The Lord forbid it me that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee."

Here are some of them: Freedom from slavery or involuntary servitude. We have long enjoyed freedom but remember, there is still slave labor in some lands.

Freedom from torture or cruel inhuman punishment. Visit the torture chambers of the old European castles or of Nazi Germany and ponder man's inhumanity to man.

Freedom from arbitrary arrest or detention. Suppose that tonight you could be seized on the street and thrown into prison without your family knowing your whereabouts. A dozen years ago in Spain I was told that this could happen to persons there.

Freedom from unreasonable interference with one's privacy, home and correspondence. Suppose that your home and mail were under espionage.

HAVE MANY FREEDOMS

Freedom to move and choose your residence. What if you could not change your job or place of living? It's hard to do in some countries.

The right to work under just and favorable conditions; the right to a decent standard of living, to social security in the event of unemployment, disability, sickness, old age, or other lack of livelihood in circumstances beyond one's control; the right to own property alone as well as in association with others; the right to education, to proper rest and leisure, the right to participate in the government of one's country, directly or through freely chosen representatives; the right to participate in the cultural life of the community.

Yes, and along with these the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion, freedom of speech and assembly. These are all privileges we enjoy in the United States and Canada.

Chaotic as the world is, dark as are the clouds which threaten impending storms, we have to admit that the conscience of the human race is rising. At least people are catching the vision of a better world. And one reason our daily news seems so dark is that we are viewing it with a more enlightened conscience in the light of a higher vision. This nobler vision of man's rights is our ground for gratitude in 1962.

Humbly confessing that we are far from perfect, let us thank God, take heart and join hands that "this nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal, shall not perish from the earth, but shall have a new birth of freedom" able to serve and save the peace of the world.

VIOLIN BRINGS $27,000

LONDON (AP)—A violin was sold at Sotheby auction Friday for £9,000 ($27,000)—said to be the highest auction price ever paid for a violin. The instrument, bought by C. W. Jacklin, a British dealer, was made by Joseph Guarnerius, the noted Italian craftsman, in 1744. Jacklin also bought a Stradivarius violin for £7,500 ($22,500).

Going Places

Freedom Half-Lost Paradise In Important City of Berlin

By SHIRLEY AN D BOB SLOANE

BERLIN — From its place above the entrance to the church of the Reconciliation on Bernauerstrasse, the statue of Christ spreads its arms and looks down in welcome.

But it no longer looks down on the flock, only at an ugly stone wall the top of which is embedded with jagged glass. There is no reconciliation at the church and there is no more flock. The wall that blocks the church from its congregation is the same that blocks freedom for half a city, and half a world.

The wall . . . the hated, heinous, hideous wall above which a man must climb to wave at his brother, or over which he must vault for almost sure death to touch him.

"In Tyrannou!" cries an angry scrawl on the wall in front of the sealed church. Another leaps in white bot letters above along the street. So do "souvenir of Eichmann," and the once whispered, most dreaded of symbols "KZ" — Concentration Camp.

In front of the bricked-up windows of a church on this border street, where some of the shades are up and some down as they were when the police came to seal them, a funeral wreath marks where Rolf Urban fell to his death in a story leap. He lived through two wars and died in a third. Down the street a 76-year-old woman tried, too.

INSIDE IRON CURTAIN

Which is the concentration camp: East Berlin, whence no one can go anywhere without a specially considered reason, or all across the Bernauerstrasse?...or West Berlin, the most important city in the world, the free city 100 miles inside the iron Curtain, living with its head in the west's mouth and a noose around its neck?

It is difficult to say. A grim semblance of everyday life goes on in both cities. In the lounge of the Berlin Hilton, Omar Lamparter mit seinem Golden City Quintet plays nightly, and in the strip joints of the Kurfurstendamm there is a kind of desperate gaiety; couples seem to dance whether they want to or not, very closely. In the few smart shops clustered about the Friedrichstrasse Station in West Berlin, Paris modes are displayed with what strikes the visitor as defiance.

We crossed the border twice, first by elevated, tense, on the all-but-boycotted S-train, the East German line which loops cursorily through West Berlin. From the train there were brief glimpses of the incredible wall, the barbed wire and tank traps that line the meandering Spree River. At the Friedrichstrasse Station, it took an hour to unmesh the tangle of passport control red tape, a monument to inefficiency in this world of lowering borders.

We wandered briefly in the gray Streets of this other world. Shop windows showed unfamiliar labels — Hungarian and Chinese wines (with English labels), dull magazines in Russian, cone-fashioned Havana cigars. In a book store was a work by Stephen Crane and a biography of P.T. Barnum.

The autos were Russian and Czech uniforms, disturbingly similar to those of Nazi vintage filled the streets.

The book pictures; the impression was too strong, that we might be apprehended at any moment with them. When we innocently photographed the railroad station, a guard with a carbine ran at us, shouting what I led menacingly.

On our return one of our passports was held up at the control station for nearly an hour. There was no explanation, nor was one sought.

The garish neon of the Kurfurstendamm looked uncommonly cheerful as we left the deserted S-train at West Berlin's Zoo station, no longer clutching our passports so tightly, but appreciating them fully for the first time.

The next day we went over in the mass security of the sight-seeing bus, but there was the dawdling at the barrier. We drove beyond the showplaces Brandenburg, beyond Unter der Linden, Wilhelmstrasse and the other places whose names tickle memories dormant for nearly a generation now.

Most of Berlin's imperial palaces, museums and cultural centres were here, and most were bombed out. Unlike West Berlin, they remain largely untouched, weeds and trees growing out of them as in a painting of the eighteenth century, when ruins were esthetically fashionable.

Endless piles of rubble make much of the city a vast junkyard and dumping ground — as in West Berlin—still are pockmarked with bullet holes.

In East Berlin what has been money only for housing and necessary public buildings. Square and gross in the Russian style, they sprawl endlessly bey o nd are plastered the glib slogans and songs of Strength, Joy, Security Work and Freedom.

But beyond the Brandenburg Gate in West Berlin, the contrasts and the stark ugliness of the wall jolt the senses with the force of incandescent shock. Here Freedom is a paradise half-lost, and the word vibrates with true meaning.

Freedom: the most important word in the most important city in the world.

Wants Voice By Processors In Milk Board

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government should consult milk processors as well as dairy farmers in trying to set up a milk marketing board, A. E. Pigeon told the annual convention of the Ontario Milk Distributors Association.

Mr. Gignac, chairman of the Ontario Dairy Processors Council, said the council was not asked to help draw up a milk marketing plan announced last week by the Ontario dairy producers co-ordinating board.

"We feel the dairy processors can make a solid contribution toward a solution to milk marketing problems, he said.

The major problems are the milk surplus and the wide difference in the price paid for fluid milk and milk for manufacturing, he said.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

She Is Sure at Seventeen

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I have just finished reading the letter from "An Exception," who commented on a letter from "Need Help." I'm sorry I missed the other article, but I cannot agree with the reply you gave to "An Exception."

I have been going steady with a guy for almost two and one-half years. When I started going with him, I was only fifteen and he was twenty. Next year by this time, we will have been married already.

This shows that there are exceptions to the hard and fast rule that girls are too young to know at fifteen.—ANOTHER EXCEPTION.

DEAR ANOTHER—Which (I hope) goes to show that where human nature and feelings are involved, there are no hard and fast rules.—Happy landings!

DEAR DORIS—Re "Alone in Canada": I can sympathize with the writer who says: "Why can't I run?" The reason is, I think, the children. It is not easy to run from a home, however bad things are, when there are children to think of.

Imagine trying to settle on the doorstep of some welfare agency with a bunch of children who would be hungry or have other demands to make on a distraught mother. Society should have some alternative. Is it not possible to sue for neglect, mental cruelty or assault without leaving the home?

And what about the husband who can't or won't behave himself? He is surely delinquent, due to some inadequacies, but if he is unable to face up to this, he should surely be removed by law!—INTERESTED IN THE LOT OF WOMAN.

DEAR INTERESTED—If the mother of a family is neglected or assaulted, she may call in the police and have her husband charged in court. The judge will then order him to leave the house or bind him over to keep the peace, or some similar injunction.

If there is unfaithfulness, this may be brought in as a contributory factor to the neglect. Unfaithfulness is not an easy charge to pursue where the husband is not neglecting his family in any other way.

DEAR DORIS—I'm taking Grade 10 this year and I find these subjects hard: social studies, geometry, and science. How can I make it easier to pass exams? There's too much to memorize!—DIANNA.

* * *

DEAR DIANNA—You need to get organized. Either you learn systematic ways to study or you just muddle along. Some people never learn how; they just shrug their shoulders and say, "I can't concentrate and that's that."

Others get the hang of it early and enjoy learning new, wonderful facts and skills all their lives. Anyone can concentrate.

There are books in your own school or public library about studying effectively. If you can't find one, write to me again.

TO UNSUCCESSFUL DEALER WITH THE OPPOSITE SEX—I am sympathetic with your problem and if you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will write you privately about this.

(There's a Canadian resource to meet your need. Doris about it, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your enquiry.)

American Motors Workers Divide $9 Million Profits

DETROIT (AP)—Officers of both American Motors Corporation and the United Auto Workers union expressed approval today with the first payoff of the automobile industry's first profit-sharing plan.

American Motors' pay-out of $9,726,907 into the profit-sharing fund and at the same time gained at least 27,000 stockholders—its entire force of production workers.

Of this amount, $6,511,271 was in cash and $3,255,636 in AMC stock.

On top of this, American Motors set aside $2,604,277 in profit-sharing funds for its 5,200 salaried employees, and still made a net profit of $34,240,821, or $1.83 a share, for its fiscal year that ended Sept. 30.

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

Chairman Richard Gross and President Roy Abernethy said in a joint statement for AMC that "we feel the plan has been very effective in its first year and will be even more so in future years as actual results make better communications possible," adding:

"The progress sharing (AMC's term for profit-sharing) plan provides gains for customers, stockholders and employees."

Douglas Fraser, director of the UAW's American Motors department, said:

"Naturally we are pleased that the first year's experience has proved so favorable," and added that "the first years results encourage and reinforced our belief that plans of this type hold great significance for American industry generally.

Frank Kenodia, Wis., J. Benz, president of UAW local 72, said "We are highly elated by the first profit - sharing split, and Roy Speth, president of UAW local 75 in Milwaukee said that "as a result of these benefits, the employees have become stockholders which will no doubt result in even higher quality rambler automobiles.

Pre-Winter Checkup Is Important

by EUGENE B. MILMOE

Every year, there's sure to be a heavy wave of traffic at service stations when the icy, strangling fingers of Old Man winter suddenly reach out. This last minute rush to avoid freeze damage often causes the car owner to settle for the bare essentials — anti-freeze and winter grade engine oil. Adequate protection certainly calls for more than that.

For example, pre - winter lubrication should include chassis, rear axle, transmission. The thermostat should be tested as be sure it will aid engine warm-up and passenger comfort. Hose and connections should be carefully examined to guard against anti-freeze loss. Battery, choke and carburetor adjustments should be double-checked to assure efficiency for cold weather operation.

And for safety, be ever mindful that defective mufflers, exhaust and tail pipes — worn tires — slight braking deficiencies — become especially dangerous on winter roads.

From F.A.: "There's a harsh noise from the tail end of my car whenever I go around a corner or turn into my driveway. Would the wheels, springs or axle be at fault?"

(A) More than likely it's differential trouble.

W.J. writes: Although I operate two service stations, I'm writing in the interest of safety, not for business gain. Many accidents on slippery roads can be traced to unequal braking which causes one brake to exert more force than the other. This pulls the car to one side and promotes skidding. In most cases, the driver isn't aware that this condition exists."

S.L. asks: "A noise has developed in the left front wheel area of my '60 sedan. As far as I can tell, however there's no effect on steering.

(A) Your description is a bit vague. What kind of noise — when does it occur? Brakes, bearing trouble, shock absorber, spring — or even hub cap noise might be the answer.

From P.N.: Driving on a dirt road I ran over a partly hidden rock which dented in my muffler and part of the tail pipe. Should they be replaced, even though neither is ripped or broken?"

(A) Yes — if they're damaged enough to prevent proper exit of exhaust. This would cause back pressure and hurt engine performance. Secondly, any tiny cracks or holes resulting from the impact will allow dangerous fumes to seep into the car.

Garden Notes

Ferns Are Ideal House Plants

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Ferns make an ideal house plant. Not only do they have a beauty of their own but they emphasize the charm and color of flowering plants placed among them.

They can be started from seed or spores indoors or outdoors. They are quite adaptable to greenhouse or your home. They need only 40 degrees temperature during the winter but can stand much higher temperatures. They must have moisture at all times. Once they are potted up they should have a good circulation of fresh air but no direct draught. Open doors and windows to freshen the air at least once a day for a brief period even in winter. All house plants will benefit from this treatment. Be sure no plant is in direct draught.

Ferns with smooth fronds such as Pteriscretica should be sprayed once a week with tepid water. Hairy leaf types should be sprayed from the pot only.

Some seed companies list a pack containing houseplant ferns as a good mixture. These trial packs cost from 30 cents to one dollar.

To plant, cut a piece of sod two to three inches thick. Turn it over and sterilize the soil and kill weed seeds by pouring over a kettleful of boiling water. Repeat two to three times. Place sod in a shallow pan and keep water in the pan at all times. Water must soak up through the sod to the spores. Sow the spores thinly. They are as fine as pepper. Cover with brown paper until the spores germinate. Keep in a warm shaded place.

In a few days the surface will be covered with a dark green mass. After a few weeks the seedlings will appear with tiny fully developed leaflets. These miniature plants must be transplanted while still very small to give them room to develop. A thin pointed knife is the best tool for this. Set out in flats or large flat bulb pans.

The soil for the flats should be a mix of good soil, leaf mold and sharp sand, one third of each.

When they are stronger and well developed pot up singly. At each stage keep soil moist and the plants out of sunlight.

If you wish to grow ferns from spores, from your own or a friend's plant, you will find the spores in little capsules in rows on the back of the leaves. When the spores are brown cut off a leaf and wrap it in white paper. In a few days you will find that the paper is covered with fine brown powder. This is the spore. Plant as above.

SPORTS

Sport Slices . . .

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The little man seemed strangely out of place in the clutch of sportswriters "talking shop" in the hotel room. He had a wrinkled, weatherbeaten face, sphynx-like in expression until some one passed him the coffee or a reasonable imitation.

It was a post-convention "bull session" with minor hockey the main topic. Then one of the "northern lights" happened to mention hunting—and the eyes of the little man gleamed. He rose to his feet, took a refill of coffee (Irish), cleared his throat, and the first thing we knew he was talking.

He told us of the "wild goose chases" that only hunters of certain financial status can enjoy. He meant it literally for he spoke of the sub-Arctic barrens of James Bay in the Rupert Bay area and the vicinity of Rupert House, the oldest Hudson Bay Company trading post erected in the late 1600's.

Hunting safaris in that district are not exactly "wild goose chases" for it is the place where millions of waterfowl pause to rest before their southward trek.

Occasionally he used strange words which we discovered later were the names of various types of wildfowl. Only he used the Cree Indian language. For it seems that in this desolate stretch, outside of a million or so geese and ducks, are a few thousand Cree Indians and a handful of whites.

The land consists of miles of greasy mudflats, where the ducks, geese and varieties of snipe, plover and other birds feed.

I checked his story with one in the files and the little old man knew whereof he was speaking.

In this goose wonderland two species are most common, the lesser snow goose, pure white with jet-black wingtips, and the blue goose, with white heads and a sprinkling of white on the breast. Brant's geese and the Great Canada geese are sometimes seen.

The ducks are mostly blacks, pintails, teal, and a few shovellers. It seems "Lefty" Whitman's "Operation Greenhead has not reached this far north—yet.

The limit of five geese and six ducks is not difficult to attain. The hunters are plentiful but a lot of them never reach the homes of the hunters for they are deliciously roasted "on the spot." In the main resort or camp, the chef serves them, depending on the clientele, with snails in a sauce and turtle soup.

Hunters do a double flight trip to the spot, most of them coming from Chicago, New York, Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and other large centres.

Mounties do a month's stint there looking after Johnny Canuck's interests. They do fish and game duty and insist upon seeing a hunter's licence as well as checking firearms registrations.

The James Bay Cree Indians are the guides for the visiting nimrods. They are said to be shy and retiring with the "white men," very polite and have but a smattering of English. Among themselves they develop different personalities.

They do not believe in the white man's manufactured gimmicks of bird-calling. In fact they have never heard of them, nor would they use them for they have developed "goose-calls" that are revelations to the hunter.

It is stated that when two or three Crees start "talking" to a flock of blue or snow geese, hunters stand back in amazement. They start with a call that sounds like "kwaaanf" and when the flocks swing in toward them they begin a seductive hiss. The calls can be heard a half-mile away.

I imagine a hunting trip into the Rupert House region would cause quite a dent in the wallet but if you are goose-hunt-minded enough it would be worth while to save the shekels and have yourself a fine hunting vacation.

Flying Wings Meet Zooming Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It took defencemen Kent Douglas and Doug Barkley a long time to get out of the minor leagues, but now they have the National Hockey League wonder where they've been so long.

In the days when juniors hump to the big-league ranks like frogs out of a pond, Barkley spent six years and Douglas five in the minors before joining the top ranks.

Both are doing first - class jobs in their NHL debut, Douglas with Toronto Maple Leafs and Barkley with Detroit Red Wings. That goes for both offence and defence.

Douglas has three goals and five assists in Toronto's 15 games and Barkley two goals and four assists in Wings' 14 games.

Points production is nothing new for either of them. Last season was Barkley's best, when, with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League, he had 25 goals and 49 assists for 74 points, a whopping total for a defenceman.

WINGS 'GRAB 'IM

And after that performance, Chicago Black Hawks let him unprotected in the draft last summer. Detroit grabbed him for the $20,000 draft price.

Douglas had 18 goals and 41 assists for Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League last season. He was once Leaf property, but they let him go and last summer had to give up five minor-leaguers to get him back in a trade with Springfield.

Toronto fans will get a chance to see both in action tonight when the Wings invade Maple Leaf Gardens in the league's only night game.

Chicago Black Hawks are at Detroit in an afternoon game.

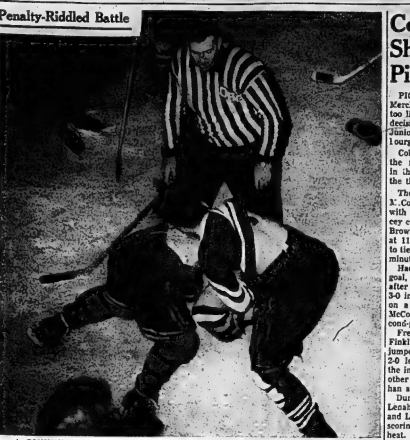
The Wings have a three-point lead over the Black Hawks and have to win tonight if they want to keep a cozy margin. Leafs are third with 17 points.

TRY FOR DEALS

Manager-vice-president Lynn Patrick of last - place Boston Bruins, who are host to Detroit Sunday night, had talks with Montreal and Toronto officials in Toronto Friday and admitted "we're trying to make deals."

"We have all along. I think we might work something out with Montreal. They're worried too. I'm doubtful if we can do any business with Leafs. We made a proposition to Leafs two weeks ago but I haven't heard from them."

Johnny Bower will play goal again tonight for the Leafs. He returned Wednesday night after a three-game layoff and played a good game as Leafs beat Montreal 4-2. His replacement, Don Simmons, is still down with the flu.



Leaf defencemen Bob Baun, who missed Wednesday night's game, and Tim Horton have also been hit by the flu bug and whether they'll see action as yet to be definitely decided.

Left winger Parker MacDonald, who missed Detroit's last game with a leg injury, is expected to be back in action for Detroit.

HEADS GARDENS' BOARDS

TORONTO (CP)—John Bassett, publisher of The Telegram, has been elected chairman of the board of Maple Leaf Gardens, succeeding Conn Smythe who built the Gardens in 1931. Former Toronto Argonaut Hal Ballard and Stafford Smythe, son of the founder, bought the shares held by Conn Smythe.

Penalty-Riddled Battle

Kingston Blanks Juniors 7-0

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Belleville Junior "B's" made their 1962 debut in the OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League here against Kingston Frontenacs last night—if it could be classed as hockey.

The 7-0 victory for Kingston was understandable, considering that it was the first junior action for most of the Belleville players, but that fact offers no excuse for the 110 minutes in penalties divided between the two teams.

The Frontenacs carried the play most of the night, taking a 2-0 lead in the first and upping it to 5-0 in the second. They peppered a busy Sam Haskill with shot after shot while rookie Neil Perry in the Kingston nets played well enough, with a little luck on a couple of occasions, to earn his shutout.

Referees Vern Goyer and Ted Hurst handed out the first penalty at 2.53 of the first period and the last one at 18.46 of the third. The penalty box was full most of the time in between and the Frontenacs took advantage of the extra manpower to score their first two goals. They added another marker while playing four men to five but the locals were unable to finish off their plays while two men up several times.

The winners drew 18 penalties, totalling 64 minutes, and the losers 17 for 46 minutes. The totals included 10 major majors and two miscounts to Kingston and four majors to Belleville.

Garfield Ball and Paul Paquin tangled in the first fight at 6.34 of the opening heat and the loser's Gary Reid also got a major for butt ending four minutes later.

Belleville had four men in the sin-bin and Kingston one when Pete Robertson scored on Lavalee's pass at 12.39. The Frontenacs were two men up when Ron Bryant made it 2-0 at 14.56.

Poor play in their own end of the rink cost the losers all three second-period markers, two by Wayne Cashman and one by Gary McMillan. On two of the plays a Belleville player passed right on to a Kingston man all by himself at Haskill. All seven penalties in this period were minors.

After the losers were unable to score with the Kingston goalie flat on his back over a three-man advantage in the third, the teams settled down to some "serious fighting."

Stu Mulfread of Belleville, gave Ron Earl a sound trouncing at 5.38, four minor penalties being handed out at the same time. Later in the period Earl injured the loser's Don Goodfellow with an elbow, drawing a second major and an automatic misconduct for this offence.

Guy White, of Kingston (minor, 2 majors, miscon.), Bruce, Paquin (2), White (minor, misconduct), Rowland, McMillan (B) (major), Lavallee (minor, major).

drew a minor and misconduct, at 6.18, while Belleville's Gary McMillan bested tough Gary Lavallee in a battle of the fists at 17.01, earning them majors.

In the meantime, Lavalle made it 6-0 at 10.09 and MacMillan scored his second goal on a terrific slap shot at 12.03 for the final 7-0 score.

Belleville's next start will be Monday night in Peterborough.

Cobourg Shades Picton 6-4

PICTON (Special) — Picton Merchants rallied too late and too little as they dropped a 6-4 decision to Cobourg in an OHA Junior "C" game played in Cobourg last night.

Cobourg took a 3-1 lead in the first period, made it 5-2 in the second and 6-2 early in the third.

The merchants fought back. K. Connell scoring on a play with McNeil, at 8.14, and Stacey cutting the lead to 6-4 with Brown and Haddock assisting at 11.11, but they were unable to tie the score in the final nine minutes.

Haddock fired Picton's first goal, Pero setting up the play after Cobourg had gone in front 3-0 in the first. McNeil clicked on a play with Guernsey and McConnell for the losers' second-period goal.

Free, aided by Chase and Finkle, with Free assisting, jumped the home team into a 2-0 lead in the 3:05 mark of the initial period. Chase got another goal, assisted by Lenahan at 5:44.

Dunsford, from Finkle and Lenahan, and Chase from Rowe and Lenahan gave the Cobourg scoring plays in the middle heat. Dunn scored in the third with Lenahan again drawing the assist.

Western Hockey

Seattle Totems must be mighty pleased that team captain Bill MacFarland didn't quit the Western Hockey League to concentrate on law studies.

MacFarland, who had picked up only six points in 12 games when the Totems clashed with the tough Vancouver Canucks, leaders of the Northern Division, Friday night. MacFarland scored two goals and two assists in leading the Totems to a 5-4 triumph.

The victory sent the second-place Totems to within four points of the Canucks.

In other action, Los Angeles Blades belted Calgary Stampeders 5-0 and Spokane Comets edged Edmonton Flyers 5-4 in overtime.

FILION TAKES TWO

At Vancouver, the Totems also got two goals from centre Rudy Filion. Jimmy Powers added a single Al Lebrun, Barry Ross, Larry Popein and veteran Phil Maloney were the Canuck snipers.

A wide 51-28 count and drew ten penalties compared to eight for the Merchants.

Picton's next game will be played in Kingston on Tuesday night.

Larks Boss Predicts

Lose Today-But Win Cup

MONTREAL (CP) — M. E. Ted) Workman predicts his Montreal Alouettes will lose today but the 29-year-old club president says they are going to make it to the Grey Cup anyway.

Workman was commenting on Montreal's prospects in the home - and - home series with Hamilton Tiger - Cats for the Eastern Football Conference playoff title, total points to count.

The opener starts at 1 p.m. EST here with the second game set for Hamilton next Saturday.

Workman said he feels the Als in today's game will "make a few mistakes and lose by a little margin."

But he added: "However, I think we'll go to the Grey Cup by winning in Hamilton."

Bookmakers here made the Als 3½ - point favorites on the strength of the club's sharp performances against Toronto in the final game of the schedule and the semi-final playoff in Ottawa last Saturday.

Hull Nips Millers, Fronts Tie

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull-Ottawa Canadiens are finding the International Hockey League tougher than anyone expected.

Many observers considered the interlocking schedule started this season between the IHL and the Eastern Professional Hockey League would prove only that the IHL is no match for the EPHL.

So far the Canadiens are the only EPHL club to play the U.S. clubs. It hasn't been a walkaway in either of their two games.

Wednesday night the Canadiens defeated Fort Wayne Komets 5-3. Friday night it was even closer, a 4-3 decision for Canadiens over Minneapolis Millers, and an overtime period was needed for the victory.

The win nudged the Canadiens to within one point of the first - place Kingston Frontenacs. The Frontenacs, who have 10 points, tied Sudbury Wolves 3-3 Friday night at Sudbury before 3,100 fans, second largest crowd of the season in the nickel city.

City Hockey Officials Meeting

All managers and team sponsors have been asked to attend a special City Hockey League meeting at secretary-treasurer Bert Faulkner's office 210A Front Street (over Ireland's) Monday night at eight o'clock.

League president Cliff Beich said the meeting has been called to clear up a couple of matters of importance and has asked that all sponsors and managers do their best to attend.

Recommends $186,000

Council OK's Grants

OTTAWA (CP)—The national fitness council recommended to the government Friday grants totalling $186,000 for various Canadian sports bodies.

Not all the recommendations may be acceptable to the government as it was to have imposed a $1,000,000 ceiling on council expenditures in the 1962-63 fiscal year as part of its austerity program. The statutory appropriation calls for fitness and amateur sport is $5,000,000.

The council had previously recommended grants, accepted by the government, totalling some $580,000.

Biggest grant recommended Friday was for $50,000 to the Pan-American Games committee to help Canadians participate in the games at Sau Paulo, Brazil, next April.

CLINICS GET GRANTS

A grant of $50,000 to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for five clinics for coaches, referees and managers was also approved but it is for the 1963-64 fiscal year.

The council recommended a grant of $30,000 to the Calgary olympic development association to promote Banff, Alta., as the site for the 1968 Winter Olympics. The government had already announced it would support such action.

Other grants recommended: Amateur Athletic Union of Canada—$9,000 for Pan-American Games trials in wrestling, boxing, weightlifting and gymnastics.

Boys Clubs of Canada—$6,000 to train administrative personnel.

Canadian Figure Skating Association—$10,000 to send competitors to the world championships at Cortina, Italy, next year.

Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union—$18,000 for coaching clinics. Refused was the union's application for a grant to hold Canada - football, hockey and basketball championships.

Canadian Snowshoers Union —$2,000 for organization.

Canadian Yachting Association—$750 to assist in instructors' seminars to foster club and family participation in sailing.

Canadian Youth Hostels Association—$4,750 for a survey of a chain of hostels in Ontario and Quebec.

"Needles' At Work"

BY JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

PERTH, Australia (CP) — Adrian Metcalfe, one of England's quarter-millers, saw Vancouver runner Harry Jerome on the practice field this week and innocently inquired: "Are you still running, Harry?"

Jerome replied: "Does your leg still hurt, Adrian?"

This is an example of the psychological warfare going on at Perth, where 37 countries limber up in preparation for the seventh British Empire Games that will be officially opened by the Duke of Edinburgh next Thursday.

The needling is part and parcel of the behind-the-scenes manoeuvring, particularly among the track competitors.

Friday, probably the greatest needler of them all—Mike Agostini of Trinidad—was around the training track in street clothes. He recalled in an interview his "coming" days as a schoolboy and when he later admitted in a magazine article that he took under-the-table money.

The interview developed into a ball - session with one-time middle-distance runner Gordon Pirie, contradicting Agostini's contention that many races, particularly the big ones, are won on the sidelines by needling.

"That's a lot of nonsense and doesn't apply to distance runners who are a bunch of intelligent fellows," Pirie said. "Sure some chaps have tried it but the races were won by legs not by somebody else's big mouth."

Jerome admitted that some needling was going on.

"I'm here to win and that sort of stuff is not going to bother me," he said.

Jerome, Dave Steen of Burnaby, B.C., and Yvonne Breeden of Vancouver warmed up briefly on the track Friday afternoon in preparation for Saturday's pre-games meets at Burnaby and Vancouver.

The sun, which has been behind the clouds most of the day, came out bright and temperatures were about 65.

Earlier in the day the Canadian oarsmen had what was described as their "toughest this year" on a course buffeted by stiff headwinds. The crew is hoping for a crosswind when the games' rowing starts.

"We are working harder than we ever did," said coach Larry West of Vancouver. We feel we can use it when it's good, hard wind. The weather is colder in Vancouver than here and we haven't rowed under these warmer conditions for some time. We're not waiting for conditions to improve."

Bruce Kidd of Toronto is hoping to become Canada's first four - minute miler today at Burnaby in a race against men nudging four minutes and the conditions are right he just might make it.

Kidd felt tired Thursday after a stiff workout but was back to normal Friday. He hasn't any planned strategy.

"I never really plan much from meets to meet," he said. "I just keep up my normal training and try to keep in peak condition all the time."

Hornung To Play Sunday

Packers Gild The Lily

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay Packers, probably in danger of losing a National Football League game one of these seasons, may have Paul Hornung back at fullback on Sunday to lend assistance to an attack that hasn't missed him a bit.

Paul, the league's most valuable player last season, comes back after a month of leg trouble to beef up r Packer squad that has won all nine of its games.

For once, the Packers may need him since the defending NFL champs face Baltimore Colts, who held them to a 17-6 margin the last time the two met.

Philadelphia Eagles, flops of the 1962 season, move against the gangbuster New York Giants, still reeling from last week's 49-0 loss to Green Bay. In other games, the two front runner-up Detroit Lions (7-2) are at Minnesota against the Vikings (3-7), Chicago Bears (4-4) are at Dallas, against the Cowboys (4-4), San Francisco 49ers (3-6) meet the Rams (1-8) at Los Angeles, Washington Redskins (2-5-2) take on the Steelers (5-4) at Pittsburgh and St. Louis Cardinals (2-6-1) clash with the Browns (4-4-1) in Cleveland.

Red Wings Beat Royals

Baby Habs Nip Flyers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

What more could a club that is behind two goals ask than a five-minute major to open proceedings with five minutes left in the game?

That's the opportunity Guelph Royals had Friday night. They blew it.

They blew it so badly that they didn't even get a shot on goal from 15:01 of the third period, when John Gibbon of Hamilton Red Wings got a major penalty for spearing, to the end of the game.

And the Red Wings, springing back fast from a seven-game winless streak, went home 4-2 victors. It was their second win in a row.

In the only other game Friday night, Montreal Canadiens pounced on first-place Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 5-4.

COUNT FOR HAMILTON

Cotton, Paul Henderson, Bob Thomas and Pit Martin scored the Hamilton goals. The marksmen for Guelph, in last place, were Jim Hodge and Leo Martel.

Germain Gagnon and Bill Inglis were the other Montreal marksmen. Gary Dornhoefer and Ron Hergott scored for Niagara Falls.

Bets 15-1 No Rain For Game!

MONTREAL (CP) — Lloyds of London are willing to bet better than 15 to 1 that it won't rain in Hamilton Nov. 24 during the final game of the Eastern football conference playoff between Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

It works out this way. Canadian Pacific Railway has a package deal for fans wanting to see the game. For $15.75 a fan gets return coach fare ticket and a ticket to the game. For $1 he gets rain insurance.

If it rains one-tenth of an inch or more during the game the fan gets his $15.75 back, whether he actually attends the game or not.

The idea is the brain child of a couple of CPR employees who, along with 500 other Alouette fans, went to Ottawa last Saturday for the sudden-death semi-final, won by the Als over Ottawa Rough Riders.

It rained and rained during the game and all got soaked. So the CPR made inquiries of Lloyds of London, and the rain insurance is the result.

Maroons Sink Rams 8-0

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sarnia Rams are leading in several departments in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, and the other five clubs would just as soon keep it that way.

It's nothing new for the Rams. They were the weak sisters in all departments last season and, at the present rate, are going to clinch again.

In nine games they have scored 28 goals and opposition teams have scored more than double that—61—against them.

The win moved Chatham into third place with 11 points. Woodstock Athletics beat the fourth - place Flyers scored two goals and George Aitken, George Usitalo, Elmer Skov, Bob Pole, Dale Lucich and Joe Malo got one each.

It took only 31 seconds for the Athletics, playing before a home crowd of 1,200, to finish off Galt. In that space of time early in the second period Bernie Lawrence and Butch scored goals for Woodstock to break a 1-1 tie. Neil Cockburn scored other. Woodstock goal and Hay tallied for Galt.

CALGARY (CP) — Freezing temperatures and a cold southeast wind were forecast for the opening game today of the Western Football Conference finals between Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

A snow blower stood by at McMahon Stadium in case the weatherman called for more snow. Kickoff time was set for 2:30 p.m. MST.

But before they stepped on to the gridiron, oddsmakers Friday had installed them as front-runner favorites to win the opener and nine-point favorites to take the best-of-three series.

Halifax Surgeon Spends Nights, Weekends Writing Scripts for TV Stories

By DAVID NICHOLSON

HALIFAX (CP)—In the day-to-day practice of surgeon Arthur Murphy there's little to suggest the second side of his career—writing.

The dignified, quiet - spoken Dr. Murphy has his day well-filled with office and hospital duties. At night and on weekends he writes.

His writing was born of hardship during the Depression. He did it to "help keep alive." He started with short stories, then switched to plays. A recent effort, No Not Gently Into the Night, was seen a few weeks ago on the Ben Casey television series.

Being both a doctor and writer, he is perhaps better equipped than most people to comment on TV doctor shows such as Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare.

"Both shows exaggerate—for dramatic purposes," he says, "but they are technically good. They write them down a bit so that more people can understand them, but they're still good and give a fairly good representation of medicine."

READY-MADE IDEAS

Dr. Murphy says ideas for the Casey shows aren't hard to come by. "Pick up almost any neurosurgical journal and you've got a potential plot in every article."

His Ben Casey story dealt with a contest between a pathologist and surgeon. Previously, he had four dramas produced by CBC television and several on radio.

Dr. Murphy isn't the only member of his family interested in plays nor is he the first interested in medicine. His father, the late Dr. George Murphy, was Nova Scotia's health minister. His daughter Joanne is an actress married to actor Paul Carr and living in Los Angeles. He also has two sons.

It was Joanne's youthful interest in the theatre, in fact, that drew Dr. Murphy back to writing after a lapse during the Second World War when, he says, it was "impossible to write." Medical duties during the war kept him busy 16 hours a day seven days a week.

His published works include a history of medicine, medical review articles and articles in Canadian and U.S. medical journals.

One of his most sensitive plays is one laid around a coal mine on Nova Scotia's Cape Breton Island (he was born in the coal-mining town of Dominion, N.S., 56 years ago). It has been on radio and he hopes to have it shown on CBC-TV and then on stage.

One of his most recent ventures was participation in the establishment of the Neptune Theatre in Halifax. He is president of the Neptune Theatre Foundation which has a theatre on a movie house originally built for stage plays. It starts its first season here next summer and later will tour the Atlantic provinces.

Dr. Murphy is associate professor of surgery at Dalhousie University, his alma mater. He says he writes because he feels it's a "creative outlet."

"It's relaxing after a difficult day as a surgeon. I'm almost never too tired to spend some time at night on my writing. I think it complements the practice of medicine."

He won't admit writing is just a hobby. "With me it's part time but I take it seriously." On the other hand, medicine comes first.

"I'd never think of leaving medicine for writing."

DOCTOR IS AN AUTHOR—Dr. Arthur Murphy, a Halifax surgeon, is also a successful writer of short stories and plays. Dr. Murphy's plays have been seen on television in the United States and Canada and his published works include a history of medicine. - (CP Photo)

RUSSIANS WIN

MONTREAL (CP) — Russia's touring national hockey team scored with less than three minutes to play to take a 2-1 win over Montreal Wednesday Friday night before 4,300 fans.

The Russian All-Stars opened their nine-game Canadian tour with a 7-3 win over Ottawa Montcrards in Ottawa Thursday night.

The Russians had a wide edge in play in the first period here and took a 1-0 lead on a goal by centre Boris Mayorov.

Forward Vladislav Petukhov scored the winning goal on a long looping shot from the blue line at 17:18 of the third period. 13 minutes after forward Lucien Chagnon of Montreal had tied the score on a close-in drive. The second period was scoreless.

Syndicate Takes Over

Braves Bring 5½ Million

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A syndicate of six young midwest business executives and Milwaukee Braves president John McHale assumed the job of rebuilding the baseball club's sagging fortunes today after purchasing control of the National League entry from Lou Perini.

Perini, 59-year-old construction magnate with headquarters near the Massachusetts border, announced the sale of 90 per cent of the club's assets for $5,500,000 Friday.

Perini, who started the baseball world by moving the Braves to Milwaukee shortly before the start of the 1953 season, surprised most observers with the announcement at a press conference.

He said his corporation will retain a 10-per-cent interest and he will remain as chairman of the executive committee and as a member of the board of directors.

The syndicate of new owners is headed by former directors of Chicago White Sox — William C. Bartholomay, 34, of Lake Forest, Ill., and Lake Geneva, Wis., and Thomas A Reynolds Jr., 34, of Northfield, Ill. Bartholomay is a Chicago insurance broker and Reynolds a partner in a Chicago business firm.

McHale, 41, Perini's choice to become general manager in 1952 and later given additional responsibility of president last year, will remain in both positions as well as being a co-owner.

Canada Outdoors

By JOE ROUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP) — Reg R. Fife is a little man's sailor in a big man's water.

The Montreal tree - lance writer and president of the Outdoor Writers of Canada claims to have been the first man to sail the 2,400-mile St. Lawrence Seaway in a small pleasure boat.

He and truck driver Ed Langley made a 2,000-mile research trip for a magazine article in 1959, travelling all the way to Lake Huron and surviving two encounters in Lake Erie, frigid cold in the Welland Canal and ice cakes in the St. Lawrence River.

Fife figures he and his wife Alma and their two sons, Bill, 15, and Jack, 11, have travelled 20,000 miles over the Seaway and connecting inland waters in a 1905 converted steel-hulled lifeboat he calls "my other home."

He may not be the typical small-boat owner on the Seaway because he spends most of his time there. But he can be identified with a new breed of Canadians that has the time and authority describes as "just as much our customers as big business."

BUILD FACILITIES

In 1961 Seaway locks handled 5,225 pleasure cruisers, mostly on weekends.

About $2,000,000 has been invested by private interests in shore facilities to accommodate pleasure craft and boaters. There are no more than 40 miles from a gas pump.

Seaway regulations bar ships of less than 20 feet in over-all length or one ton dead-weight from using the canals, thus avoiding the rowboat type of traffic.

While pleasure craft are generally handled on a first-come, first-served basis, regulations provide that fifty-any deep-sea cargo ships get priority.

Some regulations create friction with pleasure boaters. The $2 toll on each of the Seaway's seven locks is perhaps the most irritant. Boaters must moor at each lock and scramble a half-mile, sometimes over high river banks, to the lock master's office to pay the fee.

"For those of us who are robust this becomes only a matter of inconvenience," says Fife. "However, a large number of us are not quite as robust as that."

For families, there is a danger in leaving youngsters alone while dad is away dealing with the lock master, he says, adding that he regards the $2 fee as discriminatory.

Green clearance lights on bridges are a "ridiculous nuisance," he says. "It seems ridiculous for a craft with seven-foot clearance to wait until a bridge, in a given position and with 42½ - foot clearance, is raised to 120 feet simply so the green light can flash."

Many boaters ignored the signal lights and committed "an inconvenience rather than a hazard," he says.

Fife says Seaway authorities appear to have lost sight of the "tremendous potential commercial value of the tourist aspect of the seaway."

Canada has been completely engrossed in the commercial aspects."

But he concedes some of the blame belongs to the boaters themselves. Many have banded together in large enough numbers to make their views heard.

Fife's favorite spot is Lake On tario's Thousand Islands area. A good, leisurely two-week trip, he says, is from Kingston to Kingston and back, 600 miles through 60 inland and Seaway islands. Another favorite is the 300-mile round-trip from Montreal to Sorel, Que., and up the Richelieu River to Lake Champlain.

Sports Snapshots

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With only one-fifth of the season gone, the National Hockey League seems well on the way to matching or surpassing last year's turnover among goaltenders.

Already 11 goalies have seen action as against a total of 14 during the whole of the 1961-62 season.

Only Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings has played all his team's games. And this is a switch: Terry hasn't played a full 70-game season since 1957-58 and has only three complete tertils in 12 years.

Perhaps the best indication of the insecurity in the netminding union is that even Glenn Hall of Chicago Black Hawks, who hadn't missed a game in eight previous seasons, has been sidelined.

Admittedly some of the changes in goal have been planned. Boston Bruins, for example, announced before the season started that 31-year-old Bobby Perreault would share duties with another veteran, Don Simmons.

Toronto Maple Leafs also switched goalies a couple of weeks ago when veteran Johnny Bower wasn't in his usual form. Leafs elevated Don Simmons.

Jacques Plante, originator of the mask in the NHL and six-time winner of the Vezina Trophy during eight regular seasons with Montreal Canadiens, has been hit hardest by injuries this season.

This isn't new to Plante, however. Despite the mask, the 33-year-old Plante has had only one 70-game season and that was last term when he was credited with much of the drive that led Canadiens to their fifth straight league title.

Plante started this season but was the victim of a 5-0 defeat by Bruins and after the game it was disclosed he was suffering from a longtime ailment, asthma.

In the next four weeks he continued to battle various respiratory ailments. Finally he was pronounced fit but after ending Detroit's 10 - game undefeated streak he was forced out again by a pulled leg muscle.

During Plante's absence, Ernie Wakely, called up from Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Professional League for one game, and Cesare Maniago, who played in 11 games, filled in. Wakely showed he was pinched nerve in his back. It forced the veteran out of his 50rd consecutive game in the 1961 period. He missed the Hawks' next contest and his amazing iron - man streak was ended at 552 games including playoffs. Dennis Dejordy, 23 - year - old Buffalo goalie, was called up to replace Hall.

The league's other regular goalie, Lorne (Gump) Worsley, has managed to keep his strange sequence of injuries intact. He must own some kind of a record for having to be replaced during a game.

Three weeks ago at New York in a game against Chicago, Worsley developed a stiff neck and was replaced by Marcel Pelletier in the third period. It was the fifth straight season some one had to be called from the stands to fill in for him.

Last season he was forced from two games, both in the second period. The first time Danny Olesevich replaced him. Then it was Dave Dryden.

In 1958-59 and again the following season, Joe Schaefer was forced into action when Worsley hit the ice relief from a game and in 1958-59 Julian Klymkiw replaced him.

Now the goalies who filled in for the Gumper have played an NHL game since. And don't look for Worsley to be replaced in the near future.

Pelletier has been in pro hockey 14 seasons. The 35-year-old native of Drummondville, Que., did have a six-game trial 12 years ago with Chicago, but his age is against him now and it seems to be the kiss of death to be called in when Worsley is put out of action.

Iron Companies

manipulated to improper advantage by businessmen.

Mr. Nowlan defended this, maintaining that existing regulatory machinery is adequate to deal with any attempts at fraud.

Dealing with complaints that the measure would bring "windfall" benefits to exporters already prospering from the devaluation of the dollar, Mr. Nowlan said the government is not unduly concerned about this.

"Without this provision in the bill there is a very great danger some of these investments would not be made and it is for that reason, and that reason alone, that this amendment is being brought forward."

Mr. Pickersgill (L—Bonaventure-Twillingate) agreed with Mr. Nowlan.

The two iron companies operating in Newfoundland and the one in Quebec have "very large Canadian shareholdings," said Mr. Pickersgill.

"I do not know of any United States companies that are more conscious of the matter of Canadianizing their operations to the maximum extent possible than are those companies. I think it is fair, before they are doing the kind of thing we have all said we wanted them to do, to recognize that fact."

There was continuing need to expand exports so as to ease the country's balance - of - payments problem.

FIGHTS TAX CONCESSION

Arguing against the concession to foreign-owned iron ore companies, Mr. Gre-oire referred to Quebec's Ungava development and said : "we just have a couple of men working while our minerals are transported to other countries to be processed."

He stated: "If a 15-per-cent tax is imposed on non-resident companies over what resident companies pay, then surely our resident companies will see they have the benefit of better conditions to develop our mines and natural resources."

Mr. Nowlan replied:

ask Henry

Henry invites letters from readers. For the most interesting letter he receives each week, he will award a copy of his best-selling book, "Ask Henry," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

This week's winner is Mrs. V. Petersen, Rock Island, Ill.

Dear Henry—I want to know why we have homework on the days the best shows are on TV. On Tuesday I don't have so much homework and that's the night Red Skelton is on—HELEN.

Dear Helen—If you ever counted up the time you feel around, you would be surprised. You could do your homework three times over and watch your program with ease.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a pen pal. I write to him but he is so lazy and doesn't write back.—SORE.

Dear Sore—Write him this letter: "Dear Pen Pal—"I was sorry to hear about your broken Write arm. Hope you get better soon."—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I wanted to buy a camera for $6.50. My mother said I could save my allowance of 50 cents a week. Soon, after weeks of saving I had all they sooner need and I asked my mother to take me downtown. She said "I don't think you should buy it." Well this meant war. I want your decision to show my parents. Thank you.—MARY LEE.

Dear Mary Lee—Your parents said they would let you buy the camera if you saved up the money. You did, and they should.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—Please help me. I'm 16 and a little behind most girls at 16 to be interested in boys. Well, I just got interested in this boy in my class. He is simply wonderful—except every time he goes near me I'm so clumsy.

Another thing, how can I make a conversation with him? I hardly ever talked to boys in my whole life except the ones I really know very well and used to hang around with when I was younger. But this boy is different.—CLUMSY.

Dear Clumsy—Being clumsy—it is because you just think that you are clumsy and then you act like you are. Tell yourself that you are not and don't be. As for conversation, I don't know much about that, but I do know that if you keep trying it will come.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a problem. I work a good 15 minutes and I think I should get a good 15 cents for allowance. Do you think it's reasonable.—GARY.

Dear Gary—I see you want to become a millionaire. The best way is good honest work and not grudging your parents out of their life savings. Shame on you. Let your parents make the rate.—HENRY.

The Golden Years

Nursing Home for Ill Mother Proved Best for All Involved

By THOMAS COLLINS

A retired parent is alone and ailing. There are five children. Should one of these children bring the parent in, or should the five of them pay to put her in a nursing home?

Here is the torturous road by which one good young daughter-in-law came to the nursing home decision:

"My husband's mother was 74," she says, "and was being released from the hospital after breaking her hip. She wanted to come live with my husband and me and our three small children.

"We agreed to try it out. If it worked we would take the money from the sale of mother's home and add a room and bath in our house for her — provided her other four children agreed to this..."

She wrote them (all were living in other states) and eventually all agreed and in the main expressed relief that the mother was not to be their responsibility.

"So we moved her in," the young daughter-in-law continues. "We were not willing to finance the addition to our house until we saw things would work out, so we put our three children in one room, with a wall-to-wall mattress, and gave Mother a private room.

"I encouraged her to read, do handwork and gave her mending, but her eyes didn't hold out." I took her down for new glasses. They didn't help. Soon there were other ailments. We changed doctors for her. This helped a little, but not much.

DIDN'T HAVE TIME

"More and more mother wanted to talk to me, always about the past and nearly always about how nice life used to be for her. I didn't have time to listen — not with all the things that must be done for an aging woman who couldn't get to the bathroom by herself, for three small children, for washing, ironing and meals, and for a husband..."

Soon the novelty of Grandma's being in the house had worn off, and bickering and trouble were beginning in the small room where the three children were. Life in the home..."

"Whom should I care for first? The children? Mother? My husband?

"I was spreading myself so thin trying to do the extra mile for everybody that I drained myself physically and spiritually. A pall began to come over the house. There wasn't fun and laughter anymore..."

But worst of all, she says, was the effect on the children. "Our seven-year-old begged not to be left alone with Grandma because he was afraid she would die. When she groaned, as she did occasionally, he would run out of the house or into the crowded children's room and cover his head so he couldn't hear her. There were different problems with the younger ones..."

Actually, according to the wife, mother was no happier with the situation than the rest of the family. "She was basically a good woman, and it hurt her to see me working from 6:30 in the morning until 11 at night.

HAD A TALK

So one day they had a talk. And it was agreed that an extra room on the house wouldn't solve things. A $40,000 house couldn't. Even a $100,000 house might not be big enough. Perhaps mother would be better off in a nursing home.

The daughter-in-law explains how it was handled financially: mother had a lifetime $62 a month from the death of her husband. The sale of her house assured another $60 a month for a period of 10 years. Each child agreed to pay $10 a month, for $50 more. This totalled $173, and the room, board and care for mother in the nursing home was $150 a month.

"Mother is much happier," the daughter-in-law says. "She gets all the attention and care she needs, and more. She has company around her all the time, and the nurses do special favors for her because she is friendly and makes few demands.

"We invite mother to our house for dinner now...and often. We visit her once or twice a week. She tells us she wouldn't mind spending the rest of her

Rawdon

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Norman McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell, enjoyed the Stirling Horticultural trip to the Royal Winter Fair on Saturday, November 10th. The latter four viewed the Ice Capades that afternoon.

Recently, Allan Wrightman shot a deer in the Haywood hunting area and on the following day at the same hour he was fortunate in shooting another. His father, Mr. Milford Wrightman, shot an eight-point buck on the same morning.

Mrs. George Carlisle, chairman of the leadership development committee of the UCW, and Mrs. Garman Sine, literature secretary, attended four workshop meetings last week. Tuesday afternoon they attended at Bancroft and that evening at Marlbank. On Wednesday afternoon they visited Bloomfield and that evening at Stirling Street United Church in Trenton.

Aspects of Educational Program In Belleville Topic at H-S Meet

"Unless you put education into a side-pocket; remove it from community interests as a whole, you have to lay out a program which is geared to reasonable needs and explanations and then try to follow the program, there are few really good ideas existing in education. Almost everything has been tried somewhere by someone. The educational program in Belleville has resulted from a careful and continuous sifting of these ideas over many years." stated Mr. I. A. Kells, superintendent and chief inspector of Belleville Public Schools, at the October meeting of the Avondale Home and School Association.

Mr. Kells explained some of the aspects of the educational program which have been adopted in Belleville, as a result of this "sifting" process. He noted the problem of transportation of public school children to senior schools in the city was of special interest to Avondale residents, since grade 8 children in this area have started to attend Queen Mary School in September.

NO PROVINCIAL CONTRIBUTION

He explained that though School Boards may buy and operate buses for pupils, there is no desire, the province makes no contribution towards costs unless the pupils must travel more than two miles to the school building. Therefore, the policy of the Belleville Public School Board, at present, provides transportation only for a child who is physically handicapped to the point where he is unable to attend school without such transportation, and for a child who must attend school in more than one school building in one day. The cost of providing this limited amount of transportation runs to about $1,000 per annum.

15 ROOMS

The Belleville Public School Board has deliberately limited the size of school buildings to a maximum of 15 rooms, partly so that the principal will have the opportunity to 'know' each pupil well, and also so that Belleville Schools can be classed as 'neighborhood schools.'

Mr. Kells also noted that many Toronto-school children have to travel at their own expense, much greater distances than do Belleville school children. He concluded that any change in the Board's present policy would quite probably complicate the issue.

SR. SCHOOL ADVANTAGES

The speaker indicated that the advantage of the senior school system outweighs any inconveniences which might result from having to travel a little further to school. Chief advantages cited by Mr. Kells were that specialization was possible in a senior school and that streaming in a senior school prepares a pupil for the rotation and specialization in high school.

It was pointed out that, as a community grows, a school board can provide accommodation for the increased school population either by altering existing schools or by adding to the school area or by altering the school set-up. Most cities in Southern Ontario are now chosen the latter course.

CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT

The final subject discussed by Mr. Kells was that of curriculum development. He remarked that the Ontario Association for Curriculum Development had recently proposed that oral French be introduced as a subject in elementary schools, and that a school board could include oral French in the curriculum provided that the approval of the Minister of Education had been obtained.

While acknowledging that the results of a questionnaire circulated by the Belleville Home and School Council had shown that considerable interest in the teaching of oral French existed in Belleville, Mr. Kells noted that there were three big drawbacks to introducing oral French as a subject to be taught during regular school hours: extra expense, possibility that oral French teachers would be itinerant and therefore would not 'blend' with the staff of any school; and the fact that the cost of oral French would be imposed on all the taxpayers whether they were in favor or not, were cited as the main 'stumbling blocks.'

Mr. Kells indicated that the question of whether to teach history and geography separately or combine them as social studies, had been proved mildly contentious. In 1951 a directive in favor of combining the two subjects as social studies in Ontario schools had led to much objection from many school boards.

MORE FLEXIBLE POLICY

In 1959 the Department of Education introduced a more flexible policy when it issued an instruction that in any one high school district it was the inspector's job to see that one method was chosen and adopted. "In the Belleville district," noted Mr. Kells, "history and geography are combined as specified studies in the lower grades while in the upper grades, though the subjects are linked, they are taught separately."

Mr. Kells was introduced by Alderman Ellis and thanked by Mrs. H. Heslip.

During the business meeting, Mrs. S. S. Harvie announced that the Belleville Recreation Commission had generously provided boards and lights for a skating rink at the school and that if any parents had extra residents might loan or donate boards for a second rink.

$61.28 FOR UNICEF

Mrs. J. McCullough announced that $61.28 had been collected in the area for UNICEF this year and Mrs. R. Hedel asked for whole-hearted support for the bake sale which will be held at the school in December.

The attendance plaque was won by Mrs. Moorecroft's room.

Mothers of Mrs. Armstrong's room served coffee and cookies at the conclusion of the meeting.

New Telephone Directory Has Pages in Eskimo Tongue

MONTREAL (CP)—The gradually increasing popularity of the telephone among Eskimos of the far north is reflected in the new Northwestern Territories telephone directory.

Along with English and French, it now contains three pages in the Eskimo language.

"As far as we know, it is the first telephone directory in Eskimo syllabics," said Mike Kondracki, manager of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, which issued the directory.

The cover of the directory, which carries a sketch of a sealskin kayak on its rack against a Hudson Bay background, at Port Harrison, has the title in three languages—"Northeastern Territories"—at the top, "Territoires du Nord-Est" below, and still further down a short Eskimo word that means "people who live in Eskimo country."

The directory is the third issued since Bell initiated service in 1959. The first directory, in 1960, covered Yellowknife and Goose Bay. The new one also covers Fort Chimo, Fort George, Northwest River, Port Harrison, Povungnituk, Great Whale, Cartwright and Paint Hills.

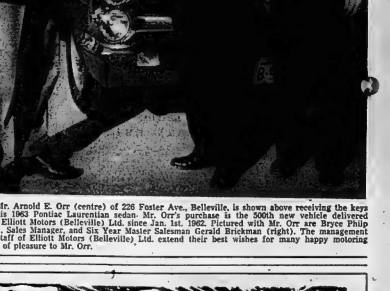
LIKE COLORED PHONES

There are about 1,000 telephones in the region, including 100 among Eskimos, 90 of them in homes and one in a barber shop. And there are 15 colored phones in Eskimo homes.

The three pages of syllabics are chiefly for the benefit of Eskimos in Frobisher Bay, Fort Chimo, Povungnituk and Great Whale and consist of long lists of locations in the use of telephones in both manually operated (Frobisher) and dial operated (Chimo, Povungnituk and Great Whale).

Eskimo syllabics, which consist of symbols rather than an alphabet, pose problems for translators. It's difficult to make a literal translation from English to Eskimo, and "long distance" becomes "if you want to call someone a very long distance away."

Translation, undertaken by the linguistic branch of the department of northern affairs, also had to consider the different Eskimo dialects.



"Every effort has been made to make sure the Eskimo translation would be both accurate and readily understood by the Eskimos concerned," said Mr. Kondracki.

2 Gunmen Rope 45 In Toronto Bank

Daring Action Of Accountant Foils Robbery

Believed Walkie-Talkie Used By Armed Bandits

TORONTO (CP)—Action by quick-witted Bank of Montreal accountant early today thwarted a robbery attempt by two men at the bank's Yonge and Front Streets branch after bandits handcuffed, tied and gagged 45 employees.

Accountant W. H. O'Brien escaped from a downstairs room and raised the alarm, five minutes before a timing device would have admitted the bandits into the main vault.

Police believe the two men broke into the bank Sunday night or early this morning and waited for bank employees to arrive.

As employees entered they were gagged and forced at gunpoint into rooms and locked in. Some were handcuffed and tied to chairs.

Bank Manager Herb Joyce, 59, the last to arrive, said the men called him by name as he entered the main floor, threatened to shoot him, and tied and gagged him.

Shots were fired and two bullets crashed through an upstairs window.

Police believe the bandits had radio contact with an accomplice outside in a car.

Shortly after dying Mr. Joyce they fled empty-handed.

Police said when the alarm was raised they were told two bandits were still inside the outer vault.

Hacked and tossing tear gas bombs to flush the men out, police were mistaken for more bandits by an employee who had worked free, armed himself with a revolver and started shooting.

The two men in the vault were employees, locked in by the bandits.

Nobody was injured and police rescued the two men before they were overcome with the gas.

THREE PROPOSED NEW AGENCIES TO BE DEBATED

House Hopes to Get Down to Hard Work

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons, in the eighth week of its new and still politically uncertain life, may finally get its teeth into some new legislation this week.

The government scheduled debate on establishment of three new state planning agencies which it expects will chart a steady and smooth growth of the economy into the long-range future.

They are the national economic development board, an Atlantic development board, and a manpower consultation service.

Amendments also are to be made to the act incorporating the National Productivity Council which, the government says, has been quietly at work in its field of finding ways for Canada to "build a better mousetrap" industrially—but which the opposition says has been crippled by the withdrawal of a labor representative.

FORECAST EARLIER

Establishment of the economic development and Atlantic development boards was forecast in the throne speech at the opening of the session on Sept. 27, and they were regarded as highlights of the legislative program proposed by the government.

But since Parliament opened, it has spent most of its time in general debates, extending existing laws, and ratifying the budget proposals introduced before last June's general election.

The newly-elected MPs, particularly Social Crediters who claim they exercise a balance of power in the Commons, grew restive at the lack of new acc omplishment by Parliament.

It was reported there were a number of talks among party whips and leaders in an endeavor to correct the impression Parliament was creating. led to Veterans Minister Churchill, the government's House leader in the Commons, taking the unusual course for him last week of outlining all that the government hopes Parliament will debate this week.

He called for foreign investment and said "our aims are Socialist, but socialism cannot be created in a few months or in a few years."

Free Democrats Withdraw From Adenauer's Cabinet

CP from Reuters-AP

BONN—The leadership of the West German Free Democratic Party today voted to pull its five ministers out of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrat coalition government.

An FDP spokesman made the announcement in Nuernberg where the party's leaders were in session. The spokesman said the leadership accepted a proposal that the five ministers resign.

The FDP, junior partner in the coalition with Adenauer's Christian Democrats, was seen as using the resignations in a bid to force the chancellor to reshuffle his cabinet and ease out Defence Minister Franz-Josef Strauss for his role in the police action against the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel.

Politicians speculated that Strauss would leave the defence job after the Bavarian elections next Sunday. Strauss heads the dominant-party in Bavaria, the Christian Social Union, an affiliate of Adenauer's Christian Democrats.

Strauss, a chief figure in the three-week Der Spiegel affair, incurred the wrath of both the opposition Socialists and the Free Democrats by first denying any part in the matter and then conceding in Parliament he was instrumental in the arrest of one reporter.

The five persons under arrest were detained on suspicion of treason. Since the magazine had been consistently opposed to Strauss and critical of his defence administration, the action against it was generally believed to be a reprisal. Strauss has denied this.

Adenauer conferred with Free Democrats Sunday in an effort to settle the crisis but failed.

The drive against Strauss gained further impetus Sunday when Herman Dufhues, executive secretary of Adenauer's Christian Democratic party, strongly indicted he is siding with opponents of Strauss.

GAULLIST UNION GETS SWEEPING BACKING IN VOTE

Old Line Parties Given Bad Whipping

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle today emerged from the first round of the National Assembly elections with a new and resounding victory over France's old line political parties.

The Gaullist Union for a New Republic (UNR), with a one-plank platform of unswerving loyalty to de Gaulle, displaced the Communists as France's strongest political party.

The UNR won 59 of the 104 seats decided Sunday and led in 134 of the 369 districts or metropolitan France where runoffs will be held next Sunday. The party's share of the popular vote nearly doubled, from 17.5 per cent in 1958 to 31.9 per cent.

Although Interior Minister Roger Frey predicted the UNR would wind up with a majority in the 481-member assembly—something unheard of in modern French politics—this appeared unlikely. Even if it won all the runoffs in the races in which its candidates led, it would still be about 60 short of a majority. But the Gaullists were expected to draw enough support from segments of the Popular Republicans, the Independents and the Radical Socialists to form the next government.

Alone among the old parties, the Communists registered a gain—a slight one—in voting percentages, advancing from 18.9 in 1958 to 21.78.

All other parties lost ground —a development dramatically spotlighted in the crushing defeat of former premier Paul Reynaud by a colorless Gaullist in the north, and a sharp rebuff to a comeback attempt by former premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Of the country's prominent anti-Gaullist, anti - Communist leaders, only former premier Pierre Pflimlin in Alsace, former premier Rene Pleven in Brittany, and Maurice Faure in the south managed to land assembly berths in the first round of voting.

Overrun Bomdila Not Far From Plains Of Assam

Hundreds of Chinese Cut Down by Gunfire

CP from AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI—Prime Minister Nehru tonight announced that Communist Chinese troops have overrun the town of Bomdila, not far from the plains of Assam, after a major battle.

His announcement followed by only a matter of hours news from the defence ministry that Indian defence positions on the SE Pass had been overrun and that fighting had moved 40 miles to the southeast, into the outskirts of Bomdila, in fighting on the western end of the long border front.

Wave after wave of Chinese troops stormed across a narrow valley in the drive on Bomdila, where Indian forces fought a fierce but unsuccessful battle to check their drive.

MANY KILLED

Hundreds of Chinese were mowed down by Indian fire but more appeared to fill out of the earth and pressed ahead, trampling over their dead and wounded. Their total strength was estimated at well over 50,000.

The way to Bomdila was laid open to the Chinese Sunday when they overwhelmed Indian defenders on the vital 13,756-foot SE ridge.

Bomdila, with a population of 2,000, is the largest Indian community yet reached by the Chinese since they launched major assaults along the Sino-Indian border last month.

The defence ministry said most civilians already had been evacuated from Bomdila, which is only 60 miles from India's oil-producing Assam plains.

Indian troops from Se Pass, caught between two Chinese forces, are trying to fight their way back to a link with the Indians around Bomdila.

ANNOUNCES FALL

Prime Minister Nehru had announced earlier the fall of the vital Himalayan Se Pass to a prong of a massive Red Chinese offensive probing toward the densely populated Plains of Assam.

FATHER AND SIX CHILDREN DIE AT FORT ERIE

Believe All Seven Were Asphyxiated

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—A father and his six children died today in their smoke - filled home.

Herbert C. Walpole, 38, was found lying at his bedroom door. The children, aged three to 16, were still in their beds. Firemen believe all seven were asphyxiated.

Walpole's wife, Margaret, 35, escaped through a bathroom window and ran to a neighbor's house for help. The neighbor, Mrs. Laura Dickson, called firemen.

The children were identified as Mary, 16, Charlotte, 14, Charles, 9, Jeffery, 4, and Melody and Melanie, three-year-old twins.

Mrs. Walpole, taken to hospital suffering severe shock and burns to her face and shoulders, was in fair condition.

Firemen said the blaze apparently smouldered for some time before the smoke aroused Mr. and Mrs. Walpole.

SMOKE DRIVES BACK

Mrs. Dickson said her sons James, 18, and Charles, 16, tried to enter the Walpole's home, first through a window but were driven back by heat and smoke.

Two police constables, Bernard Nelson and Ronald Cuddihy, also tried unsuccessfully to enter the house in the town 15

Newfoundland Residents Trek to Polls

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Raw wintry weather swept into Newfoundland today as voters went to the polls in the province's fifth general election since joining Canada in 1949.

Light voting was reported here in the capital and snow swirled about in near freezing temperatures. Colder temperatures were reported inland.

A mixture of rain and snow was expected throughout the province during the 8 a.m.-8 p.m. NST voting hours. Generally fine weather had been forecast earlier.

The Liberal government, in power under Premier Joseph R. Smallwood since joining Canada, is seeking a mandate to carry out a $50,000,000 program it says is needed to prop up the province's big fishing industry.

The opposition parties have said the election is unnecessary because the government could put the fisheries program into operation without a mandate.

ASKS LAST CHANCE

The 61-year-old premier, who says this election likely will be his last before retiring, has asked the people to "give me the chance to keep on serving Newfoundland."

About 212,000 persons were eligible to vote for the 42 members who will sit in the next House but three Liberal victories through acclamation and a deferment in Labrador North has reduced the number eligible to cast ballots today to about 200,000.

144 Dead or Missing in Sea Disasters

Collision, Fire and Storms Take Heavy Toll on Three Seas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A casualty toll of world sea disasters edged upward today, with 144 persons listed as dead or missing in a series of mishaps that started last week. Trouble in the Atlantic and the Pacific, the North Sea and the Mediterranean sent shipping losses into millions of dollars.

Nearly 100 seafarers were rescued from vessels sunk, battered or disabled by howling weekend storms. High waves pounded the coasts of Puerto Rico and Cuba, causing death, injury, and property damage.

The entire 36-man crew of the Japanese gasoline tanker Mukaishima Maru was presumed killed in a fire following a collision Sunday with another shrouded channel off Tokyo Bay.

The fire was believed touched off by a barge's funnel sparks leaping on high-octane gasoline leaking from the damaged 1,972-ton Munakata Maru. She carried 900,000 gallons of gasoline.

Three crew members on two barges caught in the flames and were lost.

The 47 persons aboard the 21,656 - ton Norwegian tanker Tharald Brovig, the other ship in the collision, were rescued. Ten suffered minor injuries.

The ships crashed and locked 200 yards from shore in Kawasaki Canal 12 miles from Tokyo.

The fire erupted 10 minutes after the crash as small barge passed nearby. Most of the Japanese seamen were trapped on board.

Elsewhere at sea:

The 11 crew members of the fishing scalloper Midnight Sun, out of New Bedford, Mass., were unaccounted for after a storm at sea Wednesday. The vessel failed to return to port Saturday.

The 13-man crew of the disabled Canadian freighter East Star were landed at Bermuda and blamed their ship's plight on watered fuel taken aboard in Cuba.

Pounded by waves and with bilges clogged by salt in her cargo, the freighter developed a heavy list Friday and lowered a lifeboat.

It was smashed immediately. Capt. Edward Clarke said. The crew took the two liferafts. They were picked up by the British freighter San Gaspar after a search planne spotted their flashlight signal about 130 miles northeast of Bermuda.

One crew member said sharks came so close their fins scraped the raft.

Radio Havana reported storm damage on the waterfront of Baracoa, on the north coast near Cuba's eastern tip.

Thirteen Spanish fishermen were presumed drowned in a storm off Spain's north coast. Their last radioed report said their boat was leaking.

Five British rescuers and four fishermen died under a huge wave that capsized their lifeboat Saturday at the harbor entrance at Seaham, Britain. A fifth fisherman was saved. The rescue crew had taken the fishermen off their battered boat.

A search continued off the British Virgin Islands in the Caribbean for five crew members missing with their 75-foot sailing schooner, the Windfall, lost Thursday in a race with another ill - fated schooner from Mystic, Conn., to the Virgin Islands. The other schooner, the Curlew, foundered off Bermuda. Its crew was rescued.

Another search off Bermuda was abandoned for 25 seamen from the Greek freighter Captain George, rocked by an explosion Wednesday. The 25-man crew, unable to contain a fire aboard the explosive-laden ship, took to lifeboats Thursday. Seven were rescued.

Sixteen of 18 persons from a capsized motorboat were reported missing by Philippine authorities. The boat capsized Wednesday in the Sulu archipelago. Fishermen were reported to have rescued two persons.

A weeping captain gave the British freighter Ashanti Palm a final salute as she sank in the port of Naples Sunday. A gale ripped the ship from her moorings and battered her against rocks. Capt. Robert Anderson slipped overboard just three minutes before the Ashanti Palm went under with a cargo of cotton. All 46 crew members left the ship before she sank.

Copy Capitalists, Urges K, In Centralizing Production

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev today urged the Soviet Union to learn a lesson from capitalist countries in centralizing production and design in industry.

Opening a major meeting of the central committee of the Soviet Communist party, Khrushchev said "why don't we make use of those things that the capitalists have that are rational and economically profitable," the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

He said capitalist countries industry, even though it was torn by competition, was making wide use of specialization and centralization.

"There was a time, I mean in the period of the personality cult, (Stalin era) when the line was sedulously fostered that everything that is ours is completely ideal, and everything that is foreign is equally completely bad," Khrushchev said.

"But the times of the personality cult have passed," the Soviet leader said. "We should remember Lenin's injunction to be able, if necessary, to learn from the capitalists; to imitate what of their is good and profitable."

ASKS FOR DRIVE

Khrushchev called for a drive to raise living standards and increase production of consumer goods.

He said that "satisfying the material and spiritual needs of the Soviet people will be a focal point of the party's future."

The closed meeting of the central committee, elite of the Soviet Communist party—is expected to result in major changes in the Soviet economy.

Khrushchev announced that the draft national economic plan for 1963 and for an eight-per-cent increase in the gross national product.

He said the tasks set up by the seven-year plan were being overfulfilled and added "for the whole industry is working well, but it could work much better."

USE PROFIT MOTIVE

The 330 - member committee and its candidate members heard a report on the basic background of press discussion triggered by proposals for use of the profit motive to encourage factories to make the best use of their capital—which would be a sharp break with previous Soviet economic practice.

Khrushchev said: "The increase in industrial production between 1950 and 1963 will amount to 45 per cent, compared with 39 envisaged in the target figure.

"At the same time the output of capital goods has increased by 21 per cent, not by 41 as specified by the target figures.

"In four years the output of consumer goods "will increase by 34, not 33 per cent," he said.

Car Hits Boy, Gasoline Pump, Brakes Failed

For a moment it looked like catastrophe at the Canifton Road-College Street East intersection in Belleville Saturday afternoon.

Swinging off the roadway when his car went out of control, 17 - year-old William Hill, 17 Victoria Avenue, turned onto a service station lot.

Hit car struck a young boy then crashed into a gasoline pump which burst into flame. A safety device on the pump sealed the blaze from reaching the station's storage tank.

The boy, 19-year-old Wayne Durand, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Durand, 126 Hunewood Drive, was treated for knee injuries.

Damage to the pump was estimated at 1,000. The motor of the Green automobile also caught fire. An alarm, turned in immediately after the crash, sent Belleville firefighters rushing to the scene.

Police say Green claimed he swung onto the service station lot to avoid going through the intersection when his brakes failed.

Ship Watchman, Alex Weddell, Said Missing

City police in Belleville are seeking clues to the whereabouts of a ship watchman, believed missing since some time Friday.

Sunday city firemen began dragging Bay waters in the dock area as a weekend investigation by police turned up no trace of the missing man.

City detectives say Mr. Weddell had kept his log meticulously up-to-date. The last entry was Friday, and he had been seen Friday morning by an acquaintance.

Relatives first became worried when Mr. Weddell's dog returned home without him Friday night. By Saturday with still no trace of the elderly watchman, his family called in police.

Cheese Show To Be Held at Shopping Plaza

The Central Ontario Cheesemakers Association will divide its interests between downtown Belleville and the Belleville Shopping Plaza, when its 33th annual British Empire Cheese Show is held next week.

The annual cheese show will be held at the Plaza, while convention sessions, scheduled for November 28th and 29th, will be held at the Hotel Quinte.

The convention will be concluded with a cheesemakers' banquet to be held at the Masonic Temple on the evening of the 29th. James W. Ritchie, art teacher in the Belleville Collegiate will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. Lillian Matthews, secretary for the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, said today that bigger entries for the annual cheese show are expected this year.

Main reason for the added interest will be the fact that there will be classes for square cheese in all the regular open classes this year.

The cheese show will be set up this weekend with judging commencing on Monday. Prizes for the regular classes will be Jack Bain, Toronto, Robert Hall, Ottawa, and J. G. McMillan chief grader at Belleville. Mr. J. F. Robinson of Kemptville, will be the judge for the mature cheese classes.

Two Criminal Charges Studied By Grand Jury

A grand jury began hearing evidence on two criminal charges as the Hastings county general sessions of the peace opened in Belleville this morning.

The jury was to decide if sufficient evidence existed to send Archibald Willard Murray and Robert Vincent Orr on trial in separate cases before Judge J. C. Anderson.

Murray is charged with breaking, entering and theft on May 29 of Booth Radio and TV in Belleville. Orr faces a charge of illegal possession of a firearm allegedly stolen from the Black Diamond Cheese warehouse in June.

The grand jury was expected to make decisions on both charges later today after hearing prosecution evidence presented by crown attorney John Pringle.

The cases were among 15—the majority being civil actions —listed for hearing at the sessions.

At this morning's opening sittings Judge Anderson relieved the grand jury of one of its two functions—the inspection of county public buildings.

The judge noted there had been a grand jury tour of county institutions within the past six months.

"Therefore, unless you desire to do so," said the judge, "you will be excused from this part of your duties."

He also reminded the panel of six men and one woman, that jury service was a "duty which is one of the responsibilities of citizenship."

At 10 p.m. Saturday, Reid returned to Bancroft Provincial Police here that his companion was missing.

Overnight temperatures were well below freezing in the area. However, say police, the young woodsman showed no signs of distress from the ordeal.

Students Urged to Make Up Own Minds by Former Principal at Exercises

By BULA GOSLING—Phone 3-3837

TRENTON — W. J. Houston, principal of Trenton High School from 1960 to June, 1963, told graduates at the school's graduating class that there was a prevailing attitude of cynicism towards such intellectual outlets as the study of art, language and music in the present day world.

"The popular attitude seems to be, 'serve up evil to people; it's what they want,'" said the speaker, "and the attitude of the expert in any field seems to be, 'I've got something you wouldn't understand'."

The former principal urged his youthful audience to make up their own minds about modern art and music.

"If it's modern, it isn't necessarily good," said the speaker, "and don't be afraid to say what you think. Don't let other people make up your minds for you."

Mr. Houston told the graduating students that while they had acquired certain skills and a degree of knowledge, they should continue to grow in spirit and knowledge. He said that they should foster the friendships around them now and do a good job - - - whatever job it might be."

"Doing a good job in this life is a wonderful thing," said Mr. Houston, "and this is the very root of happiness."

Thirty-two honor graduates received their graduation diplomas and pins at the hands of school board chairman L. G. Hepburn. Mr. Parren, who retires from the board this year and S/L Fleming, RCAF appeared on the platform.

"Teachers are the best friends a student ever had . . . even if it didn't seem so at times when we were going to school," said Frank.

The valedictorian spoke with pride of the various outs for personality development offered by his former school. Trenton high school's sports program, and numerous clubs within the school, helped the student develop a well-rounded way of life by providing a chance for students to get to know each other outside of school hours and to form friendships.

Last year, Frank Ross was the recipient of the Tudhope Trophy, as the Canadian air cadet who achieved the highest marks (97 per cent) in national tests.

This year, Frank won more than $1,000 in scholarships and bursaries at Trenton High School. He achieved over 80 per cent in eight Grade 13 papers.

2,234 Register For Extramural Work at Queen's

KINGSTON — A record 2,234 men and women across Canada, in Europe, the United Kingdom and South America have registered for Queen's University extramural credit courses to be offered this winter.

This winter's group makes up the largest registration for extramural work in the history of the university's extension department. Last year, 1,899 took part in the extramural education program.

Queen's pioneered extramural degree courses in North America, starting its program in 1889.

Dr. H. W. Curran, director of the department of extension at the university, points out 65 to 90 per cent of those enrolled for the courses are elementary and high school teachers improving their qualifications.

Introductory and advanced courses are offered in 53 subjects ranging from psychology to history.

MOST FROM CANADA

"The majority of the extramural students are from across Canada," notes Dr. Curran, "but we do get registrants from among Canadian NATO forces in Germany and France. As well we have quite a number of correspondence students in Bermuda, where the university offers at Summer School, one or two in Panama, and others in Peru, Brazil, Switzerland, the United Kindom, and of course, the United States."

The extramural program at Queen's takes the form of correspondence courses, and a limited number of tutorial classes taught by Queen's professors who travel to five area centres every two weeks. This winter evening tutorial classes are being offered in Oshawa, Port Hope, Belleville, Peterborough and Brockville as well as Kingston.

MUST ATTEND

However, Dr. Curran stresses that a combination of correspondence courses and/or tutorials, plus four summer school courses, or at least a year as a regular intramural student, are needed to obtain a degree. No one can obtain a degree exclusively by mail—a residence requirement on the Queen's campus must be fulfilled.

"Those who do finish off the required work for their degree extramurally," he explains "are students who may have taken a year or more at Queen's and then for various reasons, have not returned."

An example is a Queen's co-ed who completed first year at the University and then married an engineer who is now employed in Peru. She now receives her lectures and perscribed reading lists by mail from Queen's.

Enrolment in the extramural courses offered by Queen's has risen rapidly since the 648 registrants of 1954-55. In 1958-59 the figure jumped to 1288.

In addition to the extramural credit course students alimatriculated per his department, Dr. Curran says he has 385 men registered in certificate courses for municipal workers such as municipal assessors, municipal clerks, and treasurers.

Deer Hunting Season Could Be Near Record

This may be one of the top deer-hunting seasons on record in the Belleville district.

While Department of Lands and Forests officials were still checking out weekend on-the-spot counts this morning, indications were that statistics would show a higher success rating for hunters.

"We feel that for the season, the hunters' success will be up from the last two years" a department official said.

The rating is based on the ratio of the number of hunters and the deer kills.

The first week of the season showed a success rating of 33 per cent. The count at Department checkpoints at Kaladar and Edorado showed a 19 per cent rating for the last week.

Traditionally the initial enthusiasm wears off for many hunters during the first week of the season. Fewer marksmen take to the woods and this, plus a lower deer population, brings down the average.

Entomological Society Holds Meeting Here

The Entomological Society of Ontario held its 99th annual meeting in the early last Wednesday and Thursday for the first time in 17 years. Among the 95 delegates were representatives of five Canadian and American universities, four research institutes, ten other research establishments of the Canada Department of Agriculture and Forestry, and various provincial and industrial organizations.

The meetings were held in the Nurses' Lecture Hall of the Belleville Geferal Hospital and at the Entomology Research Institute for Biological Control. The president, Dr. H. B. Wressell, Entomology Laboratory, Chatham, presided at the opening session. Following an address of welcome by Dr. B. P. Beirne, director of the Belleville institute, Professor C. E. Atwood, University of Toronto, reported on the activities of the International Congress for the Study of Social Insects, held recently in Pavia, Italy.

A feature of the program was a seminar on the usefulness of Beirne research to economic entomology. Professor A. S. West, Queen's University, Kingston, was moderator and the speakers were Dr. B. P. Beirne, director of the Belleville Research Institute, Dr. J. M. Cameron, Director of the Insect Pathology Research Institute, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dr. M. Mason, Entomolgy Research Institute, Ottawa, and Dr. W. Chefurka, Pesticide Research Institute, London. This controversial topic produced much lively discussion, especially on the relative roles of the government and the universities in basic research.

NEW DISCOVERIES

New research discoveries were announced in the submitted papers, which comprised the greater part of the meeting. These were on such diverse subjects as insect resistance to chemical insecticides, control of mosquitoes and bark beetles with parasitic nematode worms, food preferences of pests, and the ability of insects to learn.

Five papers by university students were submitted for the President's Prize. This was won by Mr. K. Klassen, University of Western Ontario, London, for his dessertation on the relationship between the genetics of a species of mosquito and its ability to resist chemical insecticides.

On Friday afternoon, after the formal meetings were over, the visiting delegates toured the Entomology Research Institute for Biological Control and discussed with the research staff the various projects in progress and viewed special exhibits.

There was a social evening, with food provided by the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association and W.T. Hawkins, Ltd. and a door prize by the Big A Co., and the annual banquet was preceded by a cocktail party. All these events were held at the Hotel Quinte. The speaker at the banquet was Professor John Meisel, of the Department of Politics and Economics, Queen's University, who discussed the dissolution of the traditional system of political parties in Canada and the implications of this. His reasons, arguments and predictions produced an active discussion with various conflicting opinions.

Local arrangements for the meetings were in the hands of Dr. P. Belton, Dr. J. S. Barlow, and Mrs. T. Finlayson. The ladies' program was conducted by Mrs. Finlayson, assisted by Mrs. B. P. Beirne and included visits to the Corby Distillery and the Black Diamond Cheese Ltd.

Next year will be the centennial of the Society and a large annual meeting, in conjuction with that of the Entomological Society of Canada, is planned. This will be held at Carleton University, Ottawa, in September.

Bobby Bird, member of the 10th Belleville Holloway Street's Church Cub Pack, smiles happily with cubmaster A. Gibson after winning his 14th cub badge. First member of his pack to win 14 badges, Bobby will soon become a member of the scout troop.

The Ability to Enjoy

We have a grievance against Sydney J. Harris, the syndicated columnist who brightens this page five days a week. Mr. Harris is broadminded. He should not have submitted his column for perusal, and quick acceptance, by this newspaper. If his articles appeared in some other newspaper, we should be under no urgent necessity always to acknowledge fully the source of some of our editorial ideas.

As it is, we must once again give credit to Mr. Harris for providing the spark which ignited a train of thought with respect to recreation and leisure-time activities.

"The chief crime of modern society," he wrote the other day, "is neither economic nor political, but educational, that is the inclusion of the word "creative" was necessary. Is it not true that education too often fails to increase our capacity for enjoyment in any way?

This enlargement of Harris' theme immediately suggests a question. Can education increase our enjoyment at all? The quick, and obviously correct, answer is the affirmative. Education certainly increases our ability to enjoy any of the arts, for example. And yet there is a limitation to its function in the field of enjoyment. True enjoyment can certainly be attained without education. It is the natural treasure of childhood, and of people whose natures we consider childlike.

This may shock those who persist in regarding the equality of the rights of all races as involving an identity of talents and capacities, but we suggest that enjoyment comes more easily to some races than to others. The American Negro is easily recognized as the superior of the white man in the field of being able to enjoy leisure. From wine and women through music and dancing to poker and dice and fishing and loafing, the average Negro displays a superior talent for enjoyment which is the secret envy of many a white man and which the white man, in the custom of all envious people, often attempts to vilify.

One thing about the Negro stands out—he makes his own fun. We remember a Negro servant on a summer cottage who rescued a whole beachful of bored white boys and girls for one whole summer. "Ain't you got nothin' to do boy?", he would ask, while he sipped a "coke" to which possibly a little vanilla extract had been added. "Go build a bonfire and buy some marshmallows—here's some money. Me, I'll go round up the gals."

Because the ability to enjoy anything must come from within, one would have thought that the trend towards organizing recreational activities, which has become common in this province during the past two decades, would be doomed to failure. Experience suggests that the Hudson's people need to be shown things which are capable of being enjoyed. Recreation directors soon discover that they fulfill their functions best when they act only as the starter, and refuse to be used as the motor for the vehicle of enjoyment.

In a sense, recreational directors are playing the role of educationists in the use of leisure time—and yet where efforts are made to make a community recreational program educational there is, we fear, a grave danger that it will no longer provide enjoyment.

The ability to enjoy life is perhaps the best measure of how wise a person is, but wisdom is not acquired by formal education and, though the acquisition of knowledge will undoubtedly widen the scope of activities of a wise man, whether at work or at play, this knowledge cannot of itself make him wise.

Wrong Conclusion

Wine tasting is gaining popularity as an extracurricular course among students at United States colleges.

Steve Handel, a student at Columbia, describing how cheese and bread are provided to refresh students' palates between sips, says the food disappeared much faster than the wine.

Handel says this proves that students are much more concerned with hunger than thirst.

This just proves why Handel is still a student.

We hate to disillusion those who may have found in Handel's statement grounds for hoping the present generation of students has no time for wassail, but we suspect that, as in the days when Omar Khayyam sang of a loaf of bread, a flask of wine and thou, students' primary interest is still "thou."

It Is All A Matter Of Opinion

When I oppose a certain measure, I refer to it as an act of the "administration"; but when I support it, I call it an act of the "government." Likewise, a constitutional decision I approve is "the supreme law of the land," while one I disapprove is "just an opinion by five old men disagreeing."

"I confess to being "a creature of habit"; you are set in your ways; he is absolutely immoveable.

When my son is involved with a girl I call it "a harmless case of puppy-love"; when my daughter is involved with a boy, I call it a "tragic and disgusting infatuation."

The chief difference between "convert" and a "renegade" depends upon which side eventually wins the dispute.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 19th, 1942

One hundred and twenty-seven donations, the largest single collection in the history of the clinic, were received at the Red Cross Blood Donors' Clinic at Kiwanis Centre last week. The donors were exclusively civilian and represented a cross section of the district. They came from Frankford, Trenton, Ameliasburg, Corbyville and for the first time a delegation from Wartworth made their appearance.

The announcement by W. R. McCreary that he was prepared to pay 20 cents per pound for all colored cheese and that there was a definite demand for this variety, drew forth no comment from the factory salesmen at the Belleville Cheese Board on Thursday night. However, buyers attending the cheese board were unanimous in their belief that no November cheese would be accepted by the Dairy Products Board as the present cheese contract with Britain has been fulfilled.

When he was in default of the payment of a fine, levied under the Dominion Excise Act for illegally brewing beer, a native of Actuolne automatically received a six-months jail term at Perth. The accused appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd charged with the illegal manufacture of beer and pleaded guilty. It was a second offence, Crown Attorney of the R.C.M.P. reported, and fines of $250 and costs were imposed.

Anna Winks On Command

Fort William Times-Journal

High in the sky, orbiting around the earth, a new American satellite named Anna winked as it sped over the eastern coast of the United States. Two of four xenon flashlights were ordered to make a series of quick winks—and they obeyed.

Electronic control established in space vehicles never ceases to astound the layman, and in this case finds it most difficult to comprehend how lights can be made to turn on and off on command, as the satellite travels miles above the ground at a fantastic speed.

St. Catharines Standard

Here's an item from an old medical journal, quoted by the Ontario Safety League: "If the machine (automobile) ever attains the unlikely speed of 80 miles an hour, it will have to drive itself, for the human brain will be incapable of controlling it".

Getting Along With Women

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

A New York college professor, David Yellin, has a formula for getting along with women.

He says that any man aspiring to be a social success has only to encourage women to talk about themselves. And to listen sympathetically.

It is an intriguing idea. It probably would work. Women learned this technique years ago; even the silent type has discovered lyies into marriage contracts.

Nevertheless, we wonder—a bit about the fellow who succeeded with the girl of his choice. He lent his ear right from the first meeting through courtship and right up to the altar. Now he's married. What happens in the years ahead? We've never heard a happily married male complain that his wife talked too little.

Obstacles To Economy

Windsor Star

One most effective reason for the prosperity of the Common Market countries has been the reductions of tariffs as between one another. This hasn't only increased the flow of trade to and fro. It has put all industries on a competitive basis and this has contributed to efficiency.

The idea was that all tariffs among them should be abolished by 1970. But, so economically salutary has been the reduction of tariffs, the executive body of the Common Market now recommends they all be eliminated by 1967. It regards tariffs as obstacles to prosperity rather than advantages.

How to Poison Children

—By Arthur Hoppe in the San Francisco Chronicle

I'm glad to report the long and the short of it is that the great American fallout shelter industry is humming again.

It's because Mr. Kennedy in his cold, tough, hard-headed way, says we must face the reality of a thermonuclear war. So civil defence officials across the land are happily dusting off brochures and slogans once again. Like: "Face Up to Reality—Go Dig a Hole."

No one is more coldly willing to face up to reality than I. I stand toughly ready to fight a hard-headed thermonuclear war for Cuba, Berlin, Kennedy, the fall elections, or whatever.

Even though many of us here aren't accelerated by the blasts will die of radiation sickness. Which, as you know, is a long, slow, painful way to go.

But what of my children? Frankly, I detect a whiff, a smell of pacifism to say so, I do not care to see them die slowly.

Quickly, cruelly, yes. After all, children have little interest in these complex causes for which we adults are willing to die.

Yet, despite Mr. Kennedy's clarion call, our civil defence officials have not faced up to the reality of thermonuclear war.

To date, this nation has absolutely no Officially Approved Poison Pill for Small Children.

So to face up to reality and reassure worried parents, I have done some modest research on which should be used.

It should, of course, be readily available, easily stored, economical and pleasant tasting.

This last seems of prime importance in forcing the poison down your child's throat could, under certain circumstances, create an unpleasant scene.

With these requirements in mind, arsenic ant syrup seems to fit the bill. It is sweet tasting and comes in small, handy jars.

I would recommend the syrup rather than the paste as the syrup may be described as tough medicine.

If unavailable, the strychnine and rat poisons for gophers should prove equally effective. They must be hidden, however in a spoonful of jam or jelly to disguise the taste. The dosage of either depends upon the size of the child.

But arsenic ant syrup is clearly still a step-gap. What we need in coldly facing reality is a small, sweet, Officially Approved Poison Pill for Small Children.

Perhaps disguised as a lemon drop, or at least sugar-coated. But one we parents could have confidence in.

For we must, as Mr. Kennedy says, not shrink from

Learn to Fear From Parents

Toronto Telegram

The plan for evacuating pupils from Toronto schools in the event of an emergency also gives some parents and children the jitters.

The parental complaint is that children are having it somewhere because of the way in which the precautionary measures are being explained.

There may be some justice in the complaint. Not all teachers are capable of presenting the Cuban crisis realistically but they ought to make sure that they aren't contributing to the tension.

Attitudes are caught as well as taught. Fear is contagious. A parent can usually infect his child with his own concern without saying a word about it.

In the last few days Mr. and Mrs. Dinbater planted tulips in their garden, Mr. Kennedy went swimming, the Security Council took time off to listen to a Moscow symphony broadcast, and Mr. Khrushchev attended an opera in which an American basso starred.

They were not fiddling while Rome was burning. They were meeting the day-by-day routine of life. And it helped them look cool.

Nothing is more reassuring to children than the example of parents doing the ordinary tasks as they have always been done. This way fear is kept to a minimum.

Frustration Room

Wall Street Journal

In one of those colorful travel brochures that cross the desk occasionally we read of a luxury motel offering, in addition to swimming pool and gymnasium, a feature called "The Frustration Room."

In this room guests are invited to work off their frustrations or tensions by smashing things up. It's reported to be very popular.

We didn't know until now, but we've had a Frustration Room of our house all along. Only it's called daddy's workshop.

People With Chronic Fatigue in Dilemma

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

A recent column on chronic fatigue brought a variety of letters from readers of which this passage is typical:

"I am in my early thirties, with three children under six years old. I have a wonderful husband and a nice little home, but I am ruining my marriage.

"I go to bed tired and get up tired. My temper is short. I feel sorry for myself and have all sorts of aches and pains. If I isn't a headache, its my arms, legs or back.

"I cry at the least provocation, or else I get mad and scream. If the oldest child does the least little thing wrong, I become almost violent.

"I know I'm wrong, but am unable to change. I have been to doctors and they examine me and say I am perfectly healthy, and give me a prescription. My house looks like a drug store but the pills dont help.

"I cant afford a psychiatrist so please tell me what I can do.

"Every small decision for me is like a major crisis. If I decide on one thing, I worry if I made the right decision. If I don't do something, I worry that maybe it is the right one to have. My insides are in knots constantly — Mrs. S.D.A.

That is a fluent, intelligent and vivid description of a problem. I fervently wish that I could offer some easy form of medication which would solve such letters. Unfortunately there are quite a few people who have them.

Unhappily, I have no ready, simple cure. I have, really, only one generally useful remedy — and it is one that only the person involved can find in himself, or herself, the means of understanding the source of the which they are caught.

For they are caught in a dilemma from which usually (maybe "almost always is a better term) highly intelligent people, as I read the vividly descriptive account in the letter, and you have evidenced that.

They are people of strong moral calibre — else they wouldn't worry so much about the effect of their tense behavior on others.

They are people with a compelling interest in themselves — read the letter again and see how many sentences are bound up with what "I do wrong.

Brains; conscience; intense devotion to what "I do right or wrong. No attention to the rights of others for the trouble. But a chronic, continuing fatigue, or exhaustion. Some of the symptoms, is probably a result, rather than a cause, of the trouble.

This physical tiredness has no physical ailment, or at least none of any significant degree! A classic study of this condition that repeats itself millions of times. Is there any cure, short of protracted psychiatric care? I think so — and tomorrow I'll discuss it.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for a man to become frigid in his marital life because he fears his wife might become pregnant? — E.H."

Yes, it's possible. Indeed, fear or worry in general has a considerable effect, because the emotions, in this matter, are of the first importance. A doctor might be able to help him, both by emphasizing the fact and

The annual bazaar and tea of College Hill U.C.W. was held in the Sunday School auditorium on Wednesday afternoon. Being a beautiful fall day, a good crowd was in attendance. The room looked gay with its colorful decorative theme, of autumn leaves and gold which was also carried out in the tea room appointments. The guest tables were centred with a variety of china novelties filled with evergreen and bittersweet supplied and arranged by Mrs. R. Moyer and her C.G.I.T. girls.

As one entered the room, Mrs. C. Bailey U.C.W. president, and Mrs. R. Vessey extended a cordial welcome while Mrs. R. Moyer was close by in charge of admissions. At the appointed time, the Rev. R. Vessey opened the bazaar and everyone was free to explore and purchase items from the well stocked booths.

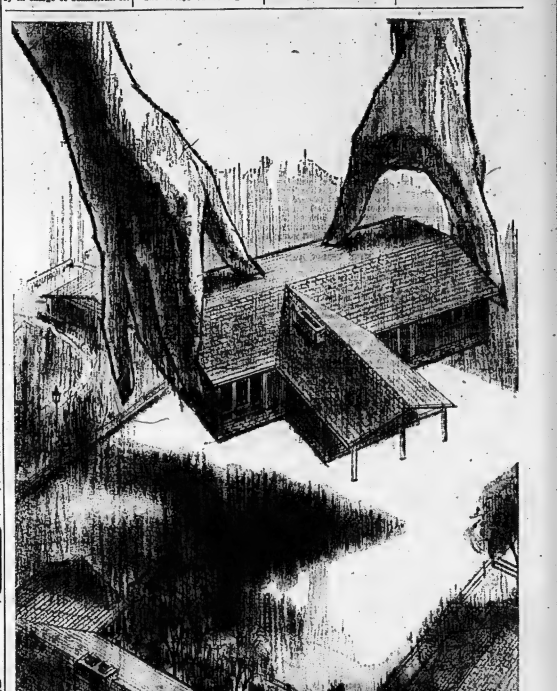
HOMEBAKING

The homebake table, always a great favorite, was laden with bread, buns, sweet breads of several descriptions; cakes and cookies of all kinds; pies and all the goodies usually there. Waiting and ready to serve you were Mesdames A. Dickens, K. Balcour, M. Outwater, and L. Reynolds. Next to this was the popular candy booth with its variety of sweets and here to serve you was Mrs. G. Kalte and Mrs. C. Moore.

The always interesting and mysterious little parcels which make up the 'Touch and Take' table had some other little sundry articles for sale as well. This booth was taken care of by Mrs. C. Brown and Mrs. V. Worsley.

The needlework and apron booth always a favorite, was convened by Mesdames D. Watson, M. Bennett, B. McCarey and F. McKay. As we would, if desired, model the aprons.

Ready and waiting to supply you with that refreshing cup of tea accompanied by dainty sandwiches and delicious cookies were conveners Mrs. R. Neal and Mrs. H. Clarke assisted by Mesdames L. Blakely, R. Dafoe, G. Jenkinson, R. McDonald, F. Ray, H. Watson and R. Whiting.



PRESIDING

Presiding at the tea table for the first hour were Mrs. G. Coulter and Mrs. F. Trevethan and for the second hour, Mrs. R. Vessey and Mrs. J. Ritz.

Arranging and replenishing plates was, Mrs. L. Brown and preparing tea was Mrs. A. Greenwood, Mesdames M. Empey, L. McMullin, and E. Vance did a most efficient job of supplying the tea room with fresh china.

Mrs. C. West, in charge of the fish pond, found herself a busy person as the four o'clock hour arrived with the children dismissed from school and looking forward to fishing for those surprise packages.

The ladies of the UCW are pleased with the results of the afternoon and wish to express their appreciation to all who contributed in any way to make their bazaar so successful.

YOU HAVE A HAND IN THINGS CANADIAN
when you own Life Insurance

Surprising? Yes—but true. Like most people, you have probably thought of your life insurance—as protection for your family—as a good way to save money regularly—as a valuable collateral if you need a loan for an emergency—as a retirement plan for you later on.

Actually, your life insurance dollars are more than an investment in your personal security and your family's. These dollars are also an investment in Canada. They stimulate growth and progress and help make this country a better place in which to live and work.

At this moment, 9 BILLION DOLLARS of life insurance savings are invested in important Canadian enterprises—through the purchase of bonds and stocks and through mortgages.

These hard-working dollars are helping to finance great projects all over this country such as pipelines, shopping centres, bridges and highways, homes, apartment and office buildings, schools, factories, industrial plants and power developments. These investments create employment opportunities, too.

The income from these investments benefits you directly by reducing the cost of life insurance to you and the 9 million other Canadian policyowners.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergym en, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a sum- mary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. Th e Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counselors and so- cial workers.

Fran W. (Mother): May- be, if I disgrace her to her friends she'll stop stealing.

Mrs. S.K. (Grandmother) What's too drastic. Stop set- ting temptation in her way.

Fran W.: Our daughter i s eight years old. We're alarmed over her stealing. First it was chocolate bars from her older sister's room, then it was small change f r o m my purse. N ow she turns up with small items that I'm sure she has pilfered on the stationery store — an e r a s e r, a key ring, a comic book. I haven't given her th e money to buy. She claims some- one gave them to her but s h e "forgets" who. Her allowance of 25 cents a week can't cover their cost.

We know we must nip this fast. Punishment hasn't stopped it. I'm ready to scare her with a policeman or expose her to her playmates.

Mrs. S.K.: I'd hate to s e e Fran m ake things worse by making this problem public. I'm sure there must be a sensible way to appeal to Joan. I'm will- ing to talk to her and try to get her to confess. Then I can help her plan to pay back her sister, her mother and the stationery store man. She can t a k e so much out of her allowance each week, a n d we can help her "earn" small amounts so th a t the debts get paid up fast. After that, we must help her handle temptation.

Joan is a bright child, b u t she seems sulky and unhappy these days. Maybe it's her con- science bothering her and we can tackle the problem that way, quietly and privately.

The Council: Your daughter, Fran, has turned to this alarm- ing method of crying. "Help!" By reaching out to grab treats and possessions, she seeks in this desperate way to fill a lack in her life which torments her. We agree with your mother that if you "steal" Joan's good name you will make things worse. In- stead, your job is to track down the causes of Joan's misery.

Does she feel overshadowed by her older sister — out in the cold? Is she thrown with what you might call spoiled kids who have lots of spending money and make her 25 cents inade- quate for k e e p i n g with them? Psychologists claim that when a young child steals, it is a sign of insecurity. She is try- ing to ease p a i n s of rejection and disapproval by collecti n g objects which comfort her.

Naturally punishment can' t help because it merely reminds Joan that she's doing something wrong, which she knows any- way. It d o e s n't remove th e cause of her wrongdoing, o r in- dicate a better way of meeting her needs. Mrs. K.'s appr oach sounds promising, provided her rapport with J o a n is r i c h enough to evoke confession.

Basically Joan needs reassur- ance from her parents and her sister that she's accepted and l o v e d. All the child wants is something rock bottom to hold on to, the way an infant hugs a teddy bear in the dark. Once she is solidly c e r t a i n of her place in the family "heart" she won't feel the need to sur- round herself with trifles and trophies to fill her life.

Meanwhile the seriousness of her acts must be impress ed upon her, with retribution — via stayed-up pennies — as impera- tive. Aid in budgeting, or an allowance raise, must be con- sidered, too. But the long view backward and forward is t h e right one. Joan will turn out fine if her present behavior is hand- led as a legitimate "distress sig- nal" and treated with sympathy.

miles south of Niagara Falls.

Cause of the fire was undeter- mined but firemen said an over- heated heater may have been to blame. Smoke was so thick it smothered the flames.

Walpole was laid off from his job at a Port Colborne steel plant last Friday.

Damage to the home was mainly from smoke and water.

Mrs. Dickson said she was asleep with her bedroom win- dow open when she heard Mrs Walpole shouting for help.

She said her neighbor ran into her house crying: "Why should it happen to us!"

SMELLED SMOKE

Mrs. Walpole, told her that she was lying in bed and was just about to go to sleep when she smelled smoke.

She called to her husband and they ran together from the downstairs bedroom and into the living room towards the stair- way leading to the children's living quarters in the upstairs part of the small wartime-built home. The heat was so intense it drove them back.

The wife then ran to the ground floor bathroom and climbed out the window.

Her husband afterwards was found dead on the living room floor close to the stairway.

Mrs. Dickson said her two sons got a ladder from a neigh- bor across the street and ran it up against an upstairs window and called the children by name. They could get no re- plies.

The heat p r e v e n t e d them from getting through the bed- room w i n d o w, and they de- scended and smashed the liv- ing room window in an attempt to get in there. But again smoke and flame turned them back.

PLAYWRIGHT DIES

He wrote ballad-operas, musical comedies, and a number of plays, including t r a g i c a l ions and adaptations. His better known ones are Socrates, The Immortal Lady and Rose With- out Thorn.

troops on 13,756-foot high Se Pass, forcing them to withdraw, Nehru told Parliament.

The loss of the pass came as the Chinese Communists, attacking in waves, pressed their renewed offensive at both ends of the 1,500-mile frontier stretching from Burma to Kashmir.

At the eastern end of the battle line, the Chinese posed a separate threat to the Assam plains in an advance of 12 miles from the key defence post of Walong, which they captured Friday. Walong lies some 300 miles east of Se Pass.

In Ladakh, at the northwest end of the disputed border, the Chinese have taken one outpost guarding a vital Indian airfield at Chushul and fighting is continuing in the area, Nehru said.

NAKED AGGRESSION

His announcement of the new reverses came after a speech Sunday night in which he said the Chinese offensive is threatening Indian independence. He said other countries are now beginning to realize that this is not a border dispute but "naked, crude and shameless aggression."

Today Nehru told Parliament's upper house India is in "a full-fledged war . . . a kind of brutal and callous war. We are treating it as such." But he hedged when asked if the government would break relations with Peking or would declare war.

Peking broadcast quoted Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai as saying U.S. arms aid to India will endanger the conflict "to the detriment of the Chinese and Indian people and of the Afro - Asian peoples." About $5,000,000 worth of badly needed infantry weapons have been flown to India by the United States since the Chinese attacked.

Chinese Communist sources in Hong Kong indicated that Premier Khrushchev would precipitate a major crisis in Soviet-Chinese relations if he delivered Soviet MIG-21 jet fighters which India has been negotiating for. But the sources doubted it would result in a diplomatic break between Moscow and Peking.

Peking radio claimed that after capturing Se Pass the Chinese pressed their advance in the northeast in the direction of the Indian Army's advance headquarters on the Dhirang River.

The Indian Army was reported planning to put its next defence line in this area of the Northeast Frontier District at 8,726-foot Bombila, on the next ridge of an Indian-built road running to Tezpur on the Assam plains.

The Chinese overran Se Pass in a drive from the monastery town of Towang, which they took in early successes of the border attacks they launched Oct. 20.

REDS NEAR BURMA

The fall of Walong near the Burma border came after the biggest battle since the Chinese first struck.

Indian estimates put the Chinese attackers in this area at well above a division supported by artillery, heavy mortars and recoilless guns. A defence ministry spokesman estimated a Chinese division at 20,000 men including supporting labor.

The Indians threw up hastily prepared defences in the Lohit River Valley a dozen miles south of Walong.

Indian Air Force planes and some civilian airliners are rushing troops to Teju, 120 miles south of Walong. Trains and trucks are then taking them up the valley to the front to try to hold the Chinese.

Officials in New Delhi said they still could not tell whether the Chinese would try to fight their way into the Plains of Assam, outside the area they claim in the Himalayan area of northeast India.

Unconfirmed reports said the Chinese are training paratroopers in captive Tibet. The report heightened fears in New Delhi that Chinese might try to outflank and bypass some Indian defence positions and possibly strike at supply routes.

Paul Martin Speaks Plainly To Americans

LINCOLN, Neb. (CP) — Paul Martin, the opposition Liberal party's foreign affairs critic in the Canadian House of Commons, pointedly told an American audience Saturday night there are dangers involved in one member of the NATO alliance taking action without consulting other members.

In a speech at Union College here, Mr. Martin said the United States did not consult with its allies over the blockade of Cuba, "probably because there was not sufficient time to do so."

"However, we would hope that such situations could be kept at a minimum," said the member of Parliament for Essex East.

"As your friends and neighbors, we will support you when security and the defence of freedom is involved, but we should know beforehand what we are supporting so that we can give our wholehearted support not only to the objectives, but to the means."

Mr. Martin said the time is ripe for a reappraisal of NATO's collective defence strategy. "Conditions today differ greatly from the situation when NATO was founded."

Excerpts from Mr. Martin's speech were issued to the press before delivery.

Strongman Red Ruler Of Bulgarians

LONDON (Reuters) — Communist party strongman Todor Zhivkov was elected premier of Bulgaria today, the Bulgarian news agency BTA reported.

Zhivkov, first secretary of the party's central committee, was elected premier by a unanimous vote of the National Assembly meeting in Sofia, the agency said.

Zhivkov replaces Anton Yugov, purged from his post and the party for violating "Socialist legality" and opposing party policy at the Eighth Party Congress in Sofia earlier this month.

Mother-in-Law Shouldn't Interfere

DORIS CLARE

DEAR DORIS—About mothers-in-law. I think if a mother could just stand back and not interefere when things were not right or when she felt things should be done differently, relationships would be a lot better. Each bride wants and should be free to run her life as she and her husband will.

Would you send me the name of a handbook on how to conduct meetings?—AS YET TO BE A MOTHER-IN-LAW.

DEAR AS YET TO BE—The hard part is for a mother-in-law to stand back and see things go wrong. Yet if she can contain herself, her young bride stands a good chance of coming through!

Please send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the name of a handbook on conducting meetings.

DEAR DORIS—I too was married at 16. My husband was 19. I had a big family—seven of them. By the time I was 30, I felt old, worn out, never dressed properly, never went out.

Now I'm in my middle fifties. My husband retired two years ago. We don't go anywhere.

Now I don't understand why these young girls are just ready to die for any guy they meet. She thinks he is just it, until she is married to him. Then bang slam, everything is changed. I don't know why girls don't wait until they grow up and learn to do good cooking and good housekeeping.

Nowadays a girl does not have to get married early. In my day a girl had to get married at 14, 15, 16; at 20 she was considered old. But not now. So girls, smarten up and grow up first.—ANOTHER CHILD BRIDE.

DEAR ANOTHER—Well it seems it was no bed of roses in your case. Are you listening, Mr. Worried?

DEAR DORIS—I have been going steady with Steve for almost 1½ years now. He is 18 and I am 17.

Last night he told me that whenever he saw a pretty girl, he got the feeling that he should ask her for a date. He told me that he still loved me and he wouldn't ever want to marry any of the girls he sees. He is wondering why he feels this way or if this feeling is natural. Do you think he is tired of being tied down?

We intend to be married as soon as I turn 18. But if he feels this way now, I wonder what he'll feel like after we're married. Or maybe he wants to have one last fling.—CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED—Just in case he is feeling tied down, free him to date someone else. This way you will both be surer of yourselves later. That awful feeling of uncertainty should be settled now.

Health Squads Searching for Disease Carrier

TORONTO (CP)—City health squads are searching for a diptheria carrier who caused the death of a two-year-old girl last week and placed seven other families under quarantine, Ontario deputy health minister W. G. Brown said Friday.

Susan Shea, one of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Shea, died in the Hospital for Sick Children Nov. 7, nine days after being admitted.

Dr. Brown said there is apparently no danger of an epidemic.

"We always have diphtheria carriers in our midst—people who are healthy but can transmit the disease to any child who has not been vaccinated."

He also urged parents to have their children inoculated against diphtheria as a routine precaution.

Floral Arranging To Be Shown CWL

Mrs. Barber, well known to all in Belleville as an artistic and creative florist, will demonstrate the art of flower arrangement at the December meeting of St. Michael's C.W.L. With Christmas home decor soon to be planned, this should be of great interest.

The Christmas bazaar is well organized. Mrs. Brown, convener, gave an outline of the plans, mentioning the raffle prizes which this year have been most generous. A hair dryer donated by a local firm should create interest also a 20 pound turkey, donated by the local food packers; a hand embroidered picture of Our Lady of Perpetual Help made by Mrs. Sills; a crocheted swan flower basket made by Mrs. O'Shea and a hand made Nativity made by an accomplished artist, Mr. Piwoworski. The Christmas novelty booth promises to be exciting. The workers for this booth have gone all-out creatively making Christmas match boxes, stockings, coasters and other Christmas accessories.

RETREAT

Mrs. Rashotte informed the members of a coming retreat at the Cenacle in February. Anyone wishing to attend could contact Mrs. Rashotte for further details.

After other business matters were discussed and completed Mrs. Gallagher president, adjourned the meeting.

The members mingled socially enjoying tea and light refreshments.

BROOKS—COLLINS

St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, was the setting for a recent fall wedding when Mary Sharon of Collins, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay D. Collins, became the bride of Kenneth Malcolm Brooks, also of Belleville, son of Mrs. E. Brooks, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Brooks. Baskets of lovely autumn flowers formed a beautiful setting for the double ring ceremony which was performed by the Reverend Archdeacon A. S. McConnell rector of the church. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. D. W. Davenport, church organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ivan Rollins, who sang "The Wedding Prayer," before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her white, floor-length taffeta bridal gown, fashioned with fitted bodice having a rounded neckline and lilypoint sleeves. The graceful skirt was accented by a Chantilly lace panel. She wore a pillbox headdress with lustfant veiling of single strand of baby pearls with matching earrings, and carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Attending the bride were: Miss Marie Buxton, of Belleville, as maid of honor; Miss Shirley Chapman, of Toronto, as senior bridesmaid, and Miss Linda Collins, of Belleville, sister of the bride, as junor bridesmaid. Miss Buxton wore a gown of original antique gold peau de soie fashioned with fitted bodice and bell-shaped skirt, with removable capelet, matching pillbox headdress with tulle veil, and carried a muff of the same material accented by a corsage of Shasta 'mums. The bridesmaids were attired similarly, but in almond green, with single strands of baby pearls and matching earrings. They also carried muffs with 'mum corsages.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Richard Brooks, of Belleville, and the guests ushered by Mr. Wayne Miller and Mr. Leonard Collins, brother of the bride, both of Belleville.

The reception for seventy guests was held in Club Canara, Belleville, with Mr. C. R. Hicks, of Kitchener, Ontario, as master of ceremonies, and Mr. John Stringer, of Goderich, uncle of the bride, as toastmaster.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by the traditional three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and misted about the base with clouds of white tulle and tiny pink rosebuds. Tall white candles in silver holders, and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother, for her daughter's marriage, wore a beige lace over taffeta with matching jacket and brown and beige accessories, with corsage of yellow and bronze baby 'mums. Assisting in the receiving line was the mother of the bridegroom, attired in light blue taffeta in sheath style, with lace overlay, matching accessories, and corsage of pink 'mums.

For the wedding trip by motor to Nashville, Tennessee; Cleveland, Ohio; Florence, Kentucky; and Buffalo, N.Y., the bride travelled in a three-piece navy and white double-knit ensemble, navy and white pillbox hat, matching accessories, and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Goderich; Kitchener; Oakville; Toronto; Cronyn; Ivanhoe; Frankford; Cannifton; Stirling; Roslin; Shannonville; Carrying Place; Wellington; Belleville and Richvale.

The bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower at a shower held at the home of Mrs. Dell Buxton, with Miss Marie Buxton and Mrs. Fred Papke as co-hostesses. At a presentation by the Bell Telephone Gift Fund department of a lovely milkglass vase and platter; as well as a shower held by the Bell Telephone employees, of which she is a member.

PC Women Attend Meet At Napanee

Among the delegates who attended the Eastern District No. 3 Annual Meeting and Workshop in Napanee on Saturday were Mrs. Dorothy Tugnette, Mrs. W. Gray, Mrs. Maude Rollins and Mrs. William Tatham all of Belleville.

After the morning Workshop, delegates heard Senator Allistair Grosart tell them the part they have to play in putting Progressive Conservative achievements before the public. "We are always striving for the swinging 15 per cent", he said, "We gain them and we lose them, and half the time, we lose them because they do not know or understand our policies."

In the afternoon, after the election of officers, delegates and the general public listened in an address by the Premier of Ontario, John P. Roberts.

Ottawa Woman Generally Reads Three Books a Day

OTTAWA (CP) — A woman who reads up to three books a day has begun research for an encyclopedia of Canadian literature.

Norah Story, 59, of Ottawa has been given $4,500 by the Canada Council towards "The Oxford Companion to Canadian Literature," to be published by the Oxford University Press.

Miss Story, who headed the manuscript division of the public archives here until her retirement two years ago, has her own historical research firm which she runs from her Ottawa home.

She plans to divide her time between her work and the three-year job of writing and editing the encyclopedia.

Going through the extensive files she has compiled in the basement of her home, she discovered she already has indexed about 1,000 Canadian authors.

She grew up in an English home where all 10 children made good use of the family library.

Miss Story was born in Beccles, Suffolk, England, and spent her early years moving from port to port in England as her admiral father followed the fleet.

The family came to Canada when she was seven and settled in Quebec City. When the First World War broke out, her father went to Victoria on loan to the Canadian navy.

When she entered the University of Toronto she flipped a coin to decide which course to take and ended up in modern history. Later she went to the University of Wisconsin where she earned her master's degree in American history.

A job with the public archives and a Columbia University fellowship came at the same time and she started out to do both. But she found it physically impossible and discontinued her studies. She joined the archives staff in 1926 and retired in 1960.

Because she's a light sleeper, she often reads until 3 a.m. She reads an average of one book a day but often reads two or three a day during weekends.

ENCHANTING PEARLS FOR LOVELY LADIES.
From: Canadian Jewellers Association

Takes Years and High Skill To 'Grow' Beautiful Pearls

From the very beginning when women were an adornment, pearls have held a special place in the realm of jewels. Although not as durable as gemstones, their remarkable lustrous properties have captured the imagination of all races, both past and present. Today the cultured pearl, having to all intents and purposes replaced the oriental pearl, retains the same appeal.

It takes years and great skill to produce a pearl. The operation starts with a man who breeds oysters and when they have grown to their prime, passes them on to a "farmer". The farmer then places a round mother-of-pearl bead into the body of the oyster; this is an extremely difficult operation akin to the delicate surgical technique as practised in our hospitals. This operation complete, the oyster is housed in a cage and back in the water. Skilful people have to keep a constant watch; too much variation in the water temperature can quickly kill the oysters and they are removed periodically to different vicinities to maintain a correct temperature. They are also regularly cleaned to keep them healthy. Even with this great care, it is only a small percentage of oysters that produces pearls suitable for use as jewellery.

The longer the oysters are in the water, the better chance they have to create fine pearls but the longer the oysters keep their pearls, the more likelihood there is of the oysters dying or the pearls becoming spotted, misshapen or off-color and all the previous work will have been in vain. Therefore, large round, fine quality pearls are very rare and extremely very expensive.

When the oysters have been in the water for the required number of years (depending on what quality the farmer is trying to obtain) the harvesting begins and the pearls are taken out of the water and the processing and sorting commences. Trained girls blend and match colors and qualities to make fine necklets that we see in the jeweller's section.

The value of the pearl is decided by the following: its lustre, size, shape, color and cleanliness. If the pearl possesses the best of all these, then you have a very rare pearl which is naturally expensive.

The lustre of the pearl depends on the thickness of the coasting and the longer the pearl is left in the water, the better the lustre should be. Against this, however, it must be remembered that the longer it is left in the water, the greater chance that the oyster will die, the pearl can become misshapen spotted or a bad color.

Size is also important; in this general way, Japanese cultured pearls run from about 2 mm. up to 10 mm. 10 mm. is a very large size and comparatively few pearls are produced as large as this. When they do appear and they are of fine color and quality, they are extremely expensive. The large bulk of production is around 5 mm. to 8 mm. which is easily understood as practically every graduated necklace starts at these sizes.

All pearls are not round. For various reasons, which it is impossible to determine, many pearls are slightly oval or pear shaped and a large quantity are mishapen or what we call "baroque." These do not command the same price as a round pearl.

Color is largely a matter of taste, the most expensive being a white with a light rose tinge or very light cream, with a rose tinge. The various countries in the world prefer different colors but in a general way, the colors mentioned are the most sought after and, therefore the most expensive. The production of these pearls is very small.

A perfectly clean pearl is very rare and if you examine a pearl carefully, you will see in most cases there are some spots or imperfections. Some pearls are, of course, very badly spotted but if the pearl has a thick coating and consequently, a high lustre, it's spottedness will not detract from its attraction.

During the past few years the pearl fields of Japan have been subjected to a series of typhoons and tidal waves which did a large amount of damage to the oysters. The result of this has been evident during the past season and there has been an acute shortage of cheaper strands of cultured pearls. This is directly caused by the short age of sizes 5 mm to 6.9 mm which are used in the construction of practically every necklace. Because of this shortage, necklace makers have been unable to use their larger pearls and consequently there has been on the market, a considerable quantity of uniform strands in the larger sizes. The price of these larger pearls is lower this year than it has been for many years and it would seem therefore, a reasonable suggestion that this year is good to buy the larger uniform strands. These remarks apply to the medium and poor qualities as their is still a very real shortage of fine goods in every size and there is little doubt that this will continue as long as the demand for pearls is so strong. Whilst the farmer can readily sell all pearls which have been in the the water for the minimum amount of time, it is not logical to expect him to leave them in for a longer period with all its attendants dangers.

Pearls are a regular part of a jeweller's stock and there is no doubt that they will continue to be so. Pearls can be worn on any occasion; they are always correct.

Small Talk

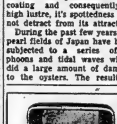
By Zena Cherry

Ingrid Bergman is building a hotel in Sardinia, an island anchored in the Mediterranean, south of Corsica. And the young Aga Khan who owns many Sardinian acres says he's going to put up hotels and bungalows and turn it into a new Riviera.

Also on the resort kick, Aristotle Onassis is creating a beach and resort-town near Malaga on the sunny coast of Spain.

Mr. Ben-Gurion is naming a holiday spa near Tel-Aviv after George Jessel, the all-American boy who says when it comes to selling bonds for Israel he doesn't leave a Cohen unturned.

TOP TOURIST NASSAU



In top-tourist territory Nassau, two Canadians have major developments. Nassau Beach Lodge, a $5 [illegible]-hotel is owned by Frank Crothers of Crothers Machinery Co. And beer baron E. P. Taylor has exchanged quite a few of his blue chips to put Lyford Cay on the map of the tomorrow-we-fly set.

In Jamaica which says of itself, "Home Was Never Like This", two Canadian millionaires are now hotel proprietors. Mining mogul Marius E. Madsen owns Casa Maria, a luxe oasis at Porto Maria; cookie king Garfield Weston has Frenchman's Cover at Port Antonio where the lowest rate for a one-week stay, per couple is $2,000. No tipping allowed.

Also in Jamaica, there are a few Canadian members of round Hill, nine miles west of Montego Bay. Here is a small perfectly run hotel surrounded by cottages and the scheme works thusly:

BUILD COTTAGES

You agree to buy shares in the hotel and in return have the right to build a cottage on the ground of the hotel loses money they can write it off of their income tax. If it shows a profit they're lucky in lotus-land. If both husband and wife are directors of the corporation they can each deduct one round trip a year for business purposes. And dividends come when they're not at the resort because their cottage can be rented.

Weddings

GREEN — SLEEPER

A lovely November double-ring wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Saturday, the 3rd, by Rev. F. J. Hommerson, when Carol Evelyn Sleeper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Sleeper, of Stirling, was united in marriage to Robert Gordon Green, son of Mrs. Gordon Green, of Stirling, and the late Mr. Green. Beautiful baskets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums adorned the chancel and white satin bows and streamers the guest pews.

Mrs. H. Brown presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Miss Carl Burgess who sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her long, white peau de sole gown featuring a fitted bodice with Sabrina neckline, and long, slip-point sleeves. The graceful skirt was accented by a front panel of Chantilly lace caught at the back with two tiny bows. She wore a bouffant veil of silk illusion tulle, held by a crown studded with seed pearls, and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of red roses and white feathered carnations. A single strand of pearls and earrings, and white satin slippers completed her ensemble.

She was attended by Mrs. Ross Mason, of Bancroft, sister of the bride, as matron of honor and by Mrs. Richard Knapson, of Belleville, also a sister of the bride and by Miss Beverly Green, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in emerald green satin peau de sole with feather headdresses, and matching shoes and carried nosegays of bronze and yellow mums tied with matching ribbon. They wore pearl chokers and matching earrings.

Mrs. Ronald Woodbeck, of Stirling, was groomsman, while Mr. Ralph Ulman, and Mr. Robert Montgomery, both of Stirling, ushered the guests. The reception was held in the St. church parlor, where the bride's mother received, attired in gold brocade in sheath style with matching jacket, green and brown accessories, and corsage of bronze mums. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, wearing Milan green organza over taffeta, with brown accessories and corsage of yellow mums.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, under an arch of pink and white flowers and white bells. Tall white candles burned in crystal holders and the bridal flowers completed the nuptial setting.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and Watertown, New York, the bride chose a dark green, double-knit wool sheath with gold and black accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses, and muskrat jacket.

Guests were present from Bancroft, Deloro, Gilmour, Marmora, Indian River, Carrying Place, Cardiff, Stirling and Belleville.

The bride, prior to her marriage, was honored at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Miss Carole Burgess; also at a presentation from the staff of the Bank of Montreal where the bride is employed.

Almost Like Home for Scotch Girl

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) It's almost like being at home for Kathleen Lamont MacKinnon, a Scottish girl studying Nova Scotia's Scottish tradition at St. Francis Xavier University here.

"I find the countryside, the people and the general atmosphere so much like Scotland I hardly feel that I am away."

The 22-year-old Miss MacKinnon comes from Oban, Scotland, and has a master of arts degree from the University of Aberdeen. She is working for a similar degree here and plans a thesis on the Scottish Gaelic tradition in Nova Scotia.

But if Antigonish is regarded as a Scottish area, she will probably find even closer resemblance to her native land when in the spring she travels through Cape Breton with a tape recorder. It is there that Scottish culture has perhaps been better preserved than anywhere else in North America.

Her studies here will be directed by Msj. C. I. N. MacLeod who heads the university's department of Celtic studies and gives the only Gaelic-language instruction at university level in Canada.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

POPULAR TEEN PARTIES

Should parents chaperone at teenage parties? What sort of refreshments do young palates go for? What is the current trend in entertainment when teenagers get together?

These were some of the questions we put to the fifteen national finalists in the tenth annual Singer Young Stylemaker Contest when they assembled in New York recently to pick up their well-earned awards.

Chaperones, we learned, are not only accepted, they're welcomed at teenage parties from coast to coast. As a matter of fact, all the girls strongly approved the presence of parents at parties, but with varying reasons.

"Let's face it," said one practical miss. "There's a lot of work to giving a party, and parents can be a big help in the refreshment and dishes department."

"I just happen to enjoy having my parents around," said another.

"I like them available, but not visible," said one. And several pointed out quite sensibly that an unchaperoned party was a discourtesy to neighbors who might worry about being disturbed by youngsters on their own.

"It takes the responsibility off your shoulders," one 18-year-old explained. "Not that you expect any trouble, but it's nice to know your parents are available if needed."

Party-crashing is a growing problem, particularly in larger suburban areas. Several said that stationing a policeman outside the house to turn away the uninvited has now become a practice.

As far as refreshments are concerned, pizzas seem to be the universal favorite, with particularly those made on the spot from ready-mix pastry and ingenious filling combinations. On the West Coast, chili is popular, as are shrimp, fried on the beach. Shish kabob gets a big hand in the South, and largely urban groups enjoy ordering Chinese food for home party consumption.

It's interesting to note that the emphasis on party food diminishes somewhat with the college group. Calories are a factor, as are slim budgets. Chips and dips and cokes are the usual fare.

Party themes become more imaginative further up in the teen group. Here's a sampling: a factory party in an old warehouse; a bank party; a haunted house party in a dilapidated house about to be torn down; a church hayride on tractors and trailers along country roads with caroling back at the church for a hot-dog roast.

For entertainment, music is an integral part of teen life in the form of guitar playing, boogo drum sessions, records and folk-music singing. A home basement playroom, equipped with a player piano and a pool table, is the party center for a group of Brooklyn teens.

Aside from costume get-ups for theme parties, the girls were all agreed that they want to wear something "special" to big get-togethers, not necessarily festive dresses, but well-groomed casual clothes or simple dresses or skirts with blouses and sweaters. Many of them bemoaned the fact that boys generally don't seem to feel the necessity for taking extra pains with their appearance.

Interestingly, all had party curfews, with 12:30 the latest and none felt any restriction.

"You gear yourself to the time you're supposed to be home," one girl explained, "it think it's important to have a schedule to remind you."

Kum Double Club Host to Adult Groups

HALLOWAY — The Kum Double Club were hosts and hostesses to the Holloway Street and Tabernacle adult groups, Belleville, in Halloway United Church.

A goodly number were present and an evening of fine fellowship was enjoyed. Pat Robson, president, welcomed the groups.

The devotional service was under the leadership of conveners Shirley and John Wilson, the theme being "Service."

The Scripture taken from James 1:22-7, was read by Harry Morgan and the meditation on same by June Donaldson. The poem "Today" was given by Eileen Bowers, and the prayers pronounced by Shirley Wilson. "Blest be the Tie That Binds" and "Abide With Me" were the hymns used.

RECREATION PERIODS

The recreational periods were directed by Lorna Hough and Jean Wellman.

A special part of the program was the showing of pictures and "bird life" by the well-known nature photographer, Mr. Jack Austin, of Wooler, who was introduced to the groups by Lorna Hough, and Mrs. Wellman on behalf of the club voiced appreciation to him for his realistic and beautiful pictures.

The guests were invited to the church basement where more recreation took place, followed by lunch on the Hallowe'en order and a social get-together.

Both Belleville groups expressed appreciation for the enjoyment afforded them.

RYLSTONE—Mrs. Ray Stewart was hostess to the Rylstone United Church Women on Wednesday afternoon when there was a good attendance of 15 ladies and five children.

The president, Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, was in charge of the devotional part of the meeting.

The Scripture selection, Galatians 1: 9-13, 21-23 was read by Mrs. Bob Spencer. Meditation and prayer were given by Mrs. W. Spencer and Bible study on "Salvation" was given by Mrs. Will Rutherford, taken from "The Word and the Way."

A card of thanks was read from Mrs. Jack Spencer for fruit and cards received after her accident. It was decided to order a dozen religious calendars from Mrs. Harold Pitten and her "Explorers" at Springbrook United Church.

Mrs. Ellis Jones, program convener was in charge of the balance of the program which included a 500 year old prayer by Mrs. E. Jones: reading, "Points of View" by Mrs. Chesfolk-music singing. A home basement playroom, equipped with a player piano and a pool table, is the party center for a group of Brooklyn teens.

Three Meats

by Mary Moore

EACH NOTABLE FOR ONE QUALITY

Three meat ideas are here. One of the "meats" is fish and notable for its convenience. Another is blade of beef (75c per lb.), notable for its tenderness roasted low and slow. The third is another chicken casserole dish for the girls who like casseroles and also watch this column for dishes that may be prepared in advance. This last one I made just before going to the last football game of the season, right after which I was having guests for dinner.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Lasagne; Shredded Iceberg and Chinese Lettuce Salad with Italian French Dressing; Breadsticks; Vanilla or Neapolitan Ice Cream with Butterscotch Sauce; Coffee.

SOLE FILLETS WITH SHRIMP SAUCE:

To serve 6, buy 2 lbs. fresh frozen sole fillets (packed in Halifax and selling at 53c per lb. in my part of the country). Thaw and spread in not more than two layers on buttered large shallow baking dish. Open and thaw 2 cans of fresh frozen cream of shrimp soup. Spread this undiluted soup evenly over the sole fillets, distributing the shrimp fairly and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes. Notes: 1) The virtue of this dish is that you can keep the sole and the shrimp soup in the freezer for an emergency guest meal. 2) It will cost about 30c per serving. 3) The flavor combination is popular, especially with fish fanciers.

BLADE ROAST LOW AND SLOW:

Sprinkle a 3-lb. red brand blade roast with meat tenderizer and let stand 1 hour (or more). Sprinkle generously with salt, pepper, garlic salt, and paprika. Roast at 125 deg. Fahr. for 7 or 8 hours. Do not remove string that ties roast or it will fall apart when carved. This results in pink meat—not well done. The slicing quality when cold is exceptional for the beef retains that desirable pink cast. Incidentally, one of the best buyers for cuts of our larger chain stores told me if we all would stop buying beef for two weeks the price would come down.

CHICKEN ASIA MINOR (serves 4 generously):

For this I used 4 chicken drumsticks and 4 thighs weighing 2 1-3 lbs. Dust 2 or 2½ lbs. of chicken pieces thoroughly with flour and brown them in a large frying pan in 3 tablespoons margarine. Remove from pan and to pan add ½ cup raw long grain rice and stir until it is golden. Add 1 large cooking onion and 1 large seedless orange (rind on) put through coarse knife of grinder together. Mix well and then spread on bottom of large shallow casserole. Arrange chicken on top, and over it arrange one thinly sliced green pepper. Pour over 2 cups milk and sprinkle all with 1 tablespoon yes, 1 whole measuring tablespoon) salt, ½ to ¾ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, ½ teaspoon thyme and 1-16 teaspoon cayenne pepper. Cover (with foil if you have no lid for your casserole). Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1¼ hours. Fifteen minutes before serving time remove cover and sprinkle 1 cup (or ½ cup) blanched almonds on top, pushing them down into the rice a little and finish baking. Roblin's Mill, Ameliasburg, One of the Landmarks of P.E. County, to Be Razed

One of the most famous landmarks in Prince Edward County may be torn down soon. The Roblin Mill at Ameliasburg, built 120 years ago, and closed down, has developed a serious crack in the stone walls. Now the danger is that the whole of the west end of the main building may fall.

John Roblin, the first of the clan to settle in Prince Edward County, was a United Empire Loyalist. His son, Owen, built the present mill in 1842. Powered by water, from nearby Roblin's Lake, the mill had a forty-foot head of water over the wheel. Fish in the lake at that time were so thick that a man was paid, full time, to net fish entering the race of the mill, and prevent them from going through, and perhaps jamming the wheel.

During one year, the lake failed. Rather than close the mill, the owners at the time decided to convert to steam power. The conversion took almost a year, and by the time it was completed the lake was full again.

FINE STONE STRUCTURE

The main building of the mill is an impressive stone structure, five storeys high. The stone to build it came from Kingston, by schooner, according to some accounts, and was hauled over land from Rednersville. Other accounts suggest the stone may have been local, removed when the road to Rednersville was cut into the escarpment on which Amelisburg stands.

The inside of the mill is of wooden construction, and most of it is in good repair. The floors appear solid, except at the very dangerous west end, the millstones are still in place and apparently ready for work, and most of the wooden machinery might still work.

Perhaps the most surprising example of preservation is the old flour sifter. This wooden machine, on one of the upper floors, retains some of the silk screens that once sifted the flour, and there is still flour, many years old, in the machine. Although the windows are boarded up, some parts of the mill convey an impression that the business is just closed for a weekend.

NEVER CLOSED

During the mill's heyday, however, it was never closed. When the American Civil War put rifles in the hands of most American men, Canadian farmers grew the food for most of the Northern States, and Upper Canadian mills provided the flour. The Roblin Milling Co. Ltd. was operating 24 hours a day for the duration of the war and part of the following reconstruction period.

Two teams of horses, according to local history, were kept busy at all times, hauling flour to the port of Rednersville. From Rednersville, schooners sailed regularly to American ports. Production of the mill at this time was about 100 barrels per day, according to the "New Historical Atlas of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties," printed in 1878.

With the Roblin Mill as a centre, Amelisburg, then known as Roblin's Mills, became a prominent town. The same water used to run the Roblin Mill was also put to work, at the bottom of the escarpment, to operate a sawmill, using one of the old fashioned upright saws.

At the same time, there was a cooperage mill, a shingle mill, and an ashery below the escarpment. The sawmill burned before the year 1900, and was replaced by an apple evaporator. The evaporator didn't last long either, but an account of the town during the year 1900 gives the population at 500, and the businesses included two blacksmith shops, two carriage factories and three large stores.

WILL BE TORN DOWN

Edward Roblin, the last of the family to operate the mill personally, died in 1900, and Richard Roblin, the last Roblin to own the mill, died in Rochester, N.Y., in 1940. Harry Smith, of Belleville, bought the property and the then inoperative mill in 1947.

Now owned by Mac Smith, of Belleville, the building will be torn down, in the indefinite future. Mr. Smith said he once had plans for it, but that he abandoned them when he realized the building would not last. But while it does last, the building contains a slice of Prince Edward County history.

The Roblin Mill, in Amelisburg, now stands as a 120-year-old derelict on the main road through the village. Part of the adjoining structure has already collapsed, and the end of the main building shown in this picture is almost severed from the rest by cracks in the out walls.

Me? The world's greatest importer?

You didn't know that Canadian shoppers are the world's greatest importers of manufactured goods? It's news to most of us. The fact is we spend an average of $235 per person each year.

By itself $235 doesn't look like very much. Now look at the equivalent figure for a few other nations: Britain $75; West Germany $60; the United States only $35 per person!

Surprising? Alarming might be a better word for it.

Right now, it's very much to our disadvantage to be the world's biggest spender on manufactured imports. International trade is vital to our growth, of course. And freedom of choice is a Canadian heritage. It's quite apparent, though, that we've been on an import spree, an extravagance that can jeopardize our jobs and the future chances of our growing children.

There is an immediate way to help reverse this situation and at the same time benefit ourselves, the people of our province and our country.

Just buy fewer imported manufactured goods.

We'll still need many of the things other countries make. However, if each one of us in Ontario could reduce the amount we spend on imported manufactured goods by $100 and divert that money to products made in our own country, the results would be dramatic. 600,000,000 vital dollars would remain in our province to help create as many as 60,000 new jobs.

GOVERNMENT OF ONTARIO · TRADE CRUSADE

Premier of Ontario John Robarts greeted guests at the opening of the public portion of the Progressive Conservative annual fundraising workshop, for the Eastern Ontario District of Number Two, in Napanee Saturday. In the picture are left to right, Mr. Robarts, warden of Hastings County, and Jack Ireland, representing Belleville on the District Executive of the Conservative Association.

Individuals Must Produce To Limit of Capabilities Robarts States at Napanee

"In our society, it is necessary that each individual produce to the limit of his physical and mental capabilities", Premier John Robarts told about 300 Progressive Conservative party members in Napanee, Saturday. Speaking to the annual meeting of the party's Eastern Ontario District Number Two, the Premier added that society must also recognize and accept responsibility for people who cannot care for themselves.

The Premier emphasized that the party would, according to its principals, continue to emphasize the protection of civil rights and liberties, and would remain able "to exercise the native common sense that is our birthright."

In a press conference, a reporter asked about his reference to a "birthright" and told him that Liberal John J. Wintermeyer had made a similar reference, in Napanee, recently, "Well, we have common grounds", replied Mr. Robarts.

STEPS SEEN FUTILE

The Provincial government's steps to hold up an increase in the price of milk are futile, Premier John Robarts told reporters because the price is set by negotiation. What the province is doing, and can do, is encourage the producers and marketers to delay any increase in price until the Department of Agriculture has time to study the problem. He added that in at least thirty markets, it had been decided to postpone any increase.

Mr. Robarts also commented that the consumption of milk in Ontario is rising much faster than the population of the province and that Ontario now has very little surplus milk produced.

Ontario may be offered a socialized medical plan, Premier John Robarts said, but there are no definite plans for one yet. The problem cannot be approached, according to Mr. Robarts, "in an atmosphere of hysterical political bidding for support." He added that 97 per cent of the people in the province are protected against the cost of prolonged hospitalization by hospital insurance schemes.

Mr. Robarts pointed out that all political parties have plans of one sort or another, and that most of them are enormously expensive. He emphasized that any scheme to provide socialized medicine in Ontario would involve serious problems in finding the personnel to operate it, and the taxes to pay for it.

DATE NOT SET

The date for the next provincial election in Ontario has not yet been decided, Premier Robarts stated. He admitted, though, that the next election might well be fought over separate schools and the provincial sales tax. He said that Conservative strategy, on the provincial level, would not be affected by the results of the Quebec election, but added that there might be some serious rethinking among federal party leaders.

Asked for his comment on the Liberal platform, Mr. Robarts replied: "I don't know what their platform is right now . . . they change it every couple of days."

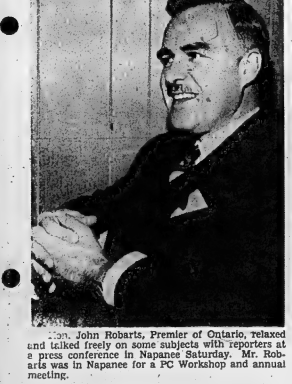
GOODFELLOW TO RETIRE

The Hon. William A. Goodfellow, PC MLA, for Northumberland, announced Saturday that he plans to retire soon. He did not specify any date in Napanee Saturday, but implied that he might not run for election again.

Speaking of the provincial government, he described it as very progressive, and said that the Lesage government in Quebec had sent men to Ontario to study the Ontario Government's projects, "and," he said, "you would be surprised to know how many of our schemes they have adopted."

BELLEVILLE MEN ELECTED

A Belleville man was among the five Progressive Conservatives elected to the executive of Eastern District Number Two, of the Provincial PC Association. The election was held during the provincial association's annual meeting and workshop.



The meeting introduced the party's reorganization program to the association. In the province, 11 districts have been set up, of several ridings each. Eastern District Two consists of the ridings of Frontenac-Addington, Hastings East and West, Kingston, and Prince Edward-Lennox. To a district, the party organizers feel they can offer more training and support to the local executives than East and West, and would be possible to individual ridings.

Mr. Robarts has been attending the district meetings across the province, to introduce the new organization. So far, he has visited Cornwall, Port Arthur, Bradford, Sudbury, London and Saturday's meeting in Napanee. He will visit meetings in the other districts later.

Edgar Drew, of Moscow, is president of the executive appointed Saturday, and Vera A. MacMurray, of Gilmour, the secretary. Vice presidents are W. E. Webster, of Kingston, Ivan Earl Morrison, of Napanee, and John Weese, of Belleville.

KILLED IN CRASH

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — T. F. Macdonald, 79, of Brampton, was killed Friday when his car collided with a truck. Driver of the truck, Ernest Grant, 41, was unhurt. Brampton is 46 miles northwest of Toronto.

John Robarts, Premier of Ontario, relaxed and talked freely on some subjects with reporters at a press conference in Napanee Saturday. Mr. Robarts was in Napanee for a PC Workshop and annual meeting.

During a visit to Napanee Saturday, to attend a district PC workshop and annual meeting, Premier John Robarts took time out to inspect the Napanee Industries Ltd. factory. In the picture, he looks over a movable damage-proof bunkhead used in railway boxcars and manufactured in the Napanee plant. R. A. Racine, (right), assistant plant manager, explains the work in progress.

Russia Accuses Communist China of Siding With Imperialists, Defends Action

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union defended its Cuban rocket withdrawal Sunday and accused Communist China of siding with the imperialists.

The accusation was made in a page and a half article in Pravda, the Communist party organ. It was one of the toughest replies yet to Red Chinese criticism.

The article was written by Boris N. Ponomarev, member of the party central committee and of the party secretariat, a historian and one of the principal Soviet theorists. It was published on the eve of the meeting of the central committee, at which Premier Khrushchev's policy on industry, agriculture and probably his foreign policy are coming up for review.

The author aimed his blows not at the Chinese Communists but at the Albanians, who in the Soviet-Chinese ideological debate have been the principal spokesmen for the Chinese position and almost always the targets for replies.

There also was an implied attack on China's frontier quarrel with India. The article said one cannot preach about the struggle against imperialism and at the same time "carry out provocative actions which do not strengthen, but undermine the cause of peace and socialism. That is what is actually done in practice by the Albanian leaders."

It was the first semblance of a blow aimed by the Soviet Union at the Chinese operations on the Indian frontier. Prior to this, the Soviet government has sought to take a position of being friends to both sides.

The article said the Soviet Union was the acknowledged leader of the Soviet camp, as established in the 1957 Communist meeting in Moscow. Then it added:

"This coming out (of the Albanians and Chinese) against the Leninist line—generally acknowledged vanguard of the Communist movement . . . will lead the Albanian leadership into the same camp with anti-Communists.

"Its pseudo - revolutionary phrases and appeals cannot hide the fact that the present-day line of the Albanian leadership are dealing harm to the cause of socialism and communism".

Cuba Prepares Protest to UN Over Arrest

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cuban delegation prepared a formal protest to the United Nations today seeking the release of an attache, one of three men charged in an alleged Cuban sabotage plot.

An FBI spokesman said the planning to blow up oil refineries in New Jersey, set off incendiary bombs and smoke devices in New York's major department stores and throw hand grenades into crowds of Christmas shoppers here.

"It was a question of moving in before they had a chance to use their equipment," said John Malone, agent in charge of the New York FBI office. He referred to a cache of explosives and incendiary devices which the FBI confiscated.

The FBI also disclosed, in making the arrests Friday and Saturday, that 10 others were being trained here in the art of sabotage. The FBI said all of have been subpoenaed by a federal grand jury.

ARRIVED IN OCTOBER

One of the three arrested, Roberto Santiesteban Casanova, 27, is an attache at the Cuban UN Mission. He arrived here Oct. 3 on a plane bringing Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos to New York for a UN session.

Authoritative sources at the UN said they believe the Cuban delegation would protest today to Acting Secretary-General U Thant that Santiesteban has diplomatic immunity and cannot be held under arrest.

Ambassador Carlos M. Lechuga, head of the Cuban delegation, said in a statement that he was "asking the United Nations to see that the international agreements on diplomatic immunity are carried out."

The ambassador charged that the FBI had used brutality in arresting Santiesteban.

The arrested trio was charged specifically with conspiracy to commit sabotage and failure to register as agents of a foreign power. If convicted, maximum sentence on each count is 5 years in prison, with fines of up to $15,000 against Stiwell, poet and novelist. The drawings were valued at £600 drawing is made with a silver- ($1,800) each. A silver pencil pencil on paper or parchment.

PICASSOS STOLEN

Asked to Pay $700 to Get Son in Canada

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—A political refugee says he has been told he must pay $700 before his seven-year-old son will be released from Yugoslavia.

Srecko Zanoskar, 33, last saw his son Srecko when he and his wife, Antonia, 27, fled Yugoslavia in 1957. He said they left Srecko with a widow because they feared they would be killed if caught escaping.

Mr. Zanoskar, who was jailed for five years while attempting to escape to Canada or the United States in 1949, said he had received a letter from the People's Committee at Ljubljana, his home city, last month stipulating about $700 must be repaid in government baby bonuses before any steps can be taken to bring his child to Canada.

"It is like buying my son, but I am prepared to pay," he said.

WAS TOO ILL

Mr. Zanoskar said he had slipped back to Yugoslavia three months after his escape only to find his son too ill to return with him.

Mr. Zanoskar said he knows of about 15 other parents who had their children sent to Canada without having to pay back baby bonuses.

He said he is willing to place the $700 in the hands of his lawyer with instructions to be forwarded to Yugoslavia as soon as his son arrives in Canada.

Mr. Zanoskar said he intends to seek help from the International court in Switzerland and may apply for Canadian citizenship this week because immigration authorities have advised him his wife may be able to help him because he is still a Yugoslav citizen.

Mr. Zanoskar said he and his wife earn $125 a week between them and are paying off a new six-room bungalow.

Niels Bohr, 74, Famed Danish Physicist, Dies

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — Famed Danish physicist Niels Bohr, 77, died Sunday of coronary thrombosis.

Bohr was a Nobel Prize winner and pioneer nuclear physicist.

Often described as the "father of modern physics," he was awarded the Nobel Prize for physics in 1922 and the Atoms for Peace Award in 1957.

Bohr was awarded the Atoms for Peace Award for having exerted "great moral force on behalf of the international use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes."

Bohr developed his theory of the structure of atoms with Professor Ernest Rutherford at Manchester University. Secretary of the powerful congregation of the holy office—be re- 1916.

Before the Second World War he suggested theories which contributed to the birth of the atomic bomb, and soon laboratories around the world were working on nuclear fission.

GOES TO U.S.

Bohr was smuggled to Britain during the Second World War and then went to the United States to help with the atom bomb.

Generally ranked second only to the late Albert Einstein among the world's great physicists of the 20th century, Bohr at the time of his death was at head of the Institute of Theoretical Physics at Copenhagen University.

On a visit to the United States in 1954, Bohr declared the hope of humanity lay in the collaboration among nations in harnessing atomic energy for the benefit of mankind.

As a weapon of war, he said, theoretically nuclear energy could wipe out life on earth.

JAP FISHERMEN LEAD

ROME (AP) — Japan's far-flung fishing fleet continues to lead the world in 1961 with a total catch of 500,000 tons more than in 1960, when Japan was the first country ever to land more than 6,000,000 tons of fish. Peru also showed big increases, to keep her place as the world's second fishing nation. Communist China was third, the Soviet Union fourth and the United States fifth.

Common Market Nations Expect Britain's Entry Will Be Fact by Jan., 1964

BRUSSELS (AP) — A Dutch authority said Saturday the six Common Market nations have assumed Britain's entry as a partner in the Market "will be a fact by Jan. 1, 1964."

Hans Van Houten, chairman of the Common Market's ministerial council, gave this hint on the prospective outcome of current tortuous negotiations.

Van Houten held a press conference the date is not official, but has been used in working documents prepared in connection with Britain's bid for membership.

Sources close to the British delegation said later no such date had been mentioned in the negotiating sessions. Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, who heads the British team, has insisted he is not negotiating under any deadline.

Feeling among the British at the end of their 12th bargaining session with The. Six was that perhaps they had won a little more than they expected. The current members— France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg — moved slightly toward a meeting British demands for low tariffs on Commonwealth foods.

The concessions included a promise for the duty-free entry of African hardwoods, fish liver oil and certain canned meats. The Six also proposed Common Market nations assume assumed Britain's entry as a partner in the Market "will be a fact by Jan. 1, 1964."

The Six also proposed Common Market nations assume a yearly tariff quota on uranium and lamb, which would have the effect of allowing Britain to continue importing these meats cheaply from New Zealand and Australia.

The six also agreed to gradual application of their external tariff on 55 out of 75 items which the British now import duty-free from commonwealth countries.

The British did not commit themselves on The Six's offer of a tariff quota (a set quantity subject to tariffs) for Canadian newsprint. After consulting with Canada, they asked The Six to say how they felt duty-free imports of newsprint would damage them.

Other business in the three-day meeting included an offer by The Six to negotiate comprehensive trade agreements with Nigeria, Nigeria and Tanganyika (possibly also with Uganda and Kenya later), little more than they expected for them to become possible associate members.

An offer of associate membership to Aden was coupled with a special arrangement to cover the products of the oil refineries.

Ministers of the six nations will meet with Heath again. Dec. 10-12 and Dec. 19-21.

Treat Theological Thesis With Charity and Clarity Ecumenical Council Asked

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic ecumenical council was urged today to treat a controversial theological thesis with "charity, clarity, simplicity and gentleness" in the interest of Christian unity.

A spokesman, reporting on the closed session in St. Peter's Basilica, announced that many of today's speakers argued that the council's work "must mark progress and not regression, be open and no impediment" to the Christian unity field.

Before the council was a thesis on the sources of divine revelation. It has divided the 2,000 council fathers since last Wednesday, and today's debate dramatically pointed up the importance many of the prelates attach to it for current efforts to bring Christian churches together.

WANTS REWRITE

The spokesman said several prelates again asked that the thesis—prepared by a commission headed by conservative Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, secretary of the powerful congregation of the holy office—be rewritten.

Other speakers, the spokesman said, made a new suggestion: That further debate be postponed until the second phase of the council, starting in May. This suggestion indicated the council was nearing the point where it must decide what to do with the thorny issue.

The council spokesman said speakers agreed that the Bible regarding the disputed revelation thesis was its formal rather than its content.

"All agreed," the spokesman said, "with the fundamental truths contained. But some had reservations on the timeliness of examining in council questions still being debated among various theological schools."

Speakers pointed out that the Christian unity movement has been put on a new basis in recent years. One speaker said Protestants and Orthodox, "like Catholics, accept Christ but all do not agree on the way of following Christ. Thus there is disunity."

INVITED TO U.S.

ROME (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, has invited Pope John to visit the United States. The Pope said he had always wanted to go—but gave no indication that he might be able to make such a trip. The cardinal presented the invitation Saturday when Pope John received in special audience all the U.S. bishops here for the Roman Catholic ecumenical council.

Canadian Pilot Takes Part in Two Missions

LONDON (CP)—A Canadian pilot played an important part in two rescue missions Saturday night and Sunday when heavy gales lashed the northern coasts of Britain.

RCAF Flt.Lt. Tony Pasco, 30, of Calgary, piloted the RAF's only search and rescue plane on duty.

Flares from the Shackleton aircraft illuminated the scene as lifeguards tried to remove sailors from the tiny fishing boat Economy off Seaham harbor Saturday night.

"I flew back and forth for two hours," Pasco said in a telephone interview from northern Ireland Sunday night.

"The lifeguards reached the boat and managed to take about four men off, but they couldn't get back to shore."

The lifeboat capsized and the nine occupants were presumed lost.

"We just got landed again and grabbed a bit of sleep when we were called out again this morning," Pasco said.

"This time it was two boats off the coast of Northumberland that couldn't make shore. They had been without food and water for 24 hours and we dropped them supplies."

Helicopters eventually rescued the crews. Pasco, on an exchange assignment between the RCAF and RAF, flew on to Northern Ireland.

Pasco is stationed with the RAF's 206 Squadron at Mawgan, Cornwall, a coastal command headquarters.

He and his family have been in Britain for about a year.

Meredith May 'Flunk' to Get Out of Ole Miss

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A living symbol of the desegration fight may stand on the verge of leaving the school he fought to get in.

James H. Meredith, 29, the Negro who penetrated the color barrier at the University of Mississippi, says latest the pressures of his position have become close to intolerable. Reports are rampant that he may be flunking out.

At his regular weekend refuge in Memphis, where the tight-lipped Meredith has shown more candor than elsewhere, he says he intends to finish the job.

But events, and Meredith's own words, indicate the air force veteran faces a personal crisis that has come closer to removing him from the school than the mobs that rioted at his arrival.

"Last week was the worst I've had at school," Meredith said a week ago in a press conference here.

QUIET ON CAMPUS

But as far as incidents and excitement were concerned it was one of the quietest weeks since he arrived on campus the evening of Sept. 30.

Meredith obviously expected violent opposition but, not the continued pressure of resistance and publicity.

"Look at what happened at Georgia," he said in reference to the University of Georgia integration. "It was all over in a few days and people went about their business."

"But that was Georgia, not Mississippi," Meredith lamented. On the shady Mississippi campus, he said, life has not been pleasant and normal study has been impossible.

What bothers him more, Meredith says, is the constant limelight, the constant surveillance by newspaper men, marshals, and soldiers. Meredith says he spends many hours each day meeting these "other responsibilities" connected with his stay at college.

"This of course takes up time, and it detracts and takes attention away from my studies," he said.

ABC News Chief Defends Position Taken on Hiss

NEW YORK (AP) — James C. Hagerty, American Broadcasting Company news chief, Sunday night defended last week's appearance on the network of convicted perjurer Alger Hiss as an exercise in freedom of the press.

"Let's get one thing straight, I'm against Hiss and everything he stands for," Hagerty said. "I have no use for him—never have had, and never will have."

"But that doesn't alter the fact that he did not play an important part in the political career of Richard Nixon," Hagerty said in a brief television appearance.

Hagerty's taped statement was aired in answer to complaints received on the showing of a program last Sunday entitled The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon.

Hiss, largely through the work of a congressional committee headed by then Representative and later Vice-President Nixon, was convicted of lying in connection with charges he passed information to the Russians.

Hagerty, who served as White House press secretary during the eight-year administration of President Eisenhower when Nixon was vice-president, conceded that some criticism of the Hiss appearance consisted of "an honest and sincere position."

"By the same token," Hagerty added, "I cannot accept the charge that we used him deliberately to blacken or smear the patriotism and the integrity of Richard Nixon."

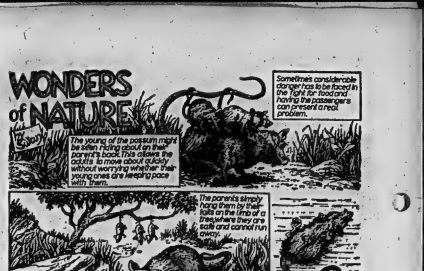
PROGRESS ON ADDITION



Good progress is being made on the technical wing at Prince Edward Collegiate. The foundations were poured a week ago and laying of concrete blocks began on Friday.

Good weather has been an aid in the project, according to Lee Mackin, foreman for the contractors, Foundation Construction Company. It is expected the school will start going up by the end of November. The million-dollar addition is scheduled for completion in July, 1963.

NOMINATIONS

Thursday sees nomination in Picton with little interest shown. Mayor H. J. McFarland is expected to be acclaimed to the office he has held since 1951 (with the exception one year). Reeve Barney Hepburn expects to again seek that office. Randolph Clapp, who filled a vacancy this year as Deputy Reeve, says he does not wish to continue due to pressure of business, but is being urged to remain in council. Two councillors, George Morden and Colin Carter have stated they plan to retire.

Councillors Robert Walmsley, James Bird and Andrew Jarvis are expected to remain, but Councillor L. B. Calnan, appointed this year to fill a vacancy, is undecided. Time entailed in carrying out the many duties of a councillor seems a deterrent to many businessmen. Though there are two pre-nomination announcements, Thursday night's meeting is expected to see many nominated for all offices.

Unity Between Protestant, R.C. Branches of Christian Faith Does Not Seem Likely

MONTREAL (CP) — Unity between Protestant and Roman Catholic branches of the Christian faith seems unlikely to Dr. Gerald Cragg, professor of historical theology at Andover-Newton Seminary in Boston.

Dr. Cragg, a lecturer for many years at McGill University's Divinity Hall here, said in an interview there have been remarkable changes in Protestant-Catholic relations in the last 150 years, but unity seems farther away than ever.

"As an historian," he said, "it seems to me that for the century and a half from the end of the Napoleonic period to the present, all the trends, of the Roman Catholic Church have been of a kind that now make any sort of unity more difficult.

"I think a good many of the decisions that have been taken —the formulation of papal infallibility, the doctrine of the assumption of the Virgin, this sort of thing—increase the problem.

"Therefore, I don't expect any rapid or quick changes there."

Dr. Cragg, recognized as a leading church historian, was in Montreal to deliver the annual Birks Lectures at Divinity Hall.

PROTESTANTS MAY UNITE

He expressed stronger hope that the many Protestant faiths might eventually come together, citing the recent union of the Congregationalists and the Evangelical Reform Church in the United States to form the United Church of Christ in America.

However, "you don't reverse the results of centuries in a matter of decades."

Dr. Cragg said there now are better prospects for church unity among Protestant faiths than before because most of the reasons that divided people are no longer relative.

"I think that human conservatism, human stupidity, human sinfulness being what they are, these things come slowly. But it seems to me always that the things which unite us are so much greater and so much more important than the things which divide us that in our kind of world it behooves Christians to get together.

Dr. Cragg said there is much discussion in the U.S. about the formation of a United Protestant Church roughly similar to the United Church of Canada.

This would combine the Protestant Episcopal (Anglican) Church, the Methodist Church, the Presbyterian Church and the United Church of Christ in America.

The United Church of Canada was formed in 1925 through a union of Congregationalist, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches.

"The normal pace of ecclesiastical things is slow," Dr. Cragg said. "But because we live in serious and desperate times it may be that Christians will realize that they have got to move more rapidly than they have been accustomed to do.

"My feeling on all such questions is, don't expect too much, but don't attempt too little. It may be that what we can foresee may be far less than what may come to pass."

Senator Chavez Of New Mexico Dies of Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, colorful, cigar-smoking descendant of an old Spanish-American family, died Sunday after a long, losing battle with cancer of the neck. He was 74.

A former Democratic member of the House of Representatives and a senator since 1935, Chavez's life spanned many political battles. He leaves a vacancy that changes the Senate lineup of 67 Democrats and 33 Republicans.

Chavez had been in failing health since he underwent surgery May 29, 1961 for removal of a tumor from his neck. Since then he has been in and out of the hospital and attended Senate sessions irregularly.

Born in Los Chaves, Valencia County, N.M., Chavez came from a family of Spanish background that dated back to the southwest's colonial days.

He became a powerful figure first in New Mexico politics then in Washington where he rose from Senate clerk to chairman of the Senate public works committee and member of the appropriations committee.

Swimmers and Rowers Will Tour N.Z. After B.E. Games

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND (CP) — Plans now are well advanced for Canadian swimmers and rowers to make exhibition tours of New Zealand after the Nov. 23-Dec. 1 British Empire Games in Australia.

After resolving difficulties over finance, plans have been completed for a New Zealand tour by three Canadian rowing crews. Successful conclusion of the arrangements was announced at the annual meeting of the New Zealand Rowing Association.

Three crews—an eight, a four and a pair—will race at Kerr's Reach, Christchurch, Dec. 6 and at Lake Waikola, near Dunedin, Dec. 8. The crews will then move from the South Island to the North Island, and race at Wanganui Dec. 11 and at Lake Karapiro Dec. 15.

Lake Karapiro is a reach of the Waikato, New Zealand's largest river, swollen into a lake by a hydro-electric dam at that point. It has been the scene of many New Zealand championships.

Twelve members of the Canadian swimming team will make a 10-day tour of New Zealand in December under the sponsorship of a tobacco firm. Several Australian swimmers will also tour under the same arrangements.

At their own request, the Canadians will split into two groups for part of the tour. The swimmers will appear at Christchurch Dec. 4, Greymouth and Masterton Dec. 6, Wellington and Napier Dec. 8, Stratford and Rotorua Dec. 11 and Auckland Dec. 13.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Senior "A" hockey had its glory-and-near-death-days skidding towards the grave-brink on a gold-greased path-Desperate efforts for survival are being made even to resurrecting the disastrous salary-paid players policy, which, reports from western Ontario state, is meeting with little if any success.

The Ontario Baseball Association fully cognizant of the experience of its puck-chasing counterpart, does not intend to be drawn into the same fate by the same procedure.

"The day of the salaried and paid-by-game player is rapidly disappearing in Ontario senior baseball," OBA president Jack Carson said today in an exclusive interview.

"In fact" Mr. Carson said, "the only play-for-pay stronghold left is the Intercounty Baseball League and it wouldn't surprise me to see it fall in line with other share-the-wealth-if-any organizations next year."

London and Stratford entries in the Intercounty League lost plenty last season, he said. Listowell, a former hotbed of baseball of the league, was broke by playoffs and withdrew from the organization.

Fan interest in many centres drifted from the senior clubs to the minors last year, according to the OBA preay. Clinton a small town near Stratford outdrew the big centre with its pee wee league. It showed better box office and one on playoff date picked up $398 in a silver collection.

"The Ontario Baseball Association" the president said, "is definitely discouraging clubs to pay players salaries or by the game. A hockey the day of the sugar-daddy sponsor is over. We prefer to start with a nominal sponsorship and if any monies are left at season's end, let the players split it."

"By keeping baseball strictly amateur we are going to try to bring it back to where hockey was here five years ago, and the only way this can be done is by eliminating all professional angles."

Baseball, like hockey and other sports, runs in a cycle, Mr. Carson said. "Ten years ago it was flourishing and at its peak. Since then attendance has dwindled and interest ebbed to a certain extent."

He felt, however, that the future is not bleak. Senior baseball held its own last year and the OBA will make all efforts to hold it at last season's level if not improve it.

"We made a great step forward in Belleville and the Lakeshore League last season" he said. "We fielded a fine young team in this city which won the OBA senior championship, something that did a lot of good for the game in this area."

"Attendance here showed that interest in the game is not dead and I believe the game is due for a strong comeback. We are trying to get more teams organized and look for a strong Central Ontario Baseball League sometime in the not too distant future," Mr. Carson said.

The outspoken Ontario Baseball Association president who never pulls any verbal punches reiterated that his organization will definitely work to keep the summer sport on a strictly amateur basis.

"It shouldn't be too hard," he said, "for the clubs who adopted the paid-player policy have already felt the pinch. We learned a lesson from hockey and with proper administration and a little co-operation all concerned, I believe we can bring baseball back to the fine status it enjoyed a decade ago."

OBA secretary Spero Anula of Peterborough announced that 7,172 players were registered with the association this year. He said registrations were higher this year than last because of the addition of the tykes division, which had 514 players.

The breakdown of players showed 563 seniors and intermediates, 544 juniors, 417 juveniles, 1,242 midgets, 1,816 bantams, 2,076 pee wees and 514 tykes.

Rangers Snap Leafs' String ★★★★★

Wings Rule Roost; Chihawks Win, Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings currently have a stranglehold on the National Hockey League.

The flying Detroiters, rated lucky to finish in fourth place in pre-season predictions, lead the standings with a two-point edge over the second-place Chicago Black Hawks and have two games in hand.

The Wings split their two weekend games, losing 3-2 to Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday night and then defeating Boston Bruins 3-1 Sunday night. But considering Wings were winding up a rough-as-guts road trip, nobody can say they're slowing down yet.

HAWKS ADVANCE

In other weekend action, the return of goalie Glenn Hall and the scoring of left - winger Bobby Hull, a 50-goal man last season, sparked Chicago to the league's best showing. The Hawks beat New York Rangers 4-3 in the season's first Saturday-afternoon game, and then settled for a 1-1 tie at home with Montreal Canadiens Sunday night.

Meanwhile, Leafs had a five-game winning streak snapped Sunday night when the Rangers topped them 3-1.

Chicago, with 28 points now is two points ahead of the Leafs. Canadiens are fourth with 18 points. New York holds down fifth place with 12 points and Boston, on a 13-game winless streak, is in last place with seven points.

In individual scoring, Delvecchio and Howe continue to take a clear lead, in points with 20 and in assists with 15. Linemate Bobby Hull, 23-year-old journeyman almost sent back to the minors before the season's dawn, scored a goal to take the league lead in that department with nine.

HULL HAS FORM

In New York Saturday, Hull scored his fifth and sixth goals of the season and added an assist in Chicago's win. He scored twice in Chicago's last game, a whipping of Detroit Wednesday.

Right winger Murray Balfour got one of his 10 lead early in the first period. Rangers' Dean Prentice tied it up three minutes later, but Hull scored his first goal to give Hawks the lead at the end of the first period.

Ken Wharram made it 3-1 with the only second period goal, and Hull fired what proved to be the winner early in the third after a spectacular rink-long rush.

New York rallied on goals by Andy Hebenton and Rod Gilbert. Rangers pulled goalie Gump Worsley with more than a minute left, but couldn't beat Hall, who was returning after a three-game absence.

SAWCHUK BUSY

In Toronto, Leafs outshot Wings 45-24 but had to settle for the spoils after Red Kelly's tip-in and Terry Sawchuk's brilliant saves. The 31-year-old netminder finished the weekend with 1,238 goals against average.

Sawchuk stopped 15 of the 18 shots against him in the first period, getting beaten only on a tip-in by Kelly. The second period saw Howe tied things up early in the third.

Irate Boston fans hanged Bruins' coach Phil Watson in effigy during the game. The Bruins are more than halfway toward the league's futility record of 29 games without a win, set by New York in 1944.

Montreal's veteran centre Jean Beliveau scored in the third period to give Canadiens their tie in Chicago.

Montreal rightwinger Claude Provost was taken to hospital for rib x-rays after he was checked into the boards by Chicago's Elmer Vasko in the second period.

In New York Sunday night, centre Jean Ratelle and rightwinger Ken Schinkel gave Rangers a 2-0 lead in the second period before Kelly scored at the 17-minute mark. Bronco Horvath banged in a rebound for Boston's only goal late in the third period.

Tony Lema Winner At Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Frontrunning Tony Lema played it cool and calm on the final round of the $50,000 golf tournament Sunday and won the $2,000 top money by seven strokes—a total of 273 for the 72 holes.

Leading by seven strokes at the end of the third round, Lema carded a 36-34—70 in the final round over the par 36-36—72, 6,500-yard course. Four-round scores were 67-68-68-70.

Doug Sanders shot the day's best round, a 32-35—67, to take second-place money of $1,500. Sanders had 280 for the 72 holes.

Toronto's George Knudson, Jim Ferree and Dave Ragan tied for third place and each picked up $1,033.33. Knudson carded a 71 Sunday to go with previous rounds of 68, 69 and 73 for a 281 total.

Ferree had a 71 Sunday, going with earlier rounds of 69, 75 and 68.

The 28 - year - old Lema increased his official earnings for the year to $39,685. This was his second major tournament victory of the year. He won the Orange County Open at Costa Mesa, Calif., a month ago.

Montreal's Al Johnston dropped out of the competition after three rounds. He was 71-72-77—220 to that point. Bob Panasiuk of Toronto, Ont., finished out of the money with 73-68-78-74—293.

Clobber Galt 7-1

Bulldogs Lead League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Terriers may have felt the effects of missing first blood from Windsor Bulldogs Sunday, but it didn't last long.

Bulldogs tied the score 1-1 by the end of the first period, then Galt's victory hopes were down the drain with three goals in each of the second and third periods for a 7-1 victory.

That, with the weekend's other games, leaves a slight traffic jam on top of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A standings. The Bulldogs are first with 20 points, Toronto Marooons second with 13 and Woodstock Athletics and Galt tied for third with 12.

Galt edged Chatham 5-4 Saturday and Chatham defeated Sarnia Rams 4-1 Sunday.

SCORER EARLY

At Windsor, Lloyd Mercer scored for Galt early in the first period and Bob Brown tied it for the Bulldogs on a 20-footer mark. Jack Costello scored two and Walter Pawlyshyn, Irwin Gross, Jack Smith and Lou Bendo one each in the second and third periods.

Galt goaltender Dave Dryden made 36 saves in the game, 18 in the third period.

Mercer scored the winner against Chatham Saturday night with only 56 seconds left to play. It was the second goal of the night for Mercer, who was making his first start of the season after recuperating from an Easter knee cartilage operation.

Bob McKnight also scored two goals for the Terriers and Alec Keeling got one. Chatham marksmen were Frank St. Marseille, Dale Hoyt, Barrett and George Usitalo.

Sarnia's loss at home, Sunday to 10th consecutive Dave Luciuk, George Aitken, Bill Smyth and Elmer Skov tallied for Toronto and Ray Moffitt scored for the Rams.

There are no games tonight. Thursday night, Galt is at Woodstock.

Stamps Half-Way To Cup Classic

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders are half way to their first Grey Cup game appearance in 12 years. Whether they go all the way depends on how they handle a "wounded rhinoceros."

"Winnipeg will be like a wounded rhinoceros Wednesday night," Stampeder coach Bobby Dobbs said Saturday as his players whooped it up in the dressing room. They were celebrating a 20-14 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the first game of the Western Football Conference finals.

The second game of the best-of-three series will be played Wednesday night at Winnipeg starting at 8 p.m. CST.

"We're going out to Winnipeg to win," Dobbs said.

If they do, the Stampeders will earn a Grey Cup berth for the first time since 1950.

If they don't, the Stamps will meet the defending Grey Cup champion Blue Bombers in a third and deciding game starting at Winnipeg Saturday.

Dobbs said he expected home soon after their defeat and went through a hot workout Sunday. Coach Bud Grant had no excuses.

"They were just a great team out there Saturday," he said of the Stampeders.

The game got at the Winnipeg workout were defensive end Herb Gray and middle linebacker Pat Rupert, who twisted an ankle and Patrick suffered bruised ribs in the Saturday battle. Both were expected to be ready for the second game.

Four Stampeders nursed minor injuries. Halfback Ed Buchanan finished the game, while Roy Jokanovich a bruised shoulder, end Phil Lohmann a bruised hand and halfback Ron Crawford a strained ligament. All are expected to be fit for Wednesday night.

The Stampeders showed strength in every department in upsetting Winnipeg before 17,230 fans. They picked up 189 yards rushing to the Bombers' 62, outpassed Winnipeg 122 to 52 and had a 20-11 edge in first downs.

Bomber quarterback Kenny Ploen and Hal Ledyard completed only four of 17 passes while Eagle Day of Calgary hit the target on 10 of 23 throws. Stamp halfback Harvey Wylie added another completion, the one that accounted for Calgary's winning points in the fourth quarter.

The Stampeder defenders allowed the Bombers to enter Calgary territory only four times. The Bombers' two touchdowns came as a result of pass interceptions.

Flanker Larry Robinson, WFC rookie of the year in 1961, scored 13 points for Calgary on two field goals, a convert and the winning touchdown. Fullback Earl Lunsford got the other touchdown and Canadian end Jim Furlong punted 60 yards for a single.

Fullback Charlie Shepard scored both touchdowns for Winnipeg. Gerry James converted them.

Big Swap Expected In Majors

NEW YORK (AP)—All signs point to a record number of player swaps during baseball's annual three-week inter-league trading period starting Wednesday.

The success of San Francisco Giants this past season and that of Cincinnati Reds in 1961, both attributed largely to players obtained from the American League, is expected to spur more inter-league dealings than ever before.

Virtually all clubs have expressed a desire to strengthen themselves in one department or another. Hence there should be a flurry of activity at the baseball meetings opening in Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 26 and 30, the major league sessions in New York Nov. 30-Dec. 1.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit's ace forward line shared a total of seven points in two weekend National Hockey League games to snatch the limelight in the league's individual scoring race.

Centre Alex Delvecchio set up three goals—two against Toronto Saturday and the other at Boston Sunday—for a 20-point total and a two-point lead over his nearest rival for scoring honors.

Chicago's star centre Stan Mikita, who collected three points weekend, holds third spot with 17.

The right-winger in the Red Wings' veteran line, dependable Gordie Howe, netted a goal for a total of 16. Howe holds fourth place jointly with the Black Hawks' Ab McDonald and Montreal's Bronco (Boom Boom) Geoffrion.

The Mayorov trio, Boris and Vyeghenv, each scored once. Vecheslav Starshinov, Alex Almetov and Konstantin Loktev were the other scorers.

Bobby Forhan, Rafaelle Dubois and Sonny Duke scored the three Kitchener-Waterloo goals.

Win Eastern Junior Crown

By EDDY COLLISTER

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal NDG Maple Leafs rallied in the second half to capture the Eastern Canada junior football title Sunday with a 29-14 win over Sarnia Knights.

The Knights picked up nine first downs to NDG's four in the opening two quarters and carried a 7-6 lead into the final 30 minutes.

But NDG bounced back and won a berth in the Little Grey Cup game next Saturday in Hamilton. The Maple Leafs meet the Western titled Edmonton Huskies in a sudden-death game for the national junior championship.

OLMSTEAD TO RETIRE

NEW YORK (ARP)—New York Giants' super Sunday Bert Olmstead was dashed Saturday when the veteran National Hockey League star informed club president Bill Jennings he planned to retire from the game. The Rangers acquired the 36-year-old left winger from Montreal last season for the $20,000 draft price. Jennings said Olmstead told him he felt his age and physical condition were against him.

Cats Snatch Win On Lark Fumbles

Have 11 Points Margin

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP)—As Montreal's Ed Learn, among the most sure-handed punt-receiver in the East all season, let the ball get away from him once Saturday.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats converted it into a touchdown, exploited a second Montreal blunder for another touchdown and went on to down the Alouettes 29-17.

That gave the Ticats an 11-point cushion for the second game of the Eastern Football Conference finals in Hamilton next Saturday.

Going into the fourth quarter, Montreal led 17-15 and came the Hamilton surge.

Learn said later he didn't know what happened.

"I got under the ball okay. I caught it. Then I got hit and it was gone."

Some of the Montreal players said the ball was kicked loose by Hamilton centre Ron Watton after tackle Bronco Nagurski had hauled Learn down. But they weren't sure.

Coach Jim Trimble of the Ticats saw it differently.

"He was given a hell of a hell by Hamilton fullback (Bobby) Kuntz," he said. Tackle Gino DeNobile picked up the ball and lumbered 25 yards for the touchdown that put Hamilton ahead.

KUNTZ DOES IT AGAIN

Later, Kuntz plunged for another touchdown from a yard out, hurling himself into the air over the Montreal defensive line. That came seven plays after the ball was fumbled by fullback Larry Hickman of Montreal and the Ticats again scored.

"I guess I didn't help the cause any," said Hickman soberly.

Hamilton emerged with no major injuries but Montreal had three, along with a rash of minor ones.

Defensive tackle Ted Elsby of the Als, who left the game in the second quarter with a shoulder injury, is a doubtful starter for next week.

Halfback Tom Brudzinski and defensive halfback Billy Wayte also were sidelined from the second quarter on. Clark with a twisted right knee and Wayte with a sore left knee.

Both are expected to be fit for Saturday.

So are Montreal's Bobby Jack Oliver, Bobby Lee Thompson and Barry Hansen. Oliver suffered a rib injury, Thompson aggravated a charley horse and Hansen had a slightly sprained ankle.

The game was played on a damp field, bare of grass — leaving footing uncertain—Before a near-record crowd of 32,725. The record here was set in 1956 when the same two clubs drew 36,750.

Jamie Caleb and Dave Vill scored other touchdowns for the Ticats on long pass plays and Don Sutherin rounded out the offensive with a single and three converts.

Trimble used both Joe Zuger and Frank Cosentino at quarterback and each threw one payoff pass. Zuger hit Vill and Cosentino hooked up with Caleb.

The Als' got two touchdowns both converted by Oliver who also kicked a 27-yard field goal.

Sandy Stephens threw to Marv Luster for one and George Dixon scored the other, slanting six yards off left tackle.

Dixon's touchdown came after a Hamilton play that misfired. Cosentino tried a pitch-out to Caleb. The ball went astray and Montreal's Dave Gross recovered on the Hamilton 39.

Dixon took it over nine plays later.

The Ticats rolled for 16 first downs to Montreal's 17, but the Als led in total offensive yardage with 425 yards to Hamilton's 370.

In passing, the Ticats netted 197 yards against 180 for Montreal. But they had only 132 yards rushing against 245 by Montreal.

Zuger completed seven of 15 pass attempts and had two intercepted. Cosentino made good on three of his eight tries and had one intercepted. Stephens tried 19 passes and completed 11, yielding one interception.

PASS PLAY — Quarterback Frank Cosentino (11) of Hamilton Tiger-Cats throws a pass to Hal Patterson (77) during action in the Eastern Football Conference playoff in Montreal. Georgia Tech Clips String

Mighty Alabama Beaten

NEW YORK (AP) — Georgia Tech upset mighty Alabama 7-6 Saturday, ending the longest U.S. college football winning string and seriously damaging Alabama's hopes of a second straight national championship.

Fullback Mike McNames scored Georgia Tech's second-quarter touchdown on a nine-yard drive and Rudy Lothridge's conversion kick stand up as the margin of victory when his jarring tackle thwarted a two-point Alabama conversion try in the fourth quarter.

The loss was the first in 27 games for Alabama, since Tennessee beat the Crimson Tide in 1960, and almost certainly knocked them out of the No. 1 spot in the nation.

Wisconsin virtually clinched a Rose Bowl berth with a 35-6 triumph over Illinois while Mississippi, Texas and Oklahoma took giant strides toward the Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowls.

COMES FROM BEHIND

Southern California had to come from behind, then get a bit of luck in winning an eighth straight game, 14-12 over Navy. Navy almost pulled it out in the closing moments when they had the ball on the USC five, fumbled into the end zone with the Trojans recovering.

Mississippi won their eighth straight, 19-6 over Tennessee. The victory coupled with Alabama's loss, virtually assured Ole Miss of the unofficial Southeastern Conference title and a spot in the Sugar Bowl.

Texas, with an 80-1 record, continued to drive toward the Cotton Bowl with a 14-0 decision over Texas Christian. Arkansas beaten only by Texas, kept its hopes alive with a 9-7 comeback victory against Southern Methodist. Texas and Arkansas each have one Southwest Conference game to play.

Oklahoma blanked sixth-ranked and previously unbeaten Missouri 13-0 and took charge of the Big Eight race.

Halfback Lou Holland scored four touchdowns on runs of 15, 18 and 35 yards and a 16-yard pass from Ron Vanderkelen in leading Wisconsin to an easy but important triumph over Illinois.

The victory left Wisconsin with a 7-1 record, 5-1 in the Big Ten, one game behind Northwestern, the only other Rose Bowl eligibles with a chance of taking it, were knocked out of the race. Minnesota (6-1-1) edged Purdue 7-6 and Michigan State romped over Northwestern 21-7.

Skypeck Snatches Victory

McGill Nips Gaels 15-13

By PAUL RIMSTEAD

KINGSTON (CP)—Tom Skypeck, a 24-year-old quarterback who makes a habit of going out in style, led McGill Redmen to a 15-13 last-minute win over Queen's Golden Gaels Saturday in the Intercollegiate Senior Football League sudden-death championship final.

Skypeck was playing his final game in the college league and went out a winner by completing five straight passes for the winning touchdown with only 59 seconds remaining in the game.

Gaels had sent a sparse hometown crowd into a frenzy when they fought from behind twice to take a 13-8 lead in the fourth quarter.

EXCITING FINISH

But Skypeck, who said after the game he didn't think for a minute he would lose, moved the ball the length of the field on five plays to provide one of the most exciting finishes ever seen in the college league.

He hit Willie Lambert for a five-yard gain, tossed 30 yards to Eric Waller, to Lambert for six, to Waller again for 32 and then 25 yards to Lambert in the end zone.

Redmen, who held earlier leads of 5-0 and 8-6, scored their other points on two field goals and a convert by George Telesh and a safety touch.

Gaels, defending champions, scored their points on touchdowns by rookie Jim Young and Bill Sirman and a convert by Robin Ritchie.

Skypeck, who graduates this year in dentistry, makes a habit of leaving his mark in his last game.

In his final U.S. college football game three years ago he led Cornell to an upset 28-6 win over Penn State.

Sensitivo Wins Big Handicap

NEW YORK (AP)—Sensitivo, an Argentina-bred five-year-old, struck from behind in the stretch Saturday and won the $58,250 Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct for the most important victory of his career.

Under Manuel Ycaza's well-judged ride, he got up in the final strides to pick up the purse of $37,252.50 for Mrs. and Mrs. R. F. Bensinger.

At the end of the 1¼ miles he was a head in front of Sunrise Flight. Hellenic Hero trailed by a neck for third money.

Sensitivo ran the distance in 2:02 1-5, and paid $13.40, $7.20 and $4.50 for his fifth victory in 17 starts this year. Sunrise Flight returned $6.90 and $4.80 and Hellenic Hero $8.90 to show.

FINAL APPEARANCE

At Cherry Hill, N.J., making her final appearance for the Meadowbrook stable, Primasha turned in one of her finest races and won the $54,473 Walt Whitman Stakes by 2½ lengths over favored Shirley Jones at Garden State Park.

Colony Flyer was third in the field of seven in the 1 3-16-mile test for fillies and mares. The winning time was 1:57 3-5.

Primasha, to be sold Monday in Meadowbrook's dispersal sale, was timed along in fourth until just past the half-mile pole. Jockey Pack Leonard then called on the mare and she drew away for her impressive victory.

Primasha, who earned $35,608, paid $2.60, $5.60 and $3. Shirley Jones returned $2.60 and $2.20 and Colony Flyer was $3.40 to show.

Cameras Follow Young Doctor Through 36 Hours

By CYNTHIA LOWEY

NEW YORK (AP)—A young doctor's life is not really a succession of glamorous patients, glamorous diseases and glamorous nurses with good Dr. Gillespie always on hand to help out. NBC Sunday night gave us a grim hour showing of the real thing.

It was called Emergency Ward, and with the network cameras we followed Dr. Martin Mulder's 36-hour tour of duty at Bellevue Hospital, New York City.

Young, earnest Dr. Mulder, then in his eighth week as an intern, looked a little like Dr. Kildare. But the neat plots, all neatly tied up at the end of each episode were missing.

There was one nameless derelict who died of a brain injury in spite of all the team of doctors and nurses could do. An alcoholic was saved from his latest drunk. There was a man who needed immediate heart surgery if his life was to be saved—and he stubbornly refused it.

Behind all the organized chaos there were the wails of the ambulance siren, the cries of the injured and the frightened.

There's a whale of a difference between the real men in white and television's Kildares and Caseys.

Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra will return to CBS next month for the fifth season. There will be four programs—three of them reruns. The new work, however, will not call the three The Best of Lennie.

Recommended tonight: Ben Casey, ABC, 10-11 EST—Vincent Edwards as a doctor with a patient suffering from brain tumor.

Red Wings whitewashed the Browns 5-0 as D. Roper earned the shutout. Goals were scored by B. Rush, G. Chambers, G. Deakin, D. Prentice and B. Caves. C. Haley and J. Foulton had assists.

Hamilton had other Quinte goals with Blaine and Summers also earning assists. T. Meagher potted a pair for the Flyers and D. Cass one. D. Demers drew two assists, Acquafredda one.

Solunar Tables for Hunters

All too often sportsmen seem to associate the solunar tables only with fishing. They refer to them as "fish books" or "fish almanacs." Believe me, nothing could be further from the true facts in the case.

The solunar tables are based on a natural law that has been known to scientists for a great many years but only in a general sort of way. In the outdoors, wildlife is definitely cyclic. Sometimes wildlife is active in the extreme. Fish will feed actively; songbirds are unusually vocal and are flying about from tree to tree. And in the upland fields game seems to be everywhere.

This sort of violent activity lasts, as a rule, only for two days or so. Then activity seems to taper off. Before long the woods and fields are quiet and the placid surfaces of lakes and streams lie quiet, without even a telltale dimple of a feeding fish. Something in nature has prompted the creatures of the wild to go on a feeding spree. Then an equally strong stimulus has put an end to activity and things are quiet once more.

FIND THE KEY

Back in 1926 it fell to our lot to find the key to the identification of this daily cycle of feeding and activity periods and rest periods. We picked up an item of fish lore from a Florida guide and, with this as a start, went on to develop the solunar theory and the solunar tables which are based on that theory. It took ten years of careful study, investigation and research to come up with the formula.

Even today, forty-two years later, there are still things that are yet to be learned about this cycle, but, as matters stand now, we have gone about as far as our present store of human knowledge will take us. But in their present state, the solunar tables are surprisingly accurate. They do for you what we say they will do — point the way to the best spot that any particular day has to offer.

At first we made the same mistake that many people make today — thinking of the solunar periods as applying only to fish. It did not take long, however, to determine that the activity and rest cycle applied not only to fish but to all wildlife — fish, songbirds, game birds, animals and people. We're all cyclic.

As a matter of fact, birds — and this includes all kinds of birds — respond more actively and more dependably to the promptings of a solunar period than do the fish.

As you know, rarely do you have good fishing when there is a falling glass and there are prospects of an oncoming storm. Then the fish are likely to seek the safety of deep water until the atmospheric disturbance has passed. Self-preservation is the first law of nature and fish are not interested in food when there is trouble brewing. Solunar periods are ignored. Not so the birds. When all else is quiet, usually you can detect the riggence of a solunar period by the increased activity among bird life.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

Some years ago my son and I drove to South Carolina to do some quail shooting. The plantation where we stayed had 10,000 posted acres, either owned or under lease. There were plenty of quail in those acres. Our host hsuled himself with the affairs of the plantation in the mornings. In the afternoons we hunted quail.

Even with a kennel of good dogs we had trouble finding more than a covey or two in an afternoon. I consulted my solunar tables and found that the major solunar periods for that week came in the mornings. I told my host about this. His reaction was typical.

"Now look, Jack," he said, "You can tell me about fishing and I'll listen, but when it comes to quail, that's different. Suppose you leave the quail hunting guess to me."

It so happened that his dog trainer spent each morning in the field, teaching the young dogs what they should know about quail hunting. Dick and I would drive out and find the trainer with his semi-broken pups. Hunting in the morning, even over those green puppies, we had for the last three days of our stay quail shooting that would knock your hat off. The birds were feeding during the morning solunar period, and we had no trouble turning up eight or ten coveys in the space of three hours or so.

Ringneck pheasants, after they have been hunted for a day or two, are wise and wily birds. They run ahead of the dog, as a rule, seeking the safety of the brush and swamps.

STORY IS DIFFERENT

But during the major solunar periods the story is different. Then the birds are hungry. Nature feels them that feeding is indicated and they are in the open fields, taking on cargo. As often as not, instead of highballing it for heavy cover, leaving the feeding grounds, they choose to hide. Thus, the dog can find them and they give you some shooting.

Dove hunters, as a rule, regard the early morning and the late afternoon as the best times to hunt those birds. Of course, here in the Eastern Management Unit we can't hunt before twelve noon and we miss the morning shooting. Just the same, if there is a solunar period during the early afternoon we make it a point to be on good flyway as early as the law allows. In this way we get some fine flyway shooting which otherwise we would miss.

The ruffed grouse is another game bird that reacts perfectly to the solunar periods. During the off times a grouse is likely to be sunning, dusting or perched in a tree. It is very in the extreme and difficult to find. But during a solunar period he will be in the more open woodles, feeding contentedly. Then he will lie for the dog and give you excellent shooting.

And rabbits — during the rest periods the wildlife follows often are difficult to find. But with the advent of a solunar period rabbits, even those that seem to be all over the place.

So take our advice this year and consult your solunar tables when you plan a hunting trip. Believe me, it will pay dividends in better sport.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Forward Buddy Boone helped Vancouver Canucks protect their slim lead in the Western Hockey League's Northern Division this weekend.

Boone scored twice to give Canucks a 3-3 overtime tie with Seattle Totems at Seattle Saturday. A Seattle win, coupled with the Totems' 9-4 victory over Calgary Stampeders at Seattle Sunday night, would have given Seattle a share of the lead.

In other games Saturday, the Stampeders were blanked 6-0 by the Seals at San Francisco and Portland Buckaroos downed the Comets 4-1 at Spokane.

In the Vancouver - Seattle game, George Ford scored the other Canuck goal and Seattle marksmen were Bob Barlow, Guyle Fielder and Jim Powers. Powers was credited with a goal which Vancouver goaltender Gilles Villemure knocked into his own net.

REPORTS REJECTION

LONDON (AP) — The Observer says that Premier Khrushchev offered President Kennedy a "package deal" at settling East-West tensions over Cuba, Germany and nuclear tests, but that Kennedy rejected a Cuban settlement linked to other — West agreements. The independent newspaper attributes its report to a well informed, neutral source. There was no available independent confirmation in London diplomatic quarters.

CBC Head Says Public Service Must Become Primary Aim of TV

Sir P. Renison, Governor of Kenya, Retires

LONDON (CP)—he colonial office announced here Sunday the retirement of Sir Patrick Renison, 51, as governor of Kenya.

He will be succeeded by Malcolm Macdonald, 63, formerly British co-chairman of the Laos conference and high commissioner in Southeast Asia. Colonial Secretary Duncan Sandys announced.

Several newspapers said Renison quit the post after a sharp clash with Sandys over independence for Kenya.

Sandys denied the resignation was caused by differences on policy between the two men during last week's London conference.

In a statement, Sandys said: "Sir Patrick Renison was informed many months ago by the then colonial secretary that it was intended in the final phase of Kenya's advance to independence to appoint in his place a man with wide political experience.

Macdonald, Renison's successor in Nairobi, has had an unorthodox career as a top British cabinet minister, author, skier, ornithologist, diplomat and negotiator at the 1961 Laos conference.

He is the son of Britain's first Labor prime minister, Ramsay Macdonald, and has held a succession of high appointments overseas since leaving Parliament—which he entered as a labor MP—in 1929.

He was high commissioner to Canada after the Second World War and is married to a Canadian.

RETAINS TITLE

PERTH (Reuters)—Bob Marshall of Australia won the world amateur billiards championship for the fourth time Friday night when he beat Wilson Jones of India 5,622 to 2,591 in a match

MONTREAL (CP) — J. Alphons Ouimet, president of the CBC, said here Saturday world television will have to decide whether its primary aim is to be a public service or a commercial enterprise. He said public service must be given clear priority.

"Will world competition raise the quality of television programs to the highest world levels of artistic and intellectual achievement?

"Or will world television cater to the common denominator of taste to insure at all times the largest possible audience in order to move merchandise or ideologies around the world?"

Speaking to the second Canadian symposium on communications, he answered his own question.

"Broadcasting must be a public service first. In circumstances where it must be a business as well, its commercial activities must remain a means to its public service and must not become an end in themselves."

He said Canada has taken a "pragmatic approach" in combining the public service philosophy prevalent in Europe and in the commercial approach of U.S. broadcasting.

He added while this gives Canada "the best of two world," it also causes a conflict between commercial and public interest.

Blood Supply Runs Dry In Operation

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Doctors called for emergency blood supplies Sunday when a desperate attempt to save the life of an injured Peterborough man.

Gausto LaFace, 33, was hurt in an accident which sent five other members of his family to hospital.

Early today, Gausto was in a critical condition suffering from severe loss of blood, severe internal injuris, facial lacerations and a broken leg.

A Civic Hospital official said emergency donors were called in and additional supplies obtained from another Peterborough hospital when supplies of LaFace's type of blood ran out.

Mrs. Marilyn LaFace is suffering from facial injuries and a possible fractured ankle. Son Larry, 2, is suffering from a severe leg. Another three children, ranging from 11 months to 11 years, were in satisfactory condition with minor injuries.

Police said LaFace's car rained from another Peterborough struck a steel girder on a bridge on Highway 28 about 15 miles south of here.

Canadian Held by Cubans Got in Hot Water by Trying to Help Others

NEW YORK (CP)—A free-lance reporter said Sunday night fellow-Canadian Douglas Buchanan is being held by Cuban police because they found what they considered "contraband" material in his Havana hotel room.

Correspondent Don North of Vancouver, a freelance contributor and former staff announcer with CBC, said Buchanan got in hot water trying to help North and another reporter, Robin MacNeil, who were being held in Havana's Hotel Capri.

North said he and the other reporter called to Buchanan and Roderick MacKenzie, a cargo airline pilot, when they saw them pass on the opposite side of the street from their ninth-floor hotel room.

They threw a note—addressed to the Canadian Embassy—to Buchanan and MacKenzie—but the note "through an irony of fate" fell on a one-story station of the Cuban militia.

Buchanan was pulling down the note with a long pole when he was arrested, North said. Cuban secret police then searched his room and found maps that the Canadian—who has spent considerable time in Cuba — had used while sport flshing along the Cuban coast. The Canadian had marked good flshing spots on the map.

CALL IT ESPIONAGE

The crosses and X's that indicated flshing spots actually were locations of activities in the eyes of the secret police, who also claimed they found a "large number of pesos" in Buchanan's room, North said.

North said he is a personal friend of MacKenzie, a pilot with International Air Freighters Limited, who headquarters were at »Malton, Ont., and through MacKenzie, understood Buchanan also was connected with the airline. He also understood Buchanan, who hails from Harrow, Ont., was an expert on poultry and other farm produce which the airline carried to Cuba.

North said the Cuban police were so suspicious that they figured an old Scottish song he was carrying in his possessions was actually some sort of code for espionage.

North arrived here via Mexico City after 16 days in Cuba, most of the time having been spent in detention. He described his experience and that of MacNeil, an Ottawa man now working with the National Broadcasting Company, as a comic farce in many aspects. MacNeil was in Washington Sunday night.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Free Press, in a dispatch from Mexico City by staff reporter Norman Creed, quotes MacKenzie as saying that the "things look bad" for Douglas Buchanan of Harrow, Ont., who is being held in Havana by Cuban secret police.

Creed reports that MacKenzie was held for 24 hours at secret police headquarters where he underwent intensive questioning before being released.

MacKenzie told Creed in an interview it is feared that Buchanan may be charged with spying and sentenced to a Cuban prison.

Police searched Buchanan's hotel room, finding maps, two revolvers, a sawed-off shotgun, jewelry and a large amount of Cuban currency, MacKenzie said in the interview. They were suspicious of the maps, which had marking and the jewelry and currency, he said, adding that black market dealings in currency is seriously regarded.

MacKenzie attempted to see Buchanan several times. When finally permitted to see him last Wednesday, they were permitted to speak in Spanish for only five minutes in the presence of secret police.

'HE WAS SCARED'

"He was scared," MacKenzie said. Although there was little opportunity to say much, MacKenzie learned that he apparently was well treated.

MacKenzie attempted to see him again the next afternoon but was unsuccessful.

MacKenzie told Creed a young secret police officer in charge of the case told him Buchanan was "going to be here a long time."

Buchanan had spent 15 months in Cuba as a technician working for IRMA, the National Agrarian Reform Institute, setting up poultry hatcheries, MacKenzie explained. He had completed most of his work some time ago and had been vacationing a month and a half when arrested.

JOINS MILITIA

Buchanan joined the Cuban militia a month ago because it was "the thing to do" and apparently permitted him to carry a gun, MacKenzie said. MacKenzie, employee of International Air Freighter, was flying cargo planes for Cuba.

Meanwhile, Buchanan's brother, Keith Buchanan of Harrow, said Sunday night he hopes to receive further word of his son Monday through the external affairs department and the Canadian embassy in Havana.

"He liked the country, the people and the way he was treated—up to now," Mr. Buchanan said of his son.

He explained his son collected many souvenirs and maps.

"They found enough to make it look suspicious."

Smallwood Wins Another Election In Newfoundland

Liberals Will Have 33 Members in House

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Joseph Roberts (Joey) Smallwood, the peppery premier of Newfoundland who has never known election defeat, won another one Monday night.

Although other parties will put a record number of opposition members in the next provincial legislature, the bow-tied premier said he is thankful for his fifth straight Newfoundland election victory and satisfied he received the mandate he sought.

At his colorful best, arms gesturing and snapping out words like a radio announcer with the horses bunched in the homestretch, the 61- year - old premier said of his victory:

"I would be a dog, an animal, an ignoramus if I didn't give thanks to the Newfoundland people."

He said this in a quick visit to election headquarters in the Colonial Building, former home of the legislature. Then he dashed off—he didn't say where.

	1962	1959
Liberals	33	31
PCs	7	3
Independent	1	2
UNF	0	2
Deferred	1	1
Total	42	39

The deferred seat is Labrador North where bad weather forced an indefinite postponement.

ADD SIX SEATS

Six legislature seats were added by redistribution last year, bringing the total to 42. Three Liberals were elected by acclamation.

Although the opposition increased to eight members from five, the government's margin could remain unchanged from the last House if it wins in Labrador North.

A severe rain and snow storm, Smallwood's first in that area of sections of the province, lashed the island Monday and may have kept many in part for the night voting.

With 95 per cent of the polls reported, 116,995 votes had been counted. About 200,000 of the province's 311,000 residents were eligible to vote. In the 1959 election, with 189,000 eligible, 151,000 voted.

The election campaign was generally conceded to be the quietest in Newfoundland ...

POLICE CORDON OFF CITY IN BANDIT HUNT

3 Escape Under Cover of Gun Duel

TORONTO (CP) — Police cordoned off the city Monday in the hunt for three would-be bandits—two in bank uniforms —who fled empty-handed from a spectacular robbery attempt at a downtown Bank of Montreal branch.

They escaped under cover of a gun duel between a bank teller and police. Nobody was injured.

In three hours the gunmen gagged, blindfolded and chained 43 bank employees and two policemen and locked them in the basement.

The teller, mistaking police reinforcements for gunmen, fired shots at them from the protection of a vault.

Police dived for safety and pumped nine shots at the narrow opening at the vault door. The teller was flushed out with tear gas. By the time the mistake was sorted out the bandits had disappeared.

ELUDE POLICE

The three men apparently climbed out through a ventilator. They eluded heavily armed police surrounding the bank with high-powered weapons and tear-gas guns.

The gunmen left behind two transistor radios tuned in to the police radio frequency. Police believe an accomplice, equipped with a walkie - talkie, was in a car outside the bank, relaying police movements outside to the men holding employees hostage.

Bank accountant Bill O'Brien, locked in the basement, escaped and raised the alarm. His escape could have been noticed by the contact outside who warned the other three.

Police said the bandits broke into the bank early Monday or late Monday night. They met

IMPORT CHARGES GET GOING OVER IN PARLIAMENT

Liberal Motion Is Ruled Out

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's emergency import surcharges, always good for a rousing debate in the Commons, got another critical going-over Monday night.

Towards the end of clause-by-clause study of a government bill to amend the customs tariff, Liberal J. W. Pickersgill moved an amendment that would have had the effect of bringing the surcharges before Parliament for termination ting them Jan. 31, 1963.

The surcharges, ranging from five to 15 per cent, were imposed last June 24 by cabinet order-in-council to help reverse a drain on Canada's foreign exchange reserves. Some of them have since been removed.

The Liberal amendment was ruled out of order by Deputy Speaker Alan Chown on grounds it exceeded the scope of the bill under consideration, which provides for minor amendments to the customs tariff.

But the Liberals seemed little disappointed with the ruling which they evidently expected. It was merely a procedural debate during which they achieved their purpose of getting on the record once again their complaints about the surcharges.'

TORIES PROVISION

Mr. Pickersgill, member for Bonavista-Twillingate, said that Parliament in amending the customs tariff should do it "thorough job" by inserting a provision that unless it has the opportunity before Jan. 31 to continue the order - in - council, the surcharges should cease to have effect.

"After all, this House of Commons is supposed to have the right to tax," said the Newfoundland MP.

Finance Minister Nowlan and his parliamentary secretary, Howard Pratt, Argued against the amendment on a number of grounds, including that of constitutionality.

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) said he was "astonished" by the wording of the proposed amendment. It implied that the surcharge already in force was valid and would remain so until Jan. 31.

"I could not vote for a motion that implied that the order-in-council is legally valid at all and I do not see how you can put such a motion to the House," Mr. Knowles told Deputy Speaker Chown.

Replied Mr. Pickersgill: "Until the order-in-council is in effect and I want to see it before I vote on it as soon as we can get it before Parliament."

The amendment disposed of, the customs amendment bill was reported out of committee and now awa - third and final reading.

Earlier in Monday night's debate William M. Benidickson (L — Kenora - Rainy River) charged that the government had adopted a "devious device" in applying the surcharges.

He challenged Mr. Nowlan to

Chinese Continue Smashing Drive On Indian Plain

Nearing Key Airfield Six Miles from Chushul

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters) — Prompt evacuation of American women and children from part of Communist - threatened Assam was recommended by a United States official today as Chinese troops continued their smashing advance into India.

Prime Minister Nehru announced Chinese forces had advanced "a few miles beyond" Bomdila, the key administrative town which the Communists took Monday in their drive through India's Northeast Frontier Agency toward the Assam plains bordering Burma.

Earlier reports had put the Chinese 40 miles beyond Bomdila and less than 30 miles from the plains, where plans for evacuating British, women and children by air were under way.

On the western end of the long front, in Ladakh, south of Lingzithang region, Nehru said the Chinese captured an Indian post six miles south of Chushul, a key Indian airfield.

ASKS EVACUATE

The U.S. embassy in New Delhi announced the evacuation call, saying it "would appropriate general in Calcutta had recommended that all American citizens on the tea estates in Assam's Brahmaputra River evacuate their women and children promptly.

The consulate - general also suggested to Americans living on the south side of the river that they give urgent consideration to the evacuation of dependents.

An embassy spokesman said there were about 200 Americans in Assam, most of them Baptist missionaries, and that about 70 of them lived on the north bank.

About 120 of Assam's Americans were thought to be women and children.

With India's forces rocked by a string of defeats in the disputed border war, Nehru announced in Parliament that Lt.-Gen. J. N. Chaudhuri had been named acting chief of army staff in place of Gen. P. N. Thapar.

Thapar had asked for long leave "on grounds of health," Nehru said.

Nehru reported Chinese forces were advancing down a road between Bomdila and Tawang in the foothills of the Himalayas.

He claimed the Chinese advance in the northeast was being "obstructed all the time" by Indian defensive positions "were being prepared in front of the Chinese advance for the last hills town, adding "our troops will give them battle there."

SHAKEN GERMAN CABINET MEETS TO STUDY CRISIS

FDP Ready to Join In New Coalition

BONN (Reuters) — A badly shaken West German cabinet met here today — without the five Free Democrat party (FDP) ministers who announced their resignations Monday.

The resignations were submitted in bid to force Chancellor Konrad Adenauer into a coalition cabinet reshuffle that would oust Christian Democrat Defence Minister Franz - Josef Strauss, an object of FDP ire because of the Der Spiegel affair.

However, FDP Chairman Erich Mende declined to say what his party, junior partners in the coalition, would do if Adenauer refused to drop Strauss.

Mende told a press conference he expected formation of a new coalition cabinet would be finished by mid-December.

Asked if the FDP would accept Strauss in another cabinet post, Mende said:

"I do not believe that the confidence is bound to the office, but to the person."

WILL CO-OPERATE

Mende said his party considers the minority government by the Christian Democrats as out of the question, and stressed FDP readiness to continue cooperating with the Christian Democrats as soon as there was a new basis for confidence.

Adenauer presided over the routine cabinet session shortly after FDP Justice Minister Wolfgang Stammberger, called on him to deliver the resignation letters.

The five men remain in office as acting ministers until their resignations are approved by President Heinrich Luebke, scheduled to return from a Sicilian tour Dec. 3.

The FDP has been gunning for Strauss on the ground he failed to tell Stammberger in advance about a police rail on the offices of the weekly magazine Der Spiegel (The Mirror), whose editors are charged with publishing defence secrets.

Jet Bombers Old and Slow

Castro Tells UN He Is Willing To Give Planes Back to Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro has offered in a letter to the United Nations to give up some 50 IL-28 bombers delivered to Cuba by the Soviet Union, a UN spokesman confirmed its receipt today.

Bowing to United States demands, Castro said that "if the Soviet government considers it convenient for the good development of negotiations and a solution of the crisis to withdraw such airplanes, the revolutionary government of Cuba will not block that decision."

Havana radio reported that Castro, in a letter to acting UN Secretary - General U Thant, said the IL-28 bombers were old and slow and Russia could take them back if it wanted to.

bombers in Cuba is the biggest unresolved issue in the Cuban dispute between the United States and the Soviet Union. President Kennedy claims them offensive weapons because they have a range of 750 miles and can carry nuclear bombs.

U.S. authorities estimate 30 or more of the bombers were delivered to Cuba. The Soviet Union said Premier Khrushchev could not order them out, as he had some 40 Soviet missiles, because the bombers had been turned over to Castro and were no longer under Soviet control.

Despite his concession on the bombers Castro, in his letter to Thant, repeated his refusal to permit foreign inspection of Cuban arms. He also repeated his

Hidden Arms Could Be Used Against Base

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States has learned that tactical missiles capable of carrying nuclear warheads have been hidden inside Cuba by Russians and the missiles "are perfectly capable of reaching into Guantanamo naval base," the New York Herald Tribune reports.

Known as "frogs," these ground-to-ground mobile missiles have a range of about 25 miles, the newspaper says in a Washigton dispatch by Marguerite Higgins.

She wrote that administration officials were unwilling to explain how they obtained "clear evidence" that the missiles were hidden inside Cuba in caves and elsewhere.

The story also says in part:

Officials indicated that "usual methods" were employed. That was taken to mean that a combination of intelligence reports directed from Cuba and aerial photographs were used.

Furthermore, the presence of such missiles is taken to indicate that the warheads to give them punch are probably on the island, too.

Administration officials said that although the missiles could be described as defensive, the attempt at concealment violates the spirit, if not the letter, of the Kennedy-Khrushchev agreement on terms to end the Cuban blockade.

"Frog" (Firing range over ground) missiles are capable of being both conventional explosives and atomic warheads.

Rival Lawyers Break Bonds, Flay Each Other at Hearing

OTTAWA (CP)—The gloves came off before the federal industrial inquiry into labor violence and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes.

In raw, ripping words, lawyers for the Canadian Labor Congress and Upper Lakes Shipping Limited flayed the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ltd.) and its lawyers.

It was the first time that the rival lawyers broke their bonds of professional friendship and attacked their legal colleague as well as his client.

The blast came as SIU Counsel Joseph Nuss, a young Montreal lawyer, formally asked Mr. Justice G. G. Norris to resume his public inquiry in Montreal —headquarters of the SIU. The judge shifted his hearing to Ottawa last week in the middle of the SIU's case, maintaining Opposing the SIU bid to return to Montreal, were lawyers Maurice Wright for the CLC and J. A. Geller for Upper Lakes.

Mr. Wright said the SIU and its lawyers are trying to do a "snow job" on the convention, burying major issues in irrelevant detail, prolonging the hearing and trying to prejudge the presiding Judge.

Mr. Nuss, obviously angry at the personal attack, said he was tempted to reply but, instead, sought time to consult his senior before commenting. Mr. Justice Norris refused the request.

The jurist, who normally sits in the British Columbia Court of Appeal, said he would give his decision on the place of sitting later.

Mr. Wright said the move was in the public interest.

Farm Cash Income Will Exceed $3 Million This Year for Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Farm cash income in 1962 will exceed $3,000,000,000 for the first time, said an economic forecast made public today at the federal-provincial agriculture conference.

Net income in 1963 — the amount left after meeting expenses—should come close to predicted 1962 level of $1,600,000,000, the forecast said.

The forecast said high demand this year in general is expected to be maintained in 1963. Export sales might show little change next year although there could be variations in the individual customer countries and commodities.

The lower exchange value of the Canadian dollar at a stable rate is expected to continue to help Canada's competitive position in export markets," the forecast said.

Production in Canadian agriculture this year should be up one-third over 1961 when prairie farmers had a poor crop.

It said production of dairy and other products, if maintained at existing level, should carry the 1963 total net income close to the level forecast for this year.

The review also warned that the serious surplus and dairy problem continues to be reflected in mounting surpluses, particularly butter. Stocks of butter at Jan. 1, 1963, may total 237,000,000 pounds. Milk production in 1963 probably would parallel the 19,400,000,000 pounds expected this year.

Consumption of dairy products likely would increase slightly in 1963 but it seemed unlikely this would have much impact on reducing surpluses, especially butter.

The report hinted that the butter situation will depend on whether the government decides to lower the price support system as a means of reducing surplus production.

B. C. Rail and Road Links Blocked

CNR and CPR Lose Main Line Near Hope

VANCOUVER (CP)—Rail and road sinews to the British Columbia coast were stretched and snapped under the pressure of rain, slides and melting snow.

The CNR and CPR lost their main lines near Hope, 100 miles east of Vancouver, where 3.09 inches of rain fell, winds hit 60 miles an hour and officials reported creeks had gone wild.

Three-arterial highways were closed because of washouts or slides. The Trans-Canada Highway was under eight feet of water for a distance of 200 feet north of Hope.

Telephone and telegraph lines to the interior were knocked out for several hours.

"We've had snow followed by warm rain and the whole works comes down on us," D. Godfrey, regional highways engineer in Vancouver.

The heavy rain at Hope added to the discomfort of 1,000 waterlogged Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, camped in tents by the Coquihalla River on the village's outskirts.

The wind funnelled through the Crowsnest Pass and hit Alberta in fury. Pincher Creek reported winds of 110 miles an hour, areas south of Calgary 135 miles an hour and Lethbridge 100.

On Vancouver Island, a dozen boathouses were smashed at Saanich Harbour north of Sidney, three families abandoned their homes to rising waters near the lower Sooke River and several roads and bridges were washed out.

The rains left their clearest mark, however, in the B.C. interior. The CPR washout at Choate, B.C., was 10 feet deep and 120 feet wide.

Air arrangements were being made to reroute trains onto CNR tracks, two cars of a CNR freight went through the timbers of a bridge at Yale. Trains on both sides were stopped and other transportation arranged pending repairs expected to be finished today.

The rain and winds followed cooler weather and snow. Farther into the interior, snow continued to fall and storms were reported in the Rogers Pass area between Revelstoke and Golden, where the newly completed Trans-Canada Highway section is experiencing its first

Move to Discontinue Discussion On Divine Revelation Defeated

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A motion to discontinue discussion of the controversial thesis on divine revelation and its sources failed to win the necessary two-thirds majority in the Roman Catholic ecumenical council today.

The vote meant that the council will continue discussion of the thesis, which has produced the first real test in the council. But the Italian news agency Ansa said though the motion failed to get the necessary vote, a majority of the council fathers voted to discontinue the discussion. This indicated that unless it is amended considerably, the thesis won't be able to command the two-thirds majority necessary for council approval.

A communique gave no figures on the voting or did not say whether either view had obtained a majority. It said only: "The results of the vote . . . were such that the examination of individual chapters . . . will continue."

Ansa said about 1,300 council fathers voted to end the debate, about 800 to continue. Since 2,21 attended the session, the motion needed 1,474 votes to carry.

The thesis was prepared by a commission headed by Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, "conservative secretary of the powerful congregation of the holy office. Progressive prelates had objected to the format and recommended that the matter be shelved or completely redone. The thesis elaborates a Roman Catholic teaching that the revealed word of God is found in both scripture and tradition. Protestants believe that scripture is the only source of divine revelation.

Because this was a major issue during the Reformation, and because of current efforts aimed toward Christian unity, many council fathers, considered progressive, were arguing that the thesis either should not be brought up now or should be worded in a way to make it more pastoral than doctrinal.

Most of Testimony Given Through Chinese Interpreter

Working painstakingly through an interpreter, the opening court sittings of Hastings County general sessions of the peace yesterday gave over most of its time to testimony from a Chinese restaurant owner, victim of a robbery 11 months ago.

Leo Woo, operator of the Empire Cafe at Frankford was on the stand through most of the hearing before county judge J. C. Anderson.

His testimony came in a charge of robbery with violence against 24-year-old Frankford resident John Howarth.

Howarth was charged after Mr. Woo was attacked in his restaurant after closing time last New Year's Eve and robbed by a man of his day's business take.

While Mr. Woo spoke English, the court ensuring the maximum of fairness, engaged Toni Yin, of Kingston, to interpret questions and answers during the testimony.

However, the arrangement did not progress without several initial stumbles over court procedure.

Judge Anderson and defence counsel Robert Temple emphasized several times early questions and answers should pass between Mr. Woo and Mr. Yee. At one point, a question from Mr. Temple resulted in a prolonged interchange between both men and brought the defence lawyer to his feet.

"Your honor" protested Mr. Temple.

"I do not want any other conversation," emphasized Judge Anderson, requesting that the interpretation be confined to relaying of questions and answers.

Mr. Woo told the court of being accosted and robbed after he had closed his store by a man who threatened to shoot him. The man had a scar on his forehead.

When Howarth was brought to his store by police on New Year's morning he said he identified him as the man who had committed the crime.

Mr. Temple questioned Mr. Woo's memory but the restaurant owner insisted he remembered "important things."

At the close of the defence counsel, questioning Mr. Woo's vision suddenly produced a tie in question beneath which, on the apology: "I hate to be different."

He showed Mr. Woo the tie and reminded him that at a preliminary hearing in Trenton January 29 Mr. Woo had identified the tie's colors as "yellow with green."

"Yes, that is the tie," said the restaurant owner.

Mr. Temple said the tie actually was grey and black.

"Well it is grey and black, but I can see a little cast in it," said assisting crown attorney Gordon Robertson.

The trial, which began about 11 a.m., adjourned after 4:00 p.m. after further police testimony had been heard.

Hold Saturday French Classes

Over 40 French-speaking boys and girls of this city, recently started taking French lessons under the leadership of Mrs. Jeannette Pilon, assisted by Mrs. Jeane Briand and Mrs. Marie Caouette.

Club Pere Marquette, whose members are local French-speaking citizens, sponsors the classes which are held each Saturday morning at St. Joseph's School.

The children range from grades four to eight and have already some knowledge of the French language. The objective of the club is to teach these children to read and write accurately in their ancestors' native tongue.

The club was able to borrow several lecture books from the French-Canadian Association of Education and parents supply pencils, paper and pencils and pay a small monthly fee.

Most of the children seem to be extremely interested in the course and do not appear to be disturbed by the fact that they must forfeit their Saturday morning holiday in order to attend class.

In addition to Club Pere Marquette children, there is a class of about 40 students who are being taught oral French by Dr. Jacques Juillet. Due to lack of space several children have been refused admission to this class.

Fish and Game Meet Tonight

The Belleville Fish and Game Association is holding its regular monthly meeting at the Club Canara tonight starting at eight o'clock.

Request MOH List Facts on Fluoridation

The city medical officer of health, Dr. McColl Metcalfe, will be asked to set forth the basic facts of fluoridation in a series of newspaper announcements.

This was agreed by city council yesterday when aldermen approved a motion from Alderman Jack Ellis. There was no discussion.

City residents at the December 3rd municipal election will be asked to vote on whether they wish city water supply fluoridated.

Find True Bills In Two Cases

A grand jury has sent two Belleville men for trial on criminal charges at the current Hastings county general sessions of the peace in Belleville.

True bills were returned against Archibald Wilfred Murray, charged with a break-in at Booth Radio and TV in Belleville, and Robert Chester Orr, arrested for alleged possession of cheese stolen from the Black Diamond Cheese warehouse northeast of Belleville.

The two men will stand separate trials before Judge J. C. Anderson.

Have No Site For New Scales

Belleville has a new set of city scales — but not paid for — but to date hasn't been able to decide on a location to install them.

Yesterday in city council the question was asked — why the delay?

The reply was that the city still hadn't been able to complete negotiations with the public utilities commission for purchase of part of the old gas works property as a location for the scales.

The gas works property was felt to be the best location for the new scales.

Darts League Results

One slim point separated the winners from the losers in four of the seven games played in the Belleville Dart League last night.

Hobby Shop edged the Bedusters, Plaza A. & P. shaded ANAF, Corby's Special squeezed past WEA's Cities Service and Lucky's Lewis nudged Dover's, all by scores of 6-5.

In the other tilts Skyliners defeated El Ranchos, MacInnes Men topped Jim's Place and Landscapers downed the Legion Wildcats by identical scores of 8-3.

Request for Late Closing Of Shops Two Nights a Week Turned Down by Council

City council yesterday turned down the request of the Belleville Plaza Merchants' Association for late closing two nights per week to open the way for the construction of a new departmental store in the east end of the city.

The meeting was marked by the attendance of a large delegation of downtown merchants opposed to the construction in the Plaza Merchants' Association.

Irvine Shulman, chairman of the Downtown Merchants' Association, as spokesman for the group, voiced their opposition to any change in store hours and urged council to uphold the wish of the majority.

Mr. Shulman also presented a petition signed by 115 persons asking that the city policy of not extending water services outside the city limits be continued.

OPPOSE WATER SERVICE

This was in reference to a request for water to be supplied to the Robson property west of the city to open the way for construction of a new department store. He suggested that the Public Utilities Commission should provide water service to all areas inside the city before extending service outside the corporation.

At yesterday's meeting there was no representation from the Plaza Merchants' Association, their request having been heard two weeks ago when the matter was referred for consideration by a special committee of council.

Alderman Leslie Digby, as chairman of the special committee told council that his committee had received 250 letters briefs from interested parties and had received 258 letters from persons in favor with only a few exceptions and cities, all opposed to any change in store hours.

ALDERMAN OBJECTS

"The evidence was fairly conclusive and the committee is recommending that there be no change in the present existing early closing by-law until such time as there is a majority request received from the merchants."

Alderman William Jarvis objected to the ending phrase of a recommendation referring to a majority request from council and asked that this be deleted.

Alderman Don Whalen said that Principal Developments Ltd. who had sponsored the request for two nights a week shopping expected him to support the application.

However, he said he was unable to do so because "I'm not a politician" and "vote according to the dictates of one's conscience."

He asked that merchant members, however, if they had considered the possibility of a huge store outside the city limits which would be open for possibly six nights a week.

This, he said, would be chaotic.

CANCELLED ALL BY-LAWS

He went on to point out that this had happened at Kingston with result that city council had cancelled all early closing by-laws.

"It looks as though we have two choices: no nights a week shopping inside the city or six nights a week outside," he said.

In order that such varied store hours be prevented, the alderman suggested the provincial government should legislate uniformity in controlling store hours on a province wide basis.

Referring to the request for water service to property in Sidney township to open the way for a new department store in that area, Alderman Whalen said city merchants should be told they could be see that no city services be granted for outside the corporation.

Alderman Jack Ireland didn't think that store hours mattered greatly, claiming that adequate parking was the crux of the situation.

SITUATION IN HAND

He cited conditions in such centres as Kitchener and St. Thomas where he said lack of parking had resulted in up to 20 percent of the downtown stores being vacant.

In Belleville, however, the off street parking situation was well in hand with the parking authority currently having two projects underway which would provide additional facilities.

Another council member to refer to the service competition merchants might expect from longer store hours was Alderman Walter Elliott.

"Merchants are going to be faced with serious competition no matter how short or long our business should take a close look at the matter," he said.

He suggested that Belleville store operators might be better off by opening two nights a week than being at night a week shopping at a location just outside the corporation.

The special committee recommendation that no change be made in the present closing by-law was carried by council.

Council Backs Road Through Fair Grounds

Prospects of the roadway through the Belleville Exhibition Park being opened as a through street appear bright today, following approval of the move by city council.

Making Sidney Street a "through" route from Highway No. 2 to Moira Street, was recommended in the city traffic survey report received by council last night. Cost of the move is said to be opposed by the city Parks Board which owns Exhibition Park.

"This might have a good deal of merit but the roadway was not built for heavy traffic," noted Deputy Mayor Ben Corke.

Ald. Alderman Jack Ellis said the roadway through the park was to be dug up one way for a sewer project. He said it would be "foolish" not to provide the roadway as a through street.

"It's foolish that a person has to go two blocks or six blocks out of his way merely to get where he wants to go," he said.

The recommendation to open the roadway across the fairgrounds as a through street came from the traffic committee. Ald. Walter Elliott, Parkland said his committee had merely concurred with a recommendation from the special sewage committee.

Alderman Walter Elliott said opening of the roadway as a through street would be a good thing. He agreed with Alderman Ellis that it was "foolish" to have to drive three blocks out of the way.

Inspection Fees For Plumbing Are Increased

Plumbing inspection fees in the city are going to be increased it has been decided by city council.

Under the new schedule of rates the charge for plumbing inspection permits and fees will be $3.00 basic, plus $1.00 for each fixture for one and two family dwellings; $3.00 for the first suite or unit plus $2.00 for each additional suite, plus $1.00 for each fixture for multiple dwellings, apartment houses and commercial properties.

The same charges as above will be in effect for factories, hotels, motels, schools and hospitals.

The increase in inspection fees results from the fact that current fees were not sufficient to pay for inspection services.

Dragging Bay In Search For Missing Man

Skindivers, firemen and police linked forces yesterday in the search for 26-year-old Alex Weddell, watchman on the Bay of Quinte coal carrier, missing since Friday night.

For the third successive day dragging operations were pressed around the end of Pier No. 1, adjacent to the east side of the government dock in Belleville.

Firemen and provincial police search boat joined in the hunt yesterday while skindivers probed below the surface of the harbor.

Mr. Weddell, resident at 48 Queen Street, was first reported missing early Saturday morning. His family became alarmed after his dog returned to the house alone Friday night.

Police later found the watchman's car lying at the dock, near where he was last seen Friday night by an acquaintance.

Up to press time there still was no trace of the missing man.

Welfare Costs Will Be Within Budget

Welfare costs in the city of Belleville for 1962 are expected to be within the budget figure set at the beginning of the year, according to City Manager J. R. Reynolds.

The question of welfare costs for the past month was raised by Alderman Jack Ellis, who wanted to know how costs compared with last year.

The answer was that comparison figures would mean very little but indications were that welfare costs for the year would be within the year's estimate. Eighty percent of welfare costs are paid by the province.

Council concurred with a Winsor recommendation calling for the Ontario Government to review the general provincial assistance act to ensure that necessary dental treatment is available to welfare recipients requiring it.

Alderman Ross Bailey noted that under present regulations only necessary extractions were subsidized and that the number of new instances had paid the full cost of other dental work for welfare recipients.

Two instances of this were mentioned by Alderman George Wishart.

He said the city had paid for new dentures for a woman who could go out in public while in another instance a school student required dentures in order to go to school.

Underwriters Elect R. Ness As President

Vice-presidents are Sidney Martin and James Barnett; secretary, Ralph Nelson, and directors, Everett Alderman, Farley Parnell, B. Gorow, Bill Yeates, Ray Bain and Ron Hall.

Donald A. MacLean, C.L.U., was guest speaker at the annual meeting, the topic of which was being "The Million Dollar Round Table". Thirty-one members attended.

Mr. MacLean stressed why members of the million dollar producers club were at the top of their profession.

With the accent on education today, he said, it was interesting to note that 65 per cent of the members were graduates from college and only 2.5 per cent had less than high school education. He stressed that basic requirements for success were education for self improvement and dedication.

The Million Dollar round table founded in 1927 is the world's most exclusive club of successful business men in the world and has memberships numbered throughout the world. Its members enjoy some of the highest incomes around and, as MacLean said today, and Mr. MacLean did that apart from the high earnings the club members are dedicated to a code of ethics and standards of business practice that ensures the best service to the welfare of mankind.

Youth Facing Three Charges After Accident

A charge of criminal negligence was read in magistrate's court this morning to a Belleville youth, arrested after a car accident Saturday that sent a boy to hospital and started a fire at a service station gas pump.

William Alexander Green, 17, of 17 Victoria Ave., now faces three charges following the accident. The others are careless driving and failing to have a driver's license.

It was when Green's car allegedly went out of control at the corner of Dundas and College St., E., intersection was 10-year-old Wayne Durand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Durand, 196 Humewood Drive.

Acting crown attorney John Leaman demanded bail be set for Green due to the circumstances of "serious injury and damage" caused by the accident.

Defence counsel Tom Lalli, told Magistrate T. Y. Wills that bail might be "almost impossible" to raise.

The magistrate suggested a figure of $100 and asked Green to remand the car involved in the mishap.

Green, not steadily employed, said he had paid $75 for it.

"If he can get a $75 car to run around on probation for one month find a way of getting $100. This is a pretty serious matter," stated the magistrate as he remanded the youth a week.

Three Charged With Fighting Outside Cafe

A fracas outside a Front Street restaurant in Belleville last night between a Belleville youth and two Havelock men, all in their twenties, resulted in magistrate's court today.

Charged with fighting were Douglas Bennett and Lloyd Dafoe, Havelock, and Griffe Sharp, Belleville.

Bennett pleaded not guilty and Magistrate T. Y. Wills remanded the hearing for one week.

The two Havelock youths, currently unemployed and without a car, said they might have some difficulty obtaining transportation back to Belleville for the hearing.

However, the magistrate ordered them to appear next week.

It will guarantee that the case will be ready to go on. "I'm a firm believer in that. You will not be brought back here again," he said.

The trio were arrested by police after an incident outside Lee's Cafe.

Airlines Could Use RCAF Facilities in Peacetime

Barring a war involving Canada, future airlines serving the Belleville-Trenton area would be allowed to land at the RCAF station, Trenton.

This was inucated in a report of the special city council air services committee, which was given to council yesterday.

The report noted that one of the reasons Nordair cancelled its Seaway air route was inability to land at the weather at Kingston. This cut down their passenger volume.

This could be a problem at Trenton with its exceptionally fine ground controlled approach (GCA) and the committee felt that if service were ever resumed along the seaway the facilities could be persuaded to stop at Trenton.

Other committee duties headed by Alderman Jack Ellis, was formed last spring to investigate commercial air service facilities for Belleville.

PRIVATE AIRPORT

It was noted that James Mac-Nair of Belleville now owns an airport within two miles of the city which has been officially recognized and licensed by the Department of Transport. The field is a mile east of Elmwood Drive on the second concession of Thurlow Township and already is being used by transient aircraft.

Commonly used grades of aviation fuel are kept for sale and the field is equipped with a rotating beacon. Temporary facilities for night flying can be arranged at any time.

The committee expressed the hope that the city industrial commission would mention the availability of the Marker field in future brochures and requested that future councils be prepared to argue strenuously on behalf of the whole Bay of Quinte district for a terminal stop by any airline contemplating local service, such as the seaway route now being discontinued.

Street Re-Zoning Is Approved By City Council

Re-zoning of the west side of Cannifton Road between College Street and 401 Highway to allow highway commercial usage, was approved yesterday by city council.

The change from the present zoning was suggested by the Ontario Municipal Board, the body re-zoning to be done at no charge to the present owners.

Residents in the above area objected strenuously to the zoning in the suggested official city plan which would have restricted properties to present residential use.

Ratepayers Want Answers To Several Town Issues

TRENTON — Alfred Vaughan and Douglas Hyde, executive members of the Trenton Ratepayers' Association appeared before Trenton council Tuesday night, armed with the latest in a series of questions, posed by the group as a whole, for council to come up with some answers.

"We would like to know," relayed ratepayers' president Alfred Vaughan, "some reasons, if any, why the council of Trenton would not sell town-owned land, approximately two acres, located adjacent to the Queen Elizabeth School for a reasonable price, less than $4,000 to the school board of the Town of Trenton. The school board of the Town of Trenton, was able to purchase similar property in size and somewhat better, for a price of $2,000 which eliminated besides the initial price will cost the town a loss of taxes, for years to come."

"Then," read Mr. Vaughan from a prepared script, "The Trenton Ratepayers' Association requests an immediate or forthcoming reply to an incident of contempt, namely, the vile vindication of welfare patients of an indigent state of the Town of Trenton."

Mr. Vaughan went on to clarify the question. He said that it had been brought to the attention of the ratepayers' group, "about six weeks ago," that a certain gentleman, a Gordon Davis was continuing to recommend that indigent patients be placed in a nursing home outside the town's boundaries, in spite of a protest registered by the owners of a local nursing home, in 1961. Mr. Vaughan said that a Mrs. Wyles had phoned Mr. Davis and told him that a "friend" wished to place her mother in a nursing home and asked that he recommend a home. Mr. Davis was reported to have told her that he recommended a nursing home outside the town. Mrs. Wyles is reported to have said that Mr. Davis spoke of the home as "superior" to the local home.

STILL CARRIED ON

Mr. Vaughan then outlined the qualifications of the local home. "The practice of sending patients to these homes is still being carried on and we feel matters of this concern should be more readily attended to," said Mr. Vaughan.

The ratepayers had a report that concerned a certain installing a permanent road surface from Bay St. to the Trenton Memorial Park.

He said that this piece of road received heavy traffic on special occasions, namely with the paved road to the top of Mount Pelion.

The ratepayers, said Mr. Vaughan, would like to bring to council's attention the nonconformities of a by-law, requesting payment of $200 per house each year for services of water, sewer and light to areas as Devere Gardens, not within the boundaries of Trenton.

The ratepayers suggest that while the fee may be too high, the by-law should be enforced, even if this means lowering the fee.

Mr. Vaughan ended his discourse by requesting the mayor and council that the ratepayers would be satisfied with a written reply to the questions posed.

Knife-Wielding Man Arrested In Jewel Store

TRENTON—A knife-wielding bandit got more than he bargained for in Trenton last night when he ran into three Trenton citizens who were determined not to allow him to carry out the robbery of a local jewellery store.

Police say that John Everett Hickerson, 29, of 7 John St., Trenton, was taken into custody last night and has been charged with the attempted robbery of Ostrander's Jewellery store, while armed.

According to the police report, Hickerson entered the Dundas St. West store shortly after five o'clock, and asked store clerk Roy Fielding to show him a diamond ring. No sooner had Mr. Fielding taken the ring from its case than Hickerson grabbed it and at the same time pulled a knife.

"This is a stick up." he is reported to have said.

Mr. Fielding told police that he grabbed Hickerson's left hand and grappled with him for a moment. Store manager Ian Gardiner, who had been talking with a traveller at the back of the store, seeing the struggle, ran forward and grabbed Hickerson's right hand in which he was brandishing the knife.

Meantime, Constable Herb Chatson of the Trenton police force; off duty and in civilian dress, was passing the window of the store with his wife. Seeing the struggle going on inside, Constable Chatson entered the store and said: "Is something wrong?"

"Here's a policeman now," Mr. Gardiner said.

Constable Chatson took Hickerson into custody and removed him to Trenton Jail.

Bill Too High Complaint Of Representative

TRENTON — A Mr. Tom Gauthier representing the Connley Estate, came before Trenton council last night to protest on behalf of the heirs of the estate, a bill from the town for the cutting of weeds on property owned by the estate. The bill came to $171.50 and was broken down in the town's bill as $84, hired labor; $29.67, labor; $7.83, and a miscellaneous ("whatever that means," said Mr. Gauthier.)

Mr. Gauthier had other things to say, among them that "the bill is too high," "I contacted a man who would have cut the weeds for $25 or $30," and "hired labor? If men are getting that kind of wages, I'd do it myself."

"If you can get a man for that kind of money, our engineer would be glad to hire him," countered Mayor MacDonald.

"Another man I contacted wanted to charge me because I had used scissors to cut the weeds," returned Mr. Gauthier.

Council decided that the bill was in order.

Wife Was Only Afraid Hubby Might Be Hurt

TRENTON — "I wasn't really worried about John. He has raised on the east coast and he knows his way around the bush. But I do admit I was a little afraid he might have been hurt."

Mrs. John Wyles, of R.R. 5, Trenton, summed up her feelings she experienced during the 24 hours her husband, a member of CFB Trenton—was lost in the bush near Bancroft over the past weekend, for an Ontario Intelligencer reporter, yesterday.

According to Mrs. Wyles, her husband and two friends, Paul Reid of the Bancroft area and Lloyd Lockhart of the RCAF at Trenton, motored to the Bancroft area Saturday morning.

"John said that he and his friends would join the bush hogether but became separated and John returned to the car to get some food. He then decided to circle around in the bush and spotted a deer. He fired one shot and suddenly realized he was lost. As night was coming on, he got up on a knoll so that he could be seen by a helicopter if they sent one out to look for him. John said that he lit a fire to keep warm and kept trying to keep awake by sitting huddled beside the fire. He said that he was terribly lonely and that after he ate some ice.

A wounded bear, over on another ridge, kept him awake all night.

In the morning, John said that he started to walk out but in his face, to keep in an easterly direction, and finally found a road where a man took him to his camp and fed him; then showed him how to get back to the travelled road. He came out about eight miles from where he went in the bush. He was about five miles off the road."

Mrs. Wyles said that she and her husband have a five-months old son, John Douglas who wasn't "worried about Daddy either."

Town Engineer Wants Sidney Street Repaired

TRENTON — Town engineer Eric Aldersey told town council last night that in his opinion, the re-surfacing of Sidney Street should take precedence over any other road construction work in the town. Mr. Aldersey said that by the time sewers are installed, it will be next year before any work can be done and that before the end of the year, or possibly in 1964, the work to start should be made, said the engineer.

For instance, Mr. Aldersey said, work on Sidney Street should be put before such projects as paving of the widening of parts of Dufferin Ave. and Dundas Street East, although he thought plans for this other work could be drawn up.

Councillor Ed. Todd wouldn't even agree to this. He refused to vote for the public works report as brought forward by Councilor James Duncan because of the item referring to paving out-of-town industrial engineers to draw up plans for the widening of the two streets.

One item in the public works report upon which all council was agreed was the recommendation that the department of highways be petitioned to subsidize the widening of sidewalks in places where reconstruction was necessary because the streets were not aligned properly after curb installation was carried out this summer. The money, this means around $1,700 to the town. Although the department does not ordinarily subsidize sidewalk reconstruction, in this case, as the work was a by-product of the curb installation, the department has indicated that it would not be adverse to paying the subsidy.

Requests Light Behind Theatre

TRENTON — Police Chief F. J. Taylor was asked town council to provide a light at the back of the Centre Theatre, but council isn't sure that the public utilities can come by the money at this time of the year to provide the light, which the chief claims is necessary for pedestrian safety.

Councillor Ross Burtt thinks that it would be best to ask the PUC for the light after the first of the year when the new budget will have been set up.

The matter was left up in the air.

Fabian Showdown?

The other day Ken Kelly, a Canadian Press writer, undertook to analyse the political climate in Canada today as it affects the nation's left wing and to assay the chances for an eventual union of the Liberals and New Democratic Party.

That such a question should be even seriously discussed is irrefutable evidence that great changes have occurred amongst those who like to regard themselves as reformers or progressives.

At one time, in Britain, the Liberals were the party of laisses-faire, bitterly opposed to any government intervention with the mechanics of the capitalist system. Socialists, whether they accepted the Marxian conception of the eventual withering of the state or not, universally believed that the capitalist system needed to be not merely controlled by the state, but overthrown by it.

Late in the last century the Fabian Society was formed, its name denoting the tactics it proposed to harry capitalism to its grave. As Quintus Fabius Maximus the Delayer harried Hannibal, so did this group propose to harass the exponents of capitalism, believing the gradual triumph of socialism was inevitable.

Now it appears that what the Fabians foresaw will shortly come to pass—but a nineteenth century Fabian transported to today's political scene in Canada might feel like Alice after she went through the Looking-Glass. For while there are increasing signs of the inevitability of gradualism it is not yet clear just what this gradualiness makes inevitable. Is it to be the conversion of the Liberals to socialism—as many of their Conservative foes and some of their would-be socialist friends claim? Or is it to be the abandonment by socialists of the primary planks of their original platform, public ownership of the means of production, and their acceptance, as the full measure of the attainable objectives, of mere government control of certain influential phases of a capitalist economy?

Despite what some Conservatives—and perhaps all Social Crediters—may say, the Liberals in Canada appear to be far from accepting any significant measures of public ownership as either desirable or necessary. More and more, though, influential spokesmen in the New Democratic Party seem ready to accept mere endorsement of social welfare measures as an evidence of their advocates being kindred spirits.

The great question is, not convincingly answered in any land, is how comprehensive welfare measures can be made in a capitalistic economy without weakening the profit incentives essential for the efficient operation of the system.

Ancient Dilemma

Two long-time lip-servants, one to the other, have come to the parting of the ways. Without detailed information, which we lack, any effort to judge between the National (U.S.) Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the AFL-CIO can be little better than idle speculation. But we like to speculate. So here goes.

We have little doubt but that Herbert Hill, the white New Yorker who is the NAACP labor secretary, is correct in his charges of racial prejudice inflicted with the AFL-CIO with racial discrimination. We do not see how it could be otherwise, for unions are composed of workers, people in the South work and, (after squabbles at Little Rock, New Orleans and Ole Miss over such a relatively unimportant question as school segregation), we would not expect to find many union locals in the South which would accord a Negro worker equal treatment with his white co-worker.

But we have sympathy for the AFL-CIO and particularly for its leaders. Most of them, we suspect, sincerely believe in the principles of racial equality which they preach. Nor are they necessarily succumbing to the lure of money when they fail to enforce these principles on their locals in the Southland. True, such a policy could deprive them of considerable revenue if the white workers balked at paying union fees. But it may well be that their primary interest is not in money, but in obtaining the best possible working conditions for their members, including Negroes.

This is really just another example of an ever-recurring dilemma which has faced reformers down through the ages. Does one make a stand for principle—at the risk of probable catastrophe? Or does one accept the fact that heaven cannot be built in a day and contents oneself with pressing for those improvements which appear possible of achievement?

Socred Caouette Cut Down By Latest Low-Taste Capers

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — It may be that in the cold and sobering air and the bright, clear light of Northern Ontario, that political wheeling dervish, Social Credit Co-Leader Real Caouette has faced, at last, his moment of truth.

And it may be that while he may certainly be "some political pumpkins" in the far rural reaches of deepest Quebec, across on the Ontario side of the Ottawa River he is little more than a curiosity, perhaps an electoral freak, and even in some circumstances, a joke, for instance.

At any rate, his Armistice weekend excursion into Northern Ontario has turned into a bit of personal political disaster of the television spellbinder.

That Real Caouette had what he politely termed "the questionable judgement" to schedule political rallies on Armistice weekend, was "rather unfortunate," Progressive Leader Robert Thompson has said.

"He should," the plain-speaking party leader said firmly, "have known better."

This was as close to a public reprimand as Boss Thompson is believed to have administered to strawboss Caouette.

NOT ALL BUMPKINS

In Northern Ontario, Real Caouette learned the reason long delayed — that in politics television is not everything — that the TV idiot box is not the seeming magic lantern he thought it was — that people can still read, and weigh with his point of view, they can think.

In Quebec where, it cannot be denied, a lot of people regard him as something of a Messiah, he could — y anything on television is believed.

He explained and rationalized on TV that he really had not been a party to the rise of Hitler and Mussolini — and that, for much of his Quebec following, was enough.

He was to be believed, even although his praise of the dictators had appeared in print and never had been denied outright.

He had even enlarged on his Fascist economic philosophy for the newspapers — and with stunning candor and astounding arrogance, forced the NDP did not matter what the press said as long as he could have his say on television.

For, in Quebec, he would be believed, no matter what the evidence.

Well, in Quebec, maybe so.

But Ontario, he found to his surprise, is a different kind of country.

And neither Elliott Lake, Sudbury nor Sturgeon Falls are impressed by reading from a television medicine man.

SAME PEOPLE ALL OVER

This was certainly the first setback suffered by Caouette since he began his amazing march to the gates of the election of 30 Socreds to Parliament and a frightening position of power in the minority-split Commons.

It was the first public rebuff, there for all Canada to see.

Caouette has attempted to rationalize it with the explanation that it was the work of the Royal Canadian Legion which is strong in Northern Ontario.

He will find there are Legionnaires in every part of Ontario, and Canada, too, and that they and their fellow citizens will not change either firm opinions about the political bona fides of a man who declares he has no theories and practices—economic or otherwise—of Hitler and Mussolini.

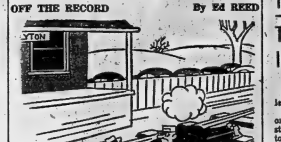
The "retreat from Northern Ontario" of their glorious and previously invincible army and infallible leader has not gone unnoticed by the 25 Quebec Socreds who barnstormed to power with Real Caouette.

Party leader Robert Thompson and the three Socred MPs from the West were never real- ly under any illusions about the "Real Rebellion" in French Canada.

Perhaps the Northland has begun the process of cutting Caouette down to size.

Sheep Do It Too

Hamilton Spectator



Farmers in northern Italy who live such a simple life that poultry and sheep sometimes sit on the living room during a-vere weather are discovering that television sets have interesting effects on animals.

Chickens go to sleep as soon as the screen lights up, but sheep watch each program from beginning to end as if hypnotized.

Now we know why some critics of our cultural life call us a nation of sheep.

Strictly Personal
Urban Police Fail to Cast Proper Image

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

At the recent annual convention of International Association of Chiefs of Police in St. Louis, two highly-placed police officials agreed that "there appears to be less respect for police and more hostility toward them than at any time in history."

This was the view put forth by James J. Rowley, chief of U.S. Secret Service, and by George G. McClennan, deputy commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Police officials, they told the convention, are facing a "determined resistance" to authority and to restrictions of any kind.

It seems to me that the chief reason for this hostility is the tremendous population pressures that have been building up throughout the world, and especially in our corner of it.

Today it is estimated that more than 65 percent of the American population lives in a metropolitan complex which is steadily growing more dense. It was not long ago that more than half of all Americans lived in rural or semi-rural communities. A rural community is a personal one; a metropolitan area is an "anonymous" one.

The police in an urban area represent a "faceless" authority; they are not persons, they are uniforms, badges, nightsticks and guns. They are often a part of the political machinery; they "belong" to the ward committeeman, or at least are identified with some power group in the community.

Except in rare instances of corruption, the policeman in small towns and rural areas is part of Us not of Them. He is not viewed as a punitive figure, but as a peace-preserving one. He knows individuals, and is known as a person; therefore he depends upon their good will and respect for his continuation in authority.

The decreased respect for police in modern times is only part of the growth of contempt for all of the police force or the greater contempt for law on the part of the citizens. The snowballing both these causes is the loss of communication between the uniform and the citizen. The police in large cities are not felt to represent the people; their main duty is seen as making arrests, securing convictions, and acting in the interests of the dominant power group, whatever it may be in a given community.

Of course, we need higher standards of character and intelligence for police officers and, of course, we need higher wages and improved working conditions; but none of these will help much unless and until the policeman regains his face and becomes more than a number.

Tribute to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board was paid this morning by local egg dealers for keeping the price of eggs within reason during the current shortage. If it were not for the ceiling prices established by the Board, egg prices in Belleville would go as high as 75 cents the dozen, it was estimated. A greatly increased demand for eggs is responsible for the current shortage as egg receipts are higher than they were a year ago. The scarcity has been made more acute through the fact there are no storage eggs available.

"People in Canada who grouse about the sacrifices they are making, are unworthy of the name of Canadian, or of the sacrifices being made for them by those in the battle zones", Group Captain W. E. Speaking at the Bridge Street United Church anniversary services to a packed congregation, the former fighting pilot of the Royal Flying Corps stated that "Canada knows nothing of rationing yet. You get three meals a day. You "eat" You have gasoline and tires and the privilege of using them? Then why grouse about what has been rationed?" he said. Hair-This Argument

Brantford Expositor

The canard that men grow beards to hide weak chins or make them look rugged should be nailed to the mast or whatever it is one does with such ridiculous accusations.

Most of the "greats" of late Victorian and Edwardian times wore whiskers; it was the fashion; perhaps it made the notabilities look more remarkable. Then beards went out of style. Now they are coming back (or growing in) again, not universally but to a noticeable extent.

As for the snide suggestion about weak chins, it is made by men who have tried to grow beards and failed—or whose wives won't let them. We know for a fact, for instance, that neither Douglas Davies nor Arnold Edinborough, two figures prominent on the Canadian literary and educational stage, have remarkably strong chins.

A British stage personality, Michael Flanders, now puts it this way: "We bearded folk object to people wearing hornburg hats and horn-rimmed glasses to add an air of authority and hide their baby faces. One day I had a beautifully cynical scientist for a seat mate.

The Difference Between Intelligence and Emotion

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

(This is the second of a series of two articles.)

Always tired — crabby and ornery to those we love — constantly sorry for it, but unable to control it — worried, self-critical, guilty about it — yet in good physical health.

That's the picture so lucidly described for us in yesterday's letter to the Editor from my daughter. What to do about it?

It's easy to say we should stand off and look at ourselves as we really are. Unfortunately that's too simple. The letter in yesterday's column was from a reader who could do exactly that — yet didn't know what to do about it.

The real answer starts with knowing that there's a difference between intelligence and emotion. A person of moderate or even low intelligence who has found a satisfactory niche in life can be (and often is) a satisfied, happy individual. He feels reasonably useful. He feels reasonably at ease. He likes people and is content that people like him. He has no urge to be rich (aside from a few daydreams we all have.) He does the best he can, and accepts the fact that it's not enough for him to do. He enjoys the summer sun, a lovely sunset, a balmy breeze a filling dinner. He may not have any brilliant thoughts, but he's a satisfied person.

Rarely does the person with with a vivid imagination and a soaring mind have such contentment. There are too many things in the world that need improving! Perhaps a million years from now the vigorous minds may find contentment and satisfaction, but that's the way they are — but I doubt it.

It's too much to expect of them or medication to correct all this. And I think it's too much to expect of a psychiatrist to ask him to correct it all.

The one logical and effective course is to find some way to get the person himself (or herself) to recognize the obvious.

We must, in other words, see in ourselves the difference between intelligence and emotions. We must find some way to learn all about this — but I doubt it.

It's too much to expect of a person with a structured exam drum? — H.K.S."

No. Less, indeed, than travel ing at many times the speed of jets, designed to fly high, have pressurized cabins, so there is little chance to decide whether the plane is up or down.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Is it not time we asked science what it has in mind? In reply to most of the enquiries I have quoted above, the average scientist puts on an almost clerical air and asserts piously that the purpose of all science is: to know.

But obviously science is doing more than that. Its methods and many scientists are growing uneasy. On the train the other day I had a beautifully cynical scientist for a seat mate.

"My dear chap," he reproved me," by the time all the birds are dead, according to you and your friends, we'll be drowning in a sea of chemical insecticides and weed killers in the interest of agriculture, and thereby for the perpetuation of the human race, science will have also perfected an artificial bird. Except that we are, which is steadily advancing toward an alliance with science, more scientific and more psychological, will soon join science in the creation of even more ingenious contraptions upon nature. The day may come when we have beautiful empty skies filled with the most beautiful artificial birds, electronically uttering bird song as far inferior to common natural bird song as air craft are ahead of the horse and buggy in speed and gear chap, all day long!"

ing. Indeed it gave CTV and its sponsors the fat bonus of the use, during the Grey Cup game, of the CBC network.

Faced with this decision, the CBC is not disputing that the Grey-Cup game is a matter of national interest. It is disputing the implication, clear in the BBG ruling, that nation-wide coverage of certain commercials during the Grey Cup game is of greater national interest than is the autonomy of Canada's national broadcasting system.

The CBC states that the principle at stake:

"The CBC does not intend to allow CTV or any other unauthorized person or organization, either directly or indirectly, to use the national broadcasting service as a sales tool."

In defense of that principle the CBC should have the support, not the opposition, of the BBG.

Speaker Claims Local Rotarians Not Doing Share

"Are we doing our share?" queries guest speaker Joseph A. Calder of Toronto of local Rotarians at their weekly dinner meeting yesterday afternoon.

The former district governor stated that he felt no member of Rotary actually became a Rotarian until he had experienced the effect which Rotary can have on one through participation in the plenary sessions of district conferences or an international convention.

Belleville Rotarians were most conspicuous by their absence at district conferences, the speaker suggested and wondered why this was so. He recalled that Rotary had been in Belleville for almost 43 years yet only one district governor has come from this club during that period. This, he suggested, was a poor batting average.

He noted that in Canada and the United States it appeared that members had been "getting off the Rotary rails" and the time was night that some of the zeal and dedication of the early Rotarians, especially those whose helped to build Rotary International up from a group of four men in a Chicago restaurant 57 years ago to an organization with 11,400 clubs in 128 different countries and a membership of 520,000.

People from foreign countries have asked for Rotary International to come to them. It is readily apparent that Rotary and its beliefs are taken much more seriously by those outside of Canada and the United States than the members in North America, Mr. Calder suggested.

If but 25 per cent of the membership of Rotary International were "real Rotarians" rather than "just members" Rotary would be one of the strongest organizations outside of the Christian Church, he advised.

He suggested that serious thought be given by individual Rotarians to the situation and to determine whether or not they wish to become real Rotarians who are doing their share.

Mr. Calder was introduced by past president Virgil James as "Mr. Rotary". He has been with Rotary since 1917, has attended 25 Rotary International conventions and has visited 290 different Rotary Clubs in 46 countries. Introducing Harold Mott thanked the speaker.

President Dr. Harry Burns reminded local Rotarians of the 50th anniversary meeting of the Toronto Rotary Club, the mother club of the local club, at which the president of Rotary International will be the guest speaker. Arrangements were being made for a bus but it appeared after a canvass of members present that a car would suffice.

The president wishes to remind the members that November 24th is the deadline to submit children's names for the annual Christmas party. Any member who has not done so is asked to do so right away. The Christmas party committee has everything under control.

As the next general meeting will be nomination night for the 1963 executive, the president has expressed the sincere hope that all members will be able to attend.

Lt. Col. Angus B. Duffy has been granted the use of the front window on Front Street to display various pictures and posters in connection with the Emergency Measures Organization and also pamphlets and where to obtain them.

Citizens are asked to take time to stop and see the display.

Neighbors Save House Contents From Flames

Neighbors, led by a provincial police officer, yesterday saved the household possessions of an Ivanhoe man before fire gutted his large frame home.

Scene of the blaze, which destroyed the house within an hour, was the home of Edward Fleming in the hamlet of Ivanhoe.

The fire was first discovered by a local man who raised the alarm among neighbors. Moments later OPP corporal Harold Long, identification officer at Belleville district headquarters, was stopped by local residents as he drove through Ivanhoe.

Mr. Fleming was at a laundromat in Madoc at the time and the house was locked. Led by the officer, neighbors broke into the house and traced the fire to an upstairs bedroom wall. Corporal Howring played a fire extinguisher, taken from the cruiser, on the wall area without success.

When it became apparent the fire might get beyond control before a fire crew from Madoc, about 10 miles away, neighbors began hustling furniture to safety outside. They were aided by Dept. of Highways, county roads and Boc Construction employees.

The fire was discovered shortly before 3.30 p.m. The house was burned down in less than an hour. It was beyond control when firefighters arrived from Madoc.

Mr. Fleming shared the house with his father, Donald Fleming. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Old Coal Stove Remains In Wharf St. Debating Club

A hot debate was waged at the 52nd annual meeting of the executive board of the Wharf Street Debating Club this past week end on the highly controversial topic of whether or not to modernize what has now become an historic, almost legendary, seat of freedom in this district.

It was suggested by some that the club's premises should be modernized through the introduction of gas heat rather than depend upon the coal stove which has helped warm many an important debate within the rugged walls of the one-storey building on South Front Street.

The suggestion was ultimately and effectively squashed by those members of the board who felt that not only was it more traditional to depend on coal as a fuel but that it was also much more economical due to the close proximity of several coal piles, despite the large quantities of gas and hot air which are inevitably present at the annual meeting.

Whatever the fuel, local citizens will undoubtedly be glad to hear that many local and foreign politicians, orators and spokesmen have been invited to test their actions and theories on the sounding board of the first hand public opinion and criticism which is such a steadfast plank in the Wharf Street Debating Club's character.

Local politicians, statesmen and aspirants to each or both of these positions will be debating the more important local issues which face the voters of this city as well, advises J. A. "Snipe" Matthews, convener of the session.

Changes have been effected however, and many will, perchance, gasp at the transformation wrought by liberal use of fresh paint with a conservative touch of new drapes which give a new, democratic, party atmosphere to a socially credit-able institution.

It is to be hoped, of course, that, new paint notwithstanding there will be many of the old orators present who have given the club local institution an indelible, untarnished reputation which the years have served only to enhance.

OFFICERS ELECTED

It is also expected, of course, that there might be some new candle of opinion lit during the heated crossfire which has graced and enlivened many a meeting of yesteryear and that this year's speakers will not be given to anaemic disability when they are demanded to soar verbally to the lofty heights of rapid repartee demanded by their critics.

Whatever may be said the political future of many a politician has been determined within the walls of the Wharf Street Debating Club, and many the political past has been brought to task also.

Such may well be expected to occur on Wednesday next, November 28th, when the mayoralty and aldermanic candidates assemble in the club's quarters to place their records and opinions in the spotlight of keen and searching public opinion.

The traditional ground rules will be observed, of course—no ladies or women allowed except for candidates who have the especial consent of the executive board. Board members this year consist of: "Senator" Harry Rollins, president; the "Hon." Maurice Callaghan, secretary-treasurer; David Blackburn, Esq.; Ray Cornell, Esq.; George Seamen, Esq., and J. A. "Snipe" Matthews, Esq., esteemed directors. The latter gentleman, of course, is also chairman of the session, which will commence promptly at eight o'clock on the evening concerned.

Roadways Will Soon Be Back To Normal

Residents of the West Belleville and Parkdale areas who in recent weeks have been inconvenienced as a result of sewer installation, will soon have roadways back to normal.

Alderman William Jarvah raised the question at council yesterday by asking if it were not possible to have some maintenance done on the streets where sewers have gone in.

In some instances there were reports of cars being mired right in the middle of the street, he said.

Alderman Jack Ellis, as chairman of the special sewer committee, agreed this had been the case until a day or so ago.

But roadways along Avondale Road and Wright Ave. had been graded and oiled Monday, while the balance of the roadways torn up to allow sewer installation would get the same treatment within the next two weeks, he promised.

Prisoners May Get Change of Air in Block

Prisoners in Hastings County jail may still long, unrequited for a change of scenery. However, if a grand jury has its way they may be in for at least a change of air.

Filtering in the ozone in the men's cell block was one of several suggestions in a brief report made by a jury at the current sessions of the peace in Belleville yesterday.

Besides deciding whether accused persons should stand trial, a grand jury also may inspect and criticize or praise county institutions.

This the jury did yesterday and among its tours was a visit to Hastings county jail.

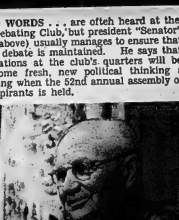
The jury panel, six men and one woman, returned to judge C. C. Anderson to formally "recommend a system for changing the air in the men's cell block be installed, as the air was found stale."

Staff problems did not escape the jury's scrutiny either. It also recommended supervision of the parking lot adjacent to the county court house.

Five Moose Included in Year's Kill

Deer hunters have had a bumper year in the Quinte district.

Department of Lands and Forests officials, predicting a good year, today reported a success rating of 27.2 per cent for marksmen during the two-week season just ended in the Belleville district. This was higher than earlier expected.



The success rating is based on a total - of - kills - to-hunters ratio.

While the number of deer kills was still being tallied by game wardens at Tweed, preliminary checks after the first days this season included five moose, 23 bears and two wolves.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The noon bid on the U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was $1.07 25-32, the asked $1.07 13-16. Monday the noon bid was $1.07 13-16, the asked $1.07 27-32. Pound sterling noon bid was $3.02 1-16, the asked $3.02 2-16.

FIGHTING WORDS . . . are often heard at the Wharf Street Debating Club, but president "Senator" Harry Rollins (above) usually manages to ensure that a high level of debate is maintained. He says that the decorations at the club's quarters will be matched by some fresh, new political thinking a week this evening when the 52nd annual assembly of city council aspirants is held.

CONTEMPLATES INCREASED MEMBERSHIP —

The "Honorable" James Maurice Callaghan (above), secretary-treasurer of the Wharf Street Debating Club, contemplates an increased membership of interested local citizens for this year's annual "bun feed." A new decor will greet both familiar and fresh faces for Belleville's unique bunk of democ-ra-cee of speech, thought and political expression. If the anticipated increased membership materializes it is expected that there will be sufficient funds to provide at least one concession to progress—modern plumbing.

Vitamin C Is Notably Stable In Citrus Fruits

by Mary Moore

This is about oranges and grapefruits. It is a reminder to be sure to include them in your daily diet.

The Vitamin C in fresh citrus fruits in general is exceedingly well protected, analysis shows. Several constituents of citrus fruits, in addition to the natural fruit acids, inhibit the oxidation of Vitamin C. - (Oxidation — exposure to air — is one of the strong common factors destroying Vitamin C content.) Furthermore, the most common uses of fresh oranges require no cooking, thus avoiding the factor which causes the greatest loss of Vitamin C.

The ideal way to eat an orange is to peel off the skin then separate the sections and eat them as is then and there. Let this be your habitual way to prepare and serve oranges to your family.

Dieters and seekers of good health and nutrition will welcome these desserts as Nature made them.

3 bananas
1 cup dessicated or shredded or freshly grated cocoanut
2 tablespoons orange juice
½ cup sugar or liquid honey
Cut the oranges and bananas into small pieces. Mix with the cocoanut, orange juice and sugar or honey. Allow to chill, covered, in refrigerator 1 or more hours before serving.

2½ cups orange sections
1 cup banana slices
1 cup unpeeled, red-skinned apple slices
1 cup orange juice
dash of lemon juice (optional)
sugar or honey to taste
cherries for garnish

Combine all ingredients except cherries. Turn into serving dishes and garnish top with cherries.

CARIBBEAN FRUIT CUP

2 cups orange sections
1 cup fresh pineapple cubes
1 cup shredded cocoanut
1 cup orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
1 teaspoon diced, preserved or candied ginger

Combine all ingredients.

ORANGE CHICKEN SLICES (Garnish for ham.)

Cut whole, unpeeled navel oranges into slices about ½" thick. Marinate in French dressing for about 2" from heat for 5 to 10 minutes, or until edges of slices are slightly browned. Serve hot with ham.

I know very well indeed a young married couple who do not have enough footed glass dishes in which to present their fruit or frozen desserts. The other night they served grape-fruit shells for "dishes" with filled them liberally with grapefruit and oranges sections and poured over a little liquid honey and then chilled them until needed by Holly's tenacity. with a plate of thinly sliced fruit cake or various crackers and cheeses.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Holly R.: He's mighty glad when he finds I've saved something he needs.

Daniel R.: Remember Fibber McGee and his jokes about his closets at home? Well I never laughed. I groaned because the problem isn't funny. It's serious, even life-and-death serious when an electric iron slides down and misses your head by a hair!

I'm tired of complaining to Holly. I'm about to roll in a couple of barrels, throw things in and cart them away before she catches her breath. She saves everything, even bits of pencils and gift wrappings around them. She has locks of hair from the first haircuts of several generations of little boys in the family, including our own three. One visit from a fire inspector and she'd surely get a summons.

Holly R.: Dan kicks and makes fun of me and threatens to throw everything away. But he was glad to have me dig out a 1500 road map the other night when he could explain the changes up-state to his pupils. And he knows whatever we need I have around somewhere. It may take a while to find it, the closets and drawers may be jammed, but we have it on the premises. And all those gals who boast such neat closets come running to me when there's an emergency. They know I have turquoise cotton "to match," an air moistener for head colds, toys for rainy days — you name it.

If only we could move to a house with an attic or basement the problem would vanish.

The Council: We have news for you, Holly, rushed to us by friends who have "an attic or a basement." They fill up fast, too, unless you develop the same attitude which can rescue you now in your apartment. What attitude? Recognizing the saturation point, beyond which items must be discarded.

If they're missed, well too thrift shops and other people's homes may be able to replace some of them. Fresh money, alas, may have to fill other nonburable requirements. But these alternatives are better than a magpie's nest of a home.

Holly is caught in a three-way squeeze-play. She hasn't much storage space, she has brilliant storage ideas (yes, it's all potentia l y, useful, interest i n stuff!) she must push all "extra" out of the house because she wants her home to look neat and uncluttered. Something's gotta give, and since it can't be the size of the closets, it will be Holly's tenacity.

How decide what to hold on to and what chuck out? Decisions depend upon space, value (both monetary and sentimental) and replaceability, but primarily upon space and the efficient use of every inch of it.

Instead of rolling in barrels Dan, why not attack the problem jointly with Holly. You've act up a few ground rules, such as "when doubt, out!" or "can't keep/sake yes, one no." Then you'd stack what's left in clearly labelled, preferably matching, storage boxes.

Meanwhile Holly might ask herself why she needs to be the "source of supply" for the other gals. It's no disgrace for her to need something and run to their homes for it.

Laurel-Rebekah Lodge Marks 42nd Birthday With 100 Present

STIRLING — On Tuesday evening approximately 100 Brothers and Sisters, gathered at the IOOF Lodge Hall, Charlotte Street, Stirling, to commemorate the 42nd anniversary of Laurel Rebekah Lodge 211, of Stirling.

The ladies of Salem UCW provided the chicken banquet and received many compliments on their cuisine.

The long tables were decorated with large pots of chrysanthemums, and the central theme of the head table was the three-tier anniversary cake frosted in white with 42 pink tapers. Silver candelabars with tall pink candles flanked the cake.

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

Brother Earl Fox was introduced by Sister Good, who paid tribute to his successful career in Odd Fellowship, and said that all were thrilled that he was one of Laurel's own members.

Brother Earl voiced greetings from the President of Grand Lodge and the Grand Master, Brother Carl Dresser, and extended praise to Laurel Lodge for its sincere adherence to the principle of the order.

TWO THEMES

The speaker based his message on two themes, "Rebekah Odd Fellowship," and "The Value of Remembrance." He paid tribute to the veterans who carried out difficult tasks on Sunday, November 11th, in the Stirling parade, and said in closing, "It is the duty of us in Laurel Lodge to carry on the heritage that has been handed down from those who were pioneers."

Past Noble Grand Sister Hazel Mumby voiced appreciative thanks to Brother Earl for his fine message and stressed the value of gratitude.

A regular lodge meeting followed in the upper hall with Sister Laura Shortt as musician and Sister Jean Pollock sang, "My Task", as lodge was formally opened.

At the close of lodge, the guests repaired to the dining hall where coffee was served. The cake ceremony followed with the new members of the year having special duties. The candles were lighted by Sisters, Helen Thompson and Doris Sine and extinguished by Sisters Lucy Sammons and Muriel Sharp. The knife was inserted in the cake by Sister Alice and Brother Earl Sine, while Brother Oro Sharp carried the cake to the kitchen. The other new members were Sisters, Dorothy Flindell, Violet Rose, June Und, Valerie Mattson, Ada Sandercock and Wilma Glover.

PAST PRESIDENT

Five past District Deputy presidents were in attendance and they were Sisters, Ethel Duffin; Gena Spry; Evelyn Bailey; Edna Fox and Mary Hulin and, on their behalf Sister Bailey expressed greetings. The guest, Sister Stella Graham, of Riverside Rebekah Lodge, 151 of Port Credit also extended greetings in this auspicious reunion.

Fifteen past Noble Grands of Laurel Lodge were also honored and sat in a group at the long table. Sister Hilda Rose presented Laurel Lodge with a lovely electric clock in honor of their 42nd birthday anniversary.

The flowers will be given to the other two charter members who were unable to be present, Sisters Jennie Burkitt and Mabel Haggison.

The serviettes and place cards were in butterfly design and the delicious birthday cake and punch were served as a closing feature of this gala evening. Past Noble Grand Sister Marion Carter and her committee were in charge of the birthday refreshments.

QUESTION, Would you ple a se tell me the proper way to wear a corsage? I have always believed that the flower should be worn up — as it grows — with the ribbon below. But so many people say that I am wrong. We need an expert's opinion. Thank you. — Mrs. R.R., Niles, Ill.

ANSWER: A corsage worn on the shoulder is usually pinned on with the flowers in a heads up position, such as you describe. However, if a small corsage is to be pinned to the waist or on a handbag, the position is optional. The size and shape of the bag actually determine how the corsage is to be affixed with the heads up, down, diagonal or crosswise. A corsage pinned at the waist of a gown may be placed any way that it looks most attractive and feels comfortable.

QUESTION: I've read so many times that it's impolite to write personal mail in a typewriter. I find it's a great time-saver, and letters actually are easier to read. Is this right? When I write in longhand, I spend so much time trying to make the letter legible that I tend to condense it just to get the chore over with. At times the letter is chatty and interesting, I don't think it really matters whether it's done by hand or on a typewriter. Do you? — Mrs. T.W., Troy, N.Y.

ANSWER: Long letters to friends may be written on a typewriter. Business letters naturally may be typed, and in most instances it's preferable for the purpose of complete clarity. However, correspondence that's strictly social should not be written on a typewriter. Thank-you and bread-and-butter notes, as well as letters of invitation or condolence come under this heading and, correctly, should only be written out in longhand.

YOUR CHILD undoubtedly protests vehemently when it's necessary to remove an adhesive bandage of any size. Ripping it off hurts, and she knows this. But if you rub mineral oil on the tape and let it soak in for a few minutes, the oil will work as a solvent. Then press the skin down as you slowly lift the tape.

HARRIS — JEWELL

Tall standards of yellow gladioli and bronze'mums adorned the chancel and white satin bows the first pews in Bridge St. United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, November 3, at 2.00 p.m., when Shirley Joanne Jewell of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jewell became the bride of Ralph Edward Harris, son of Mr and Mrs. Elgin James Harris, of Belleville. The Reverend H. M. Davis officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied Miss Mary Campbell, of Toronto, in her rendition of "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father was charming in her traditional bridal gown of white net over satin, fashioned with smoothly fitted bodice of embroidered lace sequins and seed pearls featuring long sleeves pointed over the wrists and a full skirt which extended into a chapel train. She wore a crown of seed pearls, with shoulder-length veil of imported silk tulle illusion, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. A single pearl drop necklace completed her nuptial ensemble.

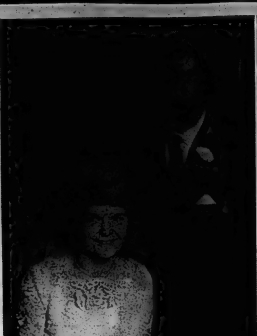
Her attendants included: Mrs. Clifford Booth, of Belleville, as matron of honor; Mrs. James Sopha Jr., of Belleville, and Miss Carolyn Wilkes of. Campbellford. The attendants wore street length sheath gowns of peau de soie in gold, green and beige with matching overskirts and headdresses. They carried cascade bouquets of white 'mums mingled with ivy and tied by contrasting satin bows.

Mr. Barry Harris, brother of the bridegroom, attended as groomsman, while Mr. James Sopha Jr., and Mr. Douglas Scrimshaw, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Sunday School hall of the Tabernacle United Church.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask linen, centred by a three-tier traditional wedding cake, topped with two white doves bearing wedding rings, beneath an arch of lily-of-the-valley and orange blossoms. White satin with scattered pink rosebuds misted the base. Tall candles and the bridal bouquets completed the setting.

The bride's mother received, wearing a winter white sheath gown with coral accessories and a corsage of coral carnations. Assisting also in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, wearing royal blue organza over taffeta with lace bodice in sheath design, with matching shoes, white hat and gloves and a corsage of pink and white carnations.



The bride's choice for travel was a beige wool suit, with red accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bride and bridegroom will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from Mount Pleasant, Brantford, Trenton, Peterborough, Toronto, Orillia, Havelock and Scarborough.

Prior to her marriage Miss Jewell was honored at a shower held by Mrs. Barry Harris, at the home of Mrs. Jack Tisdale.

The bridegroom was also presented with a coffee percolator from employees of the commercial department of The Ontario Intelligencer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gerald Smith are shown signing the register in College Hill United Church, Belleville, following their recent marriage. The bride is the former Miss Joan Margaret Youdell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Youdell of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. W. H. Smith, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Smith. SMITH — YOUDELL

College Hill United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a very pretty recent autumn wedding when Joan Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Youdell, became the bride of Leslie Gerald Smith, son of Mrs. W. H. Smith of Belleville and the late Mr. Smith. The Rev. R. Vessey performed the ceremony. White chrysanthemums and gladioli adorned the altar and white satin bows the guest pews.

Mr. Clifford Bowers, uncle of the bride, rendered the organ music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her ballerina-length bridal dress of white velvet with jacket of chantilly lace, buttoned up the back and long sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion tulle fell from a tiara of seed pearls and crystals and she carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses and white carnations.

The bride was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Shirley Crocker, as matron of honor wearing a ballerina-length dress of mauve nylon chiffon over taffeta with mits to match. Her headdress was a mauve band of flowers with small tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of 'mums and Stasela daisies.

Miss Heather McIntosh, of Belleville and Miss Joan Gidge of Toronto, were bridesmaids gowned alike in yellow nylon chiffon dresses and head pieces. They carried bouquets of 'mums and Shasta daisies. Each attendant wore a crystal tear drop necklace, a gift of the bride.

Miss Susan Youdell, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid in mauve nylon chiffon, over taffeta and carrying yellow Shasta daisies.

The flower girl, Miss Mary Lou Townsend, was sweet in her yellow nylon chiffon over taffeta and carrying a basket of pink and white 'mums.

Mr. Ronald Smith, brother of the bridegroom was groomsman while Mr. John Townsend and Mr. Lorne Cornell, both of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held in the hall of College Hill United Church where the bride's table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake, tapering candles and the bridal bouquets completed the pretty setting.

The bride's mother received wearing aqua and blue print lace dress with deep blue accessories and a corsage of white 'mums. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in a powder-blue lace dress, blue cloche hat, white gloves and wearing a corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a blue wool suit with a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are residing at 497 Cumberland St., Ottawa, Ontario.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by her matron of honor, Mrs. Shirley Crocker, and bridesmaid, Miss Heather McIntosh, as co-hostess where she received many lovely gifts.

The office staff of the Great West Life Insurance in Ottawa, where the bride is employed, presented her with an electric frying pan and the co-workers of Stones presented the bridegroom with an electric kitchen clock.

Guests were present from Ottawa; Toronto; Deseronto; Belleville; Corbyville and the United States.

Child Evangelism Fellowship Area Conference Held Here

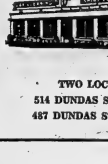
The Child Evangelism Fellowship in East Central Ontario, held its recent annual fall conference in the Holloway Street United Church, with Reverend G. Robert Gray, Scarborough, as the guest speaker.

Mr. Floyd Cumhings, chairman of the Belleville Committee, opened the afternoon session, and welcomed some 100 persons attending the conference. Several songs and choruses were sung, led by Miss Betsy Taeaker, provincial director with Mrs. B. Eaton, Lindsay, at the piano.

FIVE WORKSHOPS

The afternoon took the form of five workshops, helpful to every Christian worker. They dealt with the proper use of visual aids; making the most out of music in Sunday Schools, and Good News Clubs; storytelling and discipline; men and Christian work; explaining salvation to children.

An attractive literature display was open for the public. The special music was brought by Mr. Warren Falls and Mr. Farm Young, from Kingston.



The Reverend G. Robert Gray gave two challenging messages —responsibility of the tremendous job to get the message of salvation across to boys and girls', now. At the evening hour he challenged by a request of a child "Mommy, please turn out the darkness", likening this to what the Scriptures teach, when the Lord Jesus is invited into the hearts of men, women, boys and girls to give this power in lives that Christ can radiant out through lives the 'Fruits' of the spirit—Love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness and temperance.

An enjoyable supper was served by the Ladies of Holloway Street United Church, which brought the evening to a close.

Silent Revolution May Create United States of Europe Says Press Chief

Richard O'Regan, Associated Press chief of bureau in Germany, has spent more than half his journalistic career in Europe. He joined the AP in 1945 and served as chief of bureau in Vienna before transferring to Frankfurt. He also has reported extensively from Communist East Europe. In this story, first of a four-part series on Western Europe's hopes, he discusses moves towards political unity.

BY RICHARD O'REGAN

BRUSSELS (AP)—It took a bloody revolution to make the United States of America. A silent revolution may create a united states of Europe.

A great many European leaders believe the day is not far off—perhaps five years, perhaps 10 or 15. Others are not so optimistic—"what would we do with all our left-over kings and queens?" a Dutch historian asked with a smile.

German, French and Italian businessmen streaking across the old continent in sleek new trans - Europeans expresses barely give the concept a passing thought. All they know is Western Europe is booming, prosperous, on the go. That's sufficient for them.

It is for the majority of Europe's 300,000,000 people too. But government leaders, intellectuals and thousands of "eurocrats" all over Europe are working hard to make reality out of what once was a starry-eyed dream.

This reality could mean that by 1970, a united Western Europe will have more manpower and industrial output than the United States. It will be stronger than the Soviet Union.

It could go far beyond economics.

"We hope it won't be long before Europe has a common parliament—perhaps even common currency and common citizenship," said an international group of students in a German youth hostel. This is the generation that will make Europe's future.

MONNET THE POWER

Jean Monnet, the extraordinary French wine grower, economist and statesman who has been the post-war power behind the scenes for creating a united states of Europe, says:

"We tend to miss the magnitude of the change in Europe because it is taking place by constitutional and democratic means."

What is really happening?

Since the war, west Europe's 18 nations have formed scores of organizations to talk and act together.

Six of these nations, however, have taken braver steps. Led by France and Germany, foes for 300 years, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg have formed what is known both as the European Economic Community and the Common Market. Britain, Norway, Debmark and Ireland now are hoping to join. Other European countries also want to get in, but the Common Market countries so far guard their exclusivity.

If they are admitted, a united states of Europe may become a real possibility.

The six Community nations already have achieved a great deal in the field of economics. They have:

1. Abolished frontier formalities.

2. Begun to exchange goods, people and capital without restriction. Germans who used to drive Opels and Volkswagens now are driving French and Italian cars. Europeans go from one country to another looking for better-paying jobs. German firms invest in Holland, Italian firms in Germany.

3. Given up considerable national sovereignty. One of their institutions, the coal and steel authority, even has the power to levy taxes.

With such steps, the European Community has become the world's biggest exporter and buyer of raw materials.

If Britain, Denmark, Norway and Ireland join soon, the Community would then be the world's largest coal and steel producer. It would be handling some 40 per cent of the international trade of the non-Soviet world, its exports twice those of the United States.

The gross national product of the six Common Market countries went up 70 per cent in the last 10 years.

The man who run the European Community, offen, called "Eurocrats," plan the policies of the Common Market, the coal and steel authority and Euratom — Europe's common nuclear research project.

There are about 4,000 of these multilingual, dynamic young men.

OWN PARLIAMENT

The six Community nations have their own 142 - member Parliament, appointed by national parliaments. There is a move to get it elected directly. The delegates sit according to their political affiliations, not their nationalities.

The seven judges of the Community's court of justice—which makes sure common decisions are carried out—are under oath not to take orders from any national government.

The six nations, however, are still far from agreeing what sort of political union they would like to have—if any. West Germany's Konrad Adenauer, the Dutch and some Belgians would like a tight federal form with common foreign policy and defence decisions. Others, like France's President de Gaulle, would like a looser confederation.

Polls show an average of 75 per cent of Europe's population favor some sort of political union.

"It is the only way Europe can face the future," said a French banker. "We form each other's part for centuries. That now has to end."

Tomorrow: The new rich.

Police

the janitor when he started duty at 7 a.m. locked him in a washroom and two of the men stole bank messenger uniforms.

Heavily armed and equipped with handcuffs and chains, the gunmen waited inside the main door and met employees as they arrived for work.

All employees were blindfolded and gagged and herded into the basement. Bandits used their own tools to secure the doors.

Manager Herbert Joyce, 56, was the last of the staff to arrive. He refused to open the vault and was locked up with other employees.

An accountant was forced at gunpoint to open the vault.

The money was stacked in another vault; inside but a timing device would not permit the lock to function until 10 a.m.

The vault opening sounded an alarm. It was answered by two policemen, who were ushered in by a "guard" and promptly disarmed.

With a gun at his head one policeman was forced to call the station to report nothing amiss.

The police were followed by Angelo Sfieris, an employee of Dominion Electric Protection System, who came in response to the alarm.

He told the phony guard why he had come and the three bandits fled.

Remand Woman In $228,000 Brockville Theft

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Bail of $10,000 was continued Monday when the trial of Mrs. Dolores Clow, 36, of Prescott, charged with the theft of $228,000 was adjourned until Dec. 4.

Mrs. Clow, former accountant with the Billing Motors Limited, Brockville, was charged in connection with shortages of funds discovered by the firms auditors late in October. She has been free on bail since Oct. 31.

Mrs. Clow was arrested in the United States on a fugitive of justice charge. She waived extradition proceedings and returned to Canada Oct. 31 voluntarily to stand trial on a charge of theft.

While she is charged with the theft of $228,000, the company auditors say the shortages will run to possibly $400,000.

Mrs. Clow had been the firm's accountant for eight years. During this time she lived in Prescott where her husband, William Clow, had been the town engineer until two years ago.

Mrs. Clow appeared in court Monday with her sister, Mrs. Howard Campbell of Cardinal.

Crown Attorney Atkinson said he may not be ready to proceed with the case until the new year.

Unwelcomed Guest Keeps Coming

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My friend has no use for her brother-in-law, a nosy, conceited kind. He practically lived at her place even though he is married. She got so fed up with him that she won't even speak to him or let him in the house.

Her husband goes outside to see what he wants but never asks him in. When they have company he is sure to stop in, even though he must know he's unwelcome. It is very embarrassing for my friend, even though the people know the situation.

What can I do to help her?—WORRIED FOR FRIEND.

DEAR WORRIED—You can't. People are entitled to privacy, but when it comes to family matters, the message has to be delivered by a member of the family. You will get no thanks for attempting to butt in.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—This village has just 350 people in it. Near us the mother of a large family had to go to hospital. They simply could not get any help and the father had to farm out seven children to aunts and neighbors, including us.

Isn't there some sort of service which helps out in such cases like this?—WANTING TO HELP.

DEAR WANTING—Not where you are. But in many parts of Canada there are Visiting Homemakers Services, either organized by another welfare agency or on its own. Experienced housekeepers are sent in by the day to take care of the home and keep things going while the mother is away.

To get such a life saver going, write to the Canadian Welfare Council, 55 Parkdale Avenue, Ottawa, Ontario, and ask how it is done.

TO MRS. JACK K.—If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will be glad to send you the name of a handy little Canadian booklet on how to conduct a meeting.

• • •

((Doris Clark is a Canadian social worker with many years of experience in helping people. Write to her about your dilemma.)

Royal Family's Adviser Dead

LONDON (CP)—Sir Edward Peacock, a Toronto businessman who became one of Britain's leading bankers and a respected figure in international finance in the years between the world wars, died Monday in a London hospital. He was 86.

As a former receiver - general of the Duchy of Cornwall he advised the Royal Family on banking matters and was on terms of confidence with several monarchs.

Prince Edward Definitely 'Disaster' Area for Rabies Declares Medical Officer

PICTON — Prince Edward County is currently the scene of an outbreak of rabies, Dr. W. N. Turpel, M.O.H., has revealed.

The county is definitely a "disaster" area—the outbreak is serious and there is no doubt it will become worse as wild life spreads the disease among other wild animals, the M.O.H. declared.

However, the warned citizens not to become alarmed, but to take precautions which will help stop the spread of rabies among domestic animals and even humans.

Livestock are endangered and farmers are advised by Dr. Turpel to see that animals are indoors at night and doors and windows locked. Daytime checks would not be out of order, since there have been cases of rabid foxes chasing cows in daylight hours.

Seriousness of the situation is emphasized by figures quoted by Dr. Turpel. In the last two months, nine foxes have been shot, a cow died after being bitten, a cat was shot, and a dog was destroyed after being bitten by a fox. Eight of these animals were diagnosed as being rabid. Currently two other foxes are being checked by the Health of Animals Laboratory .

FIRST FOUND IN BETHEL

The disease was first reported in the Bethel area where a fox bit a cow; cases have been reported at Waupoos and South Bay. The M.O.H. believes the disease will spread through foxes to muskrats, skunks and chipmunks.

Oddly enough the outbreak is confined to Prince Edward, district areas not being affected.

In the case of the cat which was shot, it chased a farmer who jumped on his tractor to escape. However, it bit a beagle, which was shot. A child, who had scratches, is receiving anti-rabies shots.

A second victim, a woman, is also receiving "shots" as a result of being scratched by a dog which had been in contact with a fox.

Foxes are the chief wild animals hit by the disease. They appear to be "sick" and will approach human beings without fear, as well as attack other animals.

Dr. Turpel urges parents to warn children not to approach "tame" wild life—in fact, to keep away from any animal that might get the disease.

Letting cats and dogs out to roam at will may bring them into contact with other rabid animals.

The doctor urges anyone suffering scratches, or coming into contact with any animal that might be rabid, to see their doctor.

"We should not become alarmed, but we must become alert and take every precaution," Dr. Turpel declared.

Members Pledge Action on C of C Requests

PICTON — Members of Parliament for Prince Edward-Lennox both promised directors of Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce action on requests they had previously made. Douglas Alkenbrack's letter, read to directors on Monday, revealed that he had presented the matter of dredging of Picton harbor to the Federal Minister of Public Works and had emphasized the importance of the harbor and the need for action. He thanked the Chamber for the support they had given these representations.

Norris Whitney, M.L.A. said, "I am making every effort to have the bridge (Prince Edward to Hastings, near Deseronto) started as soon as possible, having brought it to the attention of our new Minister of Highways, the Hon. Charles McNaughton today. Mr. McNaughton was already aware of the plans for this bridge and told me that he would be very pleased to discuss it with Mr. Clarke Rollins, MPP for Hastings East, and myself, at a very early date."

"Please be assured that my follow-up of this matter will be continuous until it is brought to what I hope will be a very happy conclusion," the member wrote.

Mr. Whitney also replied to the Chamber's letter which stressed that Hon. Mr. Goodfellow, as Highways Minister, had definitely stated a start on the bridge would be made in Sept. 1962. He wrote: "My previous letter simply pointed out that a government department can only spend the amount of money voted to it by the Legislature as a whole in a given fiscal year. I believe that Mr. Goodfellow made his promise in good faith, but when other construction projects cost more than was anticipated, he had no alternative but to delay capital expenditures that had been planned until money became available and, unfortunately, our bridge was among the group of projects in this latter category."

Raps Merchants, Employees for Using Facilities

PICTON — "It is my firm belief that employees and employers in this community are placing themselves above the customer when it comes to parking facilities. If they would only appreciate that less customers will mean less employees and less employers. There are far too many merchants who park their cars all day long in selected parking spots," Robbie Robinson stated in a letter read to Chamber of Commerce directors on Monday.

He reported a lot of good reaction to a recent speech at the Rotary Club in which he had emphasized the need of adequate customer parking if downtown businesses were to retain business. A suggested program of education on the matter of parking had been given by Lewis Duncan of Proctor-Silex Ltd., and they offered to present such a program before the public at the Chamber's convenience.

Councillor George Morden said he and a committee of Barney Hepburn and Lindley Calnan had been named by town council to study this matter and that the problem was chiefly a financial one. This was endorsed by Mr. Hepburn who said the matter had long been debated.

Former councillor Sam Genelle vigorously expressed himself that it is up to merchants to do something to help themselves and assure their future. "I spent $28,000 to provide parking facilities for my own store and it has paid off," he declared. He felt any cost of additional parking should be borne by businesses and not the general taxpayer. " They had better be willing to invest in parking facilities or they will eventually regret it," he warned.

It was decided to refer the proposed educational campaign to the town council committee and the possibility of having it, and other topics, debated by a panel, at a business meeting prior to the annual, was mentioned by C.C. president Gerry Morrison.

Santa Coming December 1st By Helicopter

PICTON — Santa Claus will come to Picton on Saturday, Dec. 1st and his trip from the North Pole will be by helicopter, Chamber of Commerce directors were told Monday by committee chairman Jack Colden. The whirly-bird will land on the big roof at Gentile's supermarket to greet the children who gather in the large parking area. He will arrive at one o'clock and will fly over the town for a time.

After greetings from Santa, treats will be distributed to the children, a gift of Chamber members whose membership fees cover this cost instead of a special canvass being made.

Later in the afternoon, the children will be given free skating at the County Centre, while parents visit the gift-filled stores.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Cassius Clay, the crowingest fighter-cock ever hatched in the not-too-clean nest of boxing, may unwittingly be the stepping stone to some face-lifting for ex-heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Young Mr. Clay who believes his best press agent is a privately-owned set of vocal chords, wrote the words and music of the Archie Moore Swan Song, and at the moment is busy plugging the lyrics along the lush boulevards of Miami in a pink Cadillac.

As an encore "Yon Cassius" does a ditty that says, "My jaw-crushing pistons can lick all the Listons" or words to that effect while Sonny sits back counting his first $50,000 and smiles knowingly.

Knowing boxing people scoff at Clay's claim that he is ready for Liston now, but if the 29-year-old Louisville fighter could defeat Patterson, it certainly would enhance his chances for a shot at the title.

After he had started the venerable Moore along the last mile to retirement, the cocky youngster swaggered to his dressing room asking all and sundry, "Ain't I beautiful?" He said he could dispose of Liston in eight rounds, but since then he's added, "by the way Liston's talking I may change it to six rounds."

Meanwhile, a story out of New York says the Madison Square Garden management is ready to stage a Patterson-Clay fight, probably a non-televised bout, sometime early next year.

The management thinks, as do a lot of others, that Patterson must regain some prestige before he gets a return bout with Liston. There is a general feeling along the highways and byways of boxing that there is virtually no interest in the Liston-Patterson return, because of the one-round fiasco at Chicago last September 25.

I think Patterson is a better fighter than the man who fell before the thunderbolt fists of Liston in that fight. I think he will put up a better fight than in the one-round knockout affair that cost him more than mere dollars and cents. But I'm sure he realizes there will be little interest in the bout unless he does something to restore the public's confidence in his fighting ability.

Even the great Jack Dempsey realized after his first knockout at the hands of Gene Tunney that he would have to do something to bring back public interest in the return bout. He took on Jack Sharkey, one of the top challengers of the day—and knocked him out in seven rounds. When Dempsey and Tunney met in Chicago for their second fight the gate was $2,658,660.

Clay's board of management at Louisville has received a flurry of offers from promoters wanting to to match Clay with Liston. But the board is not going off the deep end. It says it is unlikely that Clay would meet the champion before next summer or fall.

But in other quarters it is felt that perhaps Clay is not the fighter he believes himself to be. True, he knocked out ancient Archie Moore, but they point out that a less glamorous fighter might have done the same thing.

Clay may be putting himself on a pedestal that he might find, and at the hands of others than the reigning champion, that his feet are of the same material as his name.

William Faversham, chairman of the Clay Board of Management, prefers his protege to meet Ingemar Johansson before facing the Liston artillery. But Ingy has a bout with the Internal Revenue boys which may or may not be cleared in time.

Madison Square Garden promoters are of the same opinion as Faversham, that Clay consider other offers before tackling the champion. The winner of the Zora Folly-Doug Jones fight on December 15 is a possibility. So is Eddie Machen. . . Billy Daniels, a Clay victim, via a televised cot, is seeking a rematch.

But Liston has been refused a license to fight in New York, because of his criminal record. So it is not likely that Garden promoters would consider a Clay-Liston fight until this is cleared up.

If the writer who signed his letter "A Fan," will forward his name as a gesture of good faith, his letter will be used. This newspaper does not publish "anonymous" letters.

'Doc' Schmidt Called In By Bruins

BOSTON (CP)—Milt Schmidt, replacing the man who replaced him last year as Boston Bruins' coach, admits he isn't returning to a cushy job.

The Bruins, winless in their last 13 National Hockey League games, announced Monday that quiet - spoken, gentlemanly Schmidt was replacing outspoken Phil Watson.

"Think" said Schmidt, "is a tough situation."

The former Bruins star, a member of the Hockey Hall of Fame, coached Boston from 1955, the year after he retired as a player, until two seasons ago.

Schmidt, 44, plans to meet with his players in a "plain-talking" squad meeting and said he may make a change in the Bruins' two-goaltender system.

DOESN'T LIKE IT

Boston has been using newcomers Bishop Arbour and Ed Johnston this season but Schmidt doesn't like the setup.

"I'll be honest," he said. "I'm not in favor of two goaltenders. I don't think it's fair to the players themselves. I went through the same situation before myself with Sim Simmons and Harry Lumley. It just didn't work out."

Schmidt said a few Boston players may need a change in attitude.

"The first thing for me to find out is what frame of mind they're in. I want them to get a few things off their chests and I'm certainly going to get some off mine. I'm seeking a happy family.

IS SYMPATHETIC

"I'm sorry for Phil. I know how he feels. I went through the same thing two years ago."

BOSTON (AP) — The shall-shocked Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, winless in their last 13 games, replaced Phil Watson as coach Monday with the man he succeeded—Milt Schmidt.

Although the club's position—sixth in the six-team league—indicated a change might be forthcoming, the action came as a jolt to the principals.

"I can't contest your action sively at this time," said general manager Lynn Patrick. "I just hope that the coaching change will help us play better hockey."

Watson, formerly of Montreal, still has the remainder of this season and next to go on his three-year contract.

Patrick said Watson's status in the organization will be decided within a few days.

CAME 'OUT OF BLUE'

"I haven't given the matter too much consideration because the news came to me completely out of the blue," Schmidt said. "I'll definitely give my best in the job as I always have done to the limit of my ability."

Watson, former New York Rangers star and a teammate of Schmidt and his brother, Muzz Patrick, was not available for comment.

He was hanged in effigy by fans at Boston Garden Saturday night when the club dropped a 3-2 decision to Detroit Red Wings. Watson took over the Bruins before last season when Boston failed to qualify for the Stanley Cup playoffs for the third straight year.

Schmidt, formerly from Kitchener, Ont., was an all-time NHL great on the famed Boston line with Porky Dumart and Bobby Bauer.

He became coach in January 1955 and remained in that position through 1960-61. After he was relieved as coach his principal job was talent scouting for the Bruins.

Terms of Schmidt's re-appointment were not made public. He is still operating under the coaching contract which runs out at the end of this campaign.

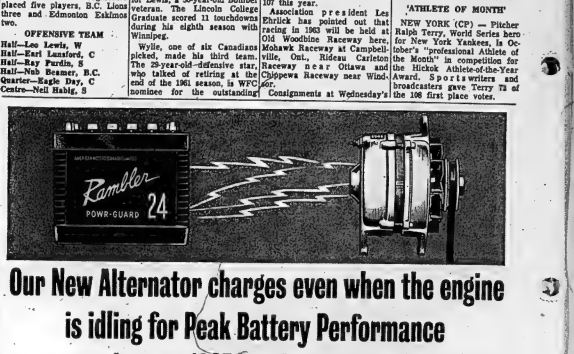
Ontario Harness Sale

Many Horses On Block

TORONTO (CP)—About 120 brood mares, yearlings and racing stock have been consigned for the first annual mixed sale of standardbreds by the Ontario Harness Horsemen's Association.

The association feels that this sale, which will be held here Wednesday, is needed now that night racing is entrenched in Ontario. It is expected there will be some 220 nights advertising next year compared with 107 this year.



Association president Les Ehrlick has pointed out that racing in 1963 will be held at Old Woodbine Raceway here, Mohawk Raceway at Campbellville, Ont., Rideau Carleton Raceway near Ottawa and the Chippewa Raceway near Windsor.

Consignments at Wednesday's sale will be made by some of Ontario's leading horsemen. Lorne Johnston of Dresden, Ted and Elgin Armstrong of Brampton, Wray Turvey of Brantford and Walter Copeland of Galt will put some brood mares on the block.

Meet Webster of Brantford, Dave Pirkney of Stratford, Keith Lamb of Caledonia and Copeland and Johnston have consigned yearlings.

Our New Alternator charges even when the engine is idling for Peak Battery Performance on the new 1963 Rambler Classic Six

The 1963 Rambler Classic's new alternator is a small part that makes a big point. The point is that a lot of unseen changes in a car can make a tremendous difference. This year one of the Classic's many improvements is an alternator which has replaced the generator. This alternator is standard on all Rambler models for 1963.

A generator takes a lot of power to get it going and it doesn't charge when your engine is idling. An alternator is just the opposite. It doesn't take much power to get it going and it does charge even when your engine is idling. You can be sure of maintaining your battery at peak performance under all conditions in the new Rambler Classic Six.

A significant change in this year's Classic is its visual beauty. Exclusive new "Uniside" construction, an entirely new way of building cars, has allowed a lower, trimmer Classic. The beauty of curved glass in the side windows and distinctive new rear roof pillars highlight the styling. In the process, have we given anything away for practicability? Not a thing. Beauty is a bonus in the 1963 Rambler Classic Six.

Take all your favourite ideas of what you want in a car to your nearest Rambler Dealer. Drive them around in a Classic Six for a while. You'll roll back to the showroom amazed at how Rambler can give you even more than you wanted. Well, it's easy. We've been doing it for years.

Curved Windows—this distinctive feature highlights the new 1963 styling.

Think Our Mary Sure Gold Medalist

16-Year-Old Wonder

By JACKSULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

PERTH, Australia (CP)—Canada's female swimmers have been jumping into the British Empire Games pools for the last 28 years in the fast-rotating search of individual gold medals.

But the drought is likely to be ended Nov. 30 by pint-sized Mary Stewart of Vancouver, who won't be 17 until December.

Miss Stewart has the credentials to back up the predictions of the experts. She holds the women's 110-yard butterfly record of 1:07.3. There is not a girl swimmer in the commonwealth who has come within four to five seconds of that mark.

Swimming coach Ed Heal yot Montreal will not make any prediction himself, but there's no concealing his confidence in his young charge when speaking of her.

IN OWN CLASS

"Mary's in a class by herself," Healy said Monday. "She's looking better than ever, but before anybody starts talking gold medals he must remember that a bad start, a slip on the turns could ruin things."

"If she does her best, she'll win a gold medal. There's no pressure on her. She's relaxed, in very good mood, and working out nicely."

Miss Stewart's chances took a big upward turn following the Australian pre-Games trial on Sunday. The Aussies top 110-yard butterfly swimmer was nearly six seconds behind the Canadian.

The women's 110-yard butterfly heats will be held Nov. 28, with the final two days later.

Canada's swimming team tried out the spanking new 6,000-seat pool here Monday morning and afternoon after brief workouts and Healy was pleased with the attitude of all the team members in helping out each other.

"It's marvellous," he said. "I haven't seen anything like it."

"All of them want to work. We encourage them along, try to keep morale high and keep them in condition. I can't even attempt to teach them anything new. The swimmers are helping out each other on turns."

No Code For Curl Star

Champion May Quit

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ernie Richardson, world curling champion, threatened today to pull out of competition if the sport's governing body adopts its mooted code of ethics.

The Regina skip, three times world ice champion Canadian, also said in an interview adoption of the code could lead to formation of a professional curling league.

In its present form the proposed code would limit value of bonspiel prizes to $600 a rink and prevent curlers from making money by instructing either verbally or through books.

Richardson, who has collaborated on the writing of a book on curling to be published shortly, said: "If the code of ethics passes at the annual meeting of the Dominion Curling Association, I will quit competitive curling."

The annual meeting is scheduled for Brandon in March and Colin Campbell of Toronto, president of the code, has served notice he intends to bring it up. Petes fired a pair of quickies in the third.

PETERBOROUGH — If the rest of the Belleville Juniors were as apt at putting the puck in the net as goalie Sam Haskill is at keeping it out, the club would likely be a winner by now.

Haskill put on another great pick-stopping display here last night but it was not enough as Peterborough Monsen Sports took a 3-0 decision, leaving the Bellevillle squad not only winless but scoreless in two starts.

Don Barclay's crew will play host to the Picton Merchants in Belleville Friday night in a nine o'clock game.

The Monsens were all over Haskill's head to finish last night, outplaying and outshooting the visitors by a wide margin but Haskill's acrobatic saves and some erratic shooting by the winners left the game in doubt until the final period.

It was a scoreless tie at the end of the first period and 1-0 after two heats before the Petes fired a pair of quickies early in the third.

Pete Morris scored a pair of Peterborough goals with the other going to speedster Billy Armour. Wayne Milburn drew two assists and Larry Hill bagged one.

Referees Ike Hildebrand and Lenny Williams handed out 13 minor penalties, with nine of them going to Belleville. The winners' final goal came with Hull of the losers serving his usual penalty of the night.

Monsens scored once in the opening period but the goal was disallowed when Milburn was caught holding on the play. Haskill was the busy man during the first five minutes, making a key save on Milburn and a spectacular three-man break on another occasion.

Monsens messed up a number of scoring chances before Milburn took a head-man pass from Milburn and scored on a 30-foot slapper at 7.07 of the second. Haskill robbed Shearer again and withstood a strong attack by the winner's "kid line" of Redmond, Bean and Armour late in the period.

Belleville's first line of Hull, Muirhead and Duvall forced Rexe to make his best saves in the first minutes of the third and the club came close again in the last two minutes of the game, but Rexe blocked the shutout.

In the meantime, Armour split the defence on a solo rush up the centre to make it 2-0 at 4.11 and Morris flicked home a good shot on a three-on-one rush with Milburn and Hill while Hull was off at 5.17.

Belleville played without the services of Paul Zakos and forward Don Goodfellow. The club looked much better-fix its zone than against Kingston, but still failed to muster any kind of an attack.

BELLEVILLE — Haskill, Patuin, Rowland, Reid, Adams, Duvall, Muirhead, Hull, Jones, McMillan, Rutherford, Moreau, Rushlow, Hagerman.

Bombers Herb Gray Injured

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers, with their backs to the wall, suffered a setback Monday.

Coach Bud Grant said all-star defensive end Herb Gray will "probably" sit out the second game of the Western Football Conference final against Calgary Stampeders here Wednesday night.

Gray twisted his ankle in the Bombers' 20-16 loss to Calgary in the opener of the best-of-three set Saturday.

Grant said Gray's ankle is badly swollen. If he can't take the field, offensive end Farrell Funston, recovering from an earlier injury, will play.

This will relieve Bill Whistler to take over Gray's spot for the game, which the Bombers must win to stay alive in the Grey Cup hunt. The series winner clashes with the East in Grey Cup classic at Toronto Saturday Dec. 1.

ON TV

Tonight's battle, to be televised over the CTV network, starts at 8 p.m. CST. (9 p.m. EST). If a third game is needed, it will be staged here Saturday.

In Calgary, Stampeder coach Bobby Dobbs declined to take even the time of day for granted.

"This thing isn't over yet," he said. "We will need 100-percent effort to beat them again."

Speaker Stops Play

'Cup Game' Called Off

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons reached the Grey Cup football era's two preliminaries Monday but speaker Marcel Lambert blew the whistle and stopped play before it got well under way.

The near - scrimmage arose over an attempt by Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) to have the Commons set aside routine business to debate day's

The need to provide Parliament with full information on the current conflict between the Board of Broadcast Governors and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which threatens to deprive the public of national (television) coverage of the Grey Cup game."

Calling signals for the Liberal team, the 155-pound, five-foot - eight Mr. Chevrier attempted an end run around a Commons rule which required that such a debate must be on a definite matter of urgent public importance.

Though given some blocking by New Democratic Party captain T. C. (Tommy) Douglas, a five-foot-six, 145-pound left half, half-carrier Chevrier was pulled short by referee Lambert's ruling that his play was illegal. But the rules wrangle that was touched off, Justice Minister Fleming, five - foot - eight, 165-pound Conservative halfback and speedy Gilles Gregoire, Social Credit's 162-pound, five-foot-five defensive signal caller from the Quebec constituency of La pointe, spearheaded their respective teams' opposition to a parliamentary Grey Cup clash being held Monday.

Mr. Fleming's stand was made on grounds that neither body falls within the government's administrative responsibility and the debate would not decide the question about the public seeing the game.

Three Injured

Top Larks May Sit Out

MONTREAL (CP)—The condition of Ted Elsby, Bobby Jack Oliver, and Don Clark was a concern Monday in the camp of the Alouettes.

All three hurt in Saturday's Tiger-C...

Coach Perry Moss of the Als said immediately after the game, won 28-17 by Hamilton, that it appeared Elsby would be unable to play next Saturday in the second-game of the home-and-home series for the Eastern Football Conference championship.

Monday a club spokesman put Oliver and Clark in the game category.

"We're not counting on any of them," he said.

This raised the possibility that Joe Francis and Jack Espenship might start.

INJURED SHOULDER

Elsby suffered a shoulder injury in the second quarter Saturday and left the game.

Clark twisted his right knee in the second quarter, went back in for a play or two, and then spent the remainder of the afternoon running up and down the sidelines trying to limber up.

Oliver complained of a rib injury but played the entire game.

Meanwhile, it was announced that Montreal sports writers and broadcasters have voted defensive halfback Ed Learn the best Canadian - born performer this season.

Inkspots Tie Fire Dept. 3-3

The Ontario Intelligencer Inkspots made their hockey debut in the City Interdepartmental League last night.

The game ended in a three-all tie after the "Spots" discovered the puck was supposed to be put in the net.

The Smokies of the Fire Department furnished the opposition with Lyle Wanamaker the top cat with all three goals.

Don Wood, a rocket but no Richard, Bill Cooney and Lyle Thompson, the "Big T," scored for the Spots.

In the other half of the league, Bobsledder Public Works defeated Public Utilities 5-4.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Iowa (AP)—Powered by sharp-shooting Sigorlie Smidins, the touring Russian women's basketball team whipped Iowa Wesleyan 86-38 Monday night for its fourth straight victory over American teams.

So Far, That Is

Wings Have Everything!

MONTREAL (CP)—If anyone didn't already know it, Detroit Red Wings are the best team in the National Hockey League so far because they have the best of everything.

Goaling? No one is near Terry Sawchuk, the remarkable veteran playing the best goaltending season of his NHL career. Goal-getting? Detroit has the highest scorer in the league. Point-getting? The same.

NHL statistics released today show the Red Wings on top of the league with 22 points, two ahead of Chicago. Their centre, Alex Delvecchio, is the top point-getter with 20, two ahead of wingmate Parker MacDonald who has 18.

Delvecchio leads the league in assists with 15 and MacDonald is tied in goals with nine. If it weren't for Chicago's scrappy Stan Mikita, who has 17 assists, Detroit would have all three top places in the points race.

Gordie Howe, with eight goals and eight assists is one point behind Mikita.

HAVE PENALTY LEADER

Howie Young of Detroit qualified as the man who spends most time in the box. He has 54 minutes in penalties, 18 minutes — nearly a full period — more than the nearest competitor Bill Gadsby, also from Detroit.

Chicago Black Hawks are the most penalized club in the league with a total of 238 minutes. Detroit was 234.

Sawchuk has been scored on only 30 times in 16 games, an average of 1.88 goals against a game. His record is approached, among regular goaltenders, only by Charlie Hall, who has allowed 34 goals in 15 games for an average of 2.27.

Whip Hamilton 9-4

Russ 'Amaze' Father Bauer

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—The touring Soviet hockey team chalked up the fourth straight victory of its current tour Monday night by defeating a bolstered Hamilton Red Wings of Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A Division 9-5.

Hamilton, bested up by grad-uates of the last two years Red Wings' ranks, opened the scoring but the Russians tied it before the end of the first period.

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. David Bauer says he was "amazed" at the performance of Russia's touring hockey team in whipping Hamilton Red Wings 9-5 Monday night for their fourth straight win of the Canadian exhibition series.

Father Bauer, forming and coaching Canada's entry for the 1964 Olympics at University of British Columbia, brought the nucleus of the team east to join an all-star junior team that will provide Russia's next competition in a game here Friday night.

He put the All-Stars, most of whom play in the Ontario Hockey Association's Metro Toronto Junior A League, through their paces Monday night.

Father Bauer, who said he had been "amazed" by the Russians' 5-3 defeat of the OHA Senior A's Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen Sunday, said back-checking and strong skating are the weapons to stop the Russian steamroller.

Cardinals Acquire Dick Groat

ST. LOUIS (CP)—St. Louis Cardinals announced Monday they picked up Dick Groat, captain of Pittsburgh Pirates and both the batting champion and most valuable player in the National League in 1960. The deal came in a trade with Pittsburgh.

The Cardinals, who needed batting power and a seasoned infielder, got shortstop Groat and pitcher Diomedes Olivo in exchange for shortstop Julio Gotay and pitcher Don Cardwell.

Groat, who was 32 this month, was one of the league's top hitters last year with a .294 average compared to the 23-year-old Gotay, who hit .225.

Director Blames Audience For Shortage of Drama

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Tyrone Guthrie, a famous theatrical director, is a thoughtful student of television drama and one who is not quite as despairing of its quality as most of his intellectual peers.

Writing in a new anthology about television, The Eighth Art, Guthrie makes the point that motion pictures and television have completely supplanted the legitimate theatre as the mass distributors of drama. In the unprecedented demand for dramatic material, he adds, television's "worthy" offerings, alas, slide out of sight, sucked down into the morass of trash."

Guthrie partly blames the audience for the shortage of exciting dramatic productions.

"There is little reason to suppose that most people want better fare than they are getting, and every reason to suppose that what pleases the largest number of people is what can be assimilated with the least trouble. Drama of any consequence cannot be assimilated without effort."

HE DISAGREES

Lewis Friedman, a producer of NBC's Show of the Week, unlike Guthrie, is currently active in television drama and disagrees with this thesis.

"Too many of us get so tired just trying to keep up with the schedules, that the only thing that is seen is the bare bones of the drama," he said. "The one thing that can hide the bones is feeling—by the author, by the director, by the performers. The sole alternative to real emotion is some new plots—and no one has found a new plot in hundreds and hundreds of years.

"Actually, the only thing we can do today is to present fresh and real feelings in a dramatic form. Too often we are all so busy just getting on with the job, there's no time for it."

Saint John Sports Editor Excelled in Hockey, Ball And Football Before Retiring

By FRANK SULLIVAN

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Most athletes would be as pleased as punch to bat four for five in a baseball game, figure in the bulk of his team's scoring in hockey or run for some sensational touchdowns in football.

But this sort of achievement presents a touchy problem to Bill Donovan, crack athlete and sports editor of the Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

Until he retired from football last year Donovan, whose premature greying hair belies his 25 years, was the only New Brunswick athlete playing three senior sports. The others are baseball and hockey. He has excelled in all three.

His problem is how to write a newspaper story about top plays when he has been the star. What does he do?

"I play it down."

BATTING RECORD

An example of how he avoids blowing his own horn followed this year's provincial baseball windup. Donovan, a left-handed batter of 185 pounds on a five-foot-eight frame, came up with a .520 batting average in New Brunswick Senior Baseball League statistics. This topped his previous mark of .468 in 1958—then believed a Maritime senior baseball record.

Donovan, who feels his first duty is to report accurate sports news, in his statistics story gave the laurels to the second and third place batters. He fulfilled his duty by saying they followed Bill Donovan.

Bill rose high in Maritime sports despite never having had the advantage of college athletics and coaching.

"I once had the opportunity to go to college under a partial hockey-football scholarship but I turned it down and I've been kicking my rump ever since." WAS RINK RAT

He got his early start in sports the way so many prom-ising youngsters do. He hung around ball parks, was a rink rat at hockey arenas and sandlot boy for senior hockey teams from 1949 to 1953.

Often it was difficult to find time for sports because he started work at the age of eight, delivering telegrams during the Second World War. He has been working ever since.

He joined The Telegraph-Journal as part time sports-writer in 1954. At that time, working for an insurance firm, he was the youngest adjuster in Canada. He joined the regular sports staff in 1956 and became sports editor a year later.

Besides playing and writing sport, Bill is secretary of the New Brunswick Senior Baseball League and president of the Saint John County Juvenile Baseball League. He also can be seen coaching high school hockey teams.

WIFE IS ATHLETE

Donovan's dark eyes have followed pucks in hockey rinks outside New Brunswick. He played one season in Newfoundland with the RCAF Unicorns, an air force team with some civilian players. He began his senior hockey with Saint John Beavers Jr. club, the year the team played Chatham Maroons in the eastern Allan Cup playoffs.

Despite the sports he has played—"I've never broken a bone"—he doesn't recommend the same pattern for other athletes.

"Our seasons in the Maritimes are so short that an athlete should take all the time that's open to him to perfect one sport."

However, versatility has hurt his performance little. In 16 years of major baseball he's hit under .300 only once. "That was 1960, the year I got married."

Born William Leo Donovan Dec. 7, 1936, in Saint John, he married Rosalie Whitaker, also of Saint John. Rosalie for two successive years was named best all-round female athlete at Saint John Vocational School and still plays junior basketball. They have two daughters, the younger born Nov. 14.

Actor Hal March Recalls Wild Days of Quiz Era

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— "Those were wild, wonderful days," said Hal March of the quiz era in television. "Never have been anything like them since."

March rode the wave of national hysteria as master of ceremonies of The $64,000 Question. The era ended in scandal and disaster, but by that time March and his show had faded from the air. He said "we were clean."

The reformed quiz master, making a rare return to the Hollywood haunts where he started his rise to fame, came back as star of a Broadway hit, Come Blow your Horn. Next summer he'll return to star with Doris Day in a film comedy Cahana.

March recalled the quiz era, which was the making of him — and almost his undoing.

"It was the perfect quiz master, because I didn't know what I was doing," he remarked. "I fluffed and made mistakes, but it all helped to make the show seem natural.

"They told me to go out there and squeeze out the drama. I told them nothing doing. It was better to play it straight; what could be more dramatic than a guy who's earning $50 a week trying for $64,000?"

NEARLY DESTROYED HIM

March didn't realize what the show would do to him until he was informed by the show's creator, Louis Cowan: "Within two weeks, you will be the most recognized face in the country."

Said March: "I thought he was out of his head — until it happened."

For 3½ years he ushered hopefuls through the green jungles of The $64,000 Question. The experience made him rich and nearly destroyed him as an actor.

"I had worked hard all my life," said March, who left his San Francisco home at 17 to fight his way up through burlesque, saloons, vaudeville, radio and television. "Suddenly I found myself free seven days and six nights a week.

"I tried to do dramatic shows on television to show what I could do. But whenever I did, the critics generally expressed surprise that I could act. I finally had to hire a press agent —at this point I needed publicity like I needed a tilted topsiders—merely to get over the fact that I had been an actor before."

Astrological Forecast

For November 21

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Get important job done early—especially where dealings, talks with associates are involved. Your sense of timing can be made to "pay off." Much depends on diplomacy.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Key today is ability to relax. Trying to be super perfect proves costly. Tension can be overcome by proper attitude. Refuse to pour good money after bad. Accept constructive advice.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Some changes are due. They are favorable for you. Patience required. Overcome temptation to "lose temper." By tonight you will feel mellow. Your Gemini zest for life returns!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): You impress others today with sparkle, originality. Be interested in what happens around you. Read, form ideas and express them. One in position to make life pleasant is impressed.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Handle important work early. Get together with friends, relatives. Share table. Realize there is much for which to be thankful. Make decision which takes you along new path.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Emphasis on "getting ready." Success spirit prevails. Your intuition is active and accurate. Trust it!—especially in romantic areas. Be conservative. Avoid money disputes.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Highlight attitude of fellowship. Accept invitations. And accept associates, family members as they are. This brings greater harmony. Excellent night for social gathering.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Don't jump to conclusions. Situation may not be what it appears. Ask questions. Don't set yourself up as judge. Wait for all the facts. Events may boomerang in your favor!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Discover the why of recent events. Social contacts prove of great value. Today finds you fulfilling some hopes, wishes. But key to greatest success is clarity. Get "story" straight in your mind!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Day to perceive beauty which is close to you. Includes home, family, loyal friend. Place of employment actually provides pleasure today. This results from job well done.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Aim high. Moon is in excellent aspect to Aquarius. Your goals can be reached. You find answers today. Necessary that you analyze; probe motives and desires. Know where you want to go.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Dynamic, new contact could be made. Be ready, optomistic, confident. Recent financial problem begins to clear. Cycle is now moving up. Double check with business or marital partner.

If today is your birthday . . . You are extremely active. You have good sense of humor. But associates, at times, regard you as "rugged," because you don't follow the mob.

• • •

General Tendencies: Day when many answers are received. Previous "puzzles" are solved. All could benefit from today's Aquarius interpretation.

assure the house that a proper record was being kept of all remissions exceeding $1,000, which he said is required for Parliament under the Financial Administration Act.

The Finance minister replied that he was sure that the terms of the financial administration act were being followed, both in respect to the surcharges. He doubted that, legally, all the items filed in the Estimates.

Three other bills also passed through clause-by-clause study Monday and, like the customs tariff, now await final reading by the House. One provides for the setting up of a national welfare council, on the model of the Dominion Council of Health. The other two provide amendments to the Estate Tax Act and the Excise Tax Act.

vincial history.

The Liberals polled about the same percentage of the popular vote as in last election—59 per cent this time to 58 in 1959. But the Conservatives shot up to 37 per cent from 26.

The PCs gained two seats from the Liberals, two from the United Newfoundland Party and took two new seats. The CCF elected one member from the PCs and won three new seats. The sixth new seat was taken by an Independent. Twenty-nine seats remained unchanged.

MAJORITIES CUT

Liberal majorities were cut in many cases from 1959.

Mr. Smallwood announced the surprise election — calling for the last three minutes of a half-hour broadcast to do it—Oct. 18, saying he wanted a mandate to launch a $70,000,000 fisheries development program.

James J. Greene, the 34-year-old Progressive Conservative leader, who spent election day driving voters to polls when volunteer drivers found Billy St. John's street too hilly, was defeated — elected. For the second straight term he will lead the Opposition in the 42-seat legislative chambers on the 19th floor of the new Confederation Building.

He said he is pleased with the strengthened opposition and added: "The electorate are coming to realize the shortcomings of their present administration." He said Mr. Smallwood, Newfoundland's only premier since Confederation in March 31, 1949, needed no mandate to carry out a fisheries program.

SAY TREND SHOWS

"I think our people realize this. They saw that really behind these issues during the election — was an attempt to stifle the opposition, to wipe out the small group that we have been in the House . . ."

Mr. Greene, who increased his majority by 600 votes over James D. Higgins in St. John's East, said the "trend is definitely the beginning of a trend."

Six of the Conservative victories came in rural, sparsely-populated areas—four of them here in the capital.

Twelve of Mr. Smallwood's 13-man cabinet survived, but Welfare Minister C. Max Lane went down to defeat at the hands of Conservative William J. Smith in St. Barry Leader Ed Finn Jr., in Humber West. Mr. Ballam finally won by 245 compared to a 1,325-vote majority in 1959.

William J. Browne, former federal solicitor - general from St. John's East Extern for the Conservatives. Mr. Browne was defeated in the June 18 federal election in St. John's East — later declared void. He said Monday "the tide is going our way."

QUITE OUT UNP

The UNP, reduced to a one-man party in this election, was wiped out of the legislature with the defeat of leader A. M. (Gus) Duffy in St. John's Centre by Anthony Murphy, a Conservative. The UNP split away from the PCs in 1959 over local financial policies.

Lone Independent, Charles S. Dorrin, defeated Liberal Edward F. Henley in Labrador West.

Castro charged that the U.S. insistence on removal of the Soviet jet bombers from Cuba "is a pretext to maintain tension, prolong the crisis and sustain its policy of force."

"However," he continued, "if the Soviet government considers it advisable to withdraw these planes for the benefit of negotiations and for the solution of the crisis, the revolutionary government of Cuba will not be an obstacle to this decision."

Castro insisted that the bombers had been sent to Cuba "for the defence of our country against aggression" and he did earlier with the Soviet missiles already withdrawn from Cuba, he described the planes as "property of the Soviet government."

He complained the United States had declared that American military planes will continue to violate Cuban air space. These aggressive acts are flagrant contradictions to international law and to the United Nations charter."

an initial Washington reaction to a broadcast from Havana quoting Castro as saying he is ready to let the Soviets take back the IL-28 jet bombers because they are too old and slow.

Removal of the 30 or more jets could mark a breakthrough in stalled U.S.-Soviet negotiations on a Cuban settlement. President Kennedy has insisted since last fall on as part of Cuba deal with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

But the United States has been holding Russia responsible for the presence of the nuclear-capable bombers in Cuba. Therefore, U.S. officials said, the United States is looking to the Russian—over the Cuban leader's head—to indicate soon that the bombers are going out.

TO DISCUSS SITUATION

Kennedy is slated to talk publicly about the Cuban situation at a press conference at 4 p.m. EST tonight. The president's meeting with the press will be broadcast and television. It is his first press conference since before the start of the Cuban crisis.

U.S. authorities made it clear that what Kennedy says will be affected by any further lack of word—from the Russians during the day about removal of the bombers.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — Sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem" and "My ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching, seemingly have been almost miraculous" with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported in the healing doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough

DEAN OF FLOWER GROWERS — W. A. Beatty, 74, stands beside a portrait of himself done in flowers at the Dale Estates Ltd., where he started as a greenhouse worker 60 years ago. Now chairman of the board of the Brampton, Ont., firm, Mr. Beatty still enjoys working with plants. The floral design was done by Ron Carter. (CP Photo).

Still Gets Keen Pleasure In Exercising Green Thumb

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—The dean of North American flower growers still gets his keenest pleasure from exercising his green thumb. He has been doing it for 60 years.

W. A. Beatty, 74, is as likely to be found in the greenhouse today as when he started with Dale Estates Ltd. 60 years ago as a greenhouse worker.

Today he is chairman of the board of directors.

Overseeing operations of the world's largest greenhouse growers of cut plants and flowers has not jaded his personal enjoyment of growing flowers.

"They've never lost their fascination for me in the 60 years I've known them. Every time you go into a greenhouse there is change—something new, different."

Since he began with Dale in this town northwest of Toronto he has seen dozens of new flower species and blooms rise to popularity. Foremost among these are the Dale roses, including the Queen Elizabeth, named for the Queen Mother, and the Gypsy Rose, named this year after former strip-teaser Gypsy Rose Lee.

RECALLS STORM

Along with the pleasures there have been setbacks. Mr. Beatty vividly remembers a vicious hailstorm in 1925 that shattered 90 per cent of the greenhouse glass. In 15 minutes, $100,000 damage had been done. It took 14 carloads of glass for repairs.

This year marks Mr. Beatty's 60th anniversary with Dale. At a luncheon in his honor he was presented with a portrait executed completely in flowers.

When Mr. Beatty joined the company, the full staff numbered 75 and greenhouses occupied 300,000 square feet. Today there are more than 300 employees and greenhouses take up 1,500,000 square feet.

He has seen the firm grow into the biggest of its kind in the world, producing flowers and plants that are acclaimed as among the finest anywhere.

First recognition came in 1890 when Henry Dale, the founder, won a silver bowl at the New York Rose Show. In 1936 the firm had exhibits in 15 classes at the New York flower show and won 14 firsts and one second.

Mr. Beatty was one of the organizers of the Allied Florists and Growers of Canada and until last year was a director of Toronto's Royal Winter Fair.

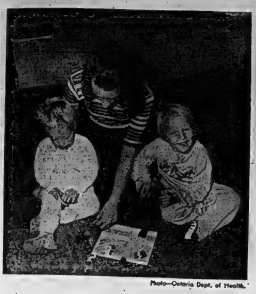
Baby Sitting

By Matthew B. Dymond, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario

One of the newest and most firmly established trends in our modern day society is the hiring of "baby sitters" to look after young children while parents go out for an evening.

In many ways the trend is a healthy one, for it allows parents some freedom to enjoy recreational activities which they might otherwise miss. Young parents take full advantage of this freedom nowadays, and baby sitters are always in great demand.

But who are these "parents by the hour" who look after youngsters? What qualifications do they have? Some of course are older women who have been mothers themselves, or who happen to be trained nurses. The vast majority, though, seem to be in the teenage category. Many are competent and intelligent sitters, but others, anxious as they may be to please their employers, may lack the necessary training and information to really replace a child's parents, even for a short period of time.



For these reasons, it was with a great deal of interest that I studied the Baby Sitters' Training Course manual produced jointly about a year ago by the Ontario Safety League and the Ontario Tuberculosis Association.

The manual is for the use of any responsible group in Ontario, interested in carrying out a project of benfit to its community. It shows step-by-step how to conduct the seven-lecture course, suggests what lecturers to select and what literature to use in the classes.

About thirty such courses have been conducted to date in Ontario, to the mutual enjoyment and benefit of the sponsoring groups, the students, and the communities involved.

The value of such course, stressing the safety and health of sitters and children alike, is by no means limited to young people. Middle-aged and older people who occasionally care for children, and even young mothers themmselves, would derive important knowledge from the course.

Many volunteer organizations in this province are equipped to co-ordinate a Baby Sitters' Training Course, which involves many segments of a community —doctors, Fire Departments, Public Health Nurses and teachers. The manual is recommended to such groups by your Department of Health, and it is to be hoped many more local organizations will take advantage of this opportunity to improve standards of baby sitting in their communities.

A comparatively new trend in our way of life is the hiring of "baby sitters" for short term care of our young children.

Kennedy Ends Naval Blockade Against Cuba

Has No Intention Of Invading Country

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy has ordered the U.S. naval blockade against Cuba lifted in exchange for a Soviet pledge to withdraw all the Ilushyin-28 jet bombers in 30 days.

The danger of a Caribbean war now has receded, Kennedy indicated, emphasizing he has no intention of invading Cuba. But he said he couldn't guarantee beyond that the United States other conditions for a crisis settlement, including United Nations inspection of the Cuban bases, are met.

Until arrangements are made to verify withdrawal of Russian missiles and planes, preferably by inspection on the spot, he said the United States will do its own checking on military activity in Cuba.

That presently means that, among other measures, the United States would continue to send reconnaissance planes to safeguard against another buildup in Cuba, despite Premier Fidel Castro's threat to shoot them down.

LIFT QUARANTINE »

Kennedy said Cuba now is free of the four-week naval quarantine, lifted Tuesday night a few hours after Soviet Premier Khrushchev messaged Kennedy his agreement to haul away the bombers in 30 days if the president would pull back his ships.

The Khrushchev removal pledge, together with his promise to let the world observe and count the bombers as they come out of Cuba "goes a long way towards reducing the danger which faced the hemisphere two weeks ago," Kennedy told his press conference Tuesday. That was the first meeting with reporters in 10 weeks.

Khrushchev was reported to have placed about 30 IL-28s in Cuba.

Kennedy would not say directly whether the United States would refuse to give a formal pledge against invading Cuba without UN inspection but hinted this was the case.

TRADE SURPLUS OF $48,400,000 IN 3RD QUARTER

U.S. Markets Bright Spot for Exporters

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada had a trade surplus of $48,400,000 during the third quarter of this year—little more than a quarter of the surplus a year earlier —as United States markets continued to provide the only bright spot for Canadian exporters.

A Dominion Bureau of Statistics report today showed imports this year have been rising at a faster rate than export sales.

The commodity trade surplus during the July - September period compared with a $169,900,000 surplus a year earlier. For the first nine months of this year, Canada still had a commodity trade deficit of $85,400,000 in contrast to a year earlier when nine-month exports exceeded imports by $98,300,000.

Third-quarter imports, estimated at $1,561,200,000, were 9.5 per cent higher than a year earlier, bringing total imports for the nine months January-September to $4,708,400,000, up 12.8 per cent from the corresponding 1961 period.

U.S. PROVIDES MARKET

Meanwhile, exports in the third quarter totalling $1,609,-800,000 showed a year-to-year rise of only 1.7 per cent, while ninth-month exports of $4,623,-100,000 were 8.4 per cent ahead of last year's mark.

Imports were higher from all major trading areas except Britain. But on the export side, the only notable gain was in shipments to the United States.

The DBS report said that part of the increases in both imports and exports was due to the lower exchange value of the Canadian dollar.

This is the trade picture by main areas for the January-

Liberals' No Confidence Move Put Him in Tight Spot--Thompson

EDMONTON (CP) — Robert Thompson, national Social Credit leader, says a Liberal motion of no confidence in the federal government put him in a tight spot during a crucial Commons debate Nov. 8.

Mr. Thompson told more than 500 persons Tuesday at a special National Night rally held during the annual convention of the Alberta Social Credit League that the Liberal motion, giving government austerity measures, caught him by surprise.

"Frankly, I was in a jam," he said.

The motion used the same words that Real Caouette, Quebec Social Credit leader, had used in condemning the government action earlier during the session.

Mr. Thompson said he had no prior knowledge that the motion was to be put forward and he immediately had to reply to the motion, which if not challenged, would have led to defeat of the Conservative majority government.

While he talked, two deputies hastily prepared a sub-amendment. "Sometimes I feel that God looks down and says the subamendment we finally worked out . . . couldn't have been worked out if we had had two days to prepare it."

He said the result was the Liberals were forced to go before a Social Credit motion and the government was able to survive with the New Democratic Party support.

He accused both Liberals and Conservatives of concerning themselves more with juggling for political advantage than with the needs of Canada.

Only Social Credit had adhered to its principles through various crises during the first 20 days of the current parliamentary session.

The Liberals want an immediate election, but "we felt it was more important to give the government an opportunity to get the budget and end of its current economic crisis."

NOWLAN FEARS ELECTION MIGHT AFFECT POSITION

Finance Minister Gives Reasons

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Nowlan expressed a fear Tuesday night that any Canadian general election in the immediate future might cause "something" to happen to the country's financial position.

He said he is not sure what that something might be.

Mr. Nowlan was commons that if earlier opposition attempts to unseat the minority Progressive Conservative government had succeeded, the reaction on the Canadian dollar and the foreign exchange markets would have made "the storm of last June look like a summer shower."

Mr. Nowlan was referring to the June exchange crisis which led the government on June 21—six days after the last general election — to impose emergency financial measures which led the government to call a special session of parliament was not in session.

'VIOLATES RIGHT'

Mr. Nowlan and New Democratic opposition claims that the government's subsequent legislation for parliamentary approval for import surcharges violates the age-old right of Parliament to tax — Parliament's purse — to impose taxes.

Tuesday, the Liberals tried for a second time to force the government to seek parliamentary approval for the surcharges before the House could pass a government tariff bill which would levy duty on two items that were also covered by the surcharges.

When the attempt—like the first on Monday—was ruled out of order, T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, moved to send the tariff bill to the Commons committee on banking and finance so the whole question of surcharges could be debated.

The Liberals supported the NDP leader to withdraw the motion. Prime minister said it was not the motion itself that bothered him. It was the implications.

The motion might leave the impression with Canada that the emergency financial measures the government took in the June 21 budget would be discarded, Mr. Nowlan said. If that were done, Canada's financial situation would be a very serious one indeed."

Mr. Douglas did not get the floor to move his motion until today the Commons moves on to other business, thus delaying a vote on the surcharge question.

'TO BE SAFE'

W. C. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) contended in Tuesday night's sitting that the vote already had been delayed by "a disgraceful filibuster" by Conservative MPs.

Mr. Nowlan came after all party agreement to temporarily postpone the debate on the surcharges until the Commons finished detailed study — and final passage—of amendments to the Farm Credit Act.

This was to occur in quick

Montreal Gunman Is Killed, Second Hurt, in Street Duel

MONTREAL (CP)—One gunman is in "critical" condition in the Montreal Neurological Institute today and his companion is dead after a shooting duel with two Montreal policemen at a midtown intersection.

The dead man was identified by police as William Harper, 39, of suburban Verdun. The second man is Lionel Esplambre, 39, of Montreal, who has two bullet wounds in the head.

The gunfight broke out Tuesday minutes after two armed bandits entered a drug store on St. Lawrence Blvd., herded three employees to the back of the store and took $152 from the till.

Morris Lazarus, one of the employees, slipped out the back door and hailed two patrol car constables stopped at an intersection.

The two policemen, Sgt. Jacques Lessard and Constable Claude Tremblay, ran to the drug store and came face to face with the gunmen.

"They started running in opposite directions when we told them to drop their guns," the policemen said.

Sgt. Chaput chased one across the street.

"He dropped under a truck before firing a shot in my direction," he said afterwards.

"When I approached the truck he pointed his revolver again in my direction and I fired two warning shots and kept insisting that he throw his gun out.

"When he refused, I fired one shot, then a second.

"Then when he crawled out from under the truck, he levelled his gun at me. I had to shoot him. I wish he had listened to me."

Meanwhile, Const. Tremblay was wrestling with the second man.

"I struck him several times over the head with my service revolver, but he kept fighting," he said.

He said the bandit had his revolver pointed at him after the strike-apart.

"I had to shoot him or he would have shot me," he said.

5 Byelections Provide Test For British Conservatives

LONDON (CP) — Thursday's five byelections will be the first big test for the Conservative government since the party conferences and the July cabinet purge.

That's why they earn the title of "mini-general elections."

All five seats have been Conservative. It is expected the Tories will lose all save one to Labor, maintaining four. The Liberals, despite their strong showing in previous byelections this year, are not considered likely to do well.

Most interesting contest is in South Dorset. The Earl of Sandwich, former Viscount Hinchingbrooke who was a member of Parliament for the Conservatives for 23 years, is weight behind Sir Piers Debenham-running on an independent anti-Common Market ticket.

Few political observers give Sir Piers much of a chance but Conservative leaders are taking no chances with the election vote, allowing

Official of SIU Denies Union Elections Rigged

OTTAWA (CP)—A senior official of the Seafarers' Union in Canada, denied Tuesday that elections are rigged in the union.

Leonard J. McLaughlin, executive vice-president of the union, said charges of rigged elections, made earlier by Michael Sheehy, a former union official, are "absolutely untrue."

In sworn testimony before the industrial inquiry into labor violence and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes, Mr. McLaughlin said "certain safeguards and cautions" are taken to prevent election manipulations.

"The ballots, sealing the boxes, sealing the keys, constant inspection and surveillance . . . — it's very simple to accomplish anything by this method, if you're able in my opinion," he told Mr. Justice T. G. Norris.

Winding up six days of direct testimony, Mr. McLaughlin now faces cross-examination by lawyers for the Canadian Lakes SIU—the Canadian Labor Congress and Upper Lakes Shipping Limited—and by Joseph Sedgwick, Q.C., counsel for the federal commission.

Mr. Sedgwick, lawyer J. A. Geller, launching his cross-examination, questioned Mr. McLaughlin on his position in the SIU.

The witness said that he was secretary - treasurer from 1954 to 1957, the senior post in what was then the Canadian district of the SIU of North America, of Hal C. Banks, now president of the SIU of Canada, was Canadian director at that time, an advisory position filled by the international union.

Mr. McLaughlin said that he bore the responsibility for the fiscal affairs of the union when he was secretary-treasurer, but he let Mr. Banks "take care of the books" because he didn't understand them.

He also said he demoted himself voluntarily to assistant secretary-treasurer in 1957 when Mr. Banks made a quick election to the senior Canadian position in the union.

He explained the move as an effort to gain wider experience in the field of negotiating contracts. His present position is executive vice - president in charge of contracts and conciliation, a second-ranking post in the SIU of Canada.

Youth Dies, Another Burned In Ottawa Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—A 17-year-old youth died and a 21-year-old man was severely burned Tuesday night in a spectacular $1,000,000 blaze on an island in the Ottawa River.

The fire, which attracted nearly 5,000 spectators to Victoria Island midway between the Ontario and Quebec shores of the Chaudiere Falls, broke out when four small storage tanks in a lumber mill blew up.

The explosion and fire destroyed two buildings owned by the Canadian Forgen Company, including the company's sales office.

Some of the buildings housed hundreds of small containers of acetylene, each container causing a minor explosion.

Dead is Clive Howard, 17, of Ottawa, believed to have been trapped in one of the buildings when fire started.

Company employee Howard Gale, 31, whose clothing caught fire, was taken to hospital where he is in serious condition.

Chinese Will Draw Back Behind 1959 Control Line, Assam Defences Smashed

Chinese Plan Would Leave Them In Control of Road Through Ladakh

CP from AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI — Communist China's troops have broken through Indian defence positions south of Bomdila and are smashing toward the fertile plains of Assam, an Indian defence ministry spokesman said today.

In a parallel strike the Chinese were reported to have advanced about 20 miles in the Ladakh River Valley at the eastern end of the Himalayan front.

The announcement of these actions came only a few hours before the Wednesday midnight deadline at which China said it had ordered its victory-flushed Himalayan divisions to silence their guns.

Prime Minister Nehru had in effect rejected Peking's terms. The Chinese ultimatum apparently was refused to say that it would be the Indian army reaction to the Chinese declaration of a cease-fire.

He left the impression at his Wednesday press talk that India would continue shooting at Chinese invaders.

Nehru told Parliament earlier that the Chinese declaration for the cease-fire and a withdrawal had not been officially received here.

The prime minister said it would be examined when it comes.

Nehru told Parliament India would stand by its commitments on the restoration of military positions held before last Sept. 8 in the northeast and northwest.

Meanwhile, Indian forces continued to attempt to stem the Chinese advance in the northeast sector of the border area and were reported holding firm in new defensive positions south of the key administrative town of Bomdila, which was taken Monday by the Chinese.

Nehru said his government would consider the Chinese statement—broadcast earlier today by Peking radio—when it is officially received. But the Indian statement clearly blocked the idea of entering Indian troops to posts they held in Ladakh before Sept. 8.

PLAN CEASEFIRE

In their statements, the Chinese said they planned to put a cease-fire into effect unilaterally at midnight and to begin withdrawals Dec. 1 to establish a 20-mile demilitarized zone between the two forces. They called on the Indians to take similar measures and to withdraw troops to posts they held in Ladakh before Sept. 8.

The withdrawal pledge said would carry Chinese troops in the Ladakh area in the north-west and the Chinese sector of the northeast frontier 12½ miles behind the line of actual control which the Chinese established. The Chinese said they would withdraw to the disputed McMahon line and then pull back an additional 12½ miles.

Peking also proposed that after lesser Indian and Chinese officials worked out details the demilitarized zone, Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Nehru meet in Peking or New Delhi to negotiate a final settlement.

Initial appraisals of the Chinese offer indicated the Chinese appeared willing to withdraw from a long section of India's northeast frontier district, where they stand poised at the gateway to the northeast and populous Assam plains, but were not giving up any important ground in Ladakh far to the west.

Peking seemed ready—in future negotiations—to give up its claim in the northeast in return for strategically valuable Ladakh. Nehru rejected a 1959 proposal for such a move.

There is an important difference for the Indian government between the Sept. 8, 1962, withdrawal line it demands, and the Thirty Jews who were born in Ireland proved that Tuesday night by organizing and holding a charter meeting of a group they call the Loyal League of Yiddish Sons of Erin.

They said they are dedicated to "banding together in a fraternal clan those persons who wish to observe and celebrate both the traditions of their faith and the land of their birth."

One of the questions raised at the charter meeting was "shall we solemnly and sincerely request that the St. Patrick's Day parade committee's ban on the Loyal League of Yiddish Sons of Erin be rescinded so that the grand parade up Fifth Avenue next March?"

PEKING (Reuters) — Smiles and lively conversations in Chinese street crowds today greeted newspaper banner headlines of the Chinese Communist government decision to cease fire along the China-India border.

All Peking newspapers—which did not appear until mid-morning — splashed the cease-fire announcement under the headline: "Our government decides to cease fire voluntarily and withdraw forces along entire boundary line voluntarily."

Groups of people jostled around newspapers pinned up on bulletin boards in the streets to read the statement.

The Peking People's Daily, official Chinese Communist party newspaper, summed up the decision in a headline saying the government decided that the "Chinese frontier guards will take the initiative" along the front and withdraw in order to "reverse the trend of new aggressive moves by Sino-Indian border conflict" and to preserve the fundamental interests of the Chinese and Indian peoples."

Will Divide Soviet Unions Into Industry, Farm Groups

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Soviet labor leader today announced a plan to reorganize Russia's unions into industrial and agricultural sections.

The plan was presented by Viktor Grishin, chairman of the Central Council of Soviet Unions, at a meeting of the central committee of the Soviet Communist party, Tass news agency reported.

Russia's top Communists were holding their third day of talks to consider ways and means of streamlining the country's economy and to step up agricultural production.

In a major address Monday Communist party's first secretary Nikita Khrushchev called on the central committee—much of which was made public Tuesday—premier Khrushchev called on Russia's economic planners to follow the lead of three major United States automobile firms and centralize industrial management.

He said General Motors, Ford and Chrysler had achieved great economic success by concentrating their designing forces and 90 per cent of their production.

Khrushchev also launched another major attack on the memory of Josef Stalin. He accused him of violating "Leninist principles of economics."

He said Stalin, who died in 1953, was "frightened by travel through the city" because he "feared the people."

Although there was a member of the workers' party "he did not respect the workers and did not believe in the masses."

Khrushchev scoffed at Stalin's one-time claim: "When I die you will all go to pieces. The imperialists will strangle you."

Khrushchev said "we live and work and are still putting pressure on imperialism and putting pressure on it thoroughly and firmly."

Ukrainian-Rite Bishops Protest Red Persecution of Catholics

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Fifteen Roman Catholic archbishops and bishops of the Ukrainian - Byzantine rite attending the Vatican ecumenical council today protested against Communist persecution of Ukrainian rite Catholics and criticized the Orthodox patriarchate of Moscow.

The bishops care for 1,200,000 Ukrainian - rite Catholics in North and South America, Europe and Australia.

Their joint declaration deplored the absence from the ecumenical council of Most. Rev. Joseph Slipyi, Ukrainian-rite Archbishop of Lvov, and said he had been "deported and detained in Siberia for more than 17 years" and was the "representative of 11 Ukrainian rite bishops who had died in Communist prisons.

The bishops asked for Archbishop Slipyi to be released "together with the other Eastern - rite Catholic bishops detained in countries under Communist regimes" and that their churches be restored to them.

They urged an end to "propaganda and compulsion to apostasy" among Ukrainian-rite Catholics by "persons obedient to the patriarchate of Moscow," which it described as "a docile and useful instrument in the hands of the Soviet government."

Four Canadian prelates were among those signing the declaration. They were Archbishop Maxim Hermaniuk of Winnipeg, Bishop Neil Savaryn of Edmonton, Bishop Isidore Borecky of Toronto and Bishop Andrew Roborecki of Saskatoon, Sask.

Enchanted Evening in Store For 'South Pacific' Patrons To Be Shown Here Monday

Stand by Belleville for a musical treat next week.

That treat had a triumphant first night in Kingston last night.

Rodgers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific", the masterpiece of these masters of the dramatic musical is on the boards for the first time in Eastern Canada, once again weaving its enchantment over packed houses (has it ever played to less?).

Presented by the Kingston Kinsmen Club the show will be brought to Belleville by local Kinsmen at the city's collegiate auditorium next Monday for its final presentation. If that presentation at least equals last night's debut, Belleville audiences truly will be in for an enchanted evening.

The modern musical classic has lost none of its glitter in 15 years. The current production holds an added attraction for local audiences.

It is played by a company of Kingston artists, many of them known in this area. (In fact, leading lady Pat Arbor has many relatives in this city). However, that aside.

Last night's production lilted and figuratively, laid its audience by the ears, as a array of top musical and acting talent from the Limestone city arrayed the stage for the show's 25 scenes. Nothing was missing material or the leads, must take wings or fall.

This is the secret of the current Kingston success.

DRILLING FOR MONTH

It is directed by Allen Wahn, New York professional, who has spent the past month drilling and rehearsing the company to key pitch. His discipline triumphed over the headaches of such a massive local endeavor.

So quickly did his crowds Arbor, and his pieces fade into each other that the few first-night difficulties, such as reluctant curtains and odd musical line went unnoticed.

His male chorus line was terrific. Individual, the ladies buoyant. The orchestra didn't have to hold a cue once. Pat Arbor, and his pieces fade into ring ensign and Garry Roberts as the worldly French plantation owner carry the show (ably led by Mary Martin and Pinza in the original). To them fell the task of playing roles made memorable—and also the major reception of the evening for acquitting themselves satisfactorily.

But the show is much more than a love story — and therein perhaps lies the secret of its perpetually packed houses. It is a production for everyone.

If you like drama you have it in the panoramic background of the war in the Pacific, the ex-ment of a secret mission.

If you like comedy you have it throughout the show, personified by Bloody Mary and the warm-hearted Luther Billis.

For tenderness, there's the subplot of the tragic love affair between a young lieutenant and a native girl. Beneath it all runs the warmth that was a Rodgers and Hammerstein specialty. But "South Pacific" has a much more universal theme, and its verity has ironic timing. It is also a cry against racial discrimination.

"South Pacific" was Rodgers and Hammerstein at their collective apogee. Combining of many contrasting elements into a fluid whole, is a peak in artistic achievement. This is also much traditional by now, and you have something that takes nothing away but lets it's done it takes some beating.

The Kingston Kinsmen production is in that bracket.

Incidentally, if you feel like testing that statement with a trip to Kingston, save your doubts for Belleville. The house management of the Kingston Collegiate reported last night the week's performances there were sold out.

Final Lecture On Survival On Thursday

The final lecture of the current QEMO series on survival will be presented tomorrow evening in room 211 of Belleville Collegiate Institute. Mat. William Cochrane of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, will explain the army's role in survival operations, and Al Pender, of QEMO, will explain QEMO organization, and the function of QEMO in time of emergency.

This lecture tomorrow will be the fourth in the series 'begun when the Cuban crisis and fear of war reached public interest in the QEMO organization. The first lecture in the series, Nov. 1, was planned for presentation in the council chambers at city hall, but was moved to the auditorium of BCIVS when public interest indicated a larger turnout than could be handled in the council chambers.' Succeeding lectures have been presented in room 211 of the school.

Job of Selling Emphasized by Club Speaker

"You will have to sell selling better," guest speaker George Harrison, vice-president and general manager of Tappan-Gurney and Peterboro, told members of the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club yesterday evening at the Columbus Hall.

The speaker emphasized the success of the Canadian economy depends on efficient, capable and knowledgeable salesmen. Every small business firm or company requires top salesmen to move their products so that the retailer prospers, the manufacturer prospers and jobs are available for Canadians so that they can afford to buy more products and equipment.

Most people, however, are in the business of selling more by accident than by having wanted to become salesmen ever since they were a small child, he advised. Not many mothers encourage their sons to become travelling salesmen due to the various travelling salesmen jokes and stories, due to the fact that they think salesmen are generally consumers of liquor and that their business trips make them prone to the approaches of "other women" and thus upset their family life, he said.

In short, there is a definite lack of interest in getting into the business of selling or "buymanship" and none seems to be getting any encouragement the fact that the Canadian economy revolves on successful salesmanship, Mr. Harrison was authorized to make arrangement for nonemploying Quinte Secondary Boys to visit the basement and will look after its own snowplowing.

Bill Hilts, manager of Canadian Canners factory at Foxboro, was elected to the boards advisory vocational committee, succeeding Dr. J. M. McLean who has left the area.

Three resignations from the high school teaching staff were accepted. Resigning were Miss Josephine Hurst, P.T. instructor at Moira Secondary School; Norman Hall, commercial teacher instructor at the same school, and Miss Joy Connors at Belleville Collegiate. The engagement of Miss Jacqueline Gardner as P.T. instructor at Moira was confirmed.

NEW CADET INSTRUCTOR

The board approved the appointment of teacher Harry G. Berkhahan as officer cadet instructor at Moira Secondary School.

The engagement of Mrs. Nancy Porteous as full-time assistant in the principal's office at the Moira approved, as was the engagement of an additional caretaker at Quinte Secondary and the hiring of part-time caretaker on an hourly basis at Moira Secondary school.

The sale of educational quality paperbacks to students at Moira Secondary School was approved. The books will be sold through the student council club and supplied through a local magazine distributor.

TO HOLD RECEPTION

And the board sponsored "get-acquainted party" for high school teachers originally planned this year will become a reality next year.

The board felt it would be good public relations policy for members to become better acquainted with local teachers and earlier plans were to hold the first get-together this autumn.

Now it has been decided to hold the first such reception party some time following the opening of the 1963 September school term. It is still undecided whether it will be an all in one reception or whether separate receptions will be held for the staffs of each school.

QEMO Given Permission To Use School for Centre Of Communications in Area

A basement room at Belleville Collegiate will become communications headquarters for the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization, it has been agreed by members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

Last night at their regular monthly meeting, members agreed that the QEMO EMO be permitted the use of a room at the collegiate to set up radio equipment for use in an emergency.

The equipment will be set up by Harold Carruthers who starting the first of the year will also be given part time use of the classroom for radio communications instruction.

Due to the backlog of business members of the board were unable to complete their entire agenda last night and adjourned until next Tuesday evening when the month's business will be completed.

The board moved forward a request to the local city traffic committee for improved lighting along the north side of Belleville Collegiate.

Authorization was given for spending up to $500 for general improvement of facilities on the Collegiate parking lot on the southwest of the school building.

And looking ahead to the winter months, the principals at Belleville Collegiate and Moira Secondary schools were authorized to make arrangement for snowplowing. Quinte Secondary has its own equipment and will look after its own snowplowing.

Bill Hilts, manager of Canadian Canners factory at Foxboro, was elected to the boards advisory vocational committee, succeeding Dr. J. M. McLean who has left the area.

Pope Halts Debate About Revelation

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John has decided to halt debate on a heavily - criticized decree on the Roman Catholic ecumenical council while the document is redrafted, it was announced today.

The decree, under discussion by more than 2,000 council prelates, is on religious freedom and biblical interpretation.

A council spokesman said the pontiff decided on a new draft should be drawn up by members of the council's theology commission and the secretariat for promotion of Christian unity.

Cardinal Augustin Bea, president, Archbishop Pericle Felici, secretary-general of the council and the assembled prelates took the decision to redraft the decree was made because the present version "could involve serious and long discussions."

In the meantime, the council will suspend its work Friday on another draft decree — on the press and entertainment, it was reported. The council does not sit Thursday.

Parkdale, Newest Public School, Now in Operation

Despite difficulties experienced with respect to muddy conditions of streets, Belleville's newest public school — Parkdale, went into operation late last week.

Opening day for the school was Thursday with four of the five classrooms in operation. The principal is Mrs. Norma Slack. The building is classed as a junior school with 141 children enrolled in Kindergarten and up to Grade 4.

When the Parkdale school was considered ready for use at the beginning of the autumn school term in September but with sewer installation in the area still not completed it was decided to delay the opening until this work was completed.

The school organization was completed, however, and until last week, the pupils attended at other schools in the city.

Now with the opening of the Parkdale school the growing needs of enrolment will again soon demand additional classroom accommodation in both West and East Belleville.

This was the story learned at this week's regular meeting of the school board when schools superintendent L. A. Wells reported enrolment of an all-time high of 4,721 children. There are 634 kiddies enrolled in Kindergarten and 625 in Grade 1, while the expected move to secondary schools next fall will be about 450. October attendance was 96.0 per cent.

In order that the growing needs of enrolment may be met, it was agreed that plans for the required steps be taken by a special committee and a recommendation by superintendent of cure approval for additional accommodation. The special committee was asked to report at the December meeting.

The property committee has proposed renovation and improvement to the principal's office at the King George School and also changes in equipment in three classrooms at Queen Alexandra School and in two classrooms in King George School to meet the needs of special classes.

Board members Mac Smith, chairman of the sites and building committee, and the finance committee chairman Morley Lovelace, with the superintendent will prepare a revised estimate for capital works required for the years 1963-67.

ACCOUNTS PAID

Vouchers, totalling $70,946.90 on the current account, were recommended for payment, while the revised fire insurance schedule and allotments for 1963 were also presented for the board's approval.

Trustees Mac Smith and F. P. Clarke were named to represent the board at a special meeting of the Public School Trustees' Association of Ontario to be held in Toronto on Saturday, Nov. 24th.

Mr. Kells reported on attendance at conferences in Vineland by the Association of Superintendents of public schools, and directors of education and also on the conference in Peterborough of Inspectors and Teachers' College personnel.

The board congratulated Inspector A. M. Cousins on his election to the membership of the latter group.

Attending this week's meeting of the board were chairman William Townson and trustees Mrs. Hazel Peck, J. D. Bacon, E. B. Bishop, F. P. Clarke, L. A. Langsbeer, M. Lovelace, Jas. Ritchie, Mac Smith, Gordon Trill and W. VanTassel.

Cannot Lure City-Bred Boys To Rural Areas

TORONTO (CP)—A survey of graduating dental students shows that a main reason for the shortage of rural dentists in Ontario is that the city-bred boy cannot be lured from the comforts of city life, even with money, a dentistry professor said today.

Dr. Stewart A. MacGregor, professor of paedodontia in the University of Toronto's dentistry faculty, was keynote speaker at a workshop conference of the Ontario Dental Public Health Council.

Dr. MacGregor described the results of its survey aimed at finding why most dentists can tinue to locate in the larger centres, as "interesting yet disturbing."

"One can readily see that . . . the reasons for not setting up practice in rural Ontario fall into three categories, namely education, social economics and physical requirements."

ATTEMPT TO RECRUIT

"The Ontario Dental Association has already looked at this problem with great concern," said Dr. MacGregor, "and have contributed generously to the support of a recruitment program directed entirely at these students."

A number of Grade 11, 12 and 13 students in Pembroke, Smith Falls, Brockville, Kingston and Belleville, with averages of more than 60 per cent were brought to Toronto, shown the school of dentistry and entertained.

"Two such projects have been carried out in Ontario," he said. "And 12 students contacted have already registered in dentistry."

He added that there is also a need to educate the rural public regarding dentistry and dental care and "this must recognize that the environment created over the years in rural Ontario does not lend itself to the stimulation of graduates about to set up practices in rural areas."

Text of Dr. MacGregor's speech was issued to the press before delivery.

Four Arrested With Quantity Of Weapons

MONTREAL (CP) — Four youths aged 16 to 20 were arrested and a quantity of arms "to equip an army" taken by police Tuesday.

A patrol car spotted five youths sitting in a car that had been reported stolen. When the policemen went to check, the youths roared away.

The chase ended when the stolen car hit a parked taxi in northeastern Montreal.

Constables Andre Tremblay and Jean-Paul Ally arrested four of the youths in a nearby lane. The fifth escaped.

A submachine gun, an automatic rifle, an ordinary rifle, and two revolvers were found in the car, and pieces of black nylon stocking apparently intended for masks were found in the youths' pockets.

All the guns were loaded, and some were cocked, police said.

Say Bertrand Has Accepted Cabinet Post

OTTAWA (CP) — Informed sources said Tuesday Jean-Jacques Bertrand, first lieutenant of Quebec's Union Nationale opposition party, has accepted an offer of a cabinet post from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The sources said the prime minister would make a seat in the Commons available to Mr. Bertrand by appointing René Letourneau (PC—Stanstead) to the Senate. The upper chamber has had two Quebec vacancies since the recent death in Montreal of Senator T. D. Bouchard.

Mr. Bertrand, a 46-year-old lawyer, was re-elected to the Quebec legislature in Misisquoi riding Nov. 14. He earlier had finished a close second to Daniel Johnson, now Quebec opposition leader, in a race for the Union Nationale leadership.

Sources in the federal Progressive Conservative party said a new cabinet post, associate minister of agriculture, would be created for Mr. Bertrand to deal mainly with the problems of farmers in Eastern Canada.

Charge Is Laid 2 Years After Alleged Offence

Belleville city police have laid a fraud charge against a former city resident — more than two years after the alleged offence.

Charged yesterday in Toronto was Glen V. Anderson.

Anderson, who once lived in Belleville, was hailed into court on various charges of passing fraudulent cheques totalling $1,250.

Among the counts read against him was a charge he had passed a bad cheque for $100 to the Arthur A. Sills Company of Belleville, on June 2, 1960. City police have kept the case open since that time.

Authority Recreational Areas Prove Popular With District Residents, Visitors

Recreational areas operated by the Moira River Conservation Authority are proving increasingly popular with district residents and visitors to the area.

This is indicated by the fact that 25 percent more people visited the three conservation areas in 1962 than last year. The Authority has recreational areas at the Col. Vandervaeter park at Thomasburg on the Price area at Actinolite and the O'Hara Mill area in the Madoc district.

A summary report on the year's activities sets out the additional work done on the three parks this year as well as activities at other places of conservation work:

11,150 ACRES OWNED.

The reports show that an additional 1,203 acres of reforestation land was purchased during year for $7,742, the total area now being 11,150 acres with more than a million trees now planted on Authority properties.

Additional planting is being done at the rate of 250,000 trees per year. The Authority purchased its first reforestation properties in Tudor township and in Rawdon township during 1962.

The report also shows that considerable additional work was done at the Col. Vandervaeter Park to improve facilities, while also improvements were made in the Price Area Park and at O'Hara's Mill.

At the Vandervaeter area the road was extended by about 700 yards while additional parking, picnic and playground areas were provided. A boat launching ramp was constructed and rocks were removed from the channel to merit boating and fishing on the Jellett section of the river.

Camp sites were constructed and a camping permit was obtained from the Department of Travel and Publicity. A demonstration farm pond was completed.

A well was drilled at the Price Conservation Area to provide a supply of pure drinking water for the increasing numbers of people who are using this area.

Development at the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area included repairs to the rock-fill dam re-roofing the storage shed planting trees to replace those killed by mice and rabbits, extending and improving the nature trails, grading and seeding the spoil banks around the mill pond, constructing an additional parking area and extending the road to it; reconstructing the mill turbine to provide more efficient operation of the valley saw.

Work was provided for 26 men on two winter works projects at the Vandervaeter Conservation Area and the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area.

EDUCATION EXTENSION ADVISORY BOARD

The chief accomplishment of the board in 1962 was the publication of a booklet "Progress and Achievements 1947-1962" which records the work of the authority from its inception in 1947 to 1962. Copies of this booklet may be obtained at the Authority office in Campbellford or from any member of the Authority.

This board again provided inscribed silver trays on behalf of the Authority for the winners of the 4-H Club Boll Judging competition.

This Board has initiated a program of recording water levels and pollution sampling which if continued, will provide essential information for the control of quantity and quality of water in the Moira watershed. Twenty-four sampling stations have been established and water samples taken at two week intervals, are analysed by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Fourteen staff gauges have been installed on the Moira at Belleville and Lingham Lake and Deloro and Lake. Two automatic recording water stage gauges have been installed on the Moira at No. 7 highway on the Black River. A third recording gauge is being installed on the Moira at No. 7 highway.

The dam at Lingham Lake, owned and operated by the Authority, is being used to increase downstream flow at low flow periods during the summer.

Deer Hunting Opens Nov. 4 Next Year

Deer hunters of the Tweed district of the Department of Lands and Forests will have an extra shooting day—and a weekend to get ready for the annual venison adventure next year.

The 1963 season will open on Nov. 4th instead of November 5th.

November 4th, 1963 falls on Monday. This will give the deer-seeking Nimrods the previous weekend to ready the arms, clothing, provisions and what-not.

The new opening date was announced at the monthly meeting of the Belleville Fish and Game Association at Club Canada last night by Frank Chesshire of the Tweed headquarters, Lands and Forests.

Mr. Chesshire in a brief address to the 225 members in attendance said the current deer-hunting season is a very successful one from all points of view.

The kill has been good and some 766 deer examined for age indicated the animals were in excellent condition.

He said the new dog-pound idea was proving very successful. Pounds had been established in various parts of the district and have proven a boon to hunters and dogs alike.

Believed to be a record, some 20,000 hunters invaded the deer and moose areas of the district this season, he said.

A brief question and answer period climaxed the interesting talk given by the speaker.

Ted Williams, the famous baseball star was at the meeting albeit in a motion picture film called "Duck Hunting with Ted Williams." The famed "Silver" of Boston proved to be as adept with a shotgun as with a baseball bat.

Other interesting films enjoyed by members were "Provincial Parks," a colorful record of the outstanding work being done by the department in this respect, and "Michigan Deer," another good hunting picture.

Several door prizes were distributed among members with the "big draw" being won by Harold McNish of Belleville.

Parked Cars Being Entered, Two Arrested

Two Belleville men have been charged with stealing from parked cars after they were arrested by a police officer patrolling his downtown beat yesterday.

Police say the officer became suspicious after observing a downtown parking lot for some time.

Ronald Sullivan and Orval Burr will answer the charges in magistrate's court Friday.

Donald G. Joss Panel Member In Nigeria

The symposium was sponsored by the Nigerian Management Group with speakers from nine different countries taking part.

Mr. Joss was in Nigeria introducing his firm's product to the African world.

Parolee Acquitted by Jury Of Robbery With Violence

A Hastings county jury late yesterday found a Kingston penitentiary parolee not guilty of robbing with violence a 77 year-old Chinese restaurant owner.

John Howarth, 34-year-old Bayside resident, was dismissed after summary admonition about parole behavior by county judge J. C. Anderson.

Howarth was hailed before the current general sessions of the peace charged with the New Year's Day robbery of Lee Woo, operator of the Empire Cafe in Frankford. He was out on parole at the time of his arrest.

It took the jury just 30 minutes to return its verdict after summations by defence counsel Robert Temple and assistant crown attorney Gordon Robertson and the judge's address.

Howarth's wife, in court throughout the two-day trial, betrayed emotional stress when the jury's verdict was announced. She broke down and wept.

Judge Anderson told Howarth that "you yourself will only know in your conscience whether you are guilty or not. It should have thought that a person on parole . . . would conduct himself a little more circumspectly than you have."

"Apparently parole has not been a lesson to you," the judge told him. "I hope it will be a lesson and you will appreciate the care with which our courts protect your interests."

"Let you never appear in a court again as far as a criminal charge is concerned," he warned Howarth sharply.

COMMITTED BREACH

Evidence through the trial indicated that Howarth had committed a breach of his parole stipulations by drinking on the night of the robbery — a fact noted by Mr. Robertson.

Police witnesses also testified that after the robbery Howarth had offered restitution for the $50 believed stolen.

Mr. Robertson said the trial was a "cogent and significant bit of evidence.

"Does an innocent man offer to pay back money that he has been stolen if in fact he had not stolen it?" he queried.

The act, he told the jury, was "self-incriminating and can be interpreted as an admission."

Mr. Temple, in his summation, however, claimed this was a logical reaction to the circumstances with which Howarth had become involved.

"Who among you faced with being back to prison for drinking . . . would not pay back under the circumstances to keep out — and hope the affair would be quiet?" he asked the jury.

Among the testimony selected for emphasis by Judge Anderson was the proof of Howarth's identity.

"I think I can properly tell you that from the evidence of Mr. Woo you may take certain facts on which the identity of Howarth was inferred," he said. "But you yourselves have to say whether or not the identity ought to be inferred.

"When such evidence depends on a single witness you must weigh it with the greatest care."

"Life and liberty must be protected and property must be protected," the judge cautioned the jury. "But at the same time one must perform their simple duties with painstaking and careful consideration of the evidence before you come to conclusions.."

Two Turkeys Stolen From Frankford Farm

There are 27 more shopping days to Christmas, but district purchasers are shopping around early this year.

Theft of two birds was discovered yesterday by Frank Moon, who operates a turkey farm on Sidney Township's 5th concession, near Frankford.

Mr. Moon noticed the birds missing after a careful count of his turkey flocks.

Provincial police from Belleville are investigating.

Training Plan Is Inaugurated At N.E. Plant

The inaugural meeting of the Supervisory Training Program was held recently in the main conference room Northern Electric Co. with full registration attending.

The training program consists of five courses comprising:— Job Instruction Training; Job Methods Training; Job Leadership Training; Job Safety Training; Job Relations Training. Each course will take five lessons of two hours to complete.

Mr. Sydney Sillitoe, Production Superintendent, Belleville Works, was introduced to the group by Mr. W. R. Gander president of Quinte Chapter, in the absence of Mr. Frank Grandame the chairman of the education committee. Mr. Sillitoe outlined the program and informed the class of the aims and achievements of the job training series, citing his own experiences: he then introduced Mr. Homer J. Rivest of the Manufacturing Methods Dept. Northern Electric Co. who has had a number of years experience in supervisory training for his company.

The education committee wishes to thank managers of industrial plants in the Belleville area for their support, and in particular the Northern Electric management for the excellent facilities so generously provided.

French Democrats Worried

Politics has always been noted for its tendency to make strange bedfellows, but Sunday's voting in France may result in this being carried to an outrageous extreme.

The Gaullist Union for a New Republic enjoyed such successes at the polls that, where old-party stalwarts were not defeated outright, they face perilous run-off elections this coming Sunday. Amongst those erstwhile political leaders whose fate is at stake in this second round of voting is Socialist leader Guy Mollet. He is reported to be urging the other old parties to combine with the communists to check the Gaullist Union.

He who sups with the devil needs a long spoon and, no matter how lengthy his ladle, Mollet may well find that he goes hungry after any alliance with the reds. There is something highly incongruous in the spectacle of such a long-time advocate of West European unity as Mollet proposing to don double harness with the communists.

This, though, just serves to illustrate the depth of the uneasiness which General Charles de Gaulle's autocratic visions have aroused in the hearts of believers in parliamentary government.

Harvey Hudson, an Associated Press writer, describes the Gaullist Union as a party "with a one-plank platform of unswerving loyalty to de Gaulle."

No matter how much allowance we make for de Gaulle's record, in which he has repeatedly shown that he has no interest in personal aggrandizement, it is still a fact that Hudson's description of his party members' attitude comes uncomfortably close to support of a "fuehrer" or a "cult of personality."

Even if it were possible to provide a guarantee that de Gaulle would not abuse this unquestioning support at some crucial juncture, there would remain the spectre of developments after his death. Where is there another like him? The answer, of course, is that no man of his stature is visible on the political horizon in France. This is at one and the same time the reason for the support the people are giving his one-plank party and the essence of the danger which it represents.

It may, of course, that many members of the Gaullist Union support de Gaulle because, by a process of study and reasoning, they have come to the conviction that his policies are right. But unless the party lays the main stress on support of these policies, rather than on the support of the man who devised them, the suspicion will no longer linger in mind that the Gaullist Union is receiving at the polls is creating a condition in which the danger of a future dictatorship is inherent.

Adenauer In Trouble

It would be ironic if Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's Grand Old Man, finally tasted defeat as the result of one of his colleagues, and would-be successors, overstepping the bounds of enthusiasm in quieting a troublesome critic.

Yet there is just a possibility that Adenauer's fall will be the ultimate result of the "Der Spiegel affair," the arrest of five persons on suspicion of treason after the magazine Der Spiegel roundly criticized the state of preparedness of the West German Army.

Defence Minister Franz-Josef Strauss, one of the more likely choices as Adenauer's successor, has been blamed for the arrests, as a reprisal for Der Spiegel's consistent criticism of him and his administration of his portfolio. The incident would appear to have doomed whatever ambitions Strauss may have had to be the next chancellor of his country.

Strangely, though, the repercussions have refused to abate and now have resulted in the Free Democrats withdrawing their ministers from Adenauer's coalition cabinet. True, the Free Democrats do not intend to make this withdrawal of support permanent—they appear to be more interested in a gesture of dissent than in upsetting Adenauer. But already the Der Spiegel affair has cut a much wider swath than anticipated. Who can predict where it may not end?

The ironic part of the incident is that, compared with some of the revelations regarding the past associations of some of Adenauer's supporters, the actions Strauss is accused of taking were comparatively trivial. At least the five arrested will receive a fair trial in open court; yet their arrest seems to have outraged many Germans who apparently were relatively unconcerned with the Nazi activities of some others associated with Adenauer's regime over the years.

Heligoland A Paradise

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Heligoland is an island of only 130 acres, half a mile long and some 18 miles from the nearest German mainland. Long ago it was a Danish possession and it was taken from them by the British in 1807. They kept it until 1890 when it was ceded to Germany in exchange for Zanzibar off the coast of Africa. Britain wanted Zanzibar as a point of access for her growing Africa empire and Germany wanted Heligoland as a military bastion. Great Britain must have regretted the swap during the First World War because Heligoland was a barrier that protected the Kiel Canal and enabled Germany to send its U-boats into the North Sea to raid British shipping.

Heligoland was heavily bombed by aircraft during that war. The 2,000 or more permanent residents were evacuated to Germany. After that war the island was demilitarized. After the Second World War, Heligoland was returned in 1952 to West Germany. Prior to that it was used as a practice target for bombing and for naval artillery by the British. Ten years ago the power went back and the West German fishermen helped them restore it.

Today only the inhabitants say you would not know Heligoland. It is beautifully laid out. The houses are neatly tiled and in every respect it resembles a garden city. Merchandise from all parts of the world is imported, and as the territory is outside the customs limits of West Germany, everything is for the taking scotch whisky — is duty free.

Normally, Heligoland is quiet, but during the summer season one or more ships arrive daily with tourists bent on a buying spree, and as many as 7,000 people have swarmed the streets on a one-day buying spree.

There is very little noise day or night. There are no automobiles at all. The residents say it is a paradise.

Pretty nearly anyway.

Job-Hunter Turned Down

The following letter, from a correspondent in Pakistan, was received by a Vancouver newspaper. The offer was declined.

It has been my ambition more for every publication which I have nursed in the deep cores of my heart and which now urges me to ask you, please, like to avail yourself of my services? What about a position of permanent photographer - cum - correspondent of your esteemed paper in Pakistan.

Here I am submitting my time to the multitudinous call of life as the Photographer - cum - Correspondent of a local leading newspaper.

I may add that I have experienced the "job" from the grass quarters and find myself well conversant with the salient aspects of the so-called job.

Sir, what may be, when I get a chance to inject a new blood to your esteemed paper, it gets a prescribed for the valued in keeping the world rolling on.

So far as my country—Pakistan has its share in the International Politics, it the major one and has all the finest worth-mentioning.

It is a land of vast variety and far-flung areas. There is every walk and shade of life.

Moreover, it is not out of joint to tell you that the dignitaries of the other countries —rather their dignitaries very frequently on their way to visit Pakistan.

It would be, I think, worthwhile to have the newsmatter about it at all events.

To cap my letter I request you please not to burn daylight on your part and reply me as soon as my letter is in your hand, for I will be waiting—either impatiently and it would be your moral obligation as well.

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 21st, 1942.

Deer hunters returned from the northern haunts of the district bringing varying tales of the autumn bag. The city minerods headed by Dr. Van Blaskie are having reports of thirty two bucks falling to their shooting prowess. Winter settled down in its dog sledding during the last few days and hunters sojourning in the vicinity of Wesleyville and Frankford were forced to cut ice on their outward journey. According to Joe Shortt the Van Blaskies party saw the finest deer of the hunting campaign while they were driving home.

A dressed pig will be raffled at the McCarthy Theatre on Wednesday evening by Clarke and les Tedworth and the proceeds will be given to the British War Victims' fund sponsored by a Toronto paper.

Canadian National War Veterans Association cancelled their Armistice dinner this year and instead held their regular monthly smoker at the Hotel Quinte on Monday evening. Jim Walden acted as chairman for the evening and proposed the toast to the veterans' fallen comrades. Mr. Walden decried the observance of the two minutes' silence in their memory. Mr. Albert Cronkwright, chairman of the C.N.R. cigarette fund, announced during the meeting that the association has forwarded more than 500,000 cigarettes to Belleville boys overseas.

Skill Must Be Gained, Can't Be Taught

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the new books that arrived on my desk this week, as I was leafing idly through the publishers, is "Gary Player's Golf Secrets." I haven't too kind of the book, since I don't play golf, but I'd like to review the title — and others like it.

If there is one thing I know about a "secret" in skill, it is that it cannot be imparted verbally. No actor can tell a novice how to act, no writer can tell a typo how to write, and no golf champion can tell an amateur how to shoot.

Not long ago I was looking through a book by Marshall Miles called "How To Win at Duplicate Bridge." It is a good book, on its own terms, but the real title should be "How Marshall Miles Wins at Duplicate Bridge." I could read it every morning and night for seven years and I could lose at the tournament table — more elegantly, perhaps, but just as consistently.

John Crawford has written a book called "How To Be A Consistent Winner at the Most Popular Card Games." Sam Fry, Jr. is the author of a new book, "How to Win at Bridge with Any Partner," and a dozen other "how-to" bridge books are always on the market.

What is wrong with all such books is the unconscious assumption that a particular talent, or skill, or knack, can be transmitted from one head to another — and this is absolutely impossible.

In the performing arts, for instance, a good coach or teacher can help a student with technique in singing or acting or playing; but not through a book — not through a set of rules on paper, not through a list of "dos" or "secrets" or theoretical problems.

The only useful book on bridge I have read is S.J. Simon's "Why You Lose at Bridge." Not "How To," but "Why." Simon knew that he couldn't teach anyone how to become a good player, but he could point out why duffers like myself keep going down in the same dumb way.

The most an instructor of such skills can do is to show pupils how and why they go wrong; they cannot be shown how to do it right — for doing it right is a matter of instinct, a certain combination of qualities that are joined in just the right proportion.

Ted Williams, for instance, has not improved a particle since the age of 16, although I have read many books and absorbed a great deal of chess strategy in all that time. I have eliminated a few gross stupidities, but never have I achieved a glimmer of brilliance at the chessboard. In a book, Capablanca imparted his "secrets" to me a dozen years ago — and they remain secrets as far as my own pathetic game is concerned.

Letter to The Editor

Gives Facts on Cost Of Fluoridation

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

RE COST OF FLUORIDATION OF OUR PUBLIC WATER SUPPLIES

There are being quoted a lot of different opinions regarding the costs in this connection. Also Wm. G. Rowland in his letter to the Editor asked what will it cost and Dr. Harold Craig, in his letter to you also referred to the cost. To set the record straight, may I use your column to enlighten one and all on the cost and the part the Utilities Commission has played in this important matter to date.

Last year when the Utilities Commission received official notice from the City Manager of the by-law covering fluoridation of our water supplies, my first concern as chairman of the Commission was what will it cost? We immediately contacted Gore and Storrie Limited, consulting engineers, Toronto, in regard to plans and estimates of the cost to install a fluoride and suitable concrete storehouse the same, together with the necessary space in the new chemical compound. Our present chemical-building at the filtration plant, which is suitable for our every day needs, does not lend itself to any further installations or storage facilities.

Gore and Storrie's recommendation was for a new and larger building which would house our present alum and chlorine installation as well as the fluoride chemical and equipment for an estimated cost of $52,500. Recently, we asked for another estimate from the same consultants and we were given an estimate priced at $60,000 as some costs have increased over the previous estimate of a year ago, and also a yearly estimated cost of $6,000 for fluorides.

It has been claimed that we cannot charge the whole capital cost to fluoridation. In a sense this is true as we would have a new building. However, our quarters are suitable for the present time as well as for the immediate future. Undoubtedly the installation would call for an upgrading of both our water rates.

As the Council of the Corporation ordered the fluoridation without consulting the Utilities Commission, we were under the opinion that the Corporation of the City and not the Utilities should bear a proportionate of the capital costs as it was by their order that the expense was to be incurred.

We made enquiries as to what other towns and cities in Ontario were doing in the matter of costs and we were surprised to learn that very few municipalities had fluoridation and, where they did have it, in some cases the costs were split about 50-50 between the Public Utilities and the Corporation.

There hasn't been any agreement between the Belleville Utilities Commission and the city in regard to the capital cost. The negotiations were discontinued when the City Council decided to have the people vote on fluoridation. It would appear that if the question is defeated by the voters on December 3rd that it would be an endorsement for the Utilities to bear the entire cost.

Member of Belleville Utilities Commission.

To Your Good Health

Hemangiomas Are Defects In Capillaries of Skin

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My grandchild has a large lump on the upper part of her chest which developed when she was about five months old. She is now a year old.

It is a hemangioma, and a pediatrician advised leaving it alone at the present. It does not seem to be getting any bigger — Mrs. C.D.

Hemangiomas are defects in the capillaries of the skin — the extremely small blood vessels which fan out through the tissues.

They are not especially unusual and sometimes they disappear as a child grows older.

Since this one is not in too obvious a place and has not changed in size, you can, as your pediatrician suggested, wait and see for a time. Hemangiomas on the face, and hence disfiguring, might be removed more promptly.

If this one on the chest increases in size and is irritated so it bleeds, I also consider removal.

Dear Dr. Molner: About three years ago I had surgery on the right breast. Since then I occasionally have infection of the right arm with severe pain, swelling and soreness. The right arm is now larger than the left. What causes this infection and what can I do to prevent it? My arm continue getting larger — Mrs. L.H.

Such cases aren't necessarily a matter of infection. The increased size of the arm is due to disturbance in circulation in the arm pit, blood vessels having been unavoidably affected by the surgery or by subsequent scar tissue.

Exercise is important in preventing enlargement of the arm. Keep the arm active. Physiotherapy can reduce swelling. In some cases an elastic sleeve should be worn to facilitate circulation.

You might also check with your doctor to see whether a rehabilitation institute or clinic is available near you.

Dear D.R Molner: What can be done to relieve intestinal adhesions? My doctor said further surgery would only cause more of them. Would some special diet help? — E.W.C.

Diet won't affect adhesions. It is true that some people form adhesions more readily than others, so additional surgery may — or may not — be followed by more adhesions. The important point is to determine positively whether adhesions are causing the trouble. You can cause kinking of the bowel and hence partial (or even complete) obstruction from adhesions.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a substance used in new type electric trains that could cause a child of five to break out in a rash and hives? — Mrs. Y.B.

It's possible. A lacquer, or even some metal, could be involved, but are you sure it is the trains? There are many causes of allergies: foods, dust, plants, animal danders, etc. A highly allergic child can react to any number of things in a perfectly normal environment. It could be well worth while, especially for the child's sake in the future to have some testing by an allergist if the attacks of hives are severe.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill. for a copy of his leaflet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Ask No Gifts, Sell Tickets

Financial Post

Every year in every country costly entertainments like ballet, opera and symphony are in the red and in need gifts from patrons of the arts. But of course the larger their ticket-buying audiences, the smaller their deficits.

Working on that bound theory, the National Ballet of Canada is currently making a new approach to businessmen who might be willing to help, instead of being tapped for straight donations. They are asked to buy blocks of seats and then give theatre parties. Or the tickets, of course, may be resold.

This is a method of combining entertainment in support of a good cause though "good cause" is too solemn an expression for a company as gay as ballet.

Dancing, classical and modern, is not everyone's favorite kind of theatre; but it is surprising how many solid citizens having stayed away from it all their lives, become balletomaniacs after seeing a few performances.

The National Ballet, which has won acclaim in Canada and in foreign lands, will undoubtedly make some converts by its drive this month. It deserves success.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A young matron among my kin was worried because her small son, age six, was still sucking his thumb as he had been doing from birth. She took the child to see a child psychiatrician.

"Pay no attention," said the doctor. "Forget it. Sucking a thumb to a child is just the same as sucking a cigarette or a pipe or cigar to an adult. It is a comforting habit, and springs in both cases from the same source."

This rather puts us cigarette smokers and pipe suckers on the spot. It pegs ally puts cigar suckers on the spot, because so often the cigar smoker is pursued in his lips actually does look a little like a fat babe with a comfort in its mouth. They both have that faraway look in their eyes.

I can't recall whether I sucked my thumb as a child. I rather think not, because in those artless days, when there was no fear of giving a child psychological traumas, they either doused the thumb with bitter aloes or put a mitten on and pinned the mitten out of reach of the mouth. My infant generation of parents has reason to bitter aloes, and we did fine.

Patient Care Discussed At Y's Men's Club

At their regular Thursday supper meeting Belleville Y's Men heard the administrator of the Belleville General Hospital, W. F. Daschael, discuss "Progressive Patient Care." Dr. Donald Scott, representing the Hospital Board, and Miss Dorothy Smith, Director of Nursing, were also present to assist in the discussion.

Beginning with a brief survey of the historical development of the hospital's role, Mr. Daschael introduced the topic "Progressive Patient Care," an emerging trend in the role of today's hospitals. He noted that in the past ten years especially, there has been a new look taken at hospital care, in an effort to most efficiently use a hospital's staff and resources in relation to a patient's needs. From this point on the concept of progressive care, that is, the organization of hospital "units" according to the degree of patient care required.

The speaker, with Dr. Scott and Miss Smith assisting, outlined in turn each of the five units of a "progressive patient care" type of organization: Intensive care, ambulatory care, general care, continued care, and home care.

Dr. Scott pointed out that an intensive care unit would be specifically designed and staffed for dealing with acutely ill patients.

OUTLINES UNITS

An aspect of hospital care, unheard of fifteen years ago, is that of care for ambulatory patients. Such a unit would be intended to foster the patient's independence and ensure a satisfactory transfer from the hospital to the home situation.

Miss Smith noted that a general care unit would be intended for patients whose illness is stabilized or controlled and who could be cared for more effectively if they were familiar with patients having a similar degree of illness.

Those who might require care for an extended period of time would be placed in a continued care unit, designed to provide the specialized type of nursing these patients would need.

The purpose of a home care unit is to bridge the gap between the hospital and the home, providing supervised hospital care to patients who could satisfactorily be treated at home.

Mr. Daschael remarked that a hospital organized on the basis of progressive care units would be able to meet the the needs of the individual patient more effectively due to the more homogeneous patient care grouping.

Mr. Daschael, Dr. Scott and Miss Smith were introduced by Harvey Homan. Expression of appreciation for a most informative discussion was given by Max Woolley. Chairman for the meeting was Y's Men's president, John Hayman.

U.S. Decision On Wood Import Curbs Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Tariff Commission decision on whether to restrict softwood lumber imports is not expected until next year.

Donn N. Bent, commission secretary, said today staff work on the complex case is under way and it is hoped census bureau statistical computing equipment can be used to process some of the voluminous statistics.

But the amount of information to be analyzed and other factors to be considered make it unlikely the commission will be able to submit its recommendations to the president before the first of next year, Bent said.

The commission received thousands of words of testimony and numerous exhibits during an eight-day hearing last month on a plea by U.S. lumber interests for protection from import competition.

Spokesmen contended rising Canadian imports are a major cause of the industry's economic ills. They requested tariff and quota relief.

But Canadians and several U.S. lumber distributors and users took the position that Canadian imports are not causing the injury.

Magistrate to Give Decision On Gaming House Charge

TRENTON — In Magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday, a case against George Gold of Toronto, charged with running a common gaming house, was enlarged, as Magistrate T. Y. Wills said that he wanted to give the evidence presented serious thought before passing judgment. Gold, through his lawyer, Walton Rose, Q.C. of Toronto, pleaded not guilty.

The court was told that Gold had worked for the Esquire Novelty Company of Toronto, and that from 1958 to 1961, he had called off numbers at the Trenton Lions' Club bingos in the Trenton Community Gardens. He was also seen directed between the novelty company and the Trenton Lions (50-50). Det. Sgt. Gordon, Robert Reid and Nostrand Spurgeon, all Lions Club executive members, told the court that all net proceeds going to the club had been used for benevolent purposes.

In a summing up, Gold's lawyer claimed that the action of his client in calling numbers, while hired by the novelty company, and the Trenton Lions, was not to be more construed as "keeping a common gaming house," than the actions of the club head, and wives in assisting with the games, could, or that may be, than the action of the Community Gardens management in renting the hall to the Lions, could.

Mr. Rose directed the attention of the magistrate to histories of other cases where "keeping a common gaming house" had been found.

Magistrate Wills agreed that the Lions bingos had been carried on "quite properly and continuously" for three or four years.

"Nobody done anything about it until now," said the magistrate. He suggested that Gold might be handed down a nominal penalty, but said that his judgment would be forthcoming.

John Everett Hickerson, 29, of 7 John Street, Trenton, charged with the attempted robbery of Goodwin Jewelry Store, while armed with a knife," was remanded for one week, during which time he is examined, with his consent, by a psychiatrist.

Linda Martin, Bernice Cobb and Gloria Swanson, charged with assault, causing actual bodily harm to a Trenton girl, were remanded out of custody, until Dec. 5.

Joseph Lefebere, charged with breaking and entering Simmons Drug Store was remanded in custody.

Merchants Want 2-Way Traffic On Front St.

TRENTON—A petition, containing the names of 40 downtown Trenton merchants, was presented to Trenton council Monday night. The merchants asked that Front Street be made a two-way street again, at least on a temporary basis, to catch the Christmas traffic. Merchants claim that the present one-way traffic system on the street takes away trade.

Mayor James MacDonald proved to be a champion of the merchants' cause, however, when he pointed out the petition and added a few of his own.

Mayor MacDonald said that the one-way traffic system kept traffic on the move.

"This is large (56); A medium 47; A small 36; B and C grades no market.

"This is large on the narrow, crooked streets," Councillor C. V. Garnett put in. "You've got to keep traffic on the move no matter how you do it, and the one-way street system is now used by towns all over Ontario."

"Well, I won't go out and direct traffic at the Front and Dundas intersection again," warned the mayor. (He has, several times, when traffic was hopelessly snarled).

"Puts me in mind of the time ex-mayor Ken Couch picked up the dead cat at that very corner," said Councillor Ross Burtt, apropos of nothing at all.

The matter will be turned over to the town's traffic committee, even though its members are reported to be 50-50 in their thinking on the one-way - two-way issue for Front Street.

Member Refuses To Vote 'Yes' On Report

TRENTON—Councillor James Duncan's report to council of the recommendations brought down by the public works committee, which he heads, was read out and approved, with one dissention at Monday night's council meeting. Councillor Ed. Todd, concerned with the reconstruction of Sidney Street, refused to vote "yes" to a recommendation until plans be drawn up for the widening of other streets in the town.

Councillor Todd, who resigned to pay $2.50 a day standby pay to Harold Bazetti, whose snow plow equipment is rented by the town, when Councillor Duncan informed the council meeting that this was not a practice, according to a department of highways communication.

At the meeting, councillors thought this might be dispensed with, in the interests of economy.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry told council that there was every hope that the traffic control by-law, now before provincial government officials for approval, would be returned to the town approved, "before the first snowfall." Provisions in the traffic by-law is an item by the terms of which parking during certain hours in the town snow season, would be curtailed in town streets.

Carey Electric was awarded a contract to supply the town with 8,000 yards of winter sand for the streets, at the rate of $1.10 a yard. This was the highest of three tenders, but the best sand, council decided.

Councillor Claude Graham, reporting for the traffic committee, said that a system of pedestrian operated lights for the Prince Charles School area on Dufferin Ave., had been approved by the department of highways.

CRITICAL OF STREET

Councillor Ross Burtt and Councillor Norman McDonald brought up the subject of conditions on Baptiste Street, following the reading of a report from weed inspector H. S. Pane.

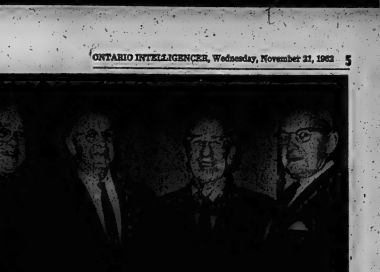
Councillor Burtt asked what the town could do about the little Street resident who, so far, has refused to clear his property and will not fill up a hole, "the size of the council table" in his backyard.

Town solicitor Roderick Campbell said that it was his considered opinion that there wasn't much the town could do, legally. A person, he said, is free to use as he chooses, but with his property as he so chooses, unless conditions on the property constitute a menace to health. The lawyer said that as far as the Baptiste Street argument was concerned, it seemed to be something which could only be settled between the warring factions.

Councillor Burtt claimed that the hole in the yard did constitute a menace, at least to the safety of children, who might accidentally drown in it, when it filled up with water at certain seasons of the year.

The matter will receive further consideration from council when Councillor Lloyd Worrall, who was absent from Monday night's meeting, brings in a report on the street conditions.

One other report considered by council was that of tax collector Alan Weaver. Mr. Weaver reported that to date, 82.83 percent of the town's taxes had been collected, which compares favorably with other years.



Plan Turkey Shoot

TRENTON — This year, the Trenton Police Association will sponsor a turkey shoot again. Last year's two shoots saw local marksmen out in large numbers and the town were lined turkeys, which, in a number of cases led to marital complications when friend husband arrived home with his gobbling prey.

Marksmen are advised to make it a point to be at Bellaval on the 2nd. Range, Hill Road, west of Trenton, on Saturday Nov. 24, at 1 p.m. Required firearms are 22 rifles; open sights.

Friday, from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., nominations for seats on the township council be received at the town hall in Wooler and this year's council will report on the year's achievements. Those nominated for posts from reeve to councillor will be required to qualify by 9 p.m. Saturday.

Drops Suit To End Sales Of Misprints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of the highly prized, deliberately misprinted Dag Hammarskjold stamps, the post office department said it had offered the statement to Sherman before he filed suit.

The New Jersey stamp collector brought the suit in federal court in Newark after postal officials announced plans to sell deliberate misprints in unlimited quantities to deflate the value of the original misprints.

Pleads Guilty To Attempted Theft of Truck

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Allan Kenneth Holmes, 23, pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of attempted theft of a company truck which started an early morning propane gas fire which could have touched off a major explosion at Vic Brooks Propane Gas Limited here.

Holmes was remanded until Nov. 25 for sentencing.

Police testified Holmes tried to steal the truck from the propane storage yard, but found that the battery was dead so set it fire. He moved a larger tank truck up.

Two propane tanks on the tank truck were connected to a storage tank by a loading hose. In moving the truck, Holmes snapped the hose and allowed the propane gas to escape.

Police said Holmes panicked and ran, leaving the tank truck motor running. The propane gas ignited and flames shot more than 50 feet into the air, lighting up the surrounding area.

James Brock, 21, son of company owner Vic Brooks, prevented a possible explosion by working his way under the flaming propane and shutting off the escape valves on the storage tank and the tank truck.

Warns Against Control Danger

HALIFAX (CP) — The president of Canadian General Electric Company warned Canadians today against the "dangerous trend" in central planning.

J. Herbert Smith of Toronto said that with the proposed establishment of a national economic development board, Canadians must carefully guard against government assuming too great a vested interest. He said two particular areas in which this should be watched are prices and wages. Mr. Smith was addressing closing sessions of a two-day labor-management study conference sponsored by the Dalhousie University Institute of Public Affairs.

Text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery. Mr. Smith said that Canadians agree that the government should play a role in business but are undecided on the scope of the role.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Between 80 and 100 students from 11 universities are expected to attend the central regional conference of the Canadian Federation of Newman Clubs here Friday to Sunday. Scouting activities

Starting with the Jamborette at Sagonaska May 11, 12, and 13 which the whole troop attended and ending with a visit to the Hastings County Museum Nov. 13, the 5th Belleville troop experienced a busy summer and fall. Although the Jamborette was their first camp, the boys proved their abilities by obtaining a "B" award for good camping. West Lake Motor Camp, Picton was the site chosen for their camping adventure on June 30 and July 1 and 2. Eleven boys attended and appreciated the assistance of Scout Master Al Green of 15th Belleville whose help made the camp a success. Five boys enjoyed a camp out at Melon Lake, Kaladar, on the 21st and 22nd of July and six chose August 2 to 6 for their camp at the same location. Being ardent fishermen and swimmers, both groups found this location to their liking.

On August 13, 14, 15, 16, four of the troop camped at the Fair Grounds, Belleville with representatives of other troops in the District. Five boys attended a camp at Sagonaska on Sept. 1, 2, and 3.

Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Fitzgerald, six scouts and their leader spent a very enjoyable weekend (Sept. 21 and 22) at Scoutmaster Lake Area on Pringle Lake. This was repeated on Oct. 6, 7, and 8 where the boys spent a much appreciated weekend. Due to the above activities the boys have become excellent campers, have passed many tests and most of all have learned a great deal about camping. Plans are being made for further activities in this line during the ensuing months with even greater activities next summer.

Both the troop and pack of 5th Belleville made an excellent showing on Nov. 11 in a Remembrance Day Service at College Hill United Church. In the evening the scouts attended a Remembrance Day Service conducted by Rev. Veasey of College Hill Church at Centre Street United Church. Another activity enjoyed by the boys was making some excellent plaster cast prints of animal tracks during several scheduled hikes.

Both the troop and pack appreciate the work of the group committee and Ladies' Auxiliary without which their work in Cubbing and Scouting would be greatly reduced. Thanks are also due to Mr. Gerald Boyce who opened the museum for the boy's visit. His staff co-operation, pictures of Belleville in the 1800's in the form of slides and particularly the gun collection made the evening a long to be remembered treat to end off a very successful season.

2ND BELLEVILLE

2nd Belleville Boy Scout Auxiliary held its October meeting in Christ Church Parish Hall with Mrs. Howard Rainbird presiding.

Reporting from Group Committee, the president announced that the men are planning a Coffee Party to be held in the Parish Hall, Friday evening, November 30th, from 7.30 to 10.00 p.m. Tickets are available at 25c each. There will be a special meeting, Monday, November 8th, to complete arrangements for this event and members are asked to urge their husbands to attend. Scouter Ingraham requested that eight neckerchiefs be made for the troop.

Mrs. Rainbird then read the Auxiliary report for the past year and warmly thanked the executive and Auxiliary members for their loyal support during her term of office. She then introduced the Reverend F. C. Fleming, the new rector of Christ Church, who installed the officers for 1962-63, as follows: past president, Mrs. H. Rainbird; president, Mrs. J. Foster; vice-president, Mrs. R. Dafoe; secretary, Mrs. E. Ingraham; treasurer, Mrs. O. Gray; social convener, Mrs. L. Wright; sewing convener, Mrs. J. Hodgson; cheer convener, Mrs. W. Yates; publicity, Mrs. H. Rainbird; group captains: Mrs. G. Rogers, Mrs. C. Lowder, Mrs. C. Wood and Mrs. C. Niles.

Mrs. E. Ingraham graciously moved a vote of thanks to the outgoing executive, to which Mrs. Rainbird replied, wishing the new executive and auxiliary every success.

President Mrs. J. Foster then brought the meeting to a close with members repeating the Scout Mispah.

An enjoyable social hour followed and all were happy to have as guests the Rev. R. G. Fleming and the Reverend Michael Carwell.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Rainbird.

5TH - BELLEVILLE ACTIVITIES

9th Belleville Cubs held a Hallowe'en party on Oct. 30th at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill with about 45 boys attending. A short meeting conducted by Mr. Trippe, Dist. Comm. M. Maw and Trevor Ritchie with A.D.C. G. Russell as special guest preceded the party. Sandwiches and cookies with freshie and coffee were served by social convener Mrs. Sharpe assisted by co-conveners Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Angus, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Trippe and Mrs. Garvin.

The lunch was much enjoyed by all present and the boys particularly enjoyed the candy scramble which closed the evening.

20th BELLEVILLE "FAMILY NIGHT"

Leaders, Cubs, parents and friends filled Front Road United Church to capacity on Monday evening to participate in a "Family Night" sponsored by the Group Committee of 20th Belleville.

Prior to a delicious pot-luck supper served by the Ladies' Auxiliary, grace was said by A.D.C. Gordon Russel.

Group Committee chairman, Garth Bradshaw, was master of ceremonies, and introduced special guests of the evening, District Commissioner Murray Mac; Assistant District Commissioner Gordon Russel, and Mrs. Dave McDonald, secretary and public relations chairman of the Boy Scout Show Committee. Also included at the head table were Cubmaster Norman Howard, Assistant Cubmaster Ruth Howard, A.C.M. Claude Hennessey and A.C.M. Maurice Bradshaw.

D.C. M. Maw in addressing the Cubs stated that they were one of the richest groups in family support because behind them they have a vital Group Committee, excellent leadership and parents. He further emphasized, "fundamentally we are here for the boys, to help them become worthwhile citizens," and in his estimation, "20th Belleville is certainly going ahead."

SPECIAL EVENT

D.C. Murray Maw, assisted by A.D.C. Gordon Russel invested Claude Hennessey and Maurice Bradshaw as Assistant Cubmasters in an impressive ceremony. Their necerchiefs were presented by C.M. Norman Howard and A.C.M. Ruth Howard.

C.M. Norman Howard expressed appreciation to the Group Committee and the Ladies' Auxiliary for organizing such a successful evening. He emphasized that they hope to form a Scout troop as soon as possible as many boys in this district are most anxious to have one. C.M. Howard suggested that parents obtain the book "Tenderpad to Second Star" which explains the requirements for badges, and they could help their boys get ahead with their test work.

The Group Committe was introduced by its Chairman, G. Bradshaw, which comprises of: vice-chairman, F. Nickerson; secretary, F. Deveau; treasurer, M. Flesch; quartermaster, N. Edwards; chairman of finance committee, B. Perry; chairman of training committee, F. Hickman; chairman of camp committee, K. Greatrix; public relations chairman, G. Ray; chairman of special events, N. Edwards.

PRESENTATIONS

Mr. P. Nickerson announced the winners for having the best forts at camp last summer, and in each was presented with a wolf cub crest. The hardworking boys were Dennis Deveau, Ken and Art Monteith, and Robert Lazaruk. For their untiring efforts as leaders, crests were also presented to C.M. N. Howard and (Kim) Ruth Howard (a husband and wife team which deserves a great deal of credit for doing such a wonderful job for the 20th); (Bagheera) Claude Hennessey and (Onni-way) Maurice Bradshaw.

A very enjoyable "white elephant" auction sale wound up the events of the evening, with Fred Deveau as auctioneer.

The next project for this group will be a paper drive from November 26th to December 1st.

Addition Plans For High School Are Studied

CAMPBELLFORD—The November meeting of the Campbellford Public School Board was held in Bridge St. School with two members, D. Bennett and T. Cryderman, absent due to business reasons. W. A. Murray presided.

Dr. J. E. Trimble, the public school board representative to the High School Board spoke on matters of common interest to both boards. Plans for the addition to the High School were studied and the general work of the board reviewed.

Wm. Machesney, reporting for the management committee, asked that the appointments of Mrs. Macquellin Beamish and Mrs. Myrtle Poland be accepted for the occasional staff.

Mr. A. Whitfield, speaking for Kent School, reported on a special class being held in the mornings and asked that Mrs. Carolyn Roberts be given a day to observe in Peterborough schools for more information. This was granted.

Parent-teacher interviews are being arranged in both schools and Mr. W. Rodwell gave November 29th as the day for Open House.

In the absence of the finance chairman, R. B. Bennett, the secretary gave the financial report.

C. Johnson, speaking for the property committee, said Mr. Grant Locke of Mather-Locke Associates Ltd., who inspected the work done at the Sr. Bridge St. School the last two years, had also looked into the brick work of the school and found it to be in good condition.

Tenders for the supplying of oil to Kent School were opened and the contract awarded to Esso Imperial Oil.

Mrs. Elda Johnston was asked to represent the board on the Library Board for the 1963 term, and thanks expressed to her for representing the board for the past two years.

The chairman reminded the members that November 26th is nomination day and three members would need to seek nomination if they so desired.

Accounts were passed and the meeting adjourned.

Nowlan

fashion after the night sitting began at 8 p.m. But an hour later, when both NDP and Conservative MPs still were peppering Agriculture Minister Hamilton on legal details of the amending bill, Mr. Pickersgill took the floor.

He moved that the committee of the whole house—as then it was—should rise. This would have cut off the farm credit debate and send the House back to business on Mr. Douglas' motion, and possibly a roll call vote before the 10 p.m. adjournment.

Mr. Pickersgill's motion under House rules was not debatable and had to produce a vote, though an unrecorded one. It was defeated 89 to 56, the Liberals standing alone against Conservatives, New Democrats and Social Credit MPs.

Mr. Nowlan said the MPs will have plenty of chance to discuss the surcharges — not only when the finance department estimates come before the House, but also in the banking committee.

Referring to Mr. Douglas, he said:

"He can have a review (of the surcharges) in almost any way he suggests, provided it is not one which attacks the integrity of the financial position of this country and the position of the government on these matters for which we are responsible."

Mr. Pickersgill said the opposition wants the right to determine such matters—not just discuss them.

"We are the ones who have the right to determine them," he told a handful of discredited ministers sitting in the Cabinet."

Chinese

Nov. 7, 1950, status proposed by the Chinese.

Indian began placing a picket line of outposts in Ladakh after 1958. By the Chinese terms, India would have to give up the forward line that was established to check Chinese encroachments in Ladakh. This line was overrun in the first days of the Chinese offensive that began last Oct. 20.

Nehru's government went ahead today with its military preparations and police arrested over 100 Indian Communists, including leaders of the opposition in the legislatures of three states where the party is strongest. The arrests were made under an ordinance giving the government sweeping internal powers because of external aggression.

Nehru watched as President Sarvepalli Radhkakrishnan swore in Y. B. Chavan as the new defence minister. Chavan succeeds Nehru's former close adviser, V. K. Krisha Menon, who resigned under fire for having failed to prepare the army to meet the Chinese onslaughts.

FIGHTING GOES ON

Fighting has reportedly continued at the spearheads of the two main Chinese drives into northeast India which threatened the Plains of Assam.

Civilians were being told to dig trenches and shown how to use rifles at the army headquarters town of Tezpur, in Assam 50 air miles from captured Bomdila. Thousands of persons were being evacuated, and the army headquarters itself was expected to move west.

In Ladakh the threat to Chushul airfield remained grave. The field has been shelled, and the defence ministry is no longer sure it is serviceable. The Chinese have captured four posts protecting Chushul itself, 18 miles east of the airfield.

It was reported that thousands of Indian troops trapped behind Chinese lines in the Lameng frontier division had attacked the Chinese from the rear.

The action raised hopes the Chinese drive into Assam could be stalled.

The Chinese were reported to have reached a village called Foothills, 48 miles northwest of the Indian operational headquarters at Tezpur.

Telegraph officials at Guahati, about 100 miles west of Tezpur, said the telegraph link between the two towns was broken but telephone lines were still functioning.

Officials in Tezpur were reported to be burning important papers, presumably in preparation for a quick departure. Most of the civilian population has already left.

The families of British planters living on the north shore of the Brahmaputra River and about 60 American missionaries and their families in the Tezpur area were airlifted to Calcutta by the Indian Air Force.

Muggeridge Draws Scoffs From Historian

LONDON (AP) — Malcolm Muggeridge, a critic of British attitudes to royalty, say Americans without knowing it are acquiring a monarchy of their own.

Writing in the Daily Herald, the columnist, says: "King Jack, Queen Jackie, Princess Caroline and the various royal dukes and duchesses are as entrenched in the social scene as their equivalents in England.

"Americans would seem to be in the process of developing a new mystique of snobbishness based on privilege and inheritance rather than on personal achievement and acquired wealth."

He said the most notable recent change in the U.S. is the public taste for millionaires in high office. "That old legend of all good men and true originating in log cabins would seem to have become quite extinct."

The Muggeridge view drew scoffs from American historian. Henry Graff, chairman of the history department at Columbia University in New York City.

Dr. Graff commented: "His view, while interesting, grows out of that clarity of view associated with an absence of fact.

"If Mr. Muggeridge will take off his present glasses—not to fight, but to see better —he will discover at least one big difference between Queen Elizabeth and Mr. Kennedy: Mr. Kennedy not only reads books but writes them, too."

St. Lawrence Lock Repaired

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — The first of 39 ships began moving through the Snell Lock here following completion of repairs to the broken arms of a lock gate that had blocked traffic on the St. Lawrence Seaway for more than 20 hours.

Technicians repaired the damage at 1 a.m. EST. The operating arms broke shortly before 5 a.m. Tuesday under pressure from a heavy surge of water, a seaway official said.

It was expected to require 24 to 36 hours to process a jam of 20 downbound and 19 upbound vessels through the lock.

The ships, most of which carry ore and grain, are trying to clear the seaway before it closes at midnight, Nov. 30.

Thin ice has formed along the shores.

Stroud's 2nd Floor Gift Court

Mr. and Mrs. William John Mudd are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in Scott's United Church, Frankford, Ontario. The bride is the former Miss Isobel Reta Carr, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carr, of Frankford R.R. 2, Trenton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downey, of Crookston, Ontario.

MUDD — CARR

Lovely baskets of pink and white gladioli adorned the chancel at Scott's United Church, Frankford, for a recent very pretty fall wedding when Isobel Reta Carr, of Frankford, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carr, became the bride of William John Mudd, of Bellesville, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downey, of Crookston, Ontario. The Rev. J. Vessey, of Belleville, assisted by Mr. J. Cooper, minister, officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Cameron Sine, of Frankford, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Avery Martin, who sang before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," and "I'll Walk Beside You," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace, featuring a moulded bodice having sheath-like illy-point sleeves, bateau neckline and floor-length graceful skirt. She wore a crown headdress studded with sequins and seed pearls, with rose-scalloped French bouffant shoulder-length veil, a single strand of pearls with matching earrings and carried a shower bouquet of red roses mingled with white net and fern, and tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Dorothy Carr attended her sister, as maid of honor wearing a rose satin gown with white accessories, and carrying a bouquet of pink roses and tinted pink 'mums. The bridesmaids were, Miss Margaret Carr, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Andrew Carr, sister-in-law of the bride. Both were gowned in identical blue satin gowns with white accessories and carried bouquets of pink roses and blue-tinted 'mums. They wore matching headdresses.

The little flower girl, Miss Phyllis Hines, of Belleville, R.R. 6, was pretty and sweet in her white nylon frock with white accessories and carrying a basket of pink Sweetheart roses mingled with blue-tinted 'mums.

Mr. Dennis Downey of Crookston, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, as best man. Mr. Merrill Carr of Frankford R.R. 2, brother of the bride, and Mr. Donald Watt, of Wellington, ushered the guests.

Master George Carr, youngest brother of the bride, was a ring-bearer in his grey flannels and blue blazer with white boutonniere and carrying a white, heart-shaped, satin cushion bearing the rings.

The reception was held in the church parlors which were prettily adorned with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells.

The bride's table was appointed in the traditional nuptial manner with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by pink and white candles in silver holders. Vases of pink roses and the bridal bouquets completed the pretty setting.

The bride's mother, wearing a two-piece ensemble in green figured silk, with corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses, green velvet hat and black and white accessories, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned also in a two-piece ensemble in grey with blue hat, white gloves with black accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to eastern districts including Smiths Falls, Perth and others, the bride chose a sheath dress in beige brocaded satin with matching jacket, beige and brown accessories and corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Wallbridge, Perth, Kingston, Napanee, Crookston, Trenton, Frankford, Plainfield, Brantford and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a linen shower held in the home of Mrs. Earl Dafoe, hostess, with Mrs. Bill Consaul and Mrs. Maurice Dafoe as co-hostesses, when the bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Also at a presentation at an electric clock by the staff of the Ontario Home for Mentally Retarded Infants at Plainfield, where the bride is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Mudd are residing at 85A Lewis Street, Belleville.

What's Your Problem, Topic At Quinte S.S.

Plans have been made for the "Open House" to be held in Quinte Secondary School, January 7th and 14th, at which time the parents may have interviews with the teachers. Each parent, so desiring, may have a five minute private consultation with the teachers of their choice. Parents are advised that as the time is limited they have their interviews planned, and to avoid disappointment to be there early.

Last year the plan was a great success. Both teachers and parents came to a better understanding of the problems, and the Association felt that one of its prime functions had been attained in bringing about closer relations between the teachers and parents.

Mr. Cranston, chairman of the Association, stressed to the executive the need for a drive for membership. If the Association is to be successful, it is imperative to have public interest and support.

In a future program, the Association has planned what is hoped to be of interest to pupils as well as parents. A panel of four pupils, a psychiatrist, a social worker and a teacher are to answer questions from the floor as well as questions, suggestions and criticism from the pupils themselves submitted in a question box to be set up in one of the teachers rooms. The topic is entitled, "What's Your Problem," and will deal with matters of a wide range from "going steady" to problems pupils have with their parents and vice versa and to suggestions the pupils have for better parent-teacher-pupil relations.

Professor A. Phelps Names Today's Three Main Issues At University Women's Club

"There are three immediately operative issues of today. The first and all inclusive issue is that of the existence of man on a planet of the universe; the second is that of the nature and destiny of man; and the third is the issue of white supremacy. The issues have spawned "isms" of many sorts."

Professor Arthur Phelps of Kingston, well known for his TV and radio panel, analyzed three of these "isms" in a stimulating address at the November meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and District, held in Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital, last Thursday evening.

"Racism," the offspring of the issue of white supremacy, was the first "ism" scrutinized by Professor Phelps. He noted that, since there is no inherent superiority in either race related to color, it is as absurd for the "fading" whites to cling to this assumption of superiority as it is for the colored people of the East to assume that they should be lords of the earth. Recent attacks on this comforting assumption of white supremacy have left the "western world like a knocked-out boxer coming to and wondering what happened," said the speaker.

HUMANISM — SOLVENT

"Humanism," the "ism" associated by the issue of the nature and destiny of man, was described as a possible solvent for the current ills. Professor Phelps noted that the humanistic approach of T. H. Huxley had a bearing on today's state of affairs. For Huxley, man's fears, hopes and dreams, were all in man himself, and man's task was to explore all that nature made available to him with all the capacity given to him by nature.

"Today," said Professor Phelps, "every religion is being reassessed or is reassessing itself—compelled to do so by the knowledge the boys' toy spaceships found in so many rumpus rooms." Supernatural beliefs have lost their conventionally accepted sanctions and religion, for many, no longer offers any comfort. Man has lost his operative definition of God, but hasn't yet come to an operative realization of man.

However, it was indicated that this may not properly be seen-as a loss for man, since in place of the old masochistic morality based on fear and a belief in the hereafter, man is offered "a life for the spirit of man on earth - a life which doesn't need, but need not deny, another life or a surviving entity."

The speaker found it significant that, among informed people, there is, today, less concern about the nature of God than about the nature of the United Nations Assembly.

MILITARISM VS HUMANISM

Unfortunately, "humanism", interpreted as a belief in the worth of man is being blasphemed by militarism. The essence of this "ism" lies in its calculated preparation for the annihilation of man. In past times human continuity was assumed, but now this assumption has been destroyed, and today "man by his own capacities is making blue prints for his own end, because he has failed to discover himself as a man."

Professor Phelps repudiated any possibility that Civil Defence might prevent mafi's destruction describing it merely as "folk magic" and "sheer malignant nonsense" with no utilities except as an "interim public tranquilizer". Nor did he expect too much of diplomats, whom he classed as conniving trained official liars. He suggested that if both communistic and western camps could repair the ravages of their own propaganda there might be a humanistic, rather than a militaristic way for human beings; and indicated that having been failed by the churches, the universities, the law, and the politicians and parties, man might be guided by scientists and military men towards an informed and expanded humanism.

A question period and considerable discussion followed the address.

Professor Phelps was introduced by Mrs. D. L. MacKinnon and thanked by Mrs. R. L. Graham and by the president, Mrs. J. F. Pugh.

During the business meeting which preceded Professor Phelps' address, the club passed a motion that letters signifying the Club's support for a true exemption of $50,000 on all estates for Succession Duty purposes, be sent to Premier Robarts of Ontario, and to the M.L.A.'s for Hastings West and Hastings East.

Professor Phelps suggested that the fact that Succession Duties are so high shows that

Small Talk

By Zena Cherry

The Mounties, a national institution which seems to symbolize Canada to the rest of the world, are changing dog.

To keep up with mobile cruise, the Mounties have pastured most of their horses and taken to planes, corvettes and motorcycles. But there is still empty country and no way to cross it except the hard way, by dogsled. Now the Malemute (sometimes known as Husky) is being replaced by the Siberian Husky, a more tractable and affectionate fellow than the mongrel-pluswolf strain the Mounties have been using since their founding in 1873.

NEW DOG STRAIN

There's a breeding program at Fort Norman, N.W.T., with 50 Siberians and within five years the force expects to have 250 new dogs. After Walt Disney's film, "Nikki, Wild Dog of the North," was finished, Mr. Disney presented the RCMP with 34 Siberians.

Last year the Royal Mounted Police patrolled over 45,000 miles in the north nothings of Canada, via a non-musical ride, the dogsled. From November to March when daylight is only an illusion along the Polar Sea and fogs billow on the Arctic shores, planes aren't much good because oil and grease object to 60-below weather. A dogsled is more trusty transportation. And finally, a few Mounties have survived only because they ate their dogs. Airplanes, they testify, are not as delicious.

Business Women Ask P.M. To Appoint Board to Study Divorce and Abortion Laws

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs asked Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday to appoint royal commissions to bring Canada's divorce and abortion laws "into conformity with the realities of Canadian life."

Six representatives of the 1,700-member federation met the prime minister Tuesday in his office to present an 11-point brief.

Copies of the resolutions were released in the press prior to presentation.

The federation said divorce and annulment laws were "narrow, outdated and illogical, and consequently invite continued fraud upon the courts and Parliament."

An appendix to the resolution noted that "for all practical purposes, adultery is the only ground for divorce in all provinces, excepting Nova Scotia."

NO LEGAL WAY OUT

There was no legal way out of marriage for those whose husbands could not be located or those whose husbands were confined in mental institutions "with the result that commonlaw unions are prevalent," the brief said.

In asking for a royal commission on abortion, the federation said sections of the Criminal Code dealing with the matter were confused, conflicting, outdated, and in certain instances, cruel and unjust.

A royal commission would provide an objective and nonpartisan basis for amending the law.

The federation added that public anxiety was heightened by recent incidences of births of deformed babies after their mothers used the drug thalidomide.

Other requests by the federation included:

1. Income tax exemption up to $1,000 when a woman wage earner must engage paid help to care for the incapacitated, the elderly or the young who depend on her for maintenance and physical care.

2. Changing of the wording of the federal Female Employees Equal Pay Act to "work of comparable character" from "identical or substantially identical work."

The federation said the present wording enables employers to define jobs unfairly and thus pay their women workers less than men workers doing equivalent work without fear of incurring penalties under the present act.

3. Amendment of the Income Tax Act to permit a dependent spouse to earn up to $950 without reduction of the basic married exemption.

4. Repeal of sub sections of the Income Tax Act which disallow as a deduction from taxable income the remuneration paid to a wife when she is employed by her husband and the provision that the wife's salary is added to her husband's income when she is employed by her husband.

5. Provision for taxation relief for death benefits from pensions, annuities and such income rights. The federation said widows now pay double taxation on pensions, annuity or other funds through the Income Tax Act as income and under the Estate Tax Act as property.

The Experts Say

Should Analyze Figure To Choose Best Styles

TORONTO (CP)—"Why don't my clothes ever look like those I see in the fashion magazines?"

Many women, both those who spend a great deal of time designing and sewing their own clothes and those who spend hours shopping for them, have asked themselves this question.

And the answer is simple. Perhaps they have never taken the time to analyze their figure (its good points and its defects), their skin color and their personality.

A woman must consider all these factors in order to choose styles that are becoming to her, says Mrs. Loraine Scott, an instructor in the fashion department at the Ryerson Institute of Technology.

"The ideal figure is balanced in all directions and you should choose your clothes with the aim of bringing your figure back to the ideal." For example, if you are bottom heavy you should choose clothes that will make you look broader in the shoulders to detract from the heaviness.

The structural lines of any garment are most effective for bringing the figure back into balance. "With lines, you can lead the eye up and down or across the figure to any point you may wish to emphasize."

FABRIC IMPORTANT

Long straight vertical lines and panels and the softer more feminine lines of dress extending from neckline to hem lengthen the figure. The woman with the short figure should look for these lines in styling, while a tall woman should look for horizontal and oblique lines which make the figure shorter.

Structural lines should be designed within the silhouette that best suits your figure. The tubular silhouette, such as that given by the straight sheath dress, looks best on the average balanced figure, while the bell silhouette, which widens at the bottom, looks best on the figure that is heavy through the hips.

A woman must be careful not to choose a fabric that will counteract the effects of the line and silhouette she has chosen.

A plump or overweight person should stick to smooth-surfaced fabrics. Files, shaggy materials and heavy tweeds, plaids and prints all add weight to the figure. Sheen surfaces such as satins, which catch the light and reflect it, also add weight to the figure and point up those features which are already prominent.

Any fabric designs, plaids, stripes or prints, should be in proportion to your figure size. For example, a tall, rangy figure looks smart in a large plaid while a petite figure, in the same plaid, would look out of balance.

COLOR ADDS WEIGHT

Colors, just as fabric textures, can make the figure look larger or smaller. The figure looks larger in light, bright colors and smaller in dark, dull colors and this principle can be used to cover up figure faults, says Mrs. Scott. You can minimize the fact that you are top heavy by wearing dark tops and blouses and minimize the size of your hips by wearing dark skirts with light tops.

Knowing whether your skin has an overbalance of red or yellow is a help when choosing colors. A person with a balanced skin can wear almost any color while the person with predominantly yellow skin will not look good in red shades, and the person with predominantly red skin will have difficulty in wearing the yellow and yellow-green shades.

Neutral shades—black, white, brown and their related shades of grey and beige—often tend to drain the color from a person's face and therefore good makeup and accessories are important if these colors are to look smart.

"Personality plays an important part in clothing." If a woman wants to emphasize her gentle-feminine characteristics, she will choose clothes of soft fabrics and colors with curved structural lines. If a woman wishes to stress her aggressive competitive side, she will choose heavier tailored garments with straight structural lines.

W. I. Plans Future Events

FOXBORO — Mrs. A. Calvert was hostess for the November meeting of Foxboro women's Institute with 14 members present.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. C. Bamber, the meeting which opened in the usual manner was in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. R. Lewis. Correspondence was read which included a letter from Miss G. Mowers enclosing the resolutions to be voted on at the area convention and a letter from Mr. S. MacDonald regarding two safety competition; also a letter laid over from the previous meeting, from the Home for the Mentally Retarded Infants, was dealt with and it was decided to again send a donation of $10 to the Home. Mrs. Bamber suggested that each member bring a motif on safety of the December meeting. They are to be used in conjunction with others for the place mat competition.

Mrs. Kilpatrick is to again contact Mrs. Yorke at the Country Home for the names of 20 residents for whom to buy gifts this year. Mrs. C. Hubble and Mrs. W. L. Johnston are to buy gifts for local shut-ins and cards are to be sent to those who are especially shut-in. It was decided to exchange gifts at the December meeting this year. Mrs. Lewis is to be the delegate to the area convention to be held December 4 and 5 with Mrs. Bamber as alternate. The hostess for the December meeting which is to be held Monday December 3, instead of the usual first Tuesday owing to the area convention, is to be Mrs. B. Hollinger.

Mrs. I. Badgley and Mrs. A. Mann held their first meeting of the 4-H Club on November 12 with the remaining meetings to be held after examination time.

"Canada in the World Community" was read by Mrs. Mann followed by "True Remembrance" from the Legionaire. The latter was an article on how the people of Holland are still remembering the Canadians who died during World War 2, by caring for their graves. A letter was read by Mrs. W. L. Johnston followed by an interesting quiz by Mrs. L. Lewis.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time enjoyed.

DUTCH SANTA—A Dutch-style Santa Claus helps eight-year-old Maureen Gerber of Montreal sample a giant St. Nicholas Day cookie aboard the liner Ryndam in Montreal harbor. The liner carried more than 1,000 lbs. of Dutch cookies and candies, donated by the Holland-America Line to Dutch-Canadian clubs in Montreal, Toronto, and Winnipeg for St. Nicholas Day parties early in December. It was also decided to cater for the Denyes—Bradshaw wedding in December. Mrs. C. Hubble, Mrs. C. Bamber, Mrs. W. Rombough and Mrs. N. Bean are the committee in charge of arrangements.

Miss Dora Cook offered to buy anthem holders for the choir.

As a cash box is a great convenience to the treasurer it was decided that Mrs. Bean buy same. It was also decided the project for 1963 be further improvements on the kitchen. Since there are now sufficient funds to repay the loan used when the new chairs were bought for the Sunday School, Mrs. Bean was instructed to pay the loan.

It was decided that the new "Stewardship." Mrs. C. Bamber dealt with a chapter from the book "Stewardship of Today's Women." This was followed by "Test of the Three Gates." read by Mrs. L. Lewis; "Communion," read by Mrs. J. Ewing, and "True Remembrance" read "The Legionaire," read by Mrs. Hubble.

Nineteen members reported on a roll call of sick calls, with 32 sick calls having been made.

REAL CO-OPERATIVE

ROSEMERE, Que. (CP)—The Rosemere Co-operative Nursery School in this northern Montreal suburb is a truly co-operative effort. Nursery school specialist Mrs. F. W. Martin is relieved by 20 local mothers in shifts. Local fathers contributed the community hall and built the school equipment.

Relatives, Friends Fete Young Couples

WHITE'S DISTRICT — A number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bilham on Tuesday evening to honor their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Murrie Kleinsteuber, who were recently married.

Mrs. Eric Gardiner was in charge of the program. During the evening, all joined in singing, "The More We Get Together" and "Oh Where Have You Been, Murrie Boy," as well as other popular numbers. Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson read "Shopping With My Wife" and Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe read "The Red-Headed Ruler."

Sylvia and Murrie were asked to take seats of honor and Mrs. Albert Jones read an address on behalf of the community, presenting many miscellaneous gifts to the couple who were showered with confetti when the decorated parasol above the table was tipped.

Murrie thanked all for the lovely gifts and asked all to visit them in their new home.

The hostess served a sumptuous lunch and all departed with good wishes for the happy couple.

Baking Tempo Increases In Moore Kitchen

by Mary Moore

Anyone that walks through our door has to be willing to taste the stuff we are making. They are too.

This morning we made four things: currant cookies from Wales, cocoanut cake from Margaret Duddy in Victoria, a new orange and raisin steamed pudding and some foolproof macaroons that do not stick.

The tempo of our baking always increases at this time of year for most cooks expect to make their own fruit cakes, cookies and puddings because they like to and because it is all part of the Christmas fun.

Some of the ingredients are expensive so we always strive to experiment carefully so that none of your ingredients or efforts are wasted.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Blade Roast of Beef (see Monday); Horseradish; Creamed Onions; Kernel Corn; Spinach, Cauliflower; and Leaf Lettuce Salad with Mayonnaise; Ambrosia (see Tuesday); Coffee.

(Although I received an unsigned message today calling me "arrogant" I am taking you to throw away a recipe for Melting Moments when I gave you a new and improved one).

The first thing I will give is the Welsh Currant Cookies. These call for rolled oats and are delicious and inexpensive. I predict you will make dozens of them, especially if you have a houseful of cookie gobblers.

These are good all-purpose cookies for any time of year but they will serve to stretch your more expensive shortbreads and fancy cookies.

WELSH CURRANT COOKIES:

1 cup soft margarine, 2 cups quick-cooking rolled oats, 1 cup sugar, ¾ cup sifted all purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ cup dried currants, ½ cup milk.

Cream soft margarine in a large mixing bowl. Blend in rolled oats and sugar. Add flour, baking soda, salt, ground cloves and cinnamon. Stir in currants and milk; mix very well. (Eleanor used her hands to mix this.) Shape into small balls about 1" in diameter. Place on greased baking sheets, about 3" apart, as they will spread somewhat (see note below). Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 12 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Remove from baking sheets and cool. Makes about 5 dozen

NOTE:

If desired cookie dough may be chilled 1 hour and then shaped into 1" balls. If so bake them at 400 deg. Fahr. for 12 minutes. These cookies will be higher and a little browner. I like them better.

Tomorrow I will give you the recipe for a "simply delicious" cocoanut cake.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

'UTTING YOUR BEST FOOT FORWARD

Keeping your feet planted firmly on the ground can be a social as well as a professional asset.

But, judging from the leggy visitas that may be observed on many social occasions, it would seem that there are more unattractive knees and attendant bad manners on display than ever.

Perhaps it's the trend to informality in modern living, which, in itself, is a perfectly acceptable manner of behavior in these so-called enlightened times. But informality can be carried too far, even to the point of boredom.

Many a hostess has blanched as she watched a female guest plop down on an expensively-upholstered sofa or chair and nonchalantly bring up her weary legs and tuck them under her.

Where, asks the hostess (to herself, of course,) is the femininity of yore?

It still peeps through occasionally, but often in a hidden manner. This happens when the woman guest becomes copacetous of her dirty shoes and carefully removes them before hoisting her stockinged feet to cushioned comfort.

Men aren't exactly paragons in this area, either — not by a long shot. While they're not apt to use a soft chair as impromptu stamping grounds, too many of the boys turn out to be "arm wavers." Definition: tossing a leg over the arm of a chair then waving the attached foot in the air as they talk.

Aside from the esthetic aspects and the wear and tear on furniture, the sight of guests putting their feet where they don't belong is as socially myopic as the spectacle of the rugged individualist who shows up at a dance all togged out in his tennis clothes.

Good appearance is an essential part of being a good guest. The person who dresses well and otherwise is aware of the front he presents in a social gathering, destroys his public image when he uses a chair as a hitching-post.

Beside those already mentioned, other anti-social sitting habits the well-mannered guest shies away from include letting feet around the legs of a chair and propping them up on the rungs. The extremely considerate guest also tries to remember to sit so that shoes won't rub against the bottom flounce of an upholstered chair or sofa, so there's no danger that the fabric finish might leave a hard-to-remove stain on the fabric.

Learning to curb one's feet in company can produce great social dividends, just as learning to keep one's feet on the ground in business usually helps produce a greater taxable income.

Moslems Set Ceiling Price On Courtship

DAKAR, Senegal (Reuters)—The high cost of wives in the Cape Verde area of Senegal, which includes the capital of Dakar, has led the leaders of the Moslem religious community to set a ceiling price on courtship.

A new pact provide that no man shall pay more than a total of the equivalent of $120 for a wife, including the dowry and the marriage preparations. The cost drops to $50 for a divorcee or a widow.

The pact cannot be enforced legally, and it is by no means certain it will be observed by the fathers of the bride in a country where the groom and not the girl's family pays the dowry and wedding expenses.

There is in fact not just one dowry but three separate ones, each of which the groom traditionally pays, in addition to footing the bill for the trousseau and various celebrations which mark the four principal stages of the Moslem courtship and marriage.

BEGINS COURTSHIP

The first dowry is paid when the courtship begins.

The second, which should not be less than twice the amount of the first, is distributed among the bride' family at the mosque just before the pronouncement of the marriage.

The groom pays the third and final dowry when he takes his bride from her home for good.

The biggest expense, however, is the trousseau, rarely valued at less than 10 times the amount of the first dowry.

There are also parties to pay for: The first on the day of the marriage, the second on the day after the marriage when the trousseau is officially opened and the third when the bride leaves home to join her husband.

The total cost of the whole procedure varies, but it is common for it to equal two full years of the groom's earning capacity.

New Wpg. Snooker Parlor Exclusively for Women

WINNIPEG (CP)—The gals have stormed snooker strongbold of the men.

A new snooker parlor has been opened in Winnipeg exclusively for women.

Owner Jack Molitil, recently retired after 12 years as a recreation director in the RCAF, is pleased with the reception his venture has been accorded.

And his customers are equally enthusiastic.

There's air conditioning and even a baby-sitting service for mothers with small children.

GIVES LESSONS

Because few of his customers have had any experience in the intricacies of a carom or off-in, Mr. Molitil gives instruction every afternoon for two hours.

During this time he explains the various types of game that can be played, how to chalk a cue and use a rest as well as the approved manner of breaking the rack and holding a run.

"The game takes a little brawn, no muscle and no special equipment or clothing," he says.

"It's a relaxing game for women.

"It's time they had their innings.

"It's nice to think that now husbands can accompany their wives for a little evening's play."

And besides, the game has class.

The Queen Mother has had occasion to open parlors in England with the quiet admission she had shot a few games herself and Mme. Vanier, wife of the governor-general, tried a few shots while opening a parlor last spring in Ottawa.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Leonard A.: I feel badly because I can't do more for my children.

Hugh D.: And I feel badly because I'm spoiling mine. You're better off.

Leonard A.: My brother-in-law Hugh is an extremely wealthy man. I took a chance last week and asked him to lend me the money to send my three boys to camp next summer. It's a matter of $2,000, counting trunks and uniforms. To my surprise he refused and read me a lecture on how it would be the worst thing to make camp so easy for my kids, going into debt and all.

Why are my children so different from his own? His go to private school, take horseback riding lessons, spend week end and holidays on a 60-acre country estate, see every sports event and show in town. As for mine, I'm glad if I can cough up their modest allowance each week. Even so, they must do odd jobs to cover their school expenses.

Hugh D.: Len wouldn't be so envious of me and my children if he knew the whole story. My daughter is undergoing psychotherapy and the analyst has also been seeing my wife and me.

The trouble seems to be that things come too easy to my children, and so, when a setback comes they can't take it. My daughter went into a depression because she was refused admission to an acting class, and also because her favorite boy friend switched to another teenager. The analyst traces our trouble with the kids to overprotection.

I can lend Len the money if he insists. But as a father I'd be better off in his boots. If I try to make my children work for luxuries, they know it's just an act!

The Council: Into each life some rain must fall, and does fall, Hugh. So you can lend Len that money without worrying about his children growing soft. But your point about the uses of adversity is well taken. It should comfort Len when he must say honestly to his children, "I can't give you the money for that. Try to earn it yourselves."

Conversely, Hugh has a tough time developing a sense of "can't-have" in his children, who may only see cutsacks as in his refusals to pay up for anything they want. Nevertheless he must refuse in the interests of their optimum development.

Why? Because people who are never subjected to stress, who are always sheltered and shielded, are unable to build up important defenses and resistance. Previously this was accepted as a theory for both physical and mental health. Now comes a physician with proof that in severe mental illness, a certain protective element in the blood is lacking.

Dr. Jacques Gottlieb of the Lafayette Clinic of Detroit, Mich., has isolated a factor called "AFP" which is needed in the blood to respond to stress. Schizophrenics, he finds, don't have it. His present research is based upon the idea that people who are never put to the "test" just never build up anti-stress mechanisms.

Having real, not phony, obstacles is an all-right condition, Len. Your children's may be financial, Hugh's emotional. But facing them honestly is an essential first step toward health.

The value of lacks, we offer an analogy. When interviewed, one of America's leading landscape artists said that he perfected the art of gardening because he had grown up in "the worldliness of a treeless existence."

Europe Now Turning Into Middle Class Society Says AP German Bureau Chief

In Europe's boozing economy the rich still have their castles on the Rhine—but the old poor have also struck it rich. Richard O'Regan, Associated Press bureau chief in Germany, discusses the new look in this second of a four-part series.

By RICHARD O'REGAN

PARIS (AP) — Europe, not long ago a continent of industrial robber barons and decadent aristocracy facing an unruly poor, today is turning into a huge middle class society.

"Western Europe is becoming socially democratized," says Hendrik Brugmans, a prominent Belgian historian. "The age-old class struggle is done with. Nobody is ready to man the barricades today."

Workers who a generation ago muttered dire threats as they walked by the houses of their employers now whir by on scooters or in Volkswagens and apparently give class warfare a rare thought.

"I have a TV, a washing machine and a vacuum cleaner," said Andre Demeure, a Belgian miner. "My father feared he and all would go hungry. I have full social security and I don't see what more can me happier."

What has caused this change? Prosperity, advanced technology, the drive toward a united Europe, enlightened new attitudes of business and constitutional democracy in most countries of Western Europe.

Demeure's son thinks he might want to go to a university. A generation ago European universities were for the upper classes only. Now they are seething with young men and girls from all the former classes of society.

CONCEPTS CHANGE

In some areas, the entire concept of the "working class" is dying out.

"Everybody used to work for a wage and had no title of some sort used to consider himself working class," said a member of Germany's socialist party. "Now anybody with the slightest skill who can furnish an apartment considers himself middle class. The only working class man any more is the man in with the pick and shovel."

All this does not mean that class consciousness has disappeared from Western Europe. The man with the title of "baron," "doctor" or "engineer" still gets plenty of respect.

Every official or functionary still insists on his own office and a battalion of protecting secretaries.

And while Europe's workers are materially better off than they ever have been, the rich have become richer. Some economists say the rich proportionately their gain has been much higher than the worker.

France's famous "deux cent familles" (200 families), who largely ran French industry before the war, have lost some of their possessions by nationalization. But those who kept their holdings are said to be fabulously wealthy today.

In Germany some 70 deputies in the German Parliament are said to be direct representatives of the great Rhineland-Ruhr magnates.

WEALTH SPREAD

On the other hand, wealth is less restricted to a minority group. There are thousands of new industrialists in Europe.

The new class of highly paid industrial managers, commercial executives and technical directors.

In Germany, for instance, the number of "rich" individuals (with personal property of more than $250,000) has doubled in the past four years, it is said.

But the rich and the new rich have a problem: How to spend their money in a new world where the former luxuries of their class now are available to the mass of Europeans.

Solutions vary from country to country.

Many prudent Frenchmen are said to hide their money. Under French law, they can be taxed on appearances.

"I would never own my own home," said a provincial French businessman in Strasbourg. "I'm a flat, my wife's a maid by the hour and I don't put money into the bank because the tax authorities can inspect it."

Many Germans, on the other hand, live it up with fine homes, private airplanes and long holiday trips. The rest of Germany says they pack off to Swiss banks.

Will Continue Selling Wheat To Red China

- - Hamilton

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada hopes to continue selling wheat to Red China, Agriculture Minister Hamilton said Tuesday.

He also called for efforts by provincial governments and dairy farmers — chiefly in Ontario and Quebec — to check dairy surpluses.

And he said the time has arrived when he should be making recommendations to the cabinet about a firm Eastern Canada feed grain policy — using Prairie grain. He gave no indication, however, of what he has in mind.

The statements came at the annual agriculture conference of the federal and provincial governments, always attended by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the National Farmers Union.

GIVES FARM OUTLOOK

The traditional farm outlook report prepared by federal authorities forecast record cash income—not including expenses—of more than $3,000,000,000 for 1962.

But it expected farm costs would continue to rise this year and probably next.

Thus, the actual take-home pay for farmers in so-called realized net income would be lower in 1962 than in 1961 — $1,340,000,000 compared with $1,361,000,000.

Mr. Hamilton, who sounded the only reference to Red China grain trade, said he realized it was a controversial question because of the Chinese attack on India.

Union Hits Stumbling Block On Jail Guards

TORONTO (CP)—A campaign by the National Union of Public Employees (CLC) to organize jail guards in Ontario has hit a stumbling block in the form of legislation that permits municipalities to pass their own bylaws excluding their employees from provisions of Ontario's Labor Relations Act.

But the union cited a section of the Reforms Institutions Act Tuesday which says no bylaw relating to a jail has any force until approved by the minister.

The Labor Relations Board—which heard the case Tuesday—must rule on the argument.

The case dealing with Norfolk County jail guards was argued for the Union by Patrick O'Keefe. D. M. Cooper, counsel for the county, held the statute did not apply to employees.

The union has organized guards in 10 jails in Ontario. It has been certified by the board for four of the jails, but in six other cases, the municipalities or counties have invoked Section 39 of the Labor Relations Act which permits them to withdraw their employees from the jurisdiction of the act.

BIG TRADE RISE

Volume of trade between Russia and Czechoslovakia rose nearly six times between 1948 and 1962.

Traditional U.S. Trade With Canada Is Whittled Down by Austerity Plan

WASHINGTON (CP)—U.S. authorities expressed concern Tuesday over the impact of Canada's austerity program on American trade this year as figures for the first nine months show the traditional U.S. trade surplus has been whittled down.

The commerce department estimated the U.S. trade surplus with Canada in the January-September period of 1962 declined to $300,000,000 from $419,000,000 in the similar 1961 period.

In the July-September quarter, after Canadian trade restrictions went into effect, the U.S. surplus fell to $6,000,000 from $26,000,000 in the previous year.

Officials suggested the quarterly figures for the April-September period may reflect an abnormal situation as Canadian customers probably rushed purchases to avoid the import curbs, thereby reducing their normal demands after the restrictions went into effect June 24.

However, the commerce department is perturbed by the balance-of-trade trend and predicts the American surplus in trade with Canada for the full year may be sharply below the $676,000,000 surplus of 1961.

American exports to Canada totalled $923,000,000 in January-March, jumped to $1,175,000,000 in April-June and then fell to $940,000,000 in July-September. However, in each quarter of 1962, shipments to Canada were higher than in the similar 1961 period.

Canadian 1962 shipments to the U.S., which totalled $809,000,000 in January-March, also rose to $857,000,000 in April-June and then fell to $834,000,000 in July - September. Gains also were made in each quarter over the similar 1961 periods.

Accompanying the decline in its traditional surplus in Canadian trade was the American drop in its over-all payments balance caused partly by large-scale credit and dollar loans given Canada to help protect the Canadian dollar exchange rate.

Debits Against Banks Highest On Record

MONTREAL (CP) — Debits against Canadian bank accounts in October totalled $32,552,100,000, the Canadian Bankers Association reported today. The total, for the first time exceeding $30,000,000,000, is the highest on record.

Soviet Army Returned to Normal Status

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government today cancelled the state of combat readiness it proclaimed in the Caribbean because of the Cuban crisis.

Moscow radio said the Soviet Council of Ministers had rescinded Defence Minister Rodion Malinovsky to return his forces to normal duties because the United States had lifted its arms blockade of Cuba.

The order cancelled one issued Oct. 23, at the height of the Cuban crisis, that returned the defence ministry cancelled all military leaves and halted discharges of servicemen in senior age groups in the strategic rocket forces, anti-aircraft units and submarine fleet.

The order today also said all Soviet submarines should return to their normal bases.

Soviet Marshal Andrei Grechko, commander of the Warsaw pact military forces, also cancelled similar combat readiness orders he issued to his forces on Oct. 23. Grechko's order went to the armed forces of the other East European Communist nations which with the Soviet Union form the Warsaw pact alliance, the Communist counterpart of NATO.

SHOOT GUNMAN

MONTREAL (CP) — A gunman was fatally shot by police Tuesday night and a companion severely wounded following a holdup at a drug store off midtown Rachel Street. The dead man was identified as William Harper, 36, whom police said had a criminal record.

CBC Courtesy Statement Accepted by One Sponsor Of Grey Cup Game on Dec. 1

OTTAWA (CP) — Victor F. MacLean, president of Nabob Foods Limited, one of the contracted sponsors for the CTV Grey Cup television broadcast, says commercially considerations are not significant in comparison with public interest in the Dec. 1 football classic.

Mr. MacLean's comment was made in a telegram sent Tuesday to CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet.

The CBC, issuing the text Tuesday night, said the Vancouver firm has accepted a CBC proposal involving "courtesy announcements" during broadcast of the Toronto game on the publicly-owned corporation's network.

A CBC spokesman said the corporation has discussed the proposal at length personally with Mr. MacLean and that he has confirmed his company's willingness to accept the "courtesy announcement" proposal.

The CBC said it has not received a telegram confirming the understanding.

Mr. MacLean's telegram said that "every Canadian should be able to see the Grey Cup."

"Commercial considerations, however costly to Nabob, are not significant in comparison with public interest in the game."

He added that his personal opinion was that courtesy mention on the CBC network is "inadequate recompense for the financial commitment paid to the football club for the rights."

The Vancouver executive then told Mr. Ouimet, "in as much as your proposal contains what you intend to carry the game we agree to abide by the rulings of the two government agencies in order to bring this filibuster to a rapid harmonious conclusion."

A CBC statement said Nabob is one of the "contracted sponsors for the CTV Grey Cup and regular season football broadcast in Western Canada."

The TV rights for the Grey Cup game now are held by the sponsors. The two others, British American Oil Company Limited and Labatt's beer, advertise in both east and west, and have not indicated whether they will go along with the CBC proposal.

The CBC offer is to provide the CTV sponsors of the Grey Cup game with "courtesy credit" during CBC's broadcast of the game. The sponsors would be allowed to buy commercial time on the pre- and after-game programs.

Technically, such an arrangement would be an infraction of a Board of Broadcast Governors' regulation aimed at preventing CBC time to carry the rival CTV television network's telecast complete with CTV advertising content.

Last Thursday, the CBC announced it intends to broadcast the game on its television network minus commercials, which would violate the BBG ruling.

However, BBG Chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart has said that the BBG will not let the regulation stand in the way of any satisfactory arrangement involving all parties—CBC, CTV, and the sponsors—provided normal TV coverage of the game is guaranteed.

United States is No Hurry To Take Canadian Uranium

WASHINGTON (CP) — Barring a change in the world military situation, the United States probably will not have much need for Canadian uranium in the 1966-70 period, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's top buyer said Tuesday.

"We've got more than we can handle now and we're in no hurry for deliveries on uranium we've already agreed to buy," said Kenneth Davis, the commission's raw materials director.

He explained in an interview some of the implications of the commission' new plan to stretch out purchases from U.S. uranium producers.

"There may be a growing and substantial market for uranium eventually for civilian atomic reactors but I don't see much need in the 1966-70 period for U.S. government purchases of Canadian uranium, unless a drastic change in our situation changes."

The commission decided three years ago to ditch options to buy additional quantities of Canadian uranium in the 1963-66 period and instead proposed a stretch-out so that existing delivery contracts could be deferred and spread over a longer period, until 1966, to keep more Canadian producers in business.

PRODUCERS IN DOUBT

This has left Canadian producers in doubt as to what new buyers they might expect from the U.S. government after 1966.

Johnson observed that Canada has an agreement to ship 12,000 tons of uranium to Britain and that the growing market for commercial atomic reactors should expand as electricity produced from atomic plants becomes more competitive with other means of power generation.

The commission's major hope of sustaining U.S. government markets for uranium was in the defence department's expected needs for nuclear weapons. Apparently the department has indicated its requirements for sufficient nuclear bombs to meet its forecast defence needs.

Asked whether he might suggest a further thinning out of the Canadian stretch-out beyond 1966 to reduce the impact of a possible complete cut-off, Johnson said it was not up to him to make such a suggestion, "but as I have just said, we are in no hurry to take deliveries."

Court Rejects Turpin's Appeal Hangs Dec. 11

OTTAWA (CP)—Ronald Turpin, 29, of Toronto lost his last court bid Tuesday to escape the gallows for the shotgun murder of Toronto police constable Frederick John Nash earlier this year.

The Supreme Court of Canada in a unanimous decision rejected Turpin's appeal against his conviction of capital murder without calling Crown Counsel J. R. Austin of Toronto to reply to Patrick Hart, counsel for Turpin.

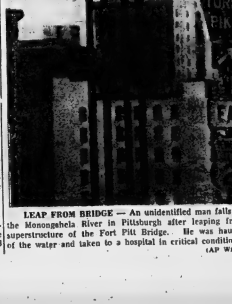
Turpin was convicted at Toronto last June 13 and sentenced to be hanged Sept. 25. The date of execution was delayed until Dec. 11 to permit his appeal to the Supreme Court.

His last hope of escaping the death penalty will come when the federal cabinet reviews his case. Cabinet will determine whether the death sentence will be carried out or whether Turpin's sentence will be commuted to life imprisonment.

Mr. Hart based most of his appeal on grounds that Mr. Justice G. G. Gale of the Supreme Court of Ontario had misdirected the jury which found Turpin guilty of capital murder.

REJECTS APPEAL

In rejecting Turpin's appeal Tuesday, Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin of the Supreme Court said "it will be unnecessary to call upon you Mr. Austin."



"We have heard all that Mr. Hart had to say and we are all of the opinion that the chief justice of Ontario put the matter correctly and the appeal is therefore dismissed."

Mr. Hart contended that Turpin was arrested illegally and that the shooting occurred while he was resisting an unlawful assault from being killed by Nash. He contended that the evidence showed that the first shots were fired by Nash.

HIJACK CIGARETTES

MONTREAL (CP)—Hijackers escaped with $78,500 worth of cigarettes Tuesday, leaving a carriage company truck-driver beaten and bound in the trunk section of his vehicle, police Gerard Dominguez, 24, told police he wasn't sure whether two or three men were in the gang.

12 Restrictive Guidelines On News Now Removed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Tuesday night that if politics set up during the Cuban crisis to protect U.S. security were used to restrict the free flow of news "well, then we will change those procedures."

Then the president announced at his press conference that the administration was lifting at least 12 restrictive guidelines it set up in media handling information pertaining to such things as troops movements and other matters involving national security.

He offered "no apologies" for concealing the Cuban crisis at the start.

At the Pentagon, the first official reaction to Kennedy was the president's comment about lifting information restrictions as applied to the requests to reporters to abide by the 12 guidelines.

A spokesman said that, while he had not had an opportunity to study Kelly Kennedy's answer to a press conference question, he did not believe it meant that the restrictions placed on military personnel in discussing matters involving national security would be lifted.

IF THEY GET IT

This apparently meant that reporters now were free to write about previously forbidden topics—if they could get the information.

The spokesman said that "there has been no change yet in our own guidelines, internally."

The guidance was issued Oct. 24 to all military and civilian personnel of the defence department. It listed 12 subjects which could not be discussed because such information would be "considered contrary to the national interest."

The subjects included discussion of plans for deployment of strategic or tactical forces; estimates of U.S. weapon capability; intelligence data on plans or capabilities of the Communists; information concerning missile readiness and distribution, and official estimates of vulnerability of U.S. installations to military action of sabotage.

Kennedy was told at his press conference that his administration didn't want to indicate to the Soviet Union or anyone else who might be an adversary the extent of the information it might have—but it had determined what U.S. policy would be.

"I have no apologies for that," Kennedy said.

One target of criticism has been the action of the defence department in directing its various departments requiring officials to report on conversations with reporters.

Kennedy said the government will consider changing state and defence department rules which reporters regard as hampering, although the president said he was not convinced yet that these have truly hurt the flow of news.

He spoke out strongly, however, against divulging anything about what he called sensitive intelligence or the methods by which it is received.

Cross-Canada Survey

Widespread Rains, Cooler Weather Are Credited With Declines in Forest Fires

By DENNIE ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In terms of burned timber 1962 likely will be remembered as the year after the worst year on record in Canada.

A Cross-Canada Survey by the Canadian Press shows most provinces reported a decline this year in the number of forest fires, acres burned, and cost of firefighting.

The federal forestry department estimated total loss at 453,000 acres when the fire season was about over, compared with the record 7,074,000 acres laid waste in 1961. Average seasonal loss from 1953 to 1961 was 1,795,000 acres.

In monetary terms, the final toll this year is expected to be under $5,000,000, a far cry from the $84,303,000 last year and well below the $9,686,000 in 1960.

Widespread rains and cooler temperatures were credited with the sharp decline in forest losses this year, one of the least costly in Canada's recent history.

QUEBEC HARDER HIT

Only Quebec reported an increase over last year in both the number of fires and the total acreage burned. Ontario had more fires this year than in 1961, but they consumed less than two per cent of the near record 1,134,728 acres left blackened last year.

Wet weather in the Atlantic provinces helped hold the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia fire loss near the seasonal average, while Newfoundland reported only about 16,000 acres of timber burned, compared with the record 440,000 acres in 1961.

The Western provinces from Manitoba to British Columbia all reported sharp decreases in their firefighting bills and timber acreage burned.

There were fewer than 5,000 fires reported this year across Canada, compared with the 9,665 fires which in 1961 erased the previous all-time acreage loss set in 1953 by about three-thirds that number of blazes.

By late season this year, British Columbia had spent $398,000 to control about 1,400 fires, compared with the $3,743,000 expended to battle 4,200 fires which had broken out to the same date in 1961. Firefighting costs last year finally rose to a record $4,500,000.

There had been 3,387 fires reported compared with 4,434 at the same date in 1961.

ALBERTA'S BEST YEAR

Alberta fire officials hoped the final 1962 tally might set a record low for burned acreage — a dramatic reversal from last year, when a record 810 fires burned over a total of 200,000 acres, including about $2,500,000 worth of merchantable timber.

A late-season total of 221 fires this year had burned about 4,300 woodless acres. Largest set of 1962 fires in Alberta burned about 200 acres in the Swan Hills, 125 miles northwest of Edmonton. The blaze was fed by petroleum from a ruptured feeder line.

An official breakdown of the causes of 307 Alberta fires showed lightning touched off 45 per cent, industrial operations 16, campers and settlers eight, incendiarism 7.5 and railway operations 10.

Saskatchewan reported a drop in the number of fires, acreage burned and the cost of fire control. By late summer the fire-fighting bill was less than 10 per cent of the $1,500,000 total for 1961.

Comparative figures showed 272 fires had burned 9,400 acres, including 1,000 acres of merchantable timber, this year in the same period which last year saw 507 fires consume 1,900,000 acres, of which 130,000 contained merchantable timber.

EASIER TO FIGHT

Manitoba's chief forestry officer has predicted that the province's firefighting bill will be far less than the $1,300,000 spent in 1961 to combat 707 fires. With the fire season nearly over, A. W. Brains said 1962 expenses were about $300,000.

Less than half the number of fires this year were confined to about 200,000 acres, compared with the total 1961 loss of 2,600,000 acres—more than double the total for any other previous year.

Mr. Brains said good rains and cooler temperatures held fire danger down. However, this allowed a heavier concentration of men and equipment against individual fires for more effective control and a drop in the area burned.

The number of reported fires edged up slightly in Ontario this year, but the total acreage loss dropped to about 13,200, compared with 1961's total of 1,184,725—worst loss since 1956.

There were 1,329 fires by late season in Ontario, a few more than the annual average of 1,296 and last year's 1,305.

Ontario fire control officer Lionel Affleck described the province's fire loss this year as satisfactory by comparison with 1961. "A year like last year happens only once in a lifetime."

FIRES WITHIN REACH

Main reason for the drop in the size of fires, Mr. Affleck said, was the accessibility of most of this year's fires. In 1961, more than 90 per cent of the fires were in areas accessible only by aircraft. Heavier rainfall and more general use of aerial water bombing aided in better fire control.

Quebec, the exception to the rule in both 1961 and 1962, lost more than 200,000 forest acres to more than 1,000 fires this year, compared with a 67,241 loss to 850 fires in 1961, considered one of the best years on record for the province.

Quebec forestry officials consider a loss of less than 100,000 acres, or one-tenth of one per cent of protected territory, to be satisfactory.

Worst forest fire year for Quebec was 1941, when 1,580,000 acres burned. A record 3,257 fires were reported in 1953.

New Brunswick had about 300 fires and 60,000 acres burned, most of them small in area, for a season total near the annual average. Acreage and value estimates are not available until later in the year.

Although the number of fires this year was about the same as in 1961, officials expected the loss to be considerably less since heavier rains this year confined outbreaks to smaller areas.

Last year 320 forest fires blackened 14,700 acres and cost New Brunswick $180,000 in timber damage and $375,000 in fire-fighting expenses. Record loss for the province in this century was 184,000 acres in 341 fires in flared across 184,000 acres and destroyed $1,433,000 worth of timber.

Despite a wet, cold summer Nova Scotia had 400 fires by late season this year, covering 4,000 acres including 650 acres of salable timber. Loss was estimated at $12,000, compared with the $17,000 when 3,500 acres burned in 1961. Worst year on record for Nova Scotia was 1920 when 77,000 acres burned with estimated damage of $130,000.

RULES TIGHTENED

Wet weather and a major publicity campaign were credited with holding Newfoundland's 1962 forest loss to 16,000 acres, following the record loss of 448,000 acres of merchantable timber in 1961.

A forestry department fire prevention campaign this year placed restrictions on lighting campfires and smoking in the woods. Fires now are permitted only in provincial parks under official supervision, or on gravel beaches within four feet of water and 200 feet from the woods fringe.

About 150 fires had been reported in Labrador, on the Bay of Bulls area 20 miles south of St. John's, flared across 12,000 acres. Most of the other fires were small—between one and 30 acres in size—with a few in the 500-acre range.

BIG DROP FROM RECORD — Total value of burned forests and costs of firefighting is expected to be under $5,000,000 this year, a sharp decline from the record $84,303,000 in 1961 and $9,635,000 in 1960. Graph shows total annual loss since 1954. (CP Newsmap).

Income Tax Explained

Written and Designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Department

Many taxpayers are aware that they are allowed a 20 percent tax credit on dividends, and also get a depletion allowance as well, on certain Canadian stocks. They will try to take the same credits on United States stocks, and when they find that the Income Tax Assessor has disallowed these claims, they will immediately demand to know the reason why.

In such cases, regarding the 20 percent tax credit on dividends, there is no excuse, as it states on the return that this dividend tax credit applies only to the corporations which are Canadian owned, and taxable in Canada. If the taxpayer had thoroughly read the return, and the accompanying instruction sheet he would have seen this.

There is some excuse in regard to the depletion allowance on United States mining stock prior to December, 1958 there was a depletion allowance of 15 percent on United States dividends, but this was repealed by order in council, applicable to the returns filed for the year 1959.

Do not claim any depletion allowance or dividend tax credit on income received from United States sources. United States T3 slips are green in color whereas the Canadian slips are pink. When in doubt contact your local Income Tax Office or a letter addressed to me in care of this newspaper, will get you the correct information. For all personal replies a self addressed and stamped envelope should be enclosed.

Question? Why was the depletion allowance of 15 percent disallowed on my U.S. mining stocks?

Answer: The tax regulation which allowed this deduction was repealed in December 1958.

Question? Can I claim a dividend tax credit of 20 percent on Hudson's Bay Company, Famous Players Canada, and International Petroleum?

Answer: No. None of these companies qualify as tax paying Canadian Corporations.

Five Types of Reaction To Disaster Reviewed in Publication by Doctor

OTTAWA (CP)—Picture your own community after a major disaster such as nuclear attack — fanned, helpless mass: there is panic and looting.

How forget it. That notion is sheer hogwash, say psychologists who have studied how people behave in such a situation. They attribute the idea to fiction writers.

But what really happens? The leading literature on the subject is reviewed in a publication of the federal Emergency Measures Organization by Dr. Morgan Martin, chief of the mental health division of the national health department.

SOME FEEL NAUSEA

Quoting an American study, Dr. Martin lists these five types of reactions to disaster:

1. "The great majority" of people show the obvious signs of disturbance, depending on the kind of disaster. Some of them may just tremble a bit and sweat a lot, or feel weak or nauseated. Clear thinking may be difficult for a while. But most of these people regain their composure quickly.

2. Blind flight, individual panic—all judgment seems to disappear, to be replaced by an unreasoning attempt to flee. The psychologists say this group is impossible to rescue. It could set off general panic, and thus must be segregated and restrained.

3. The depressed reaction. Many people just act as if numbed. They may sit or stand in the midst of utter chaos, or addressed to me in care of seemingly unaware of the situation and devoid of any emotional reaction to it. They can't help themselves without guidance.

4. Some of the disaster victims will show the effects of a frenzy of activity. "They appear to flee into an unreal confidence of their ability."

5. Then there are the bodily reactions. Some people get what is called "conversion hysteria" in which for psychological—not physical reasons—they are unable to see, or hear or speak or move an arm or leg. They aren't faking. They are just as disabled as if they were physically hurt.

ACTIONS DECEIVING

Dr. Martin says any one disaster victim may show some features of more than one category at the same time, or at successive stages of his reaction.

What of that community reaction?

The great problem, say the experts, is "social phenomenon." Families and close friends are separated.

"To an outside observer the initial behavior of persons in a disastrous area is likely to appear completely irrational, chaotic and confused. In the physical devastation surrounding him, the observer sees what appears to be aimless, random, uncontrolled or conflicting activity on the part of the survivors.

"It is this lack of uniformity in action that often leads the outside observer to the erroneous conclusion that the population has 'panicked.' What the outside observer is witnessing is not panic," but social disorganization."

Wholesale panic is not a common finding in the larger communities in disasters, Dr. Morgan writes.

Evidence from Halifax, Hamburg, Hiroshima and Nagasaki shows that there was some immediate and large-scale exodus. But more typical is "momentary escape, return and purposeless activity."

Dr. Morgan adds a postscript about panic. Flight, he says, is more often orderly than disorderly or panic-stricken. It often is the only rational choice for a person who wants to live. And it should not be equated with cowardice.

. . . TRANSPLANT KIDNEY

LONDON (Reuters)—Doctors Monday night successfully transplanted the kidney from an Egyptian woman to save the life of her 12-year-old daughter. Surgeons grafted the kidney from Mrs. Mazida El Kazzy, 32, to her daughter Magda in a 7½-hour operation at London's Hammersmith Hospital.

Herring, Boney Little Fish, As a Dinner Dish Has Seriously Lost Ground

By ERA DRYSDALE

HALIFAX (CP)—In the eternal story of the sea, there's a word to be said for herring, the bony little fish with a vast and unrealized potential.

Generations of pioneers along North America's Atlantic coast treated the herring as a staple food, and Canadians catch more herring than any other fish. But as a dinner dish the herring has seriously lost ground.

A fish of many uses, herring may be found on party menus, in paint, lobster traps, cat food and a multitude of other places.

Its potential lies in its high protein content. To fisheries experts looking hard at the sea to determine its food content, the almost untouched herring reserve may be important as the earth's population explosion crowds the protein production on land.

The reason the herring has slipped as a main-course fish probably lies in the availability to Canadians of bigger, less-bony species, although marinated or pickled and bottled herring are still popular in North America.

SALMON EARNS MOST

In 1961 Canada's total herring catch was 637,561,000 pounds. Cod was second with 521,229,000 pounds while the total for all other species was less than 200,000,000 pounds. In landed value herring placed fifth at $7,364,000 leaving its landed value at slightly more than one cent a pound.

In contrast, 125,076,000 pounds of salmon brought $27,553,000 to lead all other species in landed value. Lobster placed second with $17,924,000 for 47,731,000 pounds.

In herring catches Canada's east and west coasts are almost equal, with British Columbia often outdoing the area comprising Quebec, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

However, the west coast catch is used chiefly for bait, industrial oil and fish meal, a live stock food. In the eastern district most of the catch is used for human consumption or bait.

A by product of the Maine and New Brunswick herring fishery is pearl essence, manufactured from the guanin crystals found on herring scales. The demand for pearl essence often used to provide a pearl color in paint, varies sharply from year to year and prices for scales may fluctuate from a few cents to more than $1 a pound.

BIG SARDINE CATCH

As food in the eastern area herring are used or exported fresh, frozen, smoked, pickled, bottled or canned and in various sizes. They are slightly less than a foot long at full growth, but are often used before they are fully developed.

Sardines are small herring, and the Bay of Fundy between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick contains one of the biggest sardine operations in the world. It represents a $3,000,000 industry to New Brunswick alone.

In Nova Scotia herring still plays an important role as trap bait in the lobster industry. Until the Second World War conversion from longline fishing to dragging, herring had been used extensively as bait in the offshore fishery. This use has declined, but processing for human consumption has continued and some catches go to sardine canners in New Brunswick and to sardine and cat food canners in Maine.

There is little evidence of the once - prevalent practice of spreading tons of herring on land as fertilizer, during early settlement and for years after this practice was common in coastal agriculture operations.

THROW HERRING BACK

Today there are reports of offshore fishermen taking big hauls of herring and throwing them back in their pursuit of more valuable fish.

Gill nets, seines and weirs are in use in Fundy-area communities before the settlement of Canada. All are used in the herring industry. Weirs are nets slung on poles that catch fish on the incoming tide. The fish are harvested when the tide goes out. Gill nets are mesh nets slung between poles, and seines are movable nets often used to encircle schools of fish.

There has been an increase in the use of seines in eastern areas permitting fishermen to pursue herring rather than wait for them to come to the net.

In the herring fishery on Newfoundland's west coast, fisheries officers have experimented with modern electronic devices. The most significant development is the mid-water trawl. Nets that sink to the bottom are ineffective for herring. The new trawling gear has an elevating device by which the depth of the trawl can be adjusted by the speed of the vessel.

FUND GONE

Tuna is another fish that may be reckoned with in terms of herring. Some fishermen blamed the disappearance of herring off Wedgeport, N.S., for causing an end to good tuna fishing in the area in 1958. And the International Tuna Cup Match, once a valuable tourist asset to the south shore community, was discontinued with the end of the tuna run. Some tuna have appeared in the area in recent years, but numbers have not been great enough to bring about a revival in the annual competition.

A still-valid report on the herring fishery of the northwest Atlantic, published three years ago by the fisheries research board of Canada, has these things to say about the future expansion of the herring fishery:

"Our knowledge of the present herring fisheries of the northwest Atlantic coast of the United States and Canada indicates that we catch most of these fish in inshore waters where they are often seasonally abundant. While the herring are living in the open sea they are relatively free from exploitation.

"Because of the change in food habits of North Americans it seems unlikely that much greater quantities of fresh, frozen and pickled herring will be consumed in the immediate future.

"However, with a continuing increase in population, animal protein shortages may become more evident, and the demand for herring products . . . may become great enough so that the fishery will eventually be prosecuted to the utmost."

DEMAND DECLINES—Demand for herring as a food has been declining in recent years, but the annual herring catch in Canada remains greater than any other fish. These fishermen are using a purse-seine net which encircles the school of fish. The net is drawn tight, bringing the fish into the centre of the net. (CP from National Film Board).

NATO Nuclear Force Makes Political Sense

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—In the opinion of responsible officials here a NATO nuclear force makes sense politically but not militarily.

Creation of a NATO nuclear force was discussed last week in the alliance's conference of parliamentarians and likely will be aired again at the NATO council meeting in Paris next month. As on past occasions, nothing much is expected to come of such discussions immediately.

Politically, a NATO nuclear force is said to be desirable because it would give West Germany a voice in nuclear policy and thus help sidetrack any German move to manufacture or otherwise acquire nuclear weapons of its own.

In this sense, a NATO nuclear force would be as valuable to the West as was the NATO in the first place.

'CALCULATED RISK'

Though no official here will say so in so many words, it is known Canada still feels German membership in NATO is a calculated risk. And there is a good deal of concern here about the actions and attitudes of German Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss.

Militarily, a NATO nuclear force is regarded as little more than carrying coals to Newcastle. The control of such a force would be highly complex if not impossible and would not add any striking power to that of the United States.

In the same way, possession of independent national nuclear forces such as those in Britain and France is seen as little more than a status symbol.

There is a good deal of support here for the U.S. view, as stated again last week before the NATO parliamentary association, that what NATO needs primarily is more and stronger conventional forces.

THEIR DAYS ARE NUMBERED — The Road Stars, a family group which has been entertaining in London streets for 30 years, puts on a performance for an evening crowd. Albert Hollis, 49, plays the accordion and beats a drum with his foot, while brothers Henry, 42, and Charles, 59, do a comedy routine and sister Edith canvasses the audience. Their future is uncertain since police are clamping down on outdoor entertainers; known to Londoners as buskers. (CP Photo)

Curtain of Progress Coming Down on Buskers of London

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — Chromium curtains of progress are coming down on the buskers of London. Leicester Square will soon be a duller place.

Buskers are street musicians and itinerant actors, the last survivors of a folk art dating back to the days of wandering minstrels and troubadors.

For generations the best of the buskers have specialized in entertaining theatre queues in the West End with songs and dances, impromptu recitations and acrobatics.

It takes talent and a fine sense of timing to draw an audience and hold it. The rewards are not lavish but enough to make a living. Several busking groups are known to have turned down good offers from music hall impresarios.

Now the buskers are vanishing. More and more cars are roaring around Piccadilly Circus and edging the buskers off their tarmac stages. The blue arms of censorious policemen are reaching through the crowds and cutting short the acts.

TRAFFIC CONGESTED

The police argue that buskers make congested traffic conditions even worse by drawing crowds that cause obstructions. The buskers say the crowds cause the obstructions and although the technicality worked for a while few magistrates will swallow it now.

Ten years ago, when Britons were poorer and cars fewer, the buskers were in their prime. There was the cloaked actor of Oxford Street who could transfix a rush-hour multitude with the passionately patriotic passages from Shakespeare.

In Charing Cross Road, at the base of a statue of David Garrick, a cockney Houdini would wriggle free from a dozen padlocked, tightly-chaffed canvas bag whenever there was enough money in the cap.

Today things have changed. The last of the big time buskers and undoubtedly holding top place in the street-corner bill are The Road Stars, a family group that has been dancing through the streets of London for 30 years.

PLAY FOR LAUGHS

Albert Hollis, 49, plays the accordion and beats a drum with his foot. His brothers Henry, 42, and Charles, 59, stage a 20-minute, tap-dancing routine while sister Edith canvasses the crowd.

The routine is slick and simple, played for vulgar laughs and audience participation in the best tradition of the music halls. Hairy legs and breasteers are revealed, red-striped gowns, Arab fezzes and bowler hats are donned and doffed in smooth succession.

Given fair weather and the co-operation of the law, The Road Stars can stop more than 300 people in their tracks and virtually block Leicester Square. With two shows a night they sometimes clear £30.

But, all too often these days there's a gentle tap on Albert's shoulder. The show stops, Henry argues and the audience melts away.

The Hollis family has been busking for three generations and his reputation has even reached royal ears. Recently the group performed before Prince Philip at a charity dinner. But they don't like working "inside" and they are worried the police will close down their outside shows completely.

"It's two pounds each every time we're nicked," says Albert. "You can't make a living that way and busking's the only thing we know how to do. We've been warned that it will be the clink the next time they haul us in."

The smaller buskers are less concerned. There is the organ grinder for instance. He cranks a 15-hour day, says little and quietly moves on when the men in blue come round the corner.

And Harry Elliot, who says he is 80 and once trod the boards at the Palladium. Now he hammers at battered harmonium, chides the movie queues and folds up his instrument when things look dangerous.

Most familiar of all is the old woman who suffles along in the guiter, tightly wrapped against the chill night air.

Some call her Millie, others Nellie. She doesn't talk. She just sings.

The voice is high and quavering, the words slurred by drink. Sometimes she seems to be snatching half - remembered echoes from an ancient aria; sometimes she sounds like an Irish mother keening over her lost son.

Most often she seems to be chanting the funeral song of a dying profession.

Moscow and Peking Split Said to Be Unbridgeable

An AP News Analysis
By GENE KRAMER

WARSAW (AP)—Some Warsaw quarters for the first time are describing the Moscow-Peking split as unbridgeable.

Cautious experts on Communist affairs continue to warn that the Soviet Union and Communist China still have more in common than divides them. But these voices are softer in the wake of recent developments over Cuba and India.

One diplomat says flatly the recent purge of Stalinists in Bulgaria and the apparent downgrading of the Berlin question are frantic Soviet efforts to shore up Moscow's flanks for a full-dress showdown with Mao Tse-Tung.

"The bridge has washed away," another diplomat commented. He was referring to the traditional role of Poland as a Bridge, or mediator, in Moscow-Peking disputes.

SAY WAY QUIT

Supporting this view is the possibility that veteran Chinese Communist Ambassador Wang Ping-nan may quit the Warsaw post he has held for, seven years.

Wang now is in Peking a well informed diplomat said Monday, adding he has been told that if Wang returns to Warsaw, it will be to make his farewell calls.

This report touched off speculation on the future of the periodic ambassadorial meetings between Red China and the United States, held in Warsaw since 1958.

No rupture of diplomatic relations between Communist China and the Soviet bloc is expected at this stage. But the replacement of Wang by a junior diplomat would be evidence that Peking no longer attaches value to Warsaw as a point for negotiation within the Communist world — or with the United States.

Other evidence of the Soviet bloc-Chinese split was provided last weekend by the granting of substantial Polish industrial credits to India at a time when that country is in a shooting war with Communist China.

BRUSSELS (AP)—The prices of daily newspapers in Belgium will rise from two francs (four cents) to 2.5 francs (five cents) because of rising costs, the press told readers today.

Tired Drivers Taking Drugs Given Warning

TORONTO (CP) — The practice of driving while under the influence of drugs is increasing in incidence, Dr. G. W. H. Lucas has told a council of the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario.

The professor of pharmacology at the University of Toronto said the driver who uses drugs to combat fatigue should realize that while his feelings are improved, his reaction to an emergency can never reach the perfection of the pre - fatigued state.

"Physical improvement does not keep pace with increasing dosage of drugs." "The elevation of mood and impaired mental states such as euphoria, confusion and hallucinations arising from increased dosage, may lead to serious driving errors."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Pinpoint precision passing, constant skating and deft stickhandling featured the Soviet victory. Their system inside the opposition defensive zone was the prettiest displayed here in years."

That is Len (Kitchener Record), Taylor's description of the Russian team currently touring Canada after the Soviets had whipped the Kitchener Waterloo Tigers 5-3. They followed up their unbeaten record with a 9-5 trouncing of the bolstered Hamilton Red Wings.

Referee Hugh McLean, who is handling the officiating for the tour, said: "This Soviet team is a considerably better club technically than any of the others that have come this way. Their skating is better than almost anything you will see this side of the water. They have learned to rush players on the boards. Their forwards can throw bodychecks."

Taylor says: "On the other hand the Soviets still pass too much and don't shoot enough. They are deadly if they can set a man up in the slot and you can't beat them if you let them carry the play. To sum up, the Soviets are improving steadily. They are mastering all the techniques required to play winning hockey except one. They have yet to find the secret to split-second improvisation. In that they do, Canada will have one heck of a time winning a world tournament under any conditions."

The Russian squad is the youngest and cleverest squad the Soviet has ever sent across the water. The average age is 24 and most of them are university graduates or attending school.

And it is far from the squad that the Russians said would represent them on the tour. The pre-tour pictures contain only some half dozen of the players of the touring team. And I don't think this will be the team, in its entirety, to represent Russia in the 1963 world tournament at Stockholm.

For the Russians are shrewd operators. Canada found that out in previous world tournaments. The present tour could very well be a two-way test for the Soviets, a stacking up of a fine young team against Canadian opposition on the one hand—and the observance of the strength of Canadian teams on the other.

It is stated that Father Bauer who will collect and train Canada's next Olympic hockey team at the University of British Columbia was a spectator at the Kitchener-Russian game and declared himself as "amazed" at the ability of the Soviet squad. He will handle a Metro junior "A" all-star squad that meets the Russians in Maple Leaf Gardens tomorrow.

Father Bauer need not be so amazed. He watched a team that, in keeping with Soviet sports procedure has been trained and playing together over a long period of time in preparation for the Canadian tour.

You just don't learn the pin-point precision passing, the organization and re-organization of offensive plays and defensive manoeuvres as practiced by the Russians overnight. They are full-time athletes in the training period. Everything else goes by the board.

And as Russia and other European countries learned hockey from us, the time has come when we can take a leaf from the over-the-pond training procedures.

The "college team" idea that will ready our next Olympics hockey team as suggested by Father Bauer and blessed in some quarters, mostly Olympic officials and their farcical staff, is not in this corner's opinion, the proper method.

A national team, by all means. But a team composed of the best senior "A" hockey players in the country, coached and trained together and will have played together by the time the world tournament rolls around.

I fail to see where a team of untried college players even under the excellent training and coaching of a Father Bauer can expect to wrest any world title from such clubs as the Swedish teams that clobbered us the last time out, the present touring Russian club or the fast-skating, well-trained Czechs.

Petes Nip Red Wings

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—The third-place Peterborough Petes came up with a pair of unanswered goals in the third period Tuesday night to defeat Hamilton Red Wings 4-2 before 1,363 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A fans.

Bob Jamieson, George Goodison, Lorne O'Donnell and Keith Wright counted for the Petes. Pip Martin and Paul Henderson scored for Hamilton.

Hamilton drew six of the 10 penalties in fast, clean play.

The victory pulled Peterboro ends to within one point of a first-place tie with Montreal and Niagara Falls.

In Whitby, Oshawa Generals, behind 4-0 after two periods, rallied behind Bill Little's three-goal performance Tuesday night to tie Whitby Mohawks 4-4 in a Metro Toronto Junior A game.

Coach 'Hot' on Battle Eve ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

'Fan-Feud' Livens Peg, Stamps Clash

By GRAHAM COX

WINNIPEG (CP) — With the decisive moment fast approaching for Winnipeg Blue Bombers, coach Bobby Dobbs of Calgary Stampeders is looking for the toughest game of his professional football career.

Blue Bombers and Stampeders tangle here tonight at 8 p.m. CST in the second game of the Western Football Conference best-of-three final playoff. The defending champion Blue Bombers lost the opener last Saturday in Calgary 20-14.

Dobbs is angry because Winnipeg coach Bud Grant has been quoted as saying he would be happy if Winnipeg fans cheered so loud Calgary quarterback Eagle Day's singal calling could not be heard by his team.

The controversy arose in Regina Nov. 12 when Day asked referee Paul Dojack to quiet the crowd because his teammates could not hear him changing signals at the line of scrimmage. Day was told there was no rule in the Canadian Football League against fan heckling.

Dobbs told a press conference Tuesday night: "I was very surprised at Grant saying such a thing. We had the courtesy and sportsmanship to leave the quarterback alone in Calgary. Teams should be left alone to see which comes out best."

'SHOULD DRAW LINE'

Dobbs said signal switching is the type of scrimmage has only been used by Calgary "in the last three or four weeks." Both coaches once drew about a third of the time with his team.

"I think there should be a line drawn. Winning at all costs as long as you win is not necessarily right.

"We expect the crowd to be real noisy, thanks to Mr. Grant."

Dobbs said his team was going into its fourth game in 12 days.

"I just hope they can hold the edge they've got."

If a third game is necessary it will be played here Saturday at 2:30 CST. The Grey Cup Canadian championship is Saturday, Dec. 1 in Toronto.

Dobbs said the western play-off system should be revised.

FINDS GRIND TOUGH

The western play-final is a two-game, total-point series followed immediately by the best-of-three final.

"If we go all the way it will mean six games in 22 days for each team. To keep a team healthy, this is too many games in a row."

A win tonight for Stampeders would put them into the national final for the first time since 1948.

Blue Bombers have won the West for the last five years and represented them in the finals four times.

A brisk wind Tuesday dried out the turf here after two inches of snow fell on the field Sunday. A tarpaulin is down and a stadium official said barring snow or rain just before game time, the field will be fairly dry and fast.

Dobbs said he would be going with the same team that defeated Winnipeg Saturday. Grant was not expected to dress a star offensive end Herbie Gray, drawing end Farrell Funston out of sick bay for offensive action and switching Bill Whisler from offensive to defensive end.

MANY MADE TRIP

More than 127,000 visits were made to Pioneer Village in Ontario's Black Creek Conservation Area near Toronto, in 1962.

City League Hockey Tonight!

Bob Taylor, who replaces Doug Bone as coach of the Joyce-Rollins Combines this week, will try to lead his club to its initial win in the first half of tonight's City Hockey League twin-bill at Memorial Arena.

Bone was forced to give up the coaching job because of out-of-town work and Taylor, one of the club's top players, was named playing coach.

The Combines will tangle with Trudeau Motors at 7.45 tonight while the Pepsi's and Welbanks Motors hook up in the 9.15 fixture.

Joyce - Rollins have strengthened with defenceman Larry Mavety and goalie Bill Moxon, although it is not known whether Moxon will be dressed for tonight's game or not. The team has lost both its games to date but with players like Taylor, Ron Hull, Jackie Elliott, Mavety, Hyalle Bryant and Duke Doran, it seems just a matter of time before that big first victory.

Trudeaus received additional scoring punch this week as well in the form of Gary Goyer. Coach Ed Plata will have his boys going all out tonight for they could move into sole possession of first place, depending on the outcome of the Pepsi's-Welbanks tilt.

The nightcap should be a thriller as both Welbanks and Flori Coegan's Pepsi's have displayed strong netminding and good scoring punch in their games so far.

Welbanks' Stu Muirhead and the Pepsi' Dave Jones are two of the loops top scorer and this should add a little extra to the excitement. If Welbanks can get "Wiener" Brown, Muirhead, Bucky Ebner, Floyd Crawford, Lionel Botly and Paul Zakos all out tonight, it could lead to the Pepsi's first setback.

Pepsi's on the other hand have Jones, "Shaker" Baker, "Whitey" Hull, Claude Carr, Doug Murray, Chuck Rowbotham, Bob Brooks, George Jacklin, Billy McGuire and Jackie Hughes to throw at the opposition so they won't say "uncle" without a bottle royal.

Game times, once again, are 7.45 and 8.30. At half a buck a head who can afford to miss it?

Top Freshman Scorers

Douglas, Barkley Lead Rookies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two seasoned defencemen, Toronto Kent Douglas and Detroit's Doug Barkley, appear to have the inside track for the NHL rookie-of-the-year award with the current season about one-quarter over.

Douglas, a 26-year-old native of Cobalt, Ont., has moved up to a left defence spot beside veteran Tim Horton after seven years in the minors.

He has already made his mark as a rushing defenceman, one of the league's best at skating the puck out of his own zone and setting up attacking patterns with accurate passes up to the forwards.

He's currently the highest-scoring rookie in the league with eight points. The highest-scoring rear guard in the league is Montreal's Jean-Guy Talbot with 13 points, all of them assists.

But only one point behind Douglas is the Wings' Barkley, a crew-cut 185-pounder who has spent his last six of 25 years playing minor - league hockey.

PAIRS WITH GADSBY

This year Barkley, a native of Lethbridge, Alta., has teamed up with 35-year-old Bill Gadsby to help give the first-place Wings the league's tightest defence.

Though Barkley has established himself chiefly as a defensive stalwart with cool, hard-hitting play, last season he scored 25 goals for Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League. He also gained a spot on the league's all-star team and was second in voting for the league's most valuable player.

Last summer Detroit traded two players to Chicago to get him from the Hawks' chain.

Douglas also had a banner year last season.

Playing under Eddie Shore at Springfield in the American Hockey League, he led the league's defencemen in goals with 18 and points with 58. He won the league's best-defenceman award and placed on the all-star team.

The leading rookie forward so far is Rangers' right winger Rod Gilbert, a 21 - year - old Montreuler who is tied with Barkley with seven points. Douglas and Gilbert have three goals each, while Barkley has two.

Two right wingers, Boston's Wayne Hicks and Chicago's Chico Maki, come next in rookie scoring with six points apiece. Hicks, a native of Aberdeen, Wash., and one of the few NHL players born in the U.S., has the most goals by a rookie with four.

FAULKNER HAS FIVE

Detroit centre Alex Faulkner, of Bishop's Falls, Nfld. the first player from the island province to make the NHL, and Montreal's left winger Gord (Red) Berenson each have five points. Detroit left winger Larry Jeffrey follows with four points. Jeffrey played 18 and Rangers have 12. Canadiens, just two less than the 20-game limit, needed to keep his rookie status.

Montreal defenceman Jean Gauthier has two points. Toronto—forward Jim Mikol and Rangers' defenceman Jim Neilson, a half-Cree-Indian from Big River, Sask., each have one and Chicago's defenceman Wayne Hillman has been held scoreless.

Boston has been using two rookie goalies, Bob Ferreault and Ed Johnston, with Ferreault playing most. Another rookie, Cesare Maniago, has played 11 games for Montreal subbing for an ailing Jacques Plante.

Bruins meet the fifth-place Rangers in New York tonight in the only scheduled league action.

Jerome, Stewart Medal Choices

Empire Games Selections

BY JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

PERTH (CP)—The seventh British Empire Games open in this isolated Australian seaport Thursday with a prediction of perfect weather and a word of caution from the commandant of the 72-member Canadian team, Jack Davis of Montreal.

In an interview Davis warned the Canadians not to start counting their gold medals. Ready to go along with him are the oarsmen who are plainly worried about their chances.

"There is no question that the team has far more depth in most sports since the 1938 games when the Canadians won 13 gold medals," Davies said. "We have two world record-holders on the team but you never know what could happen."

The only thing I am optimistic about is that if wind conditions are right we would see world records smashed in track and field and it's a certainty world marks will go by the boards in swimming."

Canada's world record-holders are sprinter Harry Jerome and swimmer Mary Stewart, both of Vancouver, and they are the choice of competent observers to mount the victory rostrum.

Prince Philip formally opens the games at 12:30 p.m. local time Thursday in the new 50,000-seat Perry Lakes Stadium. Then 1,039 athletes from 35 countries begin a nine-day pursuit of medals in nine sports. The games end Dec. 1.

The host country, with a bevy of brilliant swimmers and a strong track and field squad, is favored to win the over-all team championship in stiff competition with Britain and New Zealand. Australia has the biggest squad, 247.

Philip arrived by air here today from the capital, Canberra, and was cheered by a crowd of about 5,000. He was accompanied by Prime Minister Menzies.

The oarsmen who have been Canada's only consistent medallists in international competition since 1954, have not looked sharp. The big University of British Columbia eight, which has been training daily since early last May, can't seem to hit a peak form.

The eight is not as good as it should be and I don't know the reason," said Larry West of Vancouver, coach of the rowing team. "The crew is very worried. They know they've got a lot of pressure on them to produce but they haven't been looking sharp in their last few workouts."

Says Minors Forced to Buy Book

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is using minor hockey leagues as "circulation agents" to sell Hockey Canada, the CAHA magazine, Douglas Smith, recreation director for nearby Ridgetown, said Tuesday.

Players in the Ridgetown minor hockey association are being forced to pay for the magazine in the form of a $4.50 affiliation fee, Mr. Smith told the southwestern Ontario municipal recreation directors zone conference here.

Mr. Smith said Lloyd Davidson of Chatham, the CAHA-Ontario Hockey Association representative, told Ridgetown minor hockey officials at Ontario Minor Hockey Association schedule, including payoff dates, will not be drawn up unless they pay the fee.

Wallaceburg and Blenheim teams also object to paying the fee, Mr. Smith added.

"I agree Canada needs a hockey magazine, but why should minor hockey assure the CAHA of circulation for it," he said.

Recreation directors from Chatham, Sarnia, Windsor, Leamington and Kitchener-town agreed to complain about the situation at next year's annual meeting of the OMHA.

Woodstock On Rampage

Galt Walloped 12-2

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Woodstock Athletics went on a scoring rampage Tuesday night when they walloped Galt Terriers 12-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game here.

The victory broke a third-place tie between the two clubs and sent Woodstock into a first-place tie with Windsor, one point ahead of third-place Chatham. Galt dropped to fourth spot in the six-team league with 12 points.

The Athletics dominated play from the opening faceoff, opening the scoring at 1:54 of the first period and not stopping until 12:47 of the last period. At one point they led 9-0.

Toby Black and Art Sullivan paced Woodstock with three goals apiece. Carl Hymers potted two while single counters were picked up by Cec Cowie, Gerry Stringle, Bernie Lawrence and Gerry Theberge.

Bob Seager broke through early in the third period to spoil goalie Ron Salter's bid for a shutout while Keith Worrall potted Galt's other goal.

Galt goalie Dave Dryden was peppered with a total of 53 shots in the game and stopped the Athletics cold on five breakaways.

Lead Eastern Scoring Race

OTTAWA (CP)—Prolific hot-shots of the Kingston Frontenacs continue to hog the top spots in the scoring race of the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Front-runner Bob Leiter leads the Kingston pack of four 'sus-ning at the front of the race, according to league statistics released Tuesday.

Leiter scored three times and assisted with a like number of markers in his last games to bring his total to 30 points.

Teammate Jeannot Gilbert, a quick-scoring rookie, follows with 28 points.

Two other Kingston players, Don Blackburn and Gerry Ouellette, are close behind with 24 and 21 respectively.

Spahn, Mays, Cousy, Palmer Athletes of the Decade

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, Warren Spahn, Arnold Palmer and Bob Cousy were named Athletes of the Decade (1950-60) Tuesday for their respective sports, completing a national poll of 250 sports writers and broadcasters who selected 12 athletes.

Mays of San Francisco Giants was picked as the outstanding hitter-fielder and Spahn of Milwaukee Braves as the top major league pitcher. Palmer was golf's representative and Cousy was the basketball selection.

The four will join football's Jimmy Brown and Chuck Bednarik, auto racing's Rodger Ward, boxing's Rocky Marciano, hockey's Maurice Richard, bowling's Don Carter and racing's Eddie Arcaro and Del Miller on the dais at the "decade dinner" to be held Monday for the benefit of retarded children.

Clippers Nip Hornets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Clippers, who started fast, then slumped, are back at the .500 mark today in the American Hockey League after squeaking past Pittsburgh Hornets Tuesday night.

Vic Hadfield fired home a goal midway in the final period, enabling the Clippers to edge the Hornets 3-2 in the only league game.

The four will join football's Jimmy Brown and Chuck Bednarik, auto racing's Rodger Ward, boxing's Rocky Marciano, hockey's Maurice Richard, bowling's Don Carter and racing's Eddie Arcaro and Del Miller on the dais at the "decade dinner" to be held Monday for the benefit of retarded children.

'Made Disgrace of Fine Game'

Says Eastern Officiating 'Ridiculous'

OTTAWA (CP) — George H. Fraser, long-time football star and Canadian Football League official say officiating this year in the eastern division of CFL "has been disgustingly ridiculous, making a disgrace of a fine game."

In a letter to the Ottawa Journal, Mr. Fraser adds: "Regardless of the brand of football played this past season, the officiating has been a detriment to the sport."

He says he expects to be the first CFL official dismissed or suspended by Football Commissioner G. Sydney Halter for his blast.

A Big Four official for the last eight years, Mr. Fraser played with Ottawa Rough Riders from 1922 to 1945, coached the Riders in 1946 and was assistant coach in 1947.

He says the Ottawa and District Football Referees Association has "at least half a dozen men" who should have been given an officiating tryout before Don Shouldice, son of Hap Shouldice, commissioner's eastern representative, who was appointed an official in 1960. This season Don Shouldice has worked in nine CFL games. Nine CFL officials with three to nine years' experience had worked in fewer than nine games.

'FAT MEN' UNWANTED

Mr. Fraser says that when he asked Hap Shouldice for a tryout as a senior umpire he had been told "Fat, sloppy men" weren't wanted in the centre of the field. He adds that his playing weight was 208 and that his present weight is 205.

Mr. Fraser says he was told this season by Hap Shouldice that he would likely never be used as senior umpire because of his age (51). He says his condition, physical and mental, is equal to any of the men at present officiating in the league."

Mr. Halter had said in his yearly bulletin, the only instructions ever received by officials, that officials should work in as many minor league games as possible, "A large percentage" of the eastern staff do not work any games except in the CFL, Mr. Fraser says.

He also says two minor officials at Ottawa, Mike Onaras and Jack Provost, are unqualified as downsbowman and yardstickman, respectively.

He concludes: "Knowledge and application of the rules as outlined in the rule book together with the ability of an official are not taken into consideration when promotions or assignments are made."

TIGERS RETURN HOME

TOKYO (AP) — The Detroit Tigers flew home Tuesday in two groups after playing an extra game on their goodwill baseball tour for the benefit of the 1964 Tokyo Olympics. They beat the Japanese all-stars 7-2 before 10,000.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian football commissioner G. Sydney Halter said Tuesday that charges of poor officiating in the Eastern Conference are "sheer nonsense."

He was commenting on a letter written to the Ottawa Journal by George Fraser, head linesman and field judge in the East for the last eight years. In the letter Fraser said that officiating in the East "has been disgustingly ridiculous, making a disgrace of a fine game."

Halter said the letter "sounds like the lament of an official who hasn't received too many assignments."

Fraser, who has worked six league games and two exhibition games this season, said the officiating has been a detriment to football.

He said there has been a great deal of confusion among officials over the calling of offsides by whistle instead of by horn or marker. He said the first offside called by whistle occurred in Ottawa Sept. 1. On Sept. 2 when Ottawa played Toronto, an offside was called by horn, resulting in a safety touch against Riders.

Fraser, a former player and coach for Ottawa, said he can't see the logic behind the calling of offsides by whistle and that no written instructions regarding the play were sent to officials.

Rally In Second Half

Lightfoots Down Flyers

Belleville Lightfoots used a strong second half to defeat the Trenton RCAF Flyers 46-35 in a Bay of Quinte Basketball League tilt played at the Air station last night.

The Flyers led throughout the first half of the game, sparked by scoring ace Wilf Borden, but in the second half the Lightfoots' Dick Morden checked Borden and held him to five points.

Lightfoots were paced by Don Smith, hooping 18 points, while Don Skinner also hit double figures, with 10.

Wilf Borden accounted, for nearly half of the RCAF points, getting 17, 12 of them in the first half.

The losers had a good night on the foul line, colecting 16 points, while Lightfoots picked up ten points on free throws.

Frank Walker, organizer of the Quinte Board of Basketball Officials, has called an urgent meeting of the officials at the RCAF Station recreation Centre Thursday night. The meeting is called for 7.30 and anyone unable to attend is asked to notify a member of the executive.

BELLEVILLE LIGHTFOOTS (46): G. Mutter 5, B. Marner, M. Carswell, G. Duggan 6, T. Ewing 2, Smith 18, P. Fraternak 3, D. Bell, D. Morden 2, D. Skinner 10.

RCAF FLYERS (35): W. Borden 17, E. Clarke 7, McNichol 8, Moboruk 2, Foyle, Nelson 1, Wilmets, Violette, Bernard.

APPLIES FOR GAMES

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—Swiss Ski Federation formally applied for the 1968 Olympic Games, it was learned Tuesday. Switzerland also has the Games in Mexico City was contained in a private letter by General Duke Clark, president of the Mexican Olympic committee, to Otto Mayer, chancellor of the International Olympic Committee which has its headquarters here. The offer was made after Lausanne had withdrawn its own application.

The IOC made no immediate comment on General Clark's letter which is not considered a formal application. This must be made jointly by the Mexican national committee and the authorities of Mexico City.

Three Larks Watch on Sidelines

MONTREAL (CP)—Halfback Don Clark and defensive tackles Ted Elsby and Bobby Sack Oliver were on the sidelines Tuesday night when Montreal Alouettes started field drills for Saturday's game in Hamilton against the Tiger-Cats.

The three watched the movies of the game here last Saturday against the Ticats but remained in street clothes when the rest of the players took the field for an hour-long workout.

A club spokesman said definite medical word is expected Thursday on all three.

Clark and Oliver are given better than a 50-50 chance to play, unofficially, while Elsby appears to be a doubtful starter.

Elsby suffered a shoulder separation in the second quarter of the opener here in a two-game total-point series with Hamilton for the playoff title in the Eastern Football Conference.

He left the game and so did Clark, suffering a twisted right knee. But Oliver, despite a rib injury, stayed in.

The Ticats won the opener 29-17.

'My Fair Lady' Will Be Shown on Film in 1964

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Progress report on My Fair Lady —there's no need to start saving up to see the film version of the champion musical. It won't be available before mid-1964.

But plans are under way, reports director George Cukor, just back from scouting locations in England. Obviously this will be no hasty production. Not when you consider Warner Brothers shelled out $5,500,000 for the film rights to the show.

Cukor gave this time schedule for the project: He begins active preparations in January. Six weeks of rehearsals start in June. Filming will follow and probably won't conclude until next year's end.

Cukor is known for his talent for drawing fine performances from women. Among his famous subjects: Garbo (Camille), Katharine Hepburn (Philadelphia Story), Ingrid Bergman (Gaslight), Judy Holliday (Born Yesterday).

He will be directing another Hepburn in My Fair Lady—Audrey. She was the first one cast in the film, and some critics raised the question whether the Dutch-Irish actress could handle the Cockney accent.

WILL TAKE LESSONS

"Of course she can," Cukor said. "She will have to take lessons. But every girl who has played Liza has taken lessons."

Audrey Hepburn did not test for My Fair Lady. Nor did the male star, Rex Harrison. Warner figured he could handle the role.

James Cagney has been mentioned for the role of Liza's rakish father, and that has aroused a controversy.

"I don't see why anyone should be upset about an American playing a British role," said Cukor. "It would have been just as silly to get upset about Vivien Leigh, an Englishwoman, playing a southern belle."

"Cagney would be terrific in the part. He is a great actor and has the added asset of being a song and dance man. He would have no trouble managing the accent. Trouble is, I'm afraid he doesn't want to work. He isn't stage-struck any more. He's too rich."

LOTS OF LUMBER

The walled Polish city of Dubno copied on location in Argentina for the movie Taras Bulba required 1,000,000 feet of lumber.

The Trots

NEW YORK (AP)—A pair of $50,000-added events and another worth $25,000 are on tap for thoroughbred racing fans Thursday as the United States celebrates Thanksgiving Day.

The $50,000 races are the 1¼-mile Dixie Handicap on Pimlico's grass course and the 1¼-mile Pilgrim at Garden State Park.

The Dixie figures to attract a field of nine with Milton Ritzenberg's Wise Ship packing the top weight of 123 pounds.

Montpelier's Mongo, one of the country's three-year-olds, is expected to be the starting high-weight under 120 pounds in the Pilgrim.

Hungry Lions Eye Packers

DETROIT (AP)—A hopeless, frightening task, defeating and overtaking the unbeaten Green Bay Packers? It isn't so, Detroit Lions say.

"We should have beat them last time and I think we're going to win this time," roundly fullback Ken Webb after the Lions completed a shivering hurry-up workout Tuesday. "You know, they may be on the way down."

"Sure my boys have been pointing for this game ever since the last one," said coach George Wilson, roundly criticized by his own Detroit players after the Lions fell 9-7 to the Packers here.

"I tried to get them to look only one game ahead. But they've been waiting to get at the Packers again."

The long-awaited rematch between the reigning National Football League champions and the Lions, their closest pursuers in the Western Division, is Thursday at Tiger Stadium. Tickets have been as scarce as Packer defeats for the last month and a standing-room crowd of 55,000 will attend the annual Thanksgiving Day game.

Sports Snapshots

By EDDIE COLLISTER

MONTREAL (CP) — The Lachinec Rowing Club, one of the oldest amateur sports organizations of its kind in North America, may be headed for extinction.

Unless the club can find new waterfront quarters, it won't return to the sports scene next summer when it would celebrate its 100th anniversary.

The club, formed by a group of British engineers in 1863, has been forced to evacuate its quarters in suburban Lachine, on the north shore of Lake St. Louis.

Lake St. Louis Anglers Inc., who had been leasing space to the oarsmen, needed the whole building for themselves.

Phil Grant, president of the club, said:

"The Lachine club with a membership of 35, mostly youths and young men from the Lashore area, is a non-profit organization depending totally on annual membership fees and donations from former rowers.

"Disappearance of the club from the local rowing scene after 99 years would not only be a sad thing for the sport and the many hundreds of young men who have found physical and mental inspiration in it, but it would also be the end of one of the oldest sports clubs in North America."

SEE NEW HOME

The clubhouse was originally built for the rowing club but was turned over to McGill University during the Second World War when rowing was at a low ebb.

After the war, Lachine and McGill shared the facilities until 1950 when, due to lack of interest among students, McGill sold the premises to the anglers. Lachine Rowing Club was given an option to buy the property but, like most amateur sports clubs, lacked the funds.

Throughout its history, the club has had a fine record of success in competitions in Canada and the United States.

The oarsmen are looking for a suitable waterfront property in the Lachine or Dorval area on which to erect a new building.

"If this is not found by the time ice starts breaking up next spring," said Grant, "the Lachine Rowing Club will disappear at a time when the government and others interested in the welfare and physical well-being of youngsters are pressing for more facilities and a greater emphasis on community sports activities."

Faloney Out For 15 Days

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference announced Tuesday that quarterback Bernie Faloney will be out in the lineup if the club reaches the Grey Cup classic Dec. 1.

The Big Four club said Faloney will remain on the injured list for at least another 15 days.

The announcement came as no surprise. Few people thought Faloney, voted the most outstanding player in the Canadian Football League last year, would get back into action this year following his mid-September cartilage operation.

He returned to Tigers' practices 10 days ago in the hopes that he might be ready to play in the Grey Cup game if the team gets that far.

After two days of workouts coach Jim Trimble excused him from practice.

"He just can't be ready physically," Trimble said Tuesday. "We might as well know now." This leaves the quarterbacking chores officially in the hands of Frank Cosentino and Joe Zuger for the rest of the season.

Western Hockey

Right winger Tommy McVie salted it away for Portland Buckaroos in a Western Hockey League game Tuesday night by scoring the tying goal at 16:50 of the second period then making it 3-2 for Portland with the winner midway in the third.

In the WHL's other game in San Francisco defenseman Marty Howe picked up his first goal of the year in the third period and gave the Canucks a 1-0 victory.

Stampeders' scorers were Lou Jankowski and George McAvoy. Gerry Goyer was the other Portland marksman.

Gleason Sketch on Show Not Approved by Writer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The principal sketch on last Saturday's Jackie Gleason Show was an interesting example of the way today's desperate search for comedy material can lead writers into strange pastures.

It was a spoof, of all things, of Alcoholics Anonymous, an organization dedicated to helping victims of what, today is widely believed to be a disease.

The skit used the phraseology generally associated with compulsive drinking, described the symptoms — merely switching the problem from over-drinking to over-eating.

The treatment was not only unfunny but tasteless and gratuitous. Sufferers from compulsive drinking or eating must have been dismayed by the spectacle. It was part of a program CBS called "satiric comedy." It was neither.

The Gleason sketch surely ridiculed and was sarcastic but its purpose was a build-up to a sorry gag—both victims sneaking back to the kitchen to gorge themselves.

Russ Eat Like They Play Hockey

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Ham, sausages, fish, cereal, toast and bread and coffee or tea.

Not a bad lunch, but that's what the touring Russian hockey team had for breakfast Tuesday.

Their other meals were equally hearty, and it's apparently tied in with a Russian theory that the more food and the more exercise, the stronger the athlete.

Monday night in Hamilton, the Russians looked their best against the junior Hamilton Red Wings, augmented with a number of pros.

"This was the first time we played against pros in our three tours of Canada in the years," said Anatoly Tarasov, one of two coaches with the Russians through an interpreter.

He said Canadians "are still superior to us in hockey," but added:

"If we continue to get better, it could be that we might challenge National Hockey League teams some time in the future."

McDougall Joins Chargers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—San Diego Chargers have obtained the services of Gerry McDougall, ex-Toronto Argonauts fullback, and he is working out with the team here for next Sunday's game against Houston Oilers.

The American Football League team's management said it obtained McDougall in a deal with Buffalo Bills wherein San Diego returned to Buffalo a high future draft choice the Bills had given them earlier in the season.

Reports that the Chargers had signed former National Football League quarterback Tobin Rote, who also played for Toronto this season, were denied.

HEADS SYNDICATE

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, announced Tuesday he will be president of a 10-member syndicate which is buying the American League Baseball Club. It was learned the price is approximately $6,000,000. The syndicate includes mostly Cleveland area businessmen.

Mickey Mantle League MVP

BOSTON (AP)—Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees' gimpy-legged slugging master, was named the American Baseball League's most valuable player Tuesday for the third time in his career.

The 31-year-old New York centerfielder beat second baseman Bobby Richardson, 234 votes to 152, in polling by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota Twins placed third with 80 votes, Leon Wagner of Los Angeles fourth with 62, Cleveland pitcher Dick Donovan fifth with 54.

Mantle also won the league's highest honor in 1956 and 1957.

NOSED OUT TWICE

He had been nosed out by slugging outfielder Roger Maris of the Yankees in 1960 and 1961—by a slim four-vote margin a year ago.

Maris, whose performance dropped off last season from his record-breaking year of 1961, did not poll a single vote this year.

Mantle hit 30 home runs, had 89 runs batted in and was runnerup in the American League batting race to Boston's champion, Pete Runnels. Mantle had a .321 average.

He missed 39 games because of his legs and a rib injury but was still in action enough to pace the Yankees to their 13th pennant in the last 16 years.

Astrological Forecast

For November 22
By SIDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): This is day to show appreciation with a positive action. It serves as "spiritual tonic." Be up with friends, family, members. And take time to "think."

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be positive, direct. No time for saying things you do not believe. Forthright attitude, statements win friends. Permit Taurus determination to show. Fine evening for relaxing.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Good Moon, Saturn aspects should coincide with day of greater spiritual awakening. Your perception rating is high. You sense true characters of those you meet. Follow 'hunch.'

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Give your best. Others will respond. Try something new. Experiment rather than remain in rut. Be strong and exhibit self-confidence. Avoid one who lacks faith.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Fine for visiting relatives, having reunion with friends. See various sides of questions. Say yes to greater responsibility. You cannot be happy giving only half of best effort.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Excellent for sharing hobby, showing off collections, appreciating family, friends. Good day to review recent past. Analyze lessons you have learned for future. Relax tonight.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Cycle continues high. Today you gain by being true to yourself. Means no holding back on opinions. Say what you really believe. May be some moments of friction. But air is soon cleared.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Don't forget those that are less fortunate. Check conscience. Did you call or visit one who is confined to hospital? Perform routine tasks early. Tonight enjoy yourself.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Don't ruin wonderful friendships by overlooking necessity for moderation. Take your time. Express appreciation. Enjoy today but don't overdo it!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Rigid adherence to routine not advised. Relax. Permit Capricorn warmth to shine through. Show love ones you are aware of their problems. Make this a day to be remembered in future.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Like Taurus, stand up for what is right. Much in your favor. Don't waste day by worrying. Picture brightens sooner than you might expect. Financial condition due for improvement.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar.20): Let partner enjoy spotlight. Take pride in achievements of loved ones. Be generous, giving. Answer to recent major question is affirmative; means good news soon.

If today is your birthday . . . you are independent to point where you often challenge tradition, authority. You are never satisfied to know something merely happened. You want to know why.

General Tendencies: Many express beautiful emotions. Not all are sincere. But people are able to perceive truth.

'Ivory Tower' Scientists Draw Rebuke

CANBERRA (AP) — Prime Philip Tuesday gently chided scientists who, he said, seemed to be maintaining an "ivory tower" attitude toward the science of human behavior.

In an address to the Australian Academy of Science, to which he was admitted as a fellow, Menzies said there is still inclined to be looked upon as something a bit too vague for science proper.

And yet what the physical sciences are to engineering is the same as the relationship of social sciences to the engineering for human communities, he said.

"We spend an immense amount of time and effort improving friction in bearings," he said, "but nothing like enough time on the scientific study of friction in industrial and community life.

"The result is that all this fi part of man's environment and if science loses interest in man's future, it will have nullified itself up good and proper in a reinforced concrete towel."

LONDON (CP) — A poll of intellectuals shows they stand roughly 5 to 1 in favor of Britain joining the European Economic Community. The first results of the poll are published in the current issue of Encounter.

Nesting Grounds of Cranes Not Disturbed by Line

EDMONTON (CP) — The Great Slave Lake area of the Northwest Territories, isolated except for air services, where roads and brief summer shipping, now has telephone and teletype links with the outside.

But unlike work in more fully developed areas, construction of communications lines had to take into account the winter residence of bears, nesting grounds of whooping cranes and the difficulties of keeping a bulldozer on course through dense bush.

A long distance service has linked Fort Smith, administrative capital of the Mackenzie District, and the mining centre of Yellowknife with Peace River in northwestern Alberta.

The link includes a 400-mile microwave network from Peace River to Hay River on the south shore of Great Slave Lake and a 500-mile pole line into the Great Slave area. Alberta Government Telephones and Canadian National Telecommunications operate the system.

Nerve centre is Hay River where a building houses the toll centre, local telephone exchange, commercial offices and repeater equipment for microwave and land lines. Twenty-five technicians, operators and office workers are employed there.

RUNS THROUGH MUSKEG

Land lines branch out from Hay River in two directions. A 182-mile section runs southeast to Fort Smith through bush and muskeg country bordering the northern part of Wood Buffalo Park.

The Yellowknife line runs 315 miles northwest from Hay River, crossing the mile-wide Mackenzie River and stretching around the rocky western shore of Great Slave Lake.

Construction of the Fort Smith line was carried out in winter because the only access route was a road built over muskeg. Tripod pole construction was used to overcome muskeg and permafrost conditions.

In places the bush was so dense that captive balloons were sent aloft along the survey line so that bulldozer operators could use them as a guide in keeping on course.

In a few places the line makes a slight deviation to accommodate prior claims of hibernating bears, detected by surveyors by puffs of steamy air rising from snow mounds.

The original survey was altered when it was discovered the line would go through the nesting grounds of the rare whooping crane.

Canadian National which built and maintains land lines, plans to add lines later to Fort Simpson and Inuvik, near the mouth of the Mackenzie.

INLAND SEA

The largest inland sea or lake is the Caspian Sea with a total area of approximately 169,500 square miles.

The Ontario Safety League quotes this from a poem by Margaret Fishback, in praise of seat belts:

"But I would like to see
A safety belt that would protect Pedestriane like me."

Safe Driving Week will be observed across Canada December 1 to 7. From many drivers the suggestions of cooperating in a special safety campaign gets an amused, or impatient brush-off. The attitude is: "I always try to be safe; what do they want me to do?" The answer is very simple, says the Ontario Safety League. "Try a little harder." Everyone would drive with a little more care, a little more space from the car ahead, lives would be saved during December's danger days.

Cease-Fire In Effect Along Border

Nehru Reports Firing Stopped; Reds To Retire

Chinese Troops Poised On Rim of Assam Plain

CP from AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI — Shooting has stopped along the Himalayan frontier but informed sources said today India is not planning to accept Red China's terms for settlement of the month-old border war.

Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament: "So far as we know there has been an effective cease-fire." He made no mention of the Indian reaction but informants said the Indian Army has been ordered to withhold its fire against Chinese troops who are observing a self-imposed cease-fire.

The lull in the undeclared frontier war left open the prospect of more fighting, informed observers in New Delhi said.

India appeared to be buying time by using the lull offered by the Chinese to rebuild its defeated army units in northeast India.

DECLINED CLARIFICATION

A defence ministry spokesman refused at his daily briefing to clarify the cease-fire situation. He would not deny that Indian troops might have fired since the Chinese cease - fire deadline Wednesday. But he said there has not necessarily been any firing.

Informed sources said the orders were for Indian soldiers to fire only when fired upon.

Answering questions in Parliament here Prime Minister Nehru said firing has stopped on the border. He said "there has been no firing since last night and before that even."

Earlier, the Chinese Communist party newspaper People's Daily in Peking had announced that the cease-fire had gone into effect today.

The announcement was made in an editorial which reviewed the Peking government's statement Tuesday night that the Chinese would voluntarily cease fire at midnight Peking time.

TO ANSWER NEEDS

Meantime, two high-level missions from the United States and Britain were on their way to New Delhi to see what India needs in the face of the Chinese-Indian border dispute.

An American and British planes were also reported to be flying to India, the British with arms and the American to serve as transports.

Gen. Taylor's US mission is Averell Harriman, assistant secretary of state for Far East-ern affairs, and Gen. Paul D. Adams, commander of the U.S.

U.S. GRADUALLY UNCOILS BUILDUP OF ARMED MIGHT

No Relaxation Yet in Florida

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Nuclear bomber crews shifted to normal duty after a month on special alert . . . destroyers, cruisers, carriers steamed home from the blockade . . . air-force reservists prepared to become civilians again.

The United States was gradually uncoiling the buildup of its armed might which at one point in the crisis had appeared on the verge of being launched against Communist Cuba.

But in southeastern United States, Florida in particular, there was no relaxation yet.

Thousands of army troops, including tank forces, and hundreds of fast, rocket-armed jet fighters and powerful bombers stood ready—just in case.

Radar searched the skies in the direction of Cuba and anti-aircraft missiles were poised—the Russians still have not pulled out their IL-28 jet bombers.

U.S. photo reconnaissance planes kept watch—the need for this surveillance underscored by the recent discovery of 25-mile range Soviet bombardment missiles the United States hadn't known were in Cuba.

TENSION EASING

However, there was a general easing of tension and it was reflected in a series of developments:

The more than 1,600 B-52 and B-47 nuclear bombers of the Strategic Air Command were ordered to return to normal alert—half of them ready to take off combat-loaded within 15 minutes of warning.

About nine out of 10 SAC bombers have been on ground alert since the night of Oct. 22 when President Kennedy first closed the presence of Soviet long-range missiles in Cuba.

More than 14,000 air force reservists called to active duty with their troop-carrying squadron on Oct. 27 were told they

Professor Says Vocational Schools Hampered by Social Snobbery

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: An intense storm centre in the Hudson Bay area still controls the weather over much of Eastern Canada. Cold air is moving across the Great Lakes and this will bring an end to a short mild spell. Mainly cloudy and colder is the forecast for most of the province today. Not much change.

HOUSE STUDIES FLAG QUESTION, NO DECISION

M.P. Says Debate 100 Years Too Late

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's quest for an individual flag began in 1865—two years before Confederation—with a suggestion of "the rainbow as our emblem."

Wednesday the Commons studied the flag question for an hour but, even after 97 years, still was unable to reach a binding decision on a Canadian national emblem.

Of nine MPs who consumed the 60 minutes reserved for private members' business without bringing the flag issue to a vote, only one was in no rush for Canada to legislate for itself a national emblem.

R. G. L. Fairweather (PC-Royal) wondered "whether we need a statute-designed flag to increase our feelings about this country."

He was speaking on a motion by H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) which would set a one-year time limit on legislation to adopt a Canadian flag design.

Mr. Fairweather was against rushing into a choice. "It seems to me that this debate is 100 years too late."

"Surely we cannot compel men to assume a mantle of feeling for a flag just because a design becomes law by statute," he said.

He quoted from the works of Henry Joly de Lotbiniere who in 1865 advocated choice of the rainbow because "by the endless variety of its tints, the rainbow will give an excellent idea of the diversity of races, religions, sentiments and interests of the different parts of the Dominion."

USE ANY FLAG

Mr. Fairweather suggested that we continue our wonderful inconsistency of permitting the use of almost any flag that any particular citizen wants to fly."

Perhaps "in another generation or two" Canada could find a flag that would be acceptable to all citizens, "but it suggests to me that the image will not suffer because this time has not yet come."

Other speakers were strongly in favor of action to solve the impasse over a flag but varied in their preferences as far as design.

They emphasized the need for compromise if agreement is to be reached and several also

Feeling Around Washington Something Big to Break

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a sense of great drama in Washington as the last scenes of the Cuban conflict are played out. There is feeling that something big is about to happen. The question is: What?

Neither President Kennedy, who calls this a climatic period and a turning point in history, nor State Secretary Rusk, who says we are all on the edge of unpredictable events of high importance, has answered this question.

But both men are undoubtedly convinced that in Moscow, Peking, New Delhi, and Western capitals old policies are being reviewed and historic new decisions are in the making.

Police Fire Kills Five Negroes

South Africa Mob Slays White Girl, Man

PAARL, South Africa (Reuters)—Two white persons and at least five Negroes were killed today in a bloody predawn riot in which a 17-year-old girl, a schoolteacher, was dragged from her bed and beaten to death with iron bars and sticks.

One report put the number of Negroes dead as high as eight after police fired on a crowd of 100 knife-wielding Negroes during an outbreak of racial violence in this wine-growing town 30 miles from Cape Town.

Also dead was a 22-year-old rugby player, backed to death with knives.

Two other whites were in critical condition in a hospital.

Police said five Negroes were shot to death after they opened fire when the Negroes surrounded Paarl police station and began stoning it and trying to break in.

A police helicopter hovered over the town and policemen armed with sub-machine guns patrolled the streets while many townspeople also armed themselves in the wake of violence.

Two stores were burned by the rioters, windows smashed and cars damaged. Five Negroes were taken to a hospital with minor injuries.

A police spokesman said there was "unquestionably a dangerous underground movement" in the Paarl area. Eyewitnesses said when the Negroes rampaged into the town residents barred their doors and windows and spent "three hours of terror."

In Johannesburg, gold shares fell on the stock market following the rioting.

When the Negroes surrounded the police station only a handful of police was on night duty inside. They started shooting with their revolvers to hold the attackers off until reinforcements arrived.

When daylight came the attackers dispersed.

The rioters stoned stores near the police station, shattering windows and attempted to set fire to gas stations and other buildings.

Eighteen Negroes were arrested.

A senior police official said that attack was believed to be a reprisal for arrests Wednesday in connection with, recent killings.

He said there had been five killings — a white storekeeper chopped to death in his store, three non - European women found speared to death in a plantation, and a native whose headless body was found floating in the Berg River at Paarl.

Honor New York Matron, Maid For Sweeping Street Every Day

NEW YORK (AP)—Every morning the wife of a business executive leaves a fashionable brownstone residence on East 49th Street with her maid, each carrying a broom.

Then Mrs. Suzan Hanson and the maid, Mrs. Imelda Marquez, sweep the street, curb to curb, from Second Avenue to Third Avenue. They've been doing it for two years.

Mrs. Hanson and her husband, Lowell, head of the overseas division of the Continental Can Company, simply believe that New Yorkers should have pride in their neighborhoods.

At a result Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Marquez were among 16 civic-minded women honored at a luncheon by the citizens committee to keep New York clean.

"The boys from the sanitation department like us very much," Mrs. Hanson commented. "We're real buddies and they promised that they'll give us a cart and broom for Christmas."

15 Are Named For Seven Seats As Aldermen

No contest will be held for the seven vacancies on the public school board as only one nominee in each ward was named.

Americans Mark Thanksgiving

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans paused today to observe the Thanksgiving holiday—with prayers, feasting and family reunions.

Although the holiday's origin dates back not only to the old world but to the ancient world—the biblical accounts of harvest festivals — thanksgiving is recalled by Americans as a United States custom and a tribute to the country's way of giving thanks for the bounty of its wealth, both material and spiritual.

Since the pilgrims first observed thanksgiving in 1621, the holiday has survived wars, crises, and depressions. More than any other national holiday it continues to mirror American spirit and spirituality.

Delay Study of Papal Infallibility So as to Avoid Increased Discord

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic ecumenical council today found itself spared for a while the potentially troublesome task of taking a new look at papal infallibility.

A thesis on modern communications and entertainment is to be discussed when the council fathers return to St. Peter's Basilica Friday after a day off.

Pope John gave word Wednesday that a thesis on divine revelation, on which the prelates had been unable to agree for more than a week, would be held up while a special commission reworks it.

That meant a new topic would have to be introduced. The one on communications and entertainment was chosen.

Some sources said it was moved ahead of a thesis entitled "De Ecclesia" (of the church) because of this theological topic could have brought into the council hall even greater discord than the revelation thesis caused.

The 28-chapter "De Ecclesia" thesis is said to include an outline of how the world's Roman Catholic bishops share in the infallibility claimed for the Pope.

The Vatican council of 93 years ago declared as doctrine that a Pope is without error when defining, as Pope, a doctrine on faith or morals.

Accused Changes Plea After Judge Admits Statement; Will Be Sentenced Friday

A 23-year-old Belleville man suddenly reversed his plea of not guilty on a safe-robbery charge in Belleville yesterday.

Archibald Wilfred Murray pleaded guilty immediately after Judge J. C. Anderson ordered a statement he had made to police on his arrest, be admitted as evidence before a jury at the current Hastings County General Sessions of the Peace.

Admissibility of the statement was the key issue in the trial and the jury was excluded shortly after the hearing began yesterday while crown prosecutor John Pringle and defence counsel Robert Temple argued its legal propriety.

The court was told Murray made the statement to city police inspector J. C. Mc-Lauchlan following his being charged with breaking, entering and theft of Booth Radio and TV May 25. A safe containing over $1,000 in cash was taken from the store and later found wrecked in a Sidney township field two miles north of the city.

Mr. Temple held the statement was made after the possibility of legal treatment had been intimated to the accused by city detective Harold Reid.

After hearing evidence from the plainclothes officer Judge Anderson ruled out the defence contention. He said in his opinion no expectation of leniency was held out to Murray by the officer.

"I have come to the conclusion in this case the statement that was made to Inspector McLauchlan was free and voluntary in every sense of the word."

Therefore, he ruled, the statement should be admitted before the jury.

"Your honor" immediately interposed Mr. Temple, "my client wishes to change his plea".

The jury was recalled and Murray formally entered a plea of guilty.

"Have your direct you", the judge told the jury members, as a matter of law — and in a matter of law you must take no direction — that you bring in a verdict of guilty".

After the formal verdict had been registered Mr. Pringle suggested sentence be delayed on Murray until a character report was submitted the court by the county probation officer.

Judge Anderson remanded Murray in custody until Friday for sentence.

The statement, which caused what the judge called "a little bit concern" to the jury in the trial, was never read in court, despite a request from crown attorney Pringle.

"If the hearing goes to appeal I think inspector McLauchlan should be available and the statement should be entered as part of the record of the trial", he claimed.

"How would a court of appeal be interested in the statement", the judge queried, adding he saw no necessity for it.

"It is hard to say what a court of appeal might be interested in. Perhaps I'm being overly cautious", conceded the prosecutor. "However, I bow to your honor's years of experience".

Despite Heavy Fog Accidents Were Minor

District police traffic patrols kept their fingers crossed during the night, as heavy fog in the Belleville area crossed up driving conditions.

The heavy mist rolled across the district about 1 a.m. and blanketed the area for much of the night.

It lifted well with daylight—leaving no serious incidents in its wake.

The only traffic accident of consequence to that time occurred on Belleville, and had nothing to do with the fog.

A 37-year-old Trenton man escaped injury yesterday afternoon when his automobile veered out of control on Dundas Street West and took out a hydro pole.

Police said William James Richardson, Third Street, Trenton, braked his automobile as a car ahead turned off the highway. His vehicle went into a skid, slewed onto the sidewalk and struck the pole.

The accident occurred just west of Oakland Ave.

Merchants Seek Council Funds For Santa Parade

TRENTON — The Christmas spirit was evident at Frankford council meeting last night, when Bill Rose and Roy Lockwood appeared on behalf of village merchants to seek funds for a Santa Claus parade. Council was told that five bands are expected to take part in the parade, together with floats, majorettes, Boy Scouts from Brighton and other youth movements. It is also planned to distribute up to two thousand bags of candy. The Frankford Branch of the Canadian Legion, which will supply the Santa Claus float, has already pledged $250 towards the event, and the Ladies' Auxiliary has promised $100. Council, on a motion by Warmen Mikel, agreed to give the organizers $50 and best wishes for a fine day. The date of the parade will be advertised later.

Council read a letter from the building inspector in which he said a building destroyed by a recent fire should be demolished. The inspector suggested Reeve Frank Rabel reminded councillors that present bylaws do not give the inspector authority to condemn such buildings. However, most councillors agreed that the inspector should have the power, and the by-law will be studied and amended if necessary.

Council appointed Ray Monroe as the village's representative on the five line Quinte Shell School Board. He will serve a two-year term on the board, together with Councillor Lockwood. Other Quinte District municipalities, beginning Jan. 1st.

Four of these were for commercial dwellings, 13 for residential dwellings and 15 for residential additions. The total assessment thus far this year has been $132,350, with a "real" assessment of $315,000. The total for the year's building activity will be forwared to the Federal bureau of Statistics, which is asking all municipalities for building reports so it can compile national statistics on construction.

Gerald Wishart Installed District Governor of Kiwanis

Forty delegates from eight Kiwanis Clubs from Port Hope to Kingston were present yesterday afternoon to attend the business sessions of the first district lieutenant-governor's conference held under the direction of Gerald A. Wishart of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

In the evening close to 80 were present to see Mr. Wishart installed as their 1963 lieutenant-governor for district 6A of Kiwanis International following a dinner meeting at the Tops Motel.

During the afternoon session the Kiwanis International theme for 1963 "Responsibility, the Key to Freedom" was presented to the delegates as well as the division's goals for increased membership attendance and club participation in international projects.

Following this the delegates, most of whom were stepping into club executive positions for the 1963 year, were split into training sessions according to the various duties which they would be performing for their clubs during the coming year.

The training sessions were handled by past lieutenant-governors E. M. Parker and E. W. Weaver of Trenton, W. G. "Bill" Slade of Belleville and Charles Smith of Kingston and 1962 lieutenant-governor Evan Black of West Kingston.

During the evening session Mr. Wishart was inducted by Mr. Black.

Before his retirement as lieutenant-governor, Mr. Black presented the Len Punnard Shield to the Madoc Kiwanians for having the best percentage attendance at the district convention held in Halifax this past September. He also presented President George Hume of the Belleville club with the Lieutenant-Governor's Ribbon for best club performance during the third quarter of the current year. This was the third ribbon in a row earned by the local club.

On his retirement, Mr. Black expressed his appreciation of the splendid co-operation which the clubs in the district had given him during his tour of duty.

Lieutenant-Governor Wishart spoke on the increasing role of Kiwanis internationally and noted the current activity which would result in Kiwanis clubs being established outside of the North American continent.

He urged that each club in the district start some service project to help people in new and underdeveloped countries. He noted that much could be done by Kiwanians in the realm of improving international relations and stressed the importance of such action in the modern world.

2 Manholes of New Sewer Found Filled With Stones

Never let it be said that the days of working for nothing are over.

If there were any doubts about the matter they were completely dispelled with the discovery recently that mischievous persons had filled two manholes in the still unused East Belleville trunk sanitary sewer with rocks.

The discovery was made as a check was made of the sewer before connecting it into the new sewage disposal plant in Foster Ward.

Manhole covers weighing closed to 100 pounds were lifted off the sewer and the sewer filled with stones.

"If you asked kids to do that much work they would scream to high heaven," moaned a project inspector, "and here they go and do it for nothing."

Deseronto Girl Said Missing Since Nov. 10

Deseronto police are seeking the whereabouts of a 15-year-old girl missing since November 10.

She is Margaret Louise Viry, and police say she is believed to be in the company of a 19-year-old youth.

She is described as 5' 5" in height, weighing 115 lbs., with short-cut brown hair and full features.

When last seen she was wearing a purple sweater and plaid skirt under a black coat.

Any persons who can help trace her whereabouts are asked to contact the Deseronto police.

Adequate Fluorine Supply Essential for Healthy Teeth

By McCOLL METCALFE
M.O.H. for Belleville

Sound teeth in the child makes for sound teeth in the adult. The development of healthy teeth in children is impossible by diet alone, when an adequate amount of fluorine is not available. Also without an adequate amount of fluorine the child's bones will not develop normal strength and toughness.

In the case of every great discovery in the field of prevention, there were objections even from the medical profession. Who, today, would want to go back to the days before pasteurization, chlorination and vaccination. Fluoridation, like pasteurization, chlorination and vaccination is not treatment of any disease but is along with diet a preventive measure against caries in children and adults eventually.

One argument brought forward by opponents of fluoridation — "Why add fluoride to communal water supply which is going to be used to wash your automobile, wash down the streets, etc.; why not rely on pills for fluoride?" The answer given by Dr. Gordon Bates of the Health League of Canada— "If children have to rely on pills for their fluoride only approximately with rich parents will get them."

Pills are expensive. With fluoride added to the communal water supply, parents would not have to impose the discipline to give their children these pills regularly.

Costs Exactly Twice the Fine Levelled in Case

Costs were exactly twice the fine levied against a Belleville man charged with careless driving in magistrate's court this morning. Witness costs against 32 - year - old Godfrey Morris amounted to $50, after Acting Crown Attorney said one of the witnesses had been summoned from Toronto.

"In view of the costs I will make the fine $25," said Magistrate T. Y. Wills. "I was going to make it more; he added, giving Morris three weeks to pay.

The charge originally in new heard in detail October 11 after Morris was charged following an accident on Highway 33 between Frankford and Stirling.

Police alleged Morris, by driving on the wrong side of the road, had caused the mishap between two cars that had pulled out to pass him.

Police investigation into the incident also resulted in Morris being charged with having no driver's licence.

The magistrate fined him $10 and $2.50 costs on the charge this morning.

HOLD UP MAIL TRUCK

MONTREAL (CP) — Three hooded men, two of them armed with pistols, escaped with 10 bags of registered mail Wednesday night from a post office truck in the north-end. They stopped the truck by swinging their own car in front of it.

Man Charged With Possessing Stolen Cheese

The third criminal trial with in a week opened before the current Hastings county general sessions of the peace in Belleville this morning.

Before Judge J. C. Anderson and a county jury Robert Vincent Orr of Belleville was charged with illegal possession of cheese stolen from the Black Diamond Cheese warehouse at the city's government dock May 26.

A company employee told the court 11 large cheese were discovered missing from a stored lot of 11,000 following a break-in at the warehouse.

The warehouse is located in the same building as the Belleville Harbor Commission offices. City police constable Thomas Davidson told the court entry to the warehouse was made by forcing a washroom window in the Commission premises.

Other testimony on evidence of the break-in was related by OPP constable Don Byers, identification officer at Belleville provincial police district headquarters.

Belleville lawyer D. P. Boyle is defending Orr.

The prosecutor is crown attorney John Pringle.

GIANT BOBBY

LONDON (CP) — Constable Jim Carrol, 245-pound terror of London's tough dockland, has retired. He once tackled six drunken seamen, knocking them all out and breaking two truncheons in the process.

Three Arrested After Break-in Is Discovered

A spot police check of an automobile on Bridge Street East this morning resulted in the discovery of a service-station breakin and three men being held in custody.

Police did not immediately release the names of the trio, but said they were believed from Western Ontario, where their identities are being checked.

They are being held on charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Detectives this morning were still checking the contents of the automobile impounded when the three men were arrested.

The car was stopped by the crew of a police cruiser on patrol in the city's eastern suburbs.

Officers became suspicious, made a preliminary search of the vehicle and checked the area.

The break-in was discovered at Mulrooney's service station at the intersection of Herchimer Avenue and East Dundas Street.

Alderman Ellis Admits Jumping Gun a Little

"I was mis-informed — I jumped the gun a little."

This was the apology Alderman Jack Ellis had today following his statement at Monday evening's council meeting that roadways in the Asondale district had been regraded and oiled after being dug up in recent months for sewer, installation.

Following complaints from residents in the area that "it wasn't so," Alderman Ellis with Mayor Haig, Aldermen Joseph Raycroft and finance committee chairman, Ald. Ross Bailey, with representatives from the city engineering department yesterday went over the roads in the Avondale and Parkdale districts and found them in reasonably good condition, considering recent heavy rainfall.

They learned that Avondale Road and Wright Ave. had actually been graded but a day or so later than council had understood.

Something New in Warfare

The Chinese have managed to add something new to modern warfare.

This is the unilateral truce. The Chinese just plan to stop fighting, although they will defend themselves if fired upon.

There is nothing illogical about the Chinese action. Indeed the difficulty is that it is much too logical to be readily accepted by the Western mind, or apparently by the Indian mind, either.

There have been suggestions the truce is just a trap—that it is designed to provide the Chinese troops with a rest period while they regroup and bring up reinforcements. But one does not generally take out time to regroup just when the enemy's resistance crumbles, as has India's in the hill country guarding the plains of Assam.

Apparently the Chinese had a limited—and easily understandable—objective. They were not after a potentially valuable hydro power site, where the Brahmaputra River takes a great bend, but were merely seeking to gain undisputable possession of the area through which they have built a road from Sinkiang to Tibet.

The Chinese propose to negotiate behind the positions held by them on Nov. 7, 1959. On the northeast frontier, where they have gained their more startling successes, this will mean they will actually retire behind the McMahon Line, which India regards as the border and which China disputes. On the northwest, though, India did not, in 1959, occupy all the terrain it claims, and here the Chinese will retain that territory through which its highway to Tibet runs.

The Chinese "unilateral" truce has the advantage of giving them all of their apparently strictly limited objectives, while at the same time presenting to the world an appearance of conciliation and reasonableness.

Y.M.C.A. Fees

A letter to the editor appeared on this page recently in which the writer criticized the YMCA for charging additional fees for those who wished to take part in its activities or, at least, for charging too high a fee.

It was argued that inasmuch as the YMCA is a member of the Belleville United Appeal there should be either no charge or but a nominal charge made for those who would take part in its activities.

In principle we must agree. An organization which is supported by public funds should not, as the writer suggested, discriminate between who will or will not be able to take part in these activities via a monetary device. In fact, of course, there should be no discrimination whatsoever on any grounds.

Also, in fact, we have no knowledge of the YMCA ever having practised discrimination on any level. Very much to the contrary, the "Y" is noted for being an international meeting ground for people of many faiths, races, nationalities and backgrounds and it is on the strength of this philosophy that the "Y" has been so well received in so many countries of the world where people are normally suspicious of western people and their intentions.

There is, however, a quite practical side to the letter-writer's point. The "Y" does not, and could not, maintain its present level of activities and advantages solely on the income it receives from the United Appeal. It is a member of the United Appeal because its desire to serve the people of the community has required that it carry on a large and varied program of activities.

Too many people do not realize just how much activity the local "Y" sponsors or directs in this community. Swimming and sports are the average citizen's impression of the scope of the "Y". Actually these are but a small part of the overall picture.

A much better idea of just what the "Y" does in Belleville can be quite easily determined by any citizen who wishes to step into the front door and examine the daily schedule of activities, usually posted for a couple of weeks ahead of time, which is located on the lectern in the foyer.

Factually it is correct to say that the current fees, although a few may consider them to be high, are but nominal—and the purchaser of an annual YMCA membership, whatever his age group, certainly receives a bargain for his money. Actually, when one adds up the number of times a member is entitled to partake in the various activities offered, the membership fees become ridiculously low.

Here and there, there may be people who believe they have a grievance against the YMCA, but there is no question the "Y" is a great asset to this community.

Every Vote Counts in Tense, Mixed-up Parliament

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—These relatively close votes in this "Parliament of Minorities" are causing all kinds of complications.

While a margin of eight votes—the closest in the Government set for has had in a series of continuing Opposition challenges — might seem substantial enough, it is an extremely tight squeak compared to the overwhelmingly lop-sided majorities that successive Administrations have for years enjoyed.

The vote balance between Conservatives, Liberals, Social Credit and the New Democrats is close and more than uncertain enough to make every MP count.

The situation becomes even tighter when a little leeway has to be allowed for absentee MPs away for unavoidable reasons or illness or urgent personal or family business.

So far, those who remain, and all hands are sticking close to Parliament Hill as they never have for years, it is in the case of it being "time for all good men to come to the aid of the party."

STAYING PUT

The other day, with one of those too-close-for-comfort votes approaching, External Affairs Minister Green was caught some 3,000 miles off Parliamentary base in his home constituency of Vancouver-Quadra.

Trapped, too, was Conservative MP Stuard Fleming, in his home-riding of Okanagan-Revelstoke.

There was one way out, by air, and together Green and Fleming high-tailed east by jet to Ottawa and the commons in time to cast their votes.

And there was other hardly less frantic scurrying and hurrying by both Liberals and Conservatives with absentee MPs racing in by air, by train, by car and by car and plane from western Ontario.

It no doubt will be Green that now he will not-leave the Capital even for the United Nations except on weekends.

Veteran hands around the Commons are saying it is just like old times.

Back in the Twenties, they recall, when it was nip and tuck in Parliament between Mackenzie King and Arthur Meighen, the division bells, they are sounded off all the MPs for a vote, were kept ringing for hours and hours while a special train lighted and heated Montreal with straying members who had played hookey from the House for a night or two in town among the bright lights.

Last time things were this tense was back some 40 years ago when, just after the war, Mackenzie King by less than a comfortable majority.

On one vote, suddenly called late Friday afternoon—when the Montreal and Toronto MPs like to head for home — "Macking" kept the division bells ringing and ringing and ringing until the strays were rounded up and hustled back to Ottawa.

The two afternoon trains out of Ottawa had to be flagged down, one some 30 miles down the line, and the early "week-ending" MP hookey-players hustled into cabs and hustled back to Parliament Hill.

It was a slightly different story of a generation ago during the three-week "Battle of the Pipeline."

The Government had the votes — to spare — but it became more than that. It was an issue of political life, literally, with the Liberals demanding that every one of their MP's stand up and be counted.

There were 53 separate votes altogether and on several nights, the House sweated and spore its weary way through till dawn.

On those first two or three post-midnight votes, the Government had to keep the division bells ringing — it seems now, in memory, almost forever — while the hapless early-to-bed MP's were rooted out of the sack in the downtown hotels and apartments, were hauled back, sleepy-eyed, to the House to do their voting duty.

Nehru's Mistake

Christian Science Monitor

The Indian leaders honorably believed with significant exceptions, that Asian geography recently freed from colonial yoke would never flagrantly attack a neighboring people which was similarly liberated and newly independent. They were mistaken. It has taken agonizing weeks under constant hammering from the Indian press and much of public opinion for Mr. Nehru to readjust.

Letter to The Editor

Voices Opposition To Fluoridation

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

Two thoughtful letters have recently been written and published in your "Letters to the Editor" by Mr. Wm. G. Rowland and Dr. Harold Craig. I wish to use your columns to submit information and views covering the fluoridation of our water supply which will in part answer the points referred to above.

I am writing this letter as a private citizen and any views expressed do not in any way necessarily express the views of the Utilities Commission as a whole. In a previous "Letter to the Editor" I gave the Utilities official version of the cost. In this letter again I mention I am expressing only my own views. In addition to the letters referred to above, I have heard on several occasions, "what do the Utilities know about fluoridation?" My personal answer from my technical scientific approach, "nothing," but being civic minded, also a bit curious, I spent a little time to collect information from reliable sources to weigh the matter and then make a decision and which every voter also will have to make on December 3rd, 1962.

First in getting in touch with the manager of the Kingston Utilities, who is a personal friend, I learned that the Kingston Utilities were ordered to install fluoridation equipment by the City, but this equipment has never been used as the people of Kingston and City Council turned the proposal down four years ago. I went further afield in my investigations. To mention a few: Brockville; Brantford; Oshawa; Calgary; New York City; New York; Miami, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Sarasota, Florida; Johnstown, Pennsylvania and other cities.

The opinions and information received were very conflicting from laymen, engineers and doctors. Extravagant and over exaggerated opinions were expressed in regard to its value and also hazards to health. Claims were made that adding fluorides to water would totally eliminate tooth decay and dental bills. The middle of the road view would appear that fluorides have some value perhaps eliminating tooth decay by 60 percent in children up to 8 or 10 years of age.

We also learned that:

(a) Sodium fluoride is a lethal poison which is, according to the Food and Drug regulations of Canada: 33 times as poisonous as arsenic, 50 times as poisonous as arsenic compounds and almost 30,000 times as dangerous as sodium.

(b) 1 P.P.M. (1 part per million) is not dangerous but very seldom is this reached in extremely hazardous to health.

(c) It has a tendency to accumulate in the human body over the years and can reach toxic levels, especially in elderly people and those under medical attention.

(d) The poison may concentrate in the kidneys and give boiling vegetables, etc to a danger point.

(e) That it will not stay in suspension in water, hence a tendency to settle in the mains in our waterworks and pipes and with a surge of pressure in the flow of water could contribute with the possibility that the tap concentration may be several P.P.M's.

(f) The Drug Laws of Canada prohibit it in food in any concentration.

My friend, Dr. Craig, mentioned the Mordon Report in his letter as his authority for fluoridation. I also have a copy of this report. Many of the recommendations in this report are highly debatable. Dr. S. W. Leslie, M.D. D.D.S. of Toronto, gave evidence against fluoridation before the Ontario Fluoridation Investigating Committee during their hearings in 1960. The Mordon Report was presented to the Provincial Government on 31st, January, 1961.

On page 81, paragraph 118 of this report a statement is made a statement which was absolutely contrary to that made by Dr. Leslie. Dr. Leslie is in Europe when this Report was made public. Upon his return seeing this statement he immediately wrote Hon. Dr. Dymond, the Provincial Minister of Health. Dr. Dymond has stated he approached Mr. Justice Mordon, chairman of the Report, re. According to Dr. Dymond, Mr. Morden was very disturbed, however, before he could take any action he died suddenly.

On November 27th, 1961, Dr. Dymond replied to Dr. Leslie and drew the attention of the Legislature and as a result an apology was tendered Dr. Leslie. This matter was later published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal and reprinted in the Hansard. Dr. Dymond's statement to the Legislature is contained in the Legislative Debates of November 27th, 1961.

Also I have another 48-page report on the current status of fluoridation which was given at a Medical and Dental Conference held in New York City, March 7, 1958, also the names and addresses of some 600 doctors and dentists who attended this conference. Their resolution condemns the addition of artificial fluorides to the public water supplies. New York City water is not fluoridated.

The United States Association of Physicians and Surgeons Inc. with a membership of 20,000 at a meeting held in California on April 12, 1958 by resolution condemned fluoridation. I have a certified copy of the resolution passed in this conference.

So it is plain to see that there is confusion among the experts. The public at large is beginning to realize that there is more to this fluoridation issue than the propaganda of compulsory medication of public water supplies would lead one believe. Medical, chemical and other scientific opinion most decidedly is not unanimous in the medical aspects of the matter, although this disagreement is ignored completely by the press in favor of the use of fluorides.

Dr. J. J. Rae, Ph.D., Professor of Chemistry at the teaching staff at the University of Toronto states that the fluorides found naturally in water are usually calcium fluoride (fluorite) which can be assimilated by the body. Artificially fluoridated water contains sodium fluoride which is inorganic and is a deadly poison which when taken in into the body is deposited in the bones, teeth and other organs. Further that no reputable medical or dental body will go on record as guaranteeing the harmlessness of adding fluorides to water. He claims that it is impossible to tell how much fluoride, many times none of the artificial fluoride experiments, have gone on long enough.

The governing body of the Canadian Society for Scientific Study of Food, Water and Air Contaminants, Toronto, is also of interest. It is as follows: president, S. W. Leslie, M.D., D.D.S.; first vice-president, J. J. Rae, M.D. Ph. D. Professor of Chemistry; second vice-president, Keith Box, D.D.S.; secretary, Leo V. Roy, B.A. M.D.; treasurer, Gordon Johnson, D.D.S.

Dr. L. V. Roy, secretary of the Society, said that the organization following a review of nearly 8,000 scientific documents in the Provincial Government on 31st, January. 1961.

On page 81, paragraph 118 of this report a statement which was absolutely contrary to that made by Dr. Leslie. Dr. Leslie is in Europe when this Report was made public. 20 YEARS AGO

November 22nd, 1942.

Many friends of Mrs. Clarence Holmes of R.R. 3, Belleville, Ont., wish to express hearty congratulations on their election recently as president of the 1,200 Women's Institutes of Ontario. It has been pointed out that this is a signal honor, as it is the first time during the 45 years of the existence of the Institutes, that a Belleville member has been placed at the head of one of the most helpful combination of women in all Canada. The following record speaks for itself: Mrs. Holmes has been a member of Ontario Women's Institutes for seventeen years, and has occupied progressively the following offices: (a) President of her local Wallbridge Institute; (b) President of the West Hastings District; (c) Chairman of the Belleville area convention committee (Northumberland, Hastings and Prince Edward counties; (d) member of the Board of Directors for years; and finally (e) President of Women's Institutes of Ontario.

For the third consecutive day in succession the police police court was declared unsullied. No arrests for serious misconduct have been recorded, but a matter of a period of 72 hours.

The water in the Moira River here is abnormally low for the season for many months owing to the light rainfall during the autumn and the necessity of damming back the water upstream. This dam has had a slight cooling of ice on the surface.

Mr. David Price has left to spend the winter at Chesterville with his son, Mr. Frank Price, manager of the branch of the Molsons Bank there.

The Rt. Rev. A. D. Dewdney, Bishop of Keewatin, will be in the city this weekend, and will preach in Christ Church on Sunday morning and St. Thomas' Church in the evening. He will be the guest of Archdeacon the Ven. E. J. Boddy at St. Thomas' Rectory.

Doctor's Patients Must Not Jump to Conclusions

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

One thing a doctor must never do is to jump to conclusions. Neither should patients.

Recently I was taken to task by a reader for not recommending some medication for a child with abdominal pain. This reader, having learned a de-worming method, had been passing it on to relatives and neighbors whenever anyone complained of stomach cramps.

My thanks for her well-meant suggestion, but worms are not the sole explanation of belly-ache. I'm not one to minimize the prevalence of intestinal worms. On the contrary, I've done at least my share in pointing out how frequent they are. But proper de-worming procedures usually involve the use of rather vigorous cathartis. There has to be a thorough, forceful enough to destroy both worms and eggs.

Use of such strong medications could be disastrous if the bellyache happened to be an inflamed appendix. This is a highly probable way of making it rupture. Either intussusception or partial obstruction of the bowel, can cause cramps but must not be treated in this manner. Recurrent pain could be due to kidney infection. Enlargement of lymph glands can cause abdominal pains in children. So can food allergies.

Worms? Perhaps at times but frequently the worms cause irritation, nervousness, teeth-grinding and the like without ever making the child (or adult, for that matter) complain of stomach pain.

On the other hand, pinworms are invariably produce rectal itching. (Tape worms or round worms can cause vague stomach distress.) In all cases, eggs, worms, or segments of worms can be found by proper stool examination. (For pinworms a very simple test is to use a strip of sticky tape which will trap the worms or eggs if they are present.)

There are very good reasons to be sure that the trouble is worms and not something else. Abdominal pain demands careful examination, and it is not safe to jump to conclusions.

Dear Dr. Molner: I thought the ovaries were stationary, but my doctor says my right one is down behind the womb. How could this happen? What can be done? (No name)

Well, I'd stop worrying, if that's all that's bothering you. The ovaries normally are held in position at the side of the uterus by certain ligaments, but it is not unusual for them to be displaced. It isn't a serious condition and requires no treatment and is no cause for concern. Unless, of course, the ovary is large and cystic and causing symptoms, but that's quite another matter.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend told me her child had the pills that made her not want to eat, and they worked. Where could I get such pills to help me reduce? — C.C.

The same place your friend did — from a doctor's prescription. I don't think pills are necessary for a person who really wants to lose weight. She will do it if you stick to the proper food.

Appetite-depressing pills make it easier to stay on a reducing diet. However, they teach children you good eating habits afterwards. And you can't keep on with the pills indefinitely.

For another point, these pills can have unpleasant side effects: nervousness, jitters, sleeplessness. They should be taken, if at all, only under a doctor's direction, as your friend did.

Of all the problems that pediatricians are asked to diagnose, ploworm is the commonest. THE PACKSACK

—by GREGORY CLARK

If we stopped calling it Communism and started calling it Absolutism, the true nature of our objection to it would be clarified in our minds.

It is perfectly normal that Russia and its satellites, and only Russia, should embrace Communism, which allows of no opposition, and it has been normal for Absolutism, because the Russians and the Chinese have never known anything but absolutism throughout their history. It was not surprising that Germany and Italy should find a welcome for the absolutism of Fascism because they too, until quite lately, have always known only the iron heel of absolute rulers.

How preposterous is the hope of advocates of Communism for

Why did cities like Edmonton, New York, New Orleans, Detroit and Boston study and reject the measure? Why have over 100 cities (with millions of people) voted it out of communities in the United States that previously had fluoridation?

Why did Trenton, Pembroke, Fort William, Brantford, Port Arthur, Tecumseh, Fort Hope, Stouffville, Kapuskasing and Cochrane (all) reject fluoridation of their water supply last December while only four towns in Ontario voted in favor? To date, two-thirds of the votes on fluoridation in Canada have been cast against it.

Countries that refuse to add it to their water supplies: Sweden, Denmark, Norway, France, Italy, Switzerland, Russia and Germany.

As a private citizen and a member of the Utilities Commission, I have always advocated that the right of the individual should be recognized and that everyone should have a vote on this important question. The council of our Corporation so decided and you will have the right to vote on this question December 3, 1962. I have the fullest confidence in the integrity and intelligence of our citizens to make their own decisions and as your Commissioner, I will gladly implement your wishes as expressed by the result of the vote.

Again personally, as a private citizen of Belleville, I am in favor of the fluoridation of our water supplies at this time.

John Weese.

Today in History

Nov. 22, 1962 . . .

The French - language newspaper Le Canadien was founded by Liberal party members of the Lower Canada legislature 136 years ago today—in 1826. Until then French-language newspapers were mostly literary journals or news sheets containing little but translations from the English. It published only one edition before it was ordered closed by the government but was revived and closed several times before its stormy career ended in the early 20th century.

1922—The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair first opened in Toronto.

1850—Two passenger trains crashed in New York killing 76 persons.

Failed to File Income Tax Return

A Belleville-district man was fined $25 this morning for failing to file an income tax return.

Karl Jatel, R. R. 3, Belleville, did not appear to answer the charge before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The magistrate ordered a plea of not guilty be entered for Jatel, then convicted him after hearing evidence from an RCMP constable.

Henry Burton, formerly of Trenton, moved to Germany Landing in 1955. Eighty-seven years old, he hurt his back recently, digging up stones to make a stone fence beside his house.

87-Year-Old Pensioner Finds Life Most Enjoyable At German's Landing

German's Landing near Percy Reach of the Trent River, is a quiet place during the winter, when only seven of the 24 homes and cottages are occupied. Frosty and remote, in terms of city life, it has advantages city people may fail to appreciate.

Eighty-seven-year old Henry Burton, formerly of Trenton summed up one of the advantages nicely. "You are breathing fresh air out here", he says, "in the cities, you're not. I notice the difference as soon as I get to Trenton. In plain English, cities stink". Mr. Burton, a pensioner, moved to German's Landing in 1955. He finds winter cold usually about five degrees colder than that reported by Belleville radio, but his coal stove can keep the house warm to floor level.

Mr. Burton began the chain of events that eventually led him to German's Landing, during the First World War, in England. Perhaps the story began when British anti-aircraft fire brought down a Zeppelin in the Thames. One of the survivors was nursed, in Queen Mary's Hospital, London, by a young American who had come out to care for the American forces. Before he died, the German gave her an epaulet from his uniform, and his Iron Cross, Germany's highest award for valor.

MET NURSE AGAIN

Later, Henry Burton met the nurse in London. They went to several parties together, but they lost touch, after the war, when Juliette returned to the U.S.

Henry Burton married in Canada, and his wife died of cancer soon after. In 1922, he went on a trip to visit his sister, in Tonawanda, N.Y. When he arrived he found his niece had been injured in an accident, and was in the local hospital. Visiting the hospital, Henry was introduced to Juliette, the same nurse he had known in England. The couple were married in the U.S.A., and returned up to live in Trenton.

During 1952, Juliette Burton died, like Henry's first wife, of cancer. Henry knew there was something unusual in her will, she had hinted as much with the phrase, "you won't let me down, will you?", but it wasn't until after her death that he found out. She had willed her body to cancer research.

Juliette's body went to Kingston, but her memory stays in Trenton, sustained by a cairn on the Trenton Hospital grounds. Henry built the cairn himself, with material supplied by the town council, and a copy of Juliette's will is sealed, in a glass jar, inside it.

STORED WITH LEGION

Henry Burton sent Juliette's Iron Cross, and the epaulet, to the Trenton branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, where they are now stored.

Without his wife, Henry Burton found Trenton a cold and lonely town. Nearly 80 years old at the time, he held a job caring for an apartment block, but he found no satisfaction in the work. In 1955 he found out about German's Landing, and moved out to the settlement. He has lived there since.

foot width of the river, over the logs. The log drives died out with the building of the locks, however. The last logging operation along the river was about 1930, when Trenton Cooperage Mills used a boat to herd logs down to Trenton.

ON QUIET STRETCH

The present settlement began about 1927, when John Nelson's father built his first cottage there. Since then, cottages were built slowly until after the Second World War, when a boom doubled the total in a few years.

The Landing is on a quiet stretch of the river, five miles from the nearest lock. There is one road in from a cross-roads, about a mile away, still called Maple View in memory of a post office removed nearly 50 years ago. From the channel some boats using the Trent system come into the town, to buy gas or supplies at John Nelson's store, the only one in the settlement. The swimming and fishing are good, in the summer, and weekends usually see people from nearby towns, and farms out to enjoy the river.

Now, with a thin film of ice forming over backwaters in the river, the few summer people in sight have come up to close their cottages. Henry Burton has broken his boat up for firewood — he plans to make a new one for next year, and has put his outboard motor in storage. His winter supply of coal is in, and a winter supply of feed is out for the birds. With everything ready, he and the others, full-time residents can relax and await the first snow. They find time to relax at German's Landing.

Feeling

crises at almost the same time last month is responsible for this belief. They are the crises between the United States and Russia over Cuba, between Russia and Red China over India, and between Red China and India over their undeclared border war. All three have left loose feves which, in their final impact, must have a profound influence on the future course of international relations.

The showdown between Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev over the installation of Soviet weapons in Cuba probably holds the greatest threat and the greatest hope for the future. In general terms, two courses are open to Washington and Moscow. Either they can move toward some adjustment of their differences, such as those toward arms control agreements, or they can get ready for the next disastertype conflagration.

From the U.S. point of view, the chief long-range gain of the Caribbean crisis was to show Khrushchev that Kennedy would face the full risk of nuclear war in defence of vital U.S. interests and commitments. The important question now is whether Khrushchev chooses to avoid disastrous challenges in the future or to arm more powerfully for even greater risks hereafter.

The immediate result of the Cuban crisis is to roll Soviet nuclear power back thousands of miles onto Soviet territory. But the experts agree that it is only a matter of time until Soviet nuclear submarines can restore Russian security from points close to shore.

There is a parallel between the Soviet sea power play in the Western Hemisphere and the Red Chinese invasion of India. In each case there was a show of force to achieve a political objective. The Russians are believed to have been alarmed by U.S. surrender over Berlin before they were thwarted. The Communist leaders in Peking wanted full control of long disputed territory on India's northern border. Probably they also were determined to humiliate India by military defeat, and thus assert dominance in Asia.

SCHEME MAY BACKFIRE

But, while the Chinese proved military superior, their scheme threatens to backfire. They have compelled Prime Minister Nehru to face the weakness of his neutralist policy and to seek large-scale U.S. military assistance.

Nehru must now decide whether he will relax once more into a kind of pacifist neutrality or arm with long-term American help. He has no guarantees that the Chinese will not invade again.

Among Western diplomats, there has been a widely held theory that, in attacking India, the Red Chinese wanted to force Russia's hand in the long power struggle within the Communist bloc. The issue between Peking and Moscow has centred on which of them should lead the bloc, and whether methods of force should be preferred to the methods of economic and political pressures and indirect aggression.

Khrushchev has usually advocated the less risky methods of expanding Communist power—a fact which made his Cuban venture all the more astonishing. In line with this policy, he has courted the friendship of India and other neutralist or non-aligned nations, though China is his ally despite all their differences.

BRINGS ON CRISIS?

U.S. officials assume that the Chinese - Indian crisis has brought on a hidden crisis between Peking and Moscow, with future effects on both their policies which are, for the moment, incalculable.

An open split between them would change the political map of the world. It would raise the serious possibility of trouble between the two great Communist countries along their extensive Asian borders. It would open up a whole new range of possibilities for the Western powers as the Russians adjusted to unprecedented new conditions.

Should the effect of the strains be to enhance Soviet power within the bloc, and should Khrushchev now choose as a result of the Cuban crisis to move into a period of peaceful adjustments with the West, the result could be to move the whole world back farther from the brink of nuclear war.

PIANIST DIES

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Jack L. Lee, 58, a pianist, who once played with the orchestras of Paul Whiteman, Meyer Davis, and Bobby Hackett, died Wednesday at his home here.

North Koreans Attack Post

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — An American soldier was killed and another injured in a hand grenade attack by North Korean Communist soldiers Tuesday night, a UN command spokesman said today.

The soldiers were manning a UN observation post in the demilitarized zone of the western Korean front.

The spokesman said this was the first known attack by North Korea soldiers on an observation post manned by Americans since the Korean armistice of 1953.

He described it as an "unprovoked, vicious and speedy attack".

The incident occurred near the western end of the 150-mile long demilitarized zone, some 25 miles north of Seoul.

The attackers tossed five grenades. One exploded inside the observation post, 350 yards south of the demarcation line. Three others exploded on the outside.

Insane Make Counterfeit Pound Notes

LONDON (AP)—The Sunderland magistrates court was shocked to learn Wednesday that inmates of Her Majesty's hospital for the criminally insane, Broadmoor, have been making and passing counterfeit money.

Three persons were committed for trial for having passed pound ($3.00) notes manufactured by inmates with permission of hospital authorities. The prosecutor said the bank notes were for use by the prison amateur theatrical society.

"I understand," he told the court, "that the prisoners have a very strong amateur dramatic group."

According to testimony, prisoners passed the notes on to visitors who then used them to buy liquor.

Wants to Save Prince From Boy Scoutism

LONDON (AP) — A British educationist wants to save Prince Andrew from what he called the boy scoutism of Prince Philip. Apparently he thinks it is too late to rescue Prince Charles, heir to the throne.

Prof. John Valzey made his comments in a lecture Wednesday and said the younger son of Philip and Queen Elizabeth—now nearing age three, Valzey wants more culture, less athletics for Andrew. Prince Philip is strong for athletics.

The object of Valzey's scorn attention was not only the royal children but the Gordonstoun boarding school. The school is strong on athletics rugged training and cold baths.

Philip survived Gordonstoun as a youth and sent Prince Charles, now 14, to his alma matter last April after teaching him to hunt and play polo.

SUGGESTS CHANGES

Valzey, told a meeting of the Fabian Society some judicious changes would tend to counterbalance people's enthusiasm for the boy scoutism of the Duke of Edinburgh"—another name for Prince Philip.

"Why not get an award, for example, for going to see modern Italian painting at the Venice Biennale rather than for walking up (Mount) Snowdon in bare feet or whatever it is you have to do to gain a gold medal at present."

The director of economics and administration at London University hastened to make clear he was thinking of Gordonstoun. He added:

"The Gordonstoun heresy is as awful in its way as public school orthodoxy. Let us rescue Prince Andrew and throw him the key to the Tate Gallery — provided the pictures have not been pinched by then."

DESERONTO — The Court of Revision for the town of Deseronto was held November 9th at the town hall. Mrs. R. McMath who appealed on the grounds that her assessment was two high was given a reduction of $25.

Council Hires New Constable

DESERONTO — The regular council meeting was held on Monday night with the mayor and five members present.

J. I. Therrien asked the council to inspect the tree in front of his driveway and either trim it or remove it as the branches were falling during the winter months. This was referred to the street committee with power to act.

The fire and police committee was given authority to purchase six pairs of boots for the fire department and to some of the boots now in use leaking.

One by-law was passed appointing R. Brownlee, police constable for the town of Deseronto at a salary of $3,520 per annum.

Council passed an honorarium of $8 for each council meeting attended by each member and an additional $100 for expenses for the mayor.

The firemen were granted permission to erect colored lights on Main Street for the Christmas season and council granted $30 for the Christmas House Decoration contest which will again be sponsored by the local firemen.

Police Cleared Of Any Blame For Arrest

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Police officers were cleared Wednesday of any blame for the arrest of a man on a drunk driving charge who was found later to have had a stroke.

At a special hearing, Kingston police commission said police were justified in arresting Frederick S. Croft Jr., 48, on a drunk driving charge Nov. 15. Police had said Croft was unsteady on his feet after his car hit a pole and there was a strong odor of liquor.

The man was taken to hospital after more than four hours in police cells and is still in serious condition with partial paralysis.

P. L. Gardiner, Croft's superior at the Bell Telephone Company here, said there was no smell of liquor when he saw Croft in his cell.

Police Chief Robert W. Nesbitt said Coroner P. M. Macdonald said at the time that Croft was in an alcoholic stupor but Dr. Macdonnell denied this at Wednesday's hearing.

Ghana Protests South African Being Referee

PERTH, Australia (CP)—The first rebuke of the British Empire Games broke out into the open today when Ghana threatened to withdraw its boxing team in protest against the proposed assignment of a South African as a referee.

Ohene Djan, commandant of the Ghanaian team, said he had the support of many Afro-Asian countries in his bid to oust Dr. Nat Hersbmann from the games.

Hershmann said he will not resign on his own and he does not expect to be asked by the host country, Australia, to do so.

He said the Ghanaian demand was the most insulting he could recall in his 35 years with amateur sports — he officiated at the 1960 Rome Olympics and the 1958 B.E. Games at Cardiff, Wales.

U.S. Gradually

will be getting out starting Friday.

Some 17,000 navy men and marines received a Thanksgiving present when the navy ordered discharges. About 4,000 of these men are expected to get out of uniform early, in time for Christmas.

The vanguard of 63 navy vessels, relieved of blockading duties, began arriving at east coast ports including Norfolk, Va., and Key West, Fla.

SECRECY DISSOLVES

The navy drew aside the screen of secrecy which has shrouded the blockade operation and the gathering of U.S. armed power to meet the Cuban missile threat.

It disclosed that a total of 183 ships, carrying more than 85,000 men, spread over a 2,100-mile front in the Atlantic and Caribbean while keeping offensive weapons out of Cuba.

A total of 68 navy and marine aircraft squadrons numbering more than 19,000 men accounted for 9,000 separate patrol and surveillance flights that clocked better than 6,000,000 miles.

With the unwinding of the crisis the government notified civilian fliers it was lifting restrictions on flying over all but the southern tip of Florida.

Dhan said South Africa draws the color bar in its games and he noted that it was not observed here after leaving the Commonwealth in the dispute over its policy of racial segregation.

"They have left the Commonwealth and yet we find a South African might be named as a referee. There is nothing personal in my efforts to stop Dr. Hershmann from officiating but someone has to make their minds up quick about this."

TO GIVE INCENTIVE

CORNWALL (CP) — Labor Minister Starr said Wednesday night he will introduce a bill in Parliament today which will give industry incentive to provide training courses for persons displaced by automation and other technological advances. Starr said his scheme would entail co-operation among labor, industry and the government.

Indian Threat Greater Than That of Reds

RAWALPINDI (Reuters) President Mohammed Ayub Khan is reported to have told the National Assembly Wednesday Pakistan faced threats of international communism and India — and the Indian threat is the greater.

Qualified sources said the president told an emergency secret session that Pakistan fears Indian aggression and needs friends in both East and West.

He told the assembly Pakistan should continue to press the west to exert influence on India to reach a peaceful settlement of the prolonged Indo-Pakistan dispute over Kashmir, the sources said.

Authoritative sources said the president in his review of the China-India conflict as it affected Pakistan did not indicate any intention to change the country's ties with the West or leave the SEATO and CENTO alliances.

As the president spoke crowds outside the assembly building burned Indian Prime Minister Nehru in effigy, called the United States and British "enemies in the garb of friends," and shouted demands that Pakistan should leave both pacts.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Most parents would agree that "adolescents are human beings in the most awkward, unreasonable and cantankerous stage". No one seems able to predict with any certainty what they will suddenly do, or what will happen to them when they actually do it.

Some parents seem to forget the reason for the "adolescent problem". And in their anguish or ignorance they often add fuel to the fire. There's something about human nature that we need to know if we're not to permit our homes to become mortal fields of battle.

As human beings develop they disclose four successive needs. At first, they require vast amounts of physical care. This need is apparent as soon as a baby is born. Fortunately babies are attractive, and fortunately parents are so constructed that they will do anything in return for a toothless grin. If not for this, care would not be given and the human race would soon die out.

There is a second need, which they feel safe. A small boy of three involved in his first fight betrays the need when he warns: "When my daddy comes home, he'll knock your block off!"

The need for love, of course is always present. It's most acute between the ages of five and ten. Children need someone who cares; who care deeply. The queerest personality traits are discernible in children who have lost both parents, or whose parents are cold and indifferent.

There is a fourth need, a need which makes its appearance soon after the teen years begin. The human being requires overincreasing amounts of independence. This is Nature's way of preparing the child for the next stage in his life — the time when he will live his own life and build his own home. The child's increasingly vigorous demands for independence, his insistent attempts to establish his own identity are evidence of Nature's methods of fitting him for maturity.

Wise parents remember that it is quite as natural for a six-teen year-old to disagree violently with them as it is for a two year-old to cling to them affectionately.

A parent who understands the grown-up process is himself an adult. A child can only become a "grown-up" when he is permitted to grow up.

Nehru Reports

Strike Command which specialises in long-distance troop air movements.

Nehru told legislators at the time of the cease-fire he thought the Chinese — who have steadily advanced southeast since major border fighting broke out last month—were north of the town of Foothills in the northeast frontier area."

He also said he told Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in a letter in Nov. 14 that recent events have "completely shattered any hope that anyone could have entertained about settling India-China differences in accordance with normal principles observed by all civilized governments."

CEASE FIRING

In Peking the People's Daily said the Chinese had imposed a unilateral cease-fire on the border. It said: "Beginning today, Nov. 22, 1962, the Chinese frontier guards have ceased fire on Chinese initiative along the entire Sino-Indian border."

The newspaper added: "In this way, on Dec. 1, they will withdraw, again on Chinese initiative, to positions 20 kilometres (about 12½ miles) behind the line of actual control which existed on Nov. 7, 1959."

It said checkposts would be set up by the Chinese on their "own side" on the control line and added: "These decisions announced by the Chinese government represent a most sincere effort of the Chinese government on its own initiative for the speedy termination of the Sino-Indian border conflict, reopening peaceful negotiations, and a peaceful settlement of the boundary question."

The papers said Peking's proposals for a cease-fire, withdrawal of forces and top-level discussions would not prejudice the claims of either side in subsequent negotiations.

TROOPS BREAK THROUGH

The New Delhi newspaper Times of India said today that before the cease-fire deadline Chinese troops had broken through the last line of defences south of the newly-seized key town of Somdila and had taken up positions on the rim of the Assam plains.

There was no official confirmation of this report, although a spokesman at a press briefing Wednesday night said there had been a breakthrough in the area of Foothills.

The Times of India said the Chinese were on the southernmost range of hills overlooking Foothills and the Assamese plains, about 60 miles from the Indian military headquarters town of Tezpur.

The report that the Chinese had reached the rim of the Assam plains south of Bomdila indicated they had moved 100 miles in four days since they bypassed the Se La Pass and broke through Indian defences east of the town of Tawang.

They appeared to have reached the limit of what is claimed as Chinese on Chinese maps of this area.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Fay C.: Ones a friend, always a friend, say I.

Beatrice N.: Don't be so sure. Friendships can die, too.

Fay C.: Having a friend ought to be like money in the bank — something to draw upon when you need it. You don't have to call at the bank every day to find out whether your money is still there. Then why does Bea expect me to meet her for lunch downtown every single Tuesday — no excuses — and talk to her on the phone almost every day in between? She leaves me little free time for other friends and for myself.

I want to end the Tuesday ritual. But if I do, she says it's the beginning of the end of our friendship. That doesn't seem possible.

• • •

Beatrice N.: I don't care how close friends have been, I know that "out of sight is out of mind." Besides Fay, I have two other close friends and I see them all every week, even though we don't live near each other. One of the girls is married, but that makes no difference. We all work in midtown and it's easy to make lunch or shopping dates.

If Fay is tired of our friendship, let her come right out and say so. If it means anything to her, she'll stick to the Tuesday lunches together. I've seen too many old friendships break up, just from letting things drift.

The Council: Our answer to both young ladies springs from our concept of friendship as a "giving" relationship. Your friendship won't break up, Bea, as long as you bend your efforts and wrack your mind on giving to, rather than getting from, your friend Fay.

And the most important boon to give is consideration. You ask yourself, "What does my friend want most? What would make her happy?" If the true answer is "being left alone for a month," or "making a trip with someone else," a true friend understands, grants the favor and the friendship sails along stronger than ever.

So watch it, Bea. Your nervous insistence upon the outer wrappings may affect the quality of what's inside, and the latter is what's important. In a recent magazine article, Morton M. Hunt said of a friend, "I love a little in him and he in me. Each of us is a bit less alone." That's the wonderful feeling to work for in friendship, and it can be attained without physically clutching and clinging to Fay every few days to make sure she's still there! Notes, "cathartic" letters can also preserve and deepen the bond.

While begging off the ritualistic daily lunches, Fay must be asking herself the same questions, prompted by the same consideration. "How can I help to meet Bea's needs?" She may have to show up once or twice a year often than she wishes.

Friendship does ask time out from other commitments. For that money-in-the-bank feeling, there must be a certain investment of self.

But it draws excellent interest, not only quarterly but daily!

Adenauer Pays Visit to Berlin

BERLIN (Reuters) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer arrived here by air today to confer with his party executive committee in West Berlin in the midst of a coalition crisis arising from his government's handling of the Der Spiegel affair.

Although Adenauer's trip to Berlin has been planned for several weeks, the announcement that it would occur today took most observers by surprise. Adenauer also arranged to brief West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt on his talks with President Kennedy in Washington earlier this month.

Justice

Geller, lawyer for Upper Lakes Shipping Limited.

Mr. Geller made the requests after criticizing vague or evasive answers from Leonard J. McLaughlin, SIU executive vice-president who is facing cross - examination before the federal inquiry. He is the first senior SIU officer to undergo questioning by opposing lawyers on the broad range of issues under investigation by Mr. Justice Norris.

Several times, the Vancouver jurist cautioned Mr. McLaughlin against giving argumentative answers to questions. Finally, Mr. Justice Norris told the witness that if he persisted in such replies, he would face punishment — a warning the judge did not explain.

Under cross - examination, Mr. McLaughlin said the SIU's annual audited financial statement, showing the union's overall fiscal position in detail, was not given to the members, although it was "available" to them.

He said the SIU prepared a financial statement in simpler form to present at each semi-monthly membership meeting.

Mr. Geller said the semi-monthly financial report did not give the details shown in the annual statement. He suggested there were a "lot of things" in the annual report that would be of interest to SIU members.

Mr. McLaughlin said it was "problematical" whether individual members were interested in or could understand the detailed audited report.

mentioned the hope that the Union Jack or the Red Ensign would be part of any design accepted.

Barry Mather (NDP — New Westminster) said that Canadians in their procrastination on the issue, showed they were a remarkable people "because if we have any national characteristic it seems to be that we do not have any national characteristic."

EGGLETON MESSENGERS

MADOC JUNCTION — The November meeting of the Eggleton Messengers was held on Friday afternoon at the school with Sheila Clarke presiding. The Scripture — Psalm 23, was given by Mrs. McMullen and the story on the lessons was read by Gerald Stapley.

The offering was gathered by Sandra Stapley, and dedicated with a prayer by Lloyd Clancy. Sheila Clarke gave an interesting reading.

Carol White called the Roll, showing 26 children and two adults present.

The leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, then told the legend of "The First Christmas Trees," an Historical trace of modified Christmas tree back to Martin Luther; The story goes that while he was strolling through the countryside one Christmas Eve, he was impressed with the beautiful winter beauty. On returning home he attempted to reproduce the outdoor scene, with a small evergreen and candles.

The leader also mentioned the first decorations; the first cards sent and the custom of singing the Christmas carols.

The story of the two men, Father Joseph Mohr and Franz Xavier Gruber, who gave "Silent Night" to the world was read. Following this the hymn, "Silent Night" was sung.

All the Messenger members then took part in "A Christmas Pageant." The girls forming a choir and singing a carol, softly. The other members formed the manger scene with Mary Jones as Mary, and Carol Stapley, the Angel.

One by one the six speakers Wayne McMullen; Kenneth Danford, Keith McMullen, Lin Stapley, Lloyd Clancy and Gerald Stapley recited their lines, then knelt before the scene.

"World Friends" papers were distributed by Terry Kovach, Billy Stapley and Douglas Danford.

Mrs. Godden gave the closing prayer.

The lunch conveners, Lin Stapley and Mary Jones, served cookies and candy.

Three Messenger members, Lloyd Clancy, Wayne McMullen and Keith McMullen have been selling boxes of Christmas cards to help raise money for the "Messengers". The leader, Mrs. Clancy, is most appreciative for assistance given by those who have purchased cards from the boys.

Two Pretty Blondes Guide Visitors Through Building

MONTREAL (CP) — Words such as "travertine" and "anodized" are part of the everyday vocabulary of two pretty blondes who guide visitors around Place Ville Marie, one of Montreal's new skyscraper office buildings.

Nicole Droiet and Bertha Dolson, both 21, have been trained intensively to handle the daily barrage of questions about the massive, 42 - storey building complex.

Among other things, they've learned that the walls are made of travertine (a type of marble imported from Italy) and that columns are of anodized aluminum sheets.

"It's certainly a change from daily office routine," says Bertha, a former office worker for a retail shoe store.

When each tour starts, says Nicole, formerly an airline stewardess, "people are very cold.

"But by the third or fourth station there's a big difference. Everybody's asking questions, smiling, and even testing to see if we really know what we're talking about."

LEARNED ABOUT BANK

Their first week of training was devoted to learning about the Royal Bank of Canada—the building's main tenant—and two more weeks were spent studying Place Ville Marie itself under the tutelage of the building's main architect.

Dressed in grey flannel suits and gold suede berets, the girls are on duty 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. five days a week.

Tours of the complex now take in 17 "stations" and are to be expanded later to include the building's mechanical department and a museum planned by the Aluminum Company of Canada.

"Then," says Nicole, "we'll be learning about the air conditioning and heating systems."

Many groups touring Place Ville Marie include individuals who speak only English or French, then one in English, then another in French, and so on," says Bertha.

Christ Church C.C. Plans Yuletide Arcade

Recent meetings of the Contact Club, Christ Church, have been busy ones, with members working hard in preparation for the coming "Christmas Arcade." Monday evening was spent putting the finishing touches to work already begun Gifts are still being received for the Moose Factory Christmas parcel.

It was announced that there would not be a meeting this coming Monday, but one will be held on Tuesday night instead when the girls will work in the hall and pack candy.

The hostesses for the evening were Barbara Janes, Beverly Shannick and Laura Bird.

REMINDS YOU THAT...

WHAT ARE YOUR state or local laws about fireworks? If there's an ordinance forbidding individual possession of these potentially dangerous items, your children—or you—should not have even the tiniest firecracker. Respect for the law starts in your home, and you set the example your youngsters follow.

Bridge Street U.C.W. Hold Successful Yule Tea, Bazaar

Yesterday afternoon the lower portion of Bridge Street United Church was a bower of beauty in keeping with the Christmas theme, for the annual tea and bazaar sponsored by the United Church Women, under the joint convenership of Mrs. J. B. Leslie and Mrs. L. S. Loyless.

The event was officially opened by the Rev. H. M. Davis. Warmly welcomed the large number of patrons at the door were Mrs. F. M. Hall, Mrs. J. Pacliter and Mrs. A. J. Clare. Taking tickets at the gaily covered table in the vestibule was Mrs. W. A. Holway, who also assisted the treasurer of the bazaar, Mrs. T. Dallas.
